LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Milford's Summer Rain was the best-backed horse at the Victoria Club call-over Wednesday night for Saturday's November Handicap, which he won last year.

Supporters to win £15,000, Summer Rain closed from 100 to 7 at last Monday's call-over to 100 to 9. No horse has won the race twice.

Others in demand were the five-year-old Calcium, 9-to-1 second favorite, and Yorkshire-trained Bondage, 10 to 1.

Prince Aly Khan's Solar, clear favorite at 7 to 1 Monday, closed a half-point shorter at 13 to 2.

LEADING SCORER — Gene (Choo-Choo) Roberts, 29-year-old halfback with Ottawa Rough Riders, head the Big Four football scoring column. A former New York Giant and Montreal Alouette, he's Ottawa's nominee for the Jeff Russell trophy. He's in his second season with the Rough Riders.

B.C. Athletes Corner Five Awards

MONTREAL (CP)—British Columbia Athletes cleaned up in all five awards announced today at the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The awards committee sat until early morning in reaching their decisions on the selections.

The awards:

The Norton H. Crowe trophy, to the outstanding athlete in the AAU of C: Doug Hepburn of Vancouver. Hepburn was given recognition for winning the world heavyweight-class weight-lifting title in Europe this year.

The Viscount Alexander Trophy, to the outstanding junior athlete (under 20 years old): Harry Nelson of New Westminster, B.C., who won the 100 and 220-yard sprints at the Canadian AAU championships in Winnipeg.

The J. W. Davies Trophy, to the outstanding track and field athlete in Canada: Doug Clement of Vancouver, double winner at the Canadian Olympic training plan meet at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Clement won the 440 and 880-yards runs. He is also junior AAU champion in the 440. He was second in the junior 880. Clement was a member of Canada's 1952 Olympic relay team which placed fourth in the 1,600-metre relay at Helsinki.

SHOTPUT ARTIST

The Frederick N. A. Rowell Trophy, to the outstanding field-event athlete: John Pavelich of New Westminster. He was top in the shotput in Canada with a mark of 49 feet, five inches.

The Fred Pess Memorial Trophy, to the outstanding track and field athlete at Canadian universities: Peter Harris of the University of British Columbia, Vancouver. Harris, a native of England, won the mile in 4:20.9 at the Evergreen conference meet in Cheney, Wash., last summer, setting a meet record. The U.B.C. is the only Canadian university in the Evergreen conference. He also set a British Columbia record Sept. 19 in the six-mile run at UBC.

Dutchmen Bounce Sarnia 7-0 As Chatham Clips Niagara 9-3

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Although they are in fourth place, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen have the best won-and-lost and for-and-against average in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

The Dutchmen have won six of their seven games this season, including a 7-0 shutout over Sarnia Sailors in Kitchener Wednesday night. In the league's other game Chatham Maroons bounced Niagara Falls Cataracts 9-3 in Chatham to move into a second-place tie with Stratford.

Kitchener has scored 4 goals—a 6.3 goal-a-game average—to date. Opposing teams have managed only 17 goals against the Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup winners. That gives netminder Bill Harrington the best goals-against average—a 2.4 mark.

TURNS AWAY 23 SHOTS

Harrington turned away 23 shots to score his first shutout of the season.

Sam Kennedy fired two goals for Kitchener. Jerry Theberge, Jack McKenzie, Ken Laufman, Clare Martin and Harry Psutka added singles.

Jim Connelly scored three times against Niagara Falls. Ed Didone, Fred Cupolo, Frank Bonello, Ernie Dick, Bill Lee and Joe Carveth netted the other Chatham goals.

Tom Buck, Air and Fred Reid replied for the Cataracts.

Windsor play the Tigers in Hamilton in tonight's only game.

Sell Trotter For $15,000

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Faber Hanover, three-year-old trotter who finished second in both heats of the Kentucky Futurity last month, Wednesday was sold for $15,000 to establish the highest price at the week-long standard-bred harness horse sale.

The son of Dean Hanover, Faber Hanover was bought by trainer-driver Billy Haughton, Fultonville, N.Y., this year's leading harness racing driver. He was consigned to the sale by A. C. Mudge, Hanover, Pa., and K. D. Owen, Houston, Tex.

The auction passed the halfway point with 182 head changing hands for a total of $355,875. That makes the three-day totals 529 horses and $782,025. The sale ends Friday night.

French Horse Winner Of International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The second one Washington International has provided more fuel for those who argue which country produces the best thoroughbreds, but confirms that the idea of bringing them together is a smashing success.

For the second time, three of the first four horses to finish were bred outside the United States. France's two entries both earned part of the prize money—Ralph B. Strassburger's Worden the $50,000 first award and Paul Duboscq's Silnet the $2,500 for fourth.

The runner-up Iceberg II was bred in Chile. Brookmeade Stable's Native Sunglow saved the U.S. from a shutout by finishing third.

A crowd of 31,100 bet a record $1,754,518 although the race was postponed to Wednesday from last Saturday because of snow.

BIGGER EVENT

John D. Shapiro, Laurel president, in matching 10 thoroughbreds from six countries put on the most widespread international race in history, surpassing even last year's inaugural in which three countries outside the U.S. were represented.

The finish line-up after the first four were Mrs. F. L. Vickerman's Chamier and Alfred L. Hawkins' Thirteen of Diamonds from Ireland, Thomas Robinson's Harwin from England, Argentine Stud's Mister Black, Robert Boucher's Wilwyn of England, and Charfran Stable's Crafty Admiral of the U.S.

Jockey Charlie Smirke raced Worden in typical foreign style, settling down behind, and the moving fast in about the last three furlongs. He made the mile and a half in 2:36.

Kitchener Whips Beaches In 9-6 Triumph

KITCHENER (CP)—Coach Gerry Tuttle of Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen Wednesday neared a season-long ambition: To defeat Toronto Balmy Beach in the Ontario Rugby Football Union final and advance to the Grey Cup semi-finals.

The Dutchmen, with Tuttle directing traffic from a halfback position, defeated Beaches 9-6 in the first game of their two-game total-point final series. The deciding game will be played at Toronto Sunday.

A crowd of 2,000, which braved a steady drizzle, watched Tuttle kick a single to send the Dutchmen into a 1-0 lead in the first quarter.

MARGIN INCREASED

The margin was increased to 6-0 in the second 15 minutes when the playing coach tossed touchdown pass to end Syl O'Hara from the six-yard line. A safety touch for the Dutchmen when Toronto quarterback Bob Schneidenbach was tackled behind the Beaches goal line made it 8-0 going into the second half.

Beaches still couldn't get started in the third quarter and Stu Crouse's attempted field goal went wide but was good for another single to round out the Kitchener scoring.

Balmy Beach attempted a comeback in the final 15 minutes but the clock ran out on them before they could overcome the difference. Dick Gregory, chosen the most valuable player in the league this year after making a late start with the Beaches, accounted for all their scoring. He scooted around right end from the Kitchener 15 for a touchdown and then kicked the convert.

Here And There In Sports

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

LIMIT OLYMPIC ATHLETES

PARIS (AP)—As the first step toward scaling down participation in the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia, a study committee of the International Olympic Committee has recommended limiting the number of participants in the winter games.

The committee proposed reducing the number in individual sports from four to three for each country.

It also discussed a similar reduction of individual entries in the summer games but reached no agreement. However, the committee recommended exclusion of substitutes during individual tryouts, limiting team sports and elimination of team classifications in some sports.

The recommendations will be passed upon by the IOC later this winter.

✦ ✦ ✦

PROTEST HORSE REGULATIONS

Armand Massard of France declared that unless Australia withdraws her barrier against horses, Olympic officials should consider withdrawing the 1956 games from Melbourne.

Massard has raised this issue before, speaking against a law which requires that horses coming into Australia must first pass through a quarantine period in another country.

The study committee proposed limiting team sports to 16 countries in the finals; eliminating team classification in gymnastics, fencing, bicycling and equestrian sports; dropping the "skeleton" bobsled event, which can be held only on a course at St. Moritz, Switzerland, and substituting a race for the Swiss "luge"—a sort of light toboggan—and introducing volley ball and archery as optional sports.

RANDY ON CARPET AGAIN

LONDON (AP)—Randy Turpin, British middleweight champion, has been ordered to appear before the British Boxing Board of Control Dec. 9 to explain training methods he used before losing to Bobo Olson in a world title bout.

Manager George Middleton and trainer Frank Algar, who accompanied Turpin to New York for the Oct. 22 fight, were ordered to appear with Turpin.

BBBC secretary Teddy Waltham witnessed the fight, returned to Britain, and said he was preparing a report on Turpin's "unorthodox and inadequate" training.

Randy sparred sparingly, went in for large amounts of road work, complained of having "something on my mind" and kept no set schedule.

On his return to England, Turpin said: "I have a complete answer to any criticism of my training. I was perfectly fit for the fight and it was things on my mind that caused my defeat."

✦ ✦ ✦

TROY EARNS TITLE BOUT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Willie Troy Wednesday won a shot at the middleweight championship by knocking out Randy Sandy of New York at 50 seconds of the seventh round of their televised bout. Troy weighed 158½, Sandy 153.

Troy, a 22-year-old from Washington, turned in his 23rd victory against one defeat with a bruising two-fisted assault that had Sandy retreating from the second round on.

Troy's manager, Al Weill, said Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, had guaranteed a fight between Troy and middleweight champ Bobo Olson if Willie could win.

✦ ✦ ✦

RAF WINS MEET

LONDON (AP) — Middleweight Ken Phillips Wednesday night won a slugging match from Jimmy Palmer of Philadelphia to clinch the third straight Britannia Shield championship for the RAF.

The three-round punching battle gave the RAF the boxing championships of the four event Olympic style all-servicemen's competition staged annually for countries which participated in the Battle of Britain.

The RAF finished with 77 points followed by The Netherlands with 72, Belgium, 69, Norway 62, United States air forces in Europe 51 and the RCAF in Europe 31.

Observe Remembrance Day At Services In District

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — Lakefield and district citizens turned out in large numbers to honor the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice in two world wars on Wednesday morning.

Headed by pipers from the CGE pipe band of Peterborough, the parade of veterans, girl guides and brownies formed at the Lakefield hotel and then marched to Memorial hall for the service of remembrance.

"The Last Post," sounded by Bugler Kenneth Darling, was followed by a two-minute silence and "Reveille."

The Rev. L. J. Delaney read the open scripture lesson which was followed by the Lord's prayer, led by Rev. H. C. Wolfraim. The Rev. H. Kaye led in state prayers and prayer for the peace of the world.

The Rev. G. E. Downing urged those present to truly honor the memory of those who had died by upholding the principles for which they gave their lives.

"For us," he said, "Democracy is a way of life. We must realize its full value for it can be lost by indifference. What we have we must hold, and what we hold we must uphold."

Reeve William C. Grant on behalf of the citizens expressed sympathy to those who had lost loved ones and appreciation for their service.

"I leave with you the challenge that you so live that good will, decency and honesty may prevail over the forces of evil, that the sacrifice, made by them for us, may be justified," he concluded.

The service was in charge of Walter Chappell, past president of Branch 77, Canadian Legion and Lynn Pratt, vice-president. Mrs. Harry T. Hill was at the piano for the hymns.

Memorial wreaths were placed by Mrs. Ambrose Coughlin, for the Province of Ontario; Lynn Pratt for Branch No. 77, Canadian Legion; Mrs. M. Calberry, the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion; Mrs. A. O'Donnell for the Red Cross society; Mrs. C. Foster, the Women's Institute; Frank Payne, Clementi lodge; George Chappell, IOOF; Mrs. S. Millage, Rebekah lodge; Jack Ryan, St. Paul's church; Lakefield District High School, Harry Rath; Lions club, S. R. Henderson; village of Lakefield, Reeve W. C. Grant; fire department, Bernard Johnston; IODE, Mrs. Earl Orr.

Individual wreaths were laid by Mrs. H. Stuart, Mrs. W. James, Miss Kaye Coughlin and Mrs. V. Payne.

NORWOOD

NORWOOD (ENS). — The Remembrance Day parade in Norwood moved off from the Legion hall under the command of Charles Puffer.

Organizations taking part in the parade were the color party composed of standardbearers of the various organizations, Havelock pipe band, Norwood branch Canadian Legion, IOOF, Norwood District High School cadet corps, and Norwood wolf cub pack.

On arrival at the cenotaph, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson called for the placing of the wreaths, and offered the prayer of dedication.

Those placing wreaths were Mrs. Thomas Stevenson for the provincial government, president Gerald Martin for the Norwood branch Canadian Legion, Fred Kempt for the Baskin family, Reeve Rork Ferguson for the village of Norwood, Mrs. W. B. Tucker for the IODE, Shirley Whitney for the High School Cadet Corps, and Mrs. Gordon Parker for the Women's Institute.

After trumpeter Mac Freeman had sounded the Last Post and Reveille, the parade moved off to the town hall, where the service of remembrance was continued, under the direction of Mr. Duncanson.

The scriptures were read and prayer was offered by the Rev. W. J. Bingham. The Rev. H. K. Wright addressed the assembly. Two thoughts he stressed were, first, that peace must be built upon the proper foundation, not such as is found in Communist-ruled countries, where peace is purchased with subjection; secondly, that peace ought to be sought always through unwarlike channels, such as the United Nations. Only as a last resort, as sometimes it is, should force be used.

The singing of the hymn "Abide With Me" and the national anthem closed the service.

MARMORA

MARMORA (ENS) — Various, yet nowhere lacking impressiveness were the commemorations of Remembrance Day in the Marmora district.

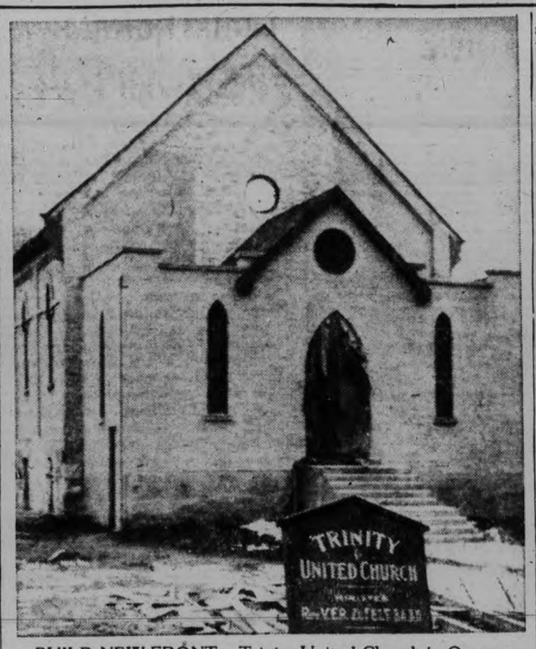
Branch 237 of the Canadian Legion, through their secretary and past president, Major Percy Gray, arranged for observances at Marmora Memorial hall, Deloro village hall and the look-out at the Bethlehem Steel Mine.

The parade at Marmora, despite the morning's rain, was well attended, with Major P. Gray in charge and the following organizations taking part: Legion Branch 237; Legion Auxiliary under president Mrs. Jennie Wellman; girl guides, Capt. H. York and Lieut. L. Bedore.

The service at Memorial hall was taken by Past Chaplain Canon J. M. Brownlie and consisted of prayer, scripture reading and an address.

Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Thomas Brooks and two minutes silence observed.

Wreaths were laid beneath the memorial tablets of the fallen of both wars as follows: province of Ontario—Capt. Mrs. H. York; IODE—Mrs. W. M. Regan; Ladies' Auxiliary—Mrs. Jennie Wellman; girl guides—Rose Ann Meehan, guards Theresa Clairmont and Anna Lynch; Marmora and Lake township council—Mrs. Norman Hipson; IUMMSW Local 889—Donald Flynn; ULWA Local 4854—Leslie Rundle; Branch 237 Canadian Legion—Stanley Kerr.



A greater number of displays were seen in store windows than on any former year.

At Deloro, the 11th hour was marked with the sounding of the plant siren. Under Comrade George Osborne, ex-servicemen among the employees paraded to the village hall for the special service in which villagers were also represented.

The service was in charge of the Rev. K. J. Crawford, who gave appropriate readings and recited hymns in keeping with the occasion. Joining him in offering special prayers was Comrade W. J. Cottrell, past chaplain of Marmora branch, Canadian Legion.

Wreaths were placed below the two memorial tablets of those serving in both world wars by R. G. Walsh, general-manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Co. Ltd., on behalf of the company, and by Reeve C. H. Buskard on behalf of the village.

At the Bethlehem mine, workers paused as the siren sounded. From the look-out Robert Sanderson sounded the Last Post and Reveille.

BUILD NEW FRONT—Trinity United Church in Omemee is having its face lifted. Workmen have been busy for some time building a modern new front to the Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt's church. This is one construction job in Omemee sharing the attention of the village residents who are also watching the renovation of the tannery for a stationery company.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

KEENE (ENS). — The school children and citizens of the community gathered in the township hall at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday for their annual Remembrance Day service.

Reeve Richard Stewart acted as chairman and the service opened with the singing of O Canada, after which the Rev. H. B. Herrington of Keene United Church led in prayer. Reeve Stewart made a few suitable remarks.

An address was given by the Rev. G. D. Smith of Knox Presbyterian church, who spoke of "Remembrance, Review of the world in which we live, and Resolution for the future."

The hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung, and Ivan Fletcher took charge of the parade to the cenotaph. Preston Armstrong and George Paudash led the veterans, carrying two wreaths, one from the province of Ontario and the other from the township of Otonabee, followed by members of the council, the school children, and the citizens.

Wreaths were laid on the cenotaph by Mrs. Elsie Rennie and Mrs. Jennie McCarthy. The Last Post was sounded by Jack Sage of Peterborough, followed by two minutes' silence. The national anthem was sung and Mr. Herrington closed the service with the benediction.

Life Of Neglect Described By Lahie

L'ORIGNAL (CP)—The trial of George Lahaie, 20, on a charge of murder came to a dramatic, tearful climax late Wednesday with the appearance of the accused in the witness box. The case is expected to go to the jury today.

Members of the jury and most courtroom spectators wept as the slim, white-faced youth denied he deliberately murdered Antonio Lalande, 35, last May 6, and then described a life of neglect and hunger since he was a child.

Earlier in the day, Lahaie's 19-year-old girl friend, Louise Capello, now the mother of a two-month-old boy, had given her version of the knifing in the shack at Bourget, 25 miles east of Ottawa, they shared with Lalaned.

Lahaie said he and Miss Capello met Lalande one night last April in an Ottawa restaurant. They had told him the girl was pregnant and that they had been sleeping under verandahs for several nights and Lalande had invited them to stay with him.

AGREED TO WORK

Lahaie agreed to work for Lalande, and pay $15 monthly for room and board, Lahaie said, but the older man had told him not to worry about paying him at first. In the meantime, Lalande would pay him.

The day before the slaying, Lahaie said, he had asked Lalande for "some of the money he owed me" but Lalande said he hadn't any. When he got up before dawn the next morning to go to work hauling scrap, he decided to see if Lalande had told him the truth, Lahaie added.

"Lalande was asleep and I began going through his pockets," but Lalande woke up. "I was afraid and I grabbed up a bottle and hit him over the head."

"It didn't make him unconscious and he jumped up and grabbed me by the throat. I fought him as hard as I could . . . but he pushed me against the bureau.

"I reached behind me and grabbed the knife. I didn't mean to stab him. I only wanted to frighten him. But he was choking me and I hit him with the knife."

After that it was "all just a dream."

REVIEWS HIS LIFE

For playing truant because "I had no shoes to wear," Lahaie said, he was sent to the industrial school at Alfred, then released in custody of a Hawkesbury woman. She had given him his only real home, he said, breaking into tears.

In 1951 he had met and fell in love with Miss Capello. They had lived together. The girl had become pregnant in January.

Miss Capello told the court that after Lalande's death, they fled from Bourget to Ottawa in Lalande's truck with $58 Lahaie told her he took "for the baby." Twice while she spoke, Lahaie broke down and wept in the prisoner's box, once when she said she still loves him.

TRIESTE BURIES ITS DEAD—Crowds line a street at Trieste as a solemn cortege proceeds along in the funeral for six Italians who were killed during violent rioting. The ceremony, held in St. Just Cathedral, brought at least half of the city's 270,000 residents into the streets. The city is calm after three days of rioting, but police are still on the alert for any new outbreaks.

RCAF Station In Germany Suggests Well Planned Town

Canadian Airmen have plenty of amenities at their Zweibrucken base but the layout and nearby Communists give them a few headaches. Bill Boss tells how the RCAF is settling down at its first German base in this story, third in a series of five. Friday: Canada's defence department in real business in Europe.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ZWEIBRUECKEN, Germany (CP)—No RCAF station in Canada can prepare for accommodation and amenities, with its 2nd Fighter Wing base here.

Built almost without cost to Canada, its creamy concrete buildings, paved streets, churches, lush lawns and other community facilities suggest well planned town more than a service base.

Zweibruecken is just within Germany, east of the Saar, and was badly damaged by RCAF bombers toward the end of the Second World War. Evacuation of the population kept casualties down.

KEEP EYE ON COMMUNISTS

The base is just outside the town. Its relations with Zweibruecken are correct, warming to cordial, but armed Canadian guards patrol the Sabre jet dispersal areas at night with orders to shoot if they see any movement.

Near the runway is a little village with an elected council of Communists. The Canadian base has been mentioned frequently on Radio Moscow propaganda broadcasts.

Group Capt. Chester Hull of Ottawa, the wing's commanding officer, is taking no chances.

Hull's base was begun at the same time as unfortunate Gros Tenquin in France, but it is almost completed and is incomparably superior to the French station. However, officers say its appointments are still inferior to the newer RCAF station at Baden-Sollingen, near the German luxury resort town of Baden-Baden.

All three RCAF stations were constructed under supervision of a French government agency. At Gros Tenquin the agency is using French workmen and spending money put up by Canada and France. In Germany it uses occupation funds and skilled German workmen.

PATTERN FOR BASES

The amenities of Zweibruecken are the pride of French and German authorities alike. They are the pattern for other NATO-sponsored bases in Germany, including Baden-Sollingen.

Zweibruecken's Protestant and Roman Catholic chapels are gems. It has a snack bar that would be the envy of any Canadian community. Its tennis and volleyball courts are ready though the Germans decline to turn them over until the station can show it has equipment and help to maintain them properly.

Located in French-occupied Germany with the United States Army for neighbors, Hull's Canadian staff walks a diplomatic tight-rope.

The Americans are the stickiest. They have refused to co-operate with Hull's air police in combined French - German - Canadian police patrols of Zweibruecken night spots.

Hull's policy of encouraging his men to wear civilian clothes off duty, both on and off the station, and of not imposing a curfew, has been adopted by the United States forces here. Hull's men were the first post-war troops in this part of Germany to have those privileges.

CRITICIZE LAYOUT

Operationally the Canadians are not entirely happy with Zweibruecken. French inexperience in modern fighter techniques and needs is said by senior officers to be reflected in the layout and planning.

Dispersal areas for the aircraft are so built that a strafing run could wipe out most of the Sabres. A different layout, spreading the aircraft, is being used at Canadian insistence at Marville, the last RCAF station under construction.

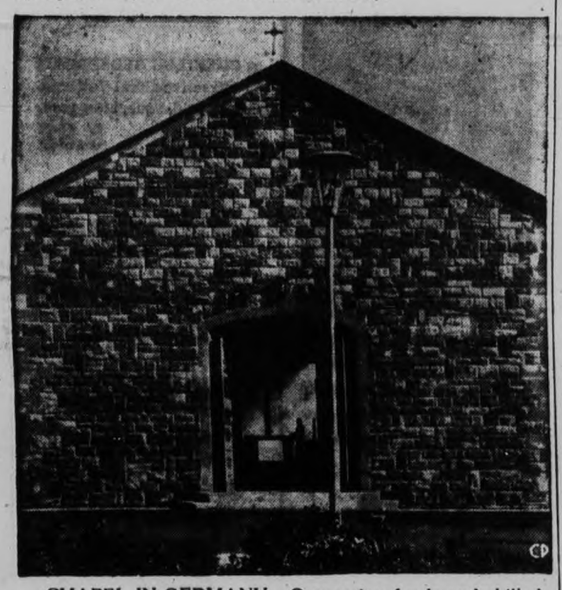
Zweibruecken lacks an adequate fire-alarm system. Its control tower was built without heating. Its flying-control installations have no emergency circuits for use if the tower is knocked out.

Instead of central heating the base has 75 furnaces.

NEW WRINKLES

A few new wrinkles of station discipline are being tried here. In the corporals' lounge and airmen's club, Hull has authorized the sale of table wins, sherries and ports as well as beer. Hull sals the hopes his men will acquire a respectful appreciation of them.

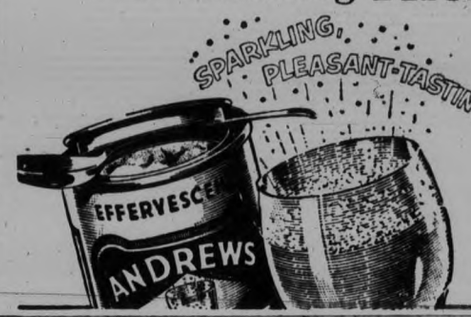
Saturday and Sunday evenings are "open nights" on the station. Officers may bring wives and friends to the mess, and airwomen may be guests in the airmen's club. The corporals allow airmen to bring their wives to their club at week-ends.



This unit is the first I have encountered which hasn't any serious "beef" about the deal its men are getting.

Christine Gets Ring

WASHINGTON (AP) — Patrick Flanigan, a 26-year-old artist, has confirmed reports that Christine Jorgensen is wearing a diamond ring he gave her. Jorgenson, former soldier who claims to have been transformed into a woman by surgery, is entertaining at a hotel in Las Vegas, Nev. Flanigan wouldn't say his gift was an engagement ring. He's getting a divorce from his wife and it hasn't come through yet, he explained.



FIRST GERMAN BASE—The RCAF's 2nd Fighter Wing is located at Zweibruecken—first German base in RCAF history. Built almost without cost to Canada, it suggests a well planned town more than a service base, with cream concrete buildings, paved streets and community facilities. Walking down the main street are Leading Airwoman B. M. Casey-Jones, of Niagara Falls, and Cpl. R. W. Mouland, Arnprior.—(CP from National Defence).

CHAPEL IN GERMANY—Occupation funds and skilled German workmen have provided the RCAF's 2nd Fighter Wing at Zweibruecken, Germany, with excellent accommodation and amenities. The Protestant chapel shown here and the Roman Catholic chapel are considered gems. Zweibruecken, just inside the German border east of the Saar, was badly damaged by RCAF bombers toward the end of the Second World War but RCAF relations with the civilian population are warming.—(CP from National Defence).

Find Norman Mentally Fit To Stand Trial

STRATFORD (CP) — The murder trial of Reuben Henry Norman, delayed several months by a legal battle over his mental condition, started late Wednesday.

A Supreme Court jury earlier, after deliberating for an hour and 45 minutes on two days of evidence given chiefly by psychiatrists concerning Norman's mental condition, found he was mentally fit to stand trial.

Norman, 26, whose home is at Nithburg in North Easthope township, a former Canadian Army paratrooper is charged in the Feb. 2 shooting in Stratford of 17-year-old Jean Marie Satchell, who lived in Gadshill within a few miles of the Norman home.

OUTLINED CASE

Crown attorney W. E. Goodwin outlining the case to the jury said he would produce evidence to show that Norman stood in a shop doorway, a semi-automatic pistol in his pocket, waiting for the girl homeward bound for lunch.

He said he would call eyewitnsses who saw Norman pull the weapon from his pocket and open fire. "Six bullets were fired as she spun around" he said.

One eyewitness will tell about Norman, in answer to a request for medical aid saying "She won't need a doctor" and then firing three more shots into her head, he said.

Belleville Youth Awarded John Foster Scholarship

The University of Toronto senate have awarded the $250 John Lewis Foster scholarship to William G. L. Cousins, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cousins, 331 Foster Ave., Belleville.

WILLIAM COUSINS

The scholarship winner received the award on the basis of his standing in Grade 13 examinations on entering the university's faculty of Forestry. He entered first year Forestry in September from Belleville Collegiate.

This is the first time the scholarship has been awarded. It was established by K.H., C.W. and C.B. Foster in memory of their father, John Lewis Foster. C. W. "Clute" Foster was unsuccessful Liberal candidate for Hastings-Frontenac riding in the August 10 federal election.

Purpose of the scholarship is to encourage young men of scholarship ability from Hastings county to study Forestry with a view to enlistment of their services in the management of Ontario's forest resources.

It is proposed to extend the area covered by the scholarship next year to include, in addition to Hastings county, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington and Peterborough counties, it was announced today by Dr. Sidney Smith, U of T president.

LIBERATION OF POLAND by the Russians led to the first and most serious breach in the East-West solidarity during the war. Says Churchill: "Molotov . . . was taking the line that he must base himself on the views of Beirut and his gang (the Lublin Committee), and had withdrawn his offer to let us send observers to Poland." Picture shows Beirut being sworn in as the first President in Post-War Poland.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE POLISH DISPUTE

As the weeks passed after Yalta it became clear that the Soviet Government was doing nothing to carry out our agreements about broadening the Polish Government to include all Polish parties and both sides. Molotov steadily refused to give an opinion about the Poles we mentioned, and not one of them was allowed to come even to a preliminary round-table discussion. He had offered to allow us to send observers to Poland, and had been disconcerted by the readiness and speed with which we had accepted. When our Ambassadors raised the point he made difficulties, arguing, among other things, that it might affect the prestige of the Lublin Provisional Government. No progress of any kind was made in the talks at Moscow. Time was on the side of the Russians and their Polish adherents, who were fast-endign their grip upon the country by all kinds of severe measures, which they did not wish outside observers to see. Every day's delay was a gain to these hard forces.

I therefore appealed to the President in the hope that we could address Stalin jointly on the highest level. At this critical time Roosevelt's health and strength had faded. In my long telegrams I though I was talking to my trusted friend and colleague as I had done all these years. I was no longer being fully heard by him. I did not know how ill he was, or I might have felt it cruel to press him. The President's devoted aides were anxious to keep their knowledge of his condition within the narrowest circle, and various hands drafted in combination the answers which were sent in his name. To these, as his life ebbed, Roosevelt could only give general guidance and approval. This was an heroic effort. The tendency of the State Department was naturally to avoid bringing matters to a head while the President was physically so frail and to leave the burden on the Ambassadors in Moscow. Harry Hopkins, who might have given personal help, was himself seriously ailing, and frequently absent or uninvited. These were costly weeks for all.

On the very evening when I was speaking in the House of Commons upon the results of our labours at Yalta the first violation by the Russians both of the spirit and letter of our agreements took place in Roumania. We were all committed by the Declaration on Liberated Europe, so recently signed, to see that both free elections and democratic Governments were established in the countries occupied by Allied armies. On February 27 (1945) Vyshinsky, who had appeared in Bucharest without warning on the previous day, demanded an audience of King Michael and insisted that he should dismiss the all-party Government which had been formed after the royal coup d'etat of August 1944 and had led to the expulsion of the Germans from Roumania. The young monarch, cooly backed by his Foreign Minister, Visoianu, resisted these demands until the following day. Vyshinsky called again, and, brushing aside the King's request at least to be allowed to consult the leaders of the political parties, banged his fist on the table, shouted for an immediate acquiescence, and walked out of the room, slamming the door. At the same time Soviet tanks and troops deployed in the streets of the capital, and on March 2 a Soviet-nominated Administration took office.

I was deeply disturbed by this news, which was to prove a pattern of things to come. The Russians had established the rule of a Communist minority by force and misrepresentation. We were hampered in our protests because Eden and I during our October visit to Moscow had recognized that Russia should have a largely predominant voice in Roumania and Bulgaria while we took the lead in Greece. Stalin had kept very strictly to this understanding during the six weeks fighting against the Communists and E.L.A.S. in the city of Athens, in spite of the fact that all this was most disagreeable to him and those around him. Peace had now been restored, and, though many difficulties lay before us, I hoped that in a few months we should be able to hold free, unfettered elections, preferably under British, American, and Russian supervision, and that thereafter a constitution and Government would be erected on the indisputable will of the Greek people.

Stalin was now pursuing the opposite course in the two Black Sea Balkan countries, and one which was absolutely contrary to all democratic ideas. He had subscribed on paper to the principles of Yalta, and now they were being trampled down in Roumania. But if I pressed him too much he might say, "I did not interfere with your action in Greece; why do you not give me the same latitude in Roumania?" This would lead to comparisons between his aims and ours. Neither side would convince the other. Having regard to my personal relations with Stalin, I was sure it would be a mistake to embark on such an argument.

Besides this, I was very conscious of the much more important issue of Poland, and I did not want to do anything about Roumania which might harm the prospect of a Polish settlement.

The news from Moscow about Poland was also most disappointing.

After a fairly promising start Molotov was now refusing to accept any interpretation of the Crimea proposals except his own exteremely rigidland narrow one. He was attempting to bar practically all our candidates for the consultations, was taking the line that he must base himself on the views of Beirut and his gang, and had withdrawn his offer to let us send observers to Poland. He clearly wanted to make a farce of consulting the "non-Lublin" Poles—which meant that the new Government of Poland would be merely the existing one dressed up to look more respectable to the ignorant—and also wanted to stop us seeing the liquidations and deportations and all the manoeuvres of setting up a totalitarian regime before elections were held and even before a new Government was installed. If we did not get things right the world would soon see that Mr. Roosevelt and I had underwritten a fraudulent prospectus when we put our signatures to the Crimea settlement.

The President assured me on March 11 that our objects were identical, namely to stop the Lublin Poles persecuting their political opponents and vice versa. The only difference between us, he claimed, was on tactics. I wanted the demand to be put squarely to the Soviet Government as such, whereas he felt we had a much better chance of success by proposing a general political truce. At Yalta Stalin made quite a point of the terrorist activities of the underground forces of the London Polish Government against the Red Army and the Lublin Poles. Whether this was true was beside the point, it was what the Soviet government maintained. But if we merely demanded that the Lublin Poles alone be forced to stop persecuting their political opponents, Stalin would be certain to refuse.

Mr. Roosevelt agreed about sending observers; but he preferred to wait until our Ambassadors appealed to Molotov before either of us approached Stalin personally.

As I knew there was a deadlock in Moscow it was only with much reluctance that I deferred to the President's wish, but we could make no progress without American aid, and if we got out of step the doom of Poland was sealed.

Although I had no exact information about the President's state of health I had the feeling that, except for occasional flashes of courage and insight, the telegrams he was sending us were not his own. I therefore sent him a message in a personal vein to ease the uphill march of official business.

18 Mar 45

I hope that the rather numerous telegrams I have to send to you on so many of our difficut and intertwined affairs are not becoming a bore to you. Our friendship is the rock on which I build for the future of te world, so long as I am one of the builders. I always think of those tremendous days when you devised Lend-Lease, when we met at Argentia, when you decided with my heartfelt agreement to launch the invasion of Africa, and when you comforted me for the loss of Tobruk by giving me the 300 Shermans of subsequent Alamein fame. I remember the part our personal relations have played in the advance of the World Cause, now nearing its first military goal.

2. I am sending to Washington and San Francisco most of my Ministerial colleagues on one mission or another, and I shall on this occasion stay at home to mind the shop. All the time I shall be looking forward to your long-promised visit. Clemmie is off to Russia next week for a Red Cross tour as far as the Urals to which she has been invited by Uncle Joe (if we may venture to describe him thus), but she will be back in time to welcome you and Eleanor. My thoughts are always with you all.

3. Peace with Germany and Japan on our terms will not bring much rest to you and me (if I am still responsible). As I observed last time, when the war of the giants is over the wars of the pygmies will begin. There will be a torn, ragged and hungry world to help to its feet; and what will Uncle Joe or his successor say to the way we should both like to do it? It was quite a relief to (me to) talk party politics the other day. It was like working in wood after working in steel. The advantage of this telegram is that it has nothing to do with shop, except that I had a good talk with Rosenman about our daily bread.

All good wishes.

Winston.

(Judge Samuel Rosenman was one of Mr. Roosevelt's close personal advisers, who had helped to draft the President's report to Congress on the Yalta Conference, and who visited me at this time in London.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Anglo-American tactics and procedure were at length agreed. Meanwhile, as we in London had foreseen, the deadlock in Moscow continued. The Soviet policy became daily more plain, as also did the use they were making of their unbridled and unobserved control of Poland. They asked that Poland should be represented at San Francisco only by the Lublin Government. When the Western Powers would not agree the Soviets refused to let Molotov attend. This threatened to make all progress at San Francisco, and even the Conference itself impossible. Molotov in reply to an agreed communication from our Ambassadors on March 19 and in discussion on March 23 returned a series of flat negatives on every point he dealt with and ignored others. It was plain as a pikestaff that his tactics were to drag the business out while the Lublin Committee consolidated their power.

On March 27 I felt bound to renew the discussion.

Prime Minister to President Roosevelt:

. . . . As you know, if we fail altogether to get a satisfactory solution on Poland and are in fact defrauded by Russia both Eden and I are pledged to report the fact openly to the House of Commons. There I advised critics of the Yalta settlement to trust Stalin. If I have to make a statement of facts to the House the world world will draw the deduction that such advice was wrong; all the more so that our failure in Poland will result in a set-up there on the new Roumanian model. In other words, Eastern Europe will be shown to be excluded from the terms of the Declaration on Liberated Europe, and you and we shall be excluded from any jot of influence in that area.

Surely we must not be manoeuvred into becoming parties to imposing on Poland—and on how much more of Eastern Europe—the Russian version of democracy? . . . . There seems to be only one possible alternative to confessing our total failure. That alternative is to stand by our interpretation of the Yalta Declaration. But I am convinced it is no use trying to argue this any further with Molotov. In view of this, is it not the moment now for a message from us both on Poland to Stalin?. . . . . .

I see nothing else likely to produce good results. If we are rebuffed it will be a very sinister sign, taken with the other Russian actions at variance with the spirit of Yalta such as Molotov's rude questioning of our word in the case of "Crossword," (See tomorrow's instalment), the unsatisfactory proceedings over our liberated German prisoners, the coup d'etat in Roumania, the Russian refusal to allow the Declaration on Liberated Europe to operate, and the blocking of all progress in the European Advisory Commission by the Russians.

What also do you make of Molotov's withdrawal from San Francisco? It leaves a bad impression on me. Does it mean that the Russians are going to run out, or are they trying to blackmail us? As we have both understood them, the Dumbarton Oaks proposals, which will form the basis of discussion at San Francisco, are based on the conception of Great Power unity. If no such unity exists in Poland, which is after all a major problem of the post-war settlement—to say nothing of the other matters just mentioned —what, it will legitimately be asked, are the prospects of success of the new World Organization? And is it not indeed evident that, in the circumstances, we shall be building the whole structure of future world peace on foundations of sand? . . .

The President replied that he also had been watching "with anxiety and concern the development of the Soviet attitude since the Crimea Conference." He set forth his proposals for further negotiations by our Ambassadors, and then concluded: "I agree with you however that the time has come to take up directly with Stalin the broader aspect of the Soviet attitude (with particular reference to Poland)."

"I am glad," I telegraphed on March 30 to the President, "you agree that the time has come for us both to address Stalin directly. Your draft is a grave and weighty document, which, though it does not give full expression to our views, we will wholeheartedly accept. I will also endorse it in my parallel message to Stalin."

On April 1 I addressed Stalin myself.

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

You will by now. I hope, have received the message from the President of the United States, which he was good enough to show to me before he sent it. It is now my duty on behalf of His Majesty's Government to assure you that the War Cabinet desire me to express to you our wholehearted endorsement of this message of the President's, and that we associate ourselves with it in its entirety.

2. There are two or three points which I desire specially to emphasize. First, that we do not consider we have retained in the Moscow discussions the spirit of Yalta, nor indeed, at points, the letter. * * * We certainly thought that a Polish Government "new" and "reorganised" would by now have been in existence, recognised by all the United Nations. This would have afforded a proof to the world of our capacity and resolve to work together for its future. It is still not too late to achieve this.

3. However, even before forming such a new and reorganised Polish Government it was agreed by the Commission that representative Poles should be summoned from inside Poland and from Poles abroad, not necessarily to take part in the Government, but merely for free and frank consultation. Even this preliminary step cannot be taken because of the claim put forward to veto any invitation, even to the consultation, of which the Soviet or the Lublin Government do not approve. We can never agree to such a veto by any one of us three. This veto reaches its supreme example in the case of M. Mikolajczyk, who is regarded throughout the British and American world as the outstanding Polish figure outside Poland.

4. We also have learned with surprise and regret that M. Molotov's spontaneous offer to allow observers or missions to enter Poland has now been withdrawn. We are therefore deprived of all means of checking for ourselves the information, often of a most painful character, which is sent us almost daily by the Polish Government in London. We do not understand why a veil of secrecy should thus be drawn over the Polish scene. We offer the fullest facilities to the Soviet Government to send mission or individuals to visit any of the territories in our military occupation. In several cases this offer has been accepted by the Soviets and visits have taken place, to mutual satisfaction. We ask that the principle of reciprocity shall be observed in these matters, which would help to make so good a foundation for our enduring partnership.

5. The President has also shown me the messages which have passed between him and you about M. Molotov's inability to be present at the Conference at San Francisco. We had hoped the presence there of the three Foreign Ministers might have led to a clearance of many of the difficulties which have descended upon us in a storm since our happy and hopeful union at Yalta. We do not however question in any way the weight of the public reasons which make it necessary for him to remain in Russia. * * *

A week later Stalin replied to us both. He blamed the British and American Ambassadors in Moscow for getting "the Polish affair into a blind alley." We had agreed at Yalta to form a new Polish Government by using the Lublin Government as a nucleus and reconstructing it. Instead, our Ambassadors were trying to abolish it and establish a completely new one. At Yalta we had also agreed to consult five Poles from Poland and about three from London. Our Ambassadors were now claiming that every member of the Moscow Commission could invite an unlimited number from both places. The Sovet Government could not allow this. The Commission as a whole should decide who to ask and these must only be Poles who accepted the decisions of Yalta, including the Curzon Line, and who genuinely desired friendly relations between Poland and the U.S.S.R. "The Soviet Government", he wrote, "insists on this, since much blood of Soviet soldiers has been shed for the liberation of Poland, and since in the course of the last thirty years the territory of Poland has twice been used by the enemy for an invasion of Russia." Stalin then summed-up the steps we should take to "escape from the blind alley." The Lublin Government must be reconstructed, not liquidated, by replacing some of its existing Ministers by new ones from outside it; only eight Poles should be invited for consultaton, five from Poland and three from London, and all must accept the Yalta decisions and be friendly to the Soviet Government; the Lublin Government must first be consulted because of its "enormous" influence in Poland and and because any other course might insult the Polish people and make them think we were trying to impose a Government upon them wthout consulting public opinion. "I think", he concluded, "that if the above observations were taken into account an agreed decision on the Polish question could be arrved at in a short time."

Stalin also sent me a personal message.

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER

7 Apr. 45

The British and American Ambassadors, who are members of the Moscow Commission, are unwilling to take account of the Provisional Polish Government, and insist on inviting Polish personalities for consultation without regard to their attitude to the decisions of the Crimea Conference on Poland and to the Soviet Union. They absolutely insist on summoning to Moscow for consultation, for instance, Mikolajczyk, and this they do in the form of an ultimatum. In this they take no account of the fact that Mikolajczyk has come out openly against the decisions of the Crimea Conference on Poland. However, if you think it necessary, I should be ready to use my influence with the Provisional Polish Government to make them withdraw their objections to inviting Mikolajczyk, if the latter would make a public statement accepting the decisions of the Crimea Conference of the Polish question and declaring that he stands for the establishment of friendly relations between Poland and the Soviet Union.

2. You wonder why the Polish theatre of military operations must be wrapped in mystery. In fact there is no mystery here. You ignore the fact that if British observers or other foreign observers were sent into Poland the Poles would regard this as an insult to their national dignity, bearing in mind the fact that the present attitude of the British Government to the Provisional Polish Government is regarded as unfriendly by the latter. So far as the Sovet Government s concerned, it cannot but take account of the negative attitude of the Provisional Government to the question of sending foreign observers into Poland. Further, you are aware that the Provisional Polish Government puts no obstacles in the way of entrance into Poland by representatives of other States which take up a different attitude towards it, and does not in any way obstruct them. This is the case, for instance, in regard to the representatves of the Czechoslovak Government, the Yugoslav Government, and others. * * *

These carefully considered documents at least offered some hope of progress. I began at once my painful discussons with Mikolajczyk and other Polish representatives with the object of obtaining their unreserved affirmation of agreement with the Yalta decisions.

Communists Switch Tactics Make Appeal To Workers

NOTE: Once again, as he has in the past, Leon Dennen calls a decisive turn in Soviet policy. The NEA diplomatic correspondent was first to report the Russian decision a few years ago to concentrate on the Orient and abate aggression in Europe; first reported the opening of the phony "peace offensive" which led to the Korean truce. Now he reports the new Malenkov Soviet policy—a hotter cold war and renewal of the campaign of international revolution.

BY LEON DENNEN

PARIS (NEA)—Revolutionary communism, played down by Moscow after Stalin's death, is once more on the march.

The Cominform is undergoing an important switch in tactics which—according to French Communist sources—forecasts a major shift in Soviet cold war strategy.

The new Kremlin rulers now seem to recognize that their global "peaceful co-existence" propaganda failed to carry conviction in the free world. Thus, they are reviving their call for "working class action"—while demanding in their last note that the West renounce plans to organize the European Defense Community.

International "labor solidarity" has taken on renewed and practical meaning in the Red world. It was given top place in the Kremlin's propaganda commemorating the 36th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution.

REVERSE TACTICS

The "new" Soviet line in many respects is a reversal of recent Kremlin tactics. As a leading editorial in Moscow's Izvestia indicates, Russia's "soft" policy and "liberalism" in the West is reaching the end.

French Reds predict that the Cominform and the World Federation of Trade Unions will launch a "big revolutionary offensive" this winter, designed:

1. To recoup—through "Leninist mass action" — Cominform losses in membership and trade union support.

2. To discourage countries with strong Communist parties, especially France and Italy, from participating in NATO and in the European Defense Community.

3. To divert Western attention from the Red empire's economic ills and the struggle for power raging among Russia's top oligarchs.

According to the "new line," there will be no more isolated or individual action by Cominform parties. Every move in the West and in the "colonial" countries of the Near and Far East will be coordinated by Moscow into one broad strategy.

STRIKE WAVE

"The powerful strike wave now sweeping the capitalist countries vividly demonstrates the upsurge of the workers," Izvestia writes. "There is now a real possibility of creating a united front of the working class."

There is no indication as yet that the Kremlin leaders are ready to completely discard their "peace" offensive. As qualified Russian experts see it, Moscow will now carry on the cold war on "two levels."

The Russians—in their frantic efforts to split the democratic powers and isolate the U. S.—will continue to talk 'peace" to the diplomats. At the same time they will foment "revolutionary action"—strikes, chaos and confusion—in labor ranks.

This was spelled out clearly by Giuseppi di Vittorio, Red union chief of Italy. Speaking at the recent Vienna Congress of the World Federation of Trade Unions, di Vittorio said:

"The W.F.T.U. aims to win people of all political beliefs. But if it is to enlist the support of both labor and the intellectuals, is must not be officially labelled Communist or Soviet-run."

At the same time, the Italian Red singled out France and Italy for praise "for their success" in engaging non-Communist unions in Communist strikes.

REJECT WEST OFFER

The Kremlin's latest switch in policy coincides with Moscow's new rejection of the West's offer to negotiate on Germany and Austria. It is additional proof, as President Eisenhower said, that the Russians "manifest no intention to get together but an intention to create as many difficulties as possible."

After Stalin's death many Western political leaders and diplomats hoped that Premier Georgi Malenkov's "soft" policy would eventually lead to an easing of world tension.

British laborites, especially of the extreme left variety, still uphold this view. So does Sir Winston Churchill, British Prime Minister, who apparently wants to bring his distinguished political career to a close with a meeting with Malenkov.

However, even Western neutralists and advocates of a new "Munich" are beginning to realize that Malenkov's "new look" resembles very much the "old look" of Lenin and Stalin.

3 Labor Unions Study Conditions

MONTREAL (CP)—Three powerful labor unions will get together to study "depressed conditions" in the textile industry and make recommendations to the federal government, it was announced Wednesday.

The three unions are the United Textile Workers of America (AFL-TLC), the Federation of National Textile Syndicates (CCCL) and the Textile Workers Union (CIO-CCL). No date has been set for the meeting.

Roger Prevost, national director of the UTWA, said the group might recommend a government-appointed royal commission to study the situation.

The textile industry has been suffering adverse business conditions for more than a year and most plants in Ontario and Quebec now are operating on a part-time basis.

WOOLLY SHEEP

Canadian output of pastel mink pelts in the 1953-54 season is estimated at 117,100 almost double the previous season.

REDS ON THE MARCH—Soldiers of the Moscow Garrison turn "eyes right" as they parade past the tomb of Stalin and Lenin (not shown) in Moscow's Red Square during the formal celebration of the 36th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Now the Kremlin's strategy seems to be returning to the revolution.—(Photo from official Soveit agency.)

High Standards

CAPETOWN (CP) — The South African Medical Journal said editorially that no doctor should suggest without grave consideration that a patient needs to go outside South Africa for proper treatment. "It is seldom that adequate treatment for particular cases is not available in this country," it declared.

Grocery Business Has History Of Competition

"The grocery business has always been highly competitive," said George Green, manager of National Grocers in a reference to Toronto news story of "a price war."

It is related to a speech by M. M. Collins of Power Food Markets Ltd., Toronto, reporting the incidence of "the biggest, roughest, noisiest and most desperate price war (for the consumer dollar) you have ever seen."

The Examiner reported last week the recent decline in the prices of meats, eggs, poultry, potatoes.

Mr. Collins was obviously alluding to the spectacular features with which new units of the big chains were officially opened.

"The manager doesn't dare stand near the door on opening morning. He would be trampled in the rush—Out of it all is coming the most efficient, attractive system of merchandising of food or anything else that has ever been devised.

Mr. Green said National Grocers were mainly interested in the service of neighborhood stores continue to give their customers. They are caught up in the drive for business and the keen competition that is seen all over the country, not only in the big cities such as Toronto, Hamilton, London, Windsor, but in the others like Peterborough.

SPECIAL CONVENIENCE

"The smaller stores are providing a special convenience for the families in their neighborhoods. They carry groceries and meats, and try to maintain the place they have always held in service to their own communities," Mr. Green said.

Mr. Green said there was no doubt of the sharp competition in the business, from the big chains, with all their specials, some lines practically at cost, at times, down to the corner grocery. The business as a whole is extremely efficient, and right now is more competitive than ever. It is giving the consumer the advantage of prices that warrant the statement of Morton Collins that "the battle of recent months was only a skirmish that is about to break out into a full-scale war" in trade.

Safe Foils Break-in At Grafton's

Merchandise Stolen After Thieves Fail To Crack Vault

After finding their way from Grafton's attic to the cellar in a break-in Wednesday night, thieves were unable to open the store's vault and left instead with merchandise.

Entrance was gained through a trap door on the roof of the three-storey clothing store and the thieves left the same way after piling steps, a box and a piano stool to gain exit through the trap, 14 feet above floor level.

Although no estimate of value has been made on the missing articles, damage costs will run high. The would-be safe crackers ruined the vault's combination lock, chipped the door and smashed the adjacent plaster wall.

Thieves made good in a similar break-in at Grafton's during 1951. They made away with about $4,200.

W. C. Hughes, manager of the chain branch, said, however, the take would have been low even if thieves had been successful in opening the vault Wednesday night. It contained only a half-day's receipts.

"AMATEUR" JOB

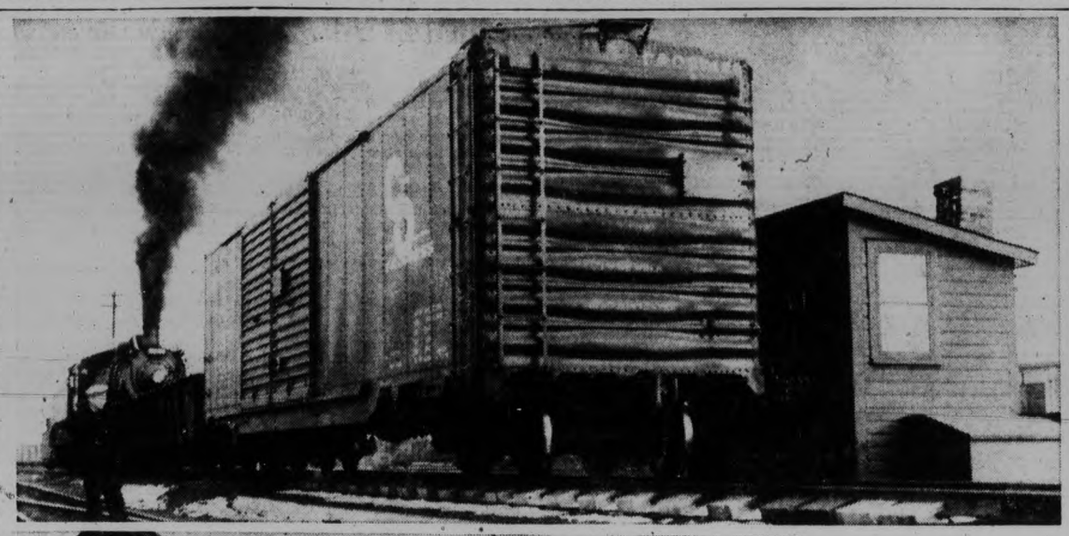
Inspecting the damaged safe, Hughes theorized the job was conducted by "amateurs.".

No explosives were used. Instead the nocturnal visitors drilled a hole in the plate surrounding the combination and attempted to pull it out with an instrument, similar to a mechanic's pulley-puller.

Then they either tried the same tool on the dial itself or tried to pry it off with a chisel. This also proving unsuccessful, they broke plaster off a nearby wall in an attempt to break through the side of the vault.

Plaster dust and chips covered the floor beside the door and it appeared that a stool had been pulled over to the door to facilitate the break-in try.

This still being to no avail, they retraced their steps through the main body of the store, collecting merchandise off the counters as they went, and retreated upstairs.



In the process, they knocked over a tie stand and left a trail of ties up the first flight of steps.

Because of the half-holiday Wednesday, the last occupant of the store, Clayton Foster, the caretaker, left by four o'clock.

He returned this morning, discovered the theft, and phoned police at 6:30.

SEEKING RE-ELECTION for his second two-year term on the board of education is Charles H. Huffman, building contractor. Mr. Huffman was chairman of the board's property committee in 1953.

FORTY-SEVEN TONS OF NEPHELINE ORE from a new mining development on the north-east end of Blue Mountain Range, Methuen township, rolls onto the railway scales at Havelock switching yards. Two more cars will follow the one above to an assaying plant in Piney Creek, Va., and results may determine a new mine and mill next year. The bulk samples are being trucked from the property via Twin Lakes. Conductor Fred Masters of the Havelock switch train, left in lower photo, and freight agent Graydon Harris seem pleased at the prospect of this new business.

Mrs. M. Holt May Run For Council

One of the candidates for city council in the December elections may be a woman.

Mrs. Mauriece E. Holt of 469 Water St. has been asked to run by a number of friends and she is seriously considering whether or not to do so. If Mrs. Holt does decide to run, and is elected, she will be the first woman councillor in Peterborough's history.

Dr. Lorna Cotten tried before the Second World War but was defeated.

Women have frequently been elected to the board of education but until now, at least, city council has been an all-male preserve. Peterborough history could be made on December 7.

"If I felt that a woman would be of assistance—and asuming the voters have confidence I have the necessary qualifications—I'd like to run," Mrs. Holt told the Examiner today. "But I'd like to gauge the public reaction before coming to any decision."

Another consideration by Mrs. Holt: Besides being a housewife she is the active president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, and she doesn't want to neglect these duties if she enters municipal politics.

INSPECT COUNTY ROADS

Members of the county road committee today began their annual inspection of the roads and bridges in Peterborough county. They were conducted on their motor tour by County Engineer Jack Kean, and were expected to travel through Norwood, Havelock, and at least a couple of the eastern townships. The complete inspection will last two days.

Construction Work Tied Up Because Of Cement Scarcity

About this time every year a bag of cement takes on the value of a gold brick In fact some local contractors suspect that gold bricks are more plentiful. For about a month now the cement store has been dwindling; three of the major wholesale suppliers have not received a bag of the precious dust in the past two weeks and many local contractors have temporarily closed shop.

The shortage has taken on the form of an annual event. For the past six or seven years, cement has become increasingly rare during the late fall and early winter season. The supply just cannot meet the demand.

OUTPUT INCREASED

Canada cement, one of the largest producers have increased their output from about seven billion barrels a year, before and during the war years, to an estimated 17 billion this year, and still cement remains a rare commodity at this time of year. One barrel of cement contains four bags, so the estimated output of this manufacturer this year is about 68 billion bags.

A quantity of foreign cement is being imported. Belgian, German and English cement have been the chief products used by many local contractors since May of this year.

American cement is an almost unheard of substance.

REASONS FOR SHORTAGE

Chief reasons for the shortage of the building material are the concentrated effort by all construction firms to get as much concrete poured before the first big freeze-up as possible, the exhaustive amounts being used by hydro developments in the province and cement companies' drive to get as much cement as possible at the head of the lakes before shipping season closes.

At present the shortage is at its worst. It is the general belief of contractors and suppliers that the market will open again as soon as the heavy frost sets in. One local wholesaler expects a shipment of foreign cement in the near future, but should it arrive, a strict rationing program will have to be carried out until the market levels out.

The only course open at present is to wait for Jack Frost and the return of the cement shipments.

Mystery Robber Strikes 5th Time

COBOURG (ENS) — For the fifth time in two weeks, the mystery robber has struck in Cobourg. Wednesday evening he made off with $81 in cigarettes and silver when he broke into the vending machine at the local pavillion.

Police are baffled as to how he entered the building.

In the past two weeks it is thought that the same thief has entered the William Jennings office, and the homes of H. M. Holman and Harry Fisher. Nothing was reported taken in any of these cases.

The first robbery in the series was at the home of W. J. Barnett. OPP Ralph Tremill, who boards at the Barnett home, lost his revolver as a result of this break-in.

Oshawa, Toronto Layoffs Boost Jobless Here

Layoffs in Oshawa, Toronto and cities in Western Ontario and short time work throughout the district caused unemployment figures to jump for the second straight month in the Peterborough district during October. The National Employment office announced that at the end of October there were 980 people drawing unemployment insurance as compared with 837 in September and 688 in August.

An office spokesman pointed out that there were more than 100 from the Peterborough district affected by the layoff at the General Motors plant in Oshawa. There were a few others from larger centres.

Although the Oshawa layoff is only temporary (they're expected back in about two weeks), these men and women have returned to their homes in the Peterborough area. To tide them over until they return to work, they're drawing money through the insurance plan.

MOST FROM CITY

Of the total 980 on claims, 551 are from the city and 429 from the district. Last year during October there were 475 city and 341 district claimants.

Short-tims claimants accounted for 129 of the October total. These are people working short-hour days or short-day weeks. Some are from the city, but most are from the district, especially from Campbellford.

Actually in October the office had 1,302 men and women looking for job opportunities. This total was almost 300 more than the total for October 1952.

The jobs reported to the office in October generally required skilled workers such as machinists, welders, typists and stenographers. There were 26 jobs for men and 37 for women. At the same time a year ago there were only 46 jobs available.

Clatter Foils Theft

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)— An unintended booby trap apparently foiled a break-in at the McGregor Cycle and Sports store on Bridge St. W. Tuesday night when the rear door of the building was forced. A pile of stove-pipes was knocked over and the resulting clatter must have frightened whoever made the illegal entry. The break-in was discovered Wednesday morninging. PC Sam Baird is investigating.

Second Nepheline Mine Is Being Assayed In Blue Mountain Country

Firm Holds 300 Acres Near Present Mine, Plans Grinding Mill If Core-Drilling Samples Assay Well

A second nepheline mine is on the doorstep of development in Methuen township. It is situated at the east end of the Blue Mountain range on Devil and Barrette lakes, adjacent to the producing property of the American Nepheline Company. Owners of the new property, Canadian Flint and Spar Company of Buckingham, P.Q., originally staked some 300 acres before the Second World War. They started drilling a few months ago.

Company manager Norman B. Davis said by phone today that a month of core drilling had been completed and bulk samples of ore are being trucked via Colbyville (Twin Lakes) to Havelock for shipment to an associate plant in Virginia for assaying.

GRINDING MILL

When restults have been assessed, following this operation, it is quite likely that Canada Flint and Spar will go ahead with the building of a grinding mill in the Blue Mountain region, Mr. Davis said.

Additional claims have been secured to add to the original group during the past summer and the company has now a total of 600 acres.

It is not possible for the company management to determine at this time, it is learned, what the new development will require in the size of either mill or quarry.

"It all depends on our assay returns," said Mr. Davis cautiously.

Urges Support From Legion For Civil Defence

Members of the Canadian Legion were asked Wednesday night to give their support to the Peterborough civil defence organization because the threat of war remains serious.

Addressing the 125 legionnaires and ex-servicemen at the annual Remembrance Day dinner was Col. John A. Dewart, MC, first CO of the Prince of Wales Rangers and head of the city's civil defence organization.

"Today the threat of war is so serious that 60 per cent of our taxation is devoted to national defence," he said. "Both the Dominion and Provincial governments are urging us to take up civil defence . . . I am appealing to members of the Legion for support in this organization."

Col. Dewart pointed out that there has been a continuous strife in western civilization. Spain, France, Holland, the British Empire and Germany have all made their bid for power as well as a contribution to that civilization. Germany, however, had become controlled by totalitarian men and was the principal offender in two world wars.

Today Germany is chastened and dismembered and may join the free nations in NATO, said Col. Dewart.

U.S. MIGHTIEST

The speaker described the United States as the "mightiest civilization in the world today." Russia, which has a third of the nations of the world as satellites, is carrying on policies and practices "foreign to anything to which we can subscribe."

Today Russia has the greatest air force and army in the world, said Col. Dewart.

"Next year may be the danger year because, seeing the strength of the western nations, Russia may risk everything. We know they have the atomic bomb and we believe they have the hydrogen bomb."

Col. Dewart was introduced by Claire Stuart, who was congratulated on receiving the postmastership, and he was thanked by Patrick Burke. Leo Herr was chairman.

On behalf of the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. G. C. Stevens, president, handed over two cheques to Louis Durkin, president of Branch 52. Members of the Women's Auxiliary served the turkey dinner.

Charles Huffman Seeks 2nd Term On School Board

Charles H. Huffman said today he would be a candidate for re-election to the board of education. He is completing his first two-year term.

Four of the five trustees whose terms are up this year have said they will seek re-election. Stanley R. Adamson, chairman of the board, has announced his retirement; but the other four—Mrs. Paige Rowell, G. Wilson Craw, Arthur Pitchford, and now Mr. Huffman—will be candidates.

Mr. Huffman said he was running again to put his two years of experience on the board to work.

"I feel that a trustee should have more than one term in office to do the Board of Education job right. It takes some time to get accustomed to the board's way of operating."

Last year Mr. Huffman, a building contractor, was chairman of the property committee. He was thus able to appraise the physical condition of the schools with a professional eye.

"During the past few years, particularly during the war, a backlog of maintenance work has been building up," he said. "Renovations to city schools are needed. With this in mind the property committee are drawing up a plan to have the work done in a systematic manner, so as not to put too much of a burden on the taxpayers in any one year."

This systematic plan for maintenance work and renovations will likely be presented to the 1954 board for their approval at the beginning of the year. Work will probably be spread over a five-year period.

Mr. Huffman was born in Peterborough in 1909, and was educated in the city's public school system and at Peterborough Collegiate Institute. He attended Peterborough Business College and then joined his father and grandfather in the contracting firm, now known as Charles Huffman Ltd.

At present he is on the board of stewards of Trinity United church and is chairman of the church's property committee. He is a former director of the Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Peterborough Builders' Exchange and the Kiwanis Club.

A son attends Prince of Wales school and a daughter is going to Kenner Collegiate.

Wreaths For Cenotaph Serve Double Purpose

Rather than see the wreaths decay on the war memorial, the Legion's welfare committee will distribute them to anybody wishing to lay them on returned men's graves.

This is the third year that this policy has been adopted.

Donors wishing their wreath, which is now on the war memorial, to be laid on a particular grave, should let the Legion officals know.

"When the wreaths have served their purpose at the Cenotaph the welfare committee will distribute them to anyone wishing them for returned men's graves in the cemetery," said Albert Mason, chairman of the committee. "This way the wreaths serve a double purpose. We think it's better than having them destroyed. Donors' names will be left attached."

COMPLETE FIRST LAYER—The 13-mile stretch of Highway 7, from Fowler's Corners to a point two miles east of Reaboro, has nearly all been re-surfaced. Construction workers were nearing the end of the stretch at Fowler's Corners on Wednesday. This layer of asphalt is only the base for a second two-inch layer which will be applied next summer. The Beamish Construction Company, upon completion of highway work for this year, will next prepare Omemee's main street for re-surfacing.

New Actress Suffered Under Nazis

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What makes an actress?

Somewhere in a woman's past something happens to give her the creative urge. With Audrey Hepburn it was years of life under Nazi terror.

To look at Paramount's bright new star, you wouldn't think that she had anything but the nicest kind of life. She is pert and petite, with a gay, glittering personality. Her nature has been conditioned.

"After living the long months and years under the Germans," she explained, "You dreamed what would happen if you ever got out. You swore you would never complain about anything again."

Audrey was caught in The Netherlands during the invasion of 1940. Her life during those years was a story of fear and privation. But the worst came during the seven months between the battle of Arnhem and liberation in 1945.

"MERELY EXISTED"

"Arnhem was evacuated after the battle," she recounted, "but we lived just on the outskirts. Our presence there was tolerated by the Germans, but just barely so. For seven months, we had no light, no heat, no water. We had no food, because all the shops were closed. We ate what we could find.

"During the day we merely existed. At night our only diversion was gathering around the fire. That was the only light we had—whatever wood we could find nearby.

"We couldn't talk about the day's happenings, because nothing had happened to us. So we sat around and made up stories, invented things. We entertained each other, and it helped carry our minds away from the horrible life we were leading. We could do it, too; we lived in another world during those nights around the fire."

GAVE HER START

Audrey admitted that if she had not been through such an experience, she might never have become an actress. "I had to learn to invent, to interpolate," she explained. "I had to create a make-believe world."

It's a long way from the brutality of a Nazi occupation to the glitter of Hollywood, but that's where life has taken Audrey. She is making her first picture in Hollywood. It's called "Sabrina Fair" and she has such sterling suitors as Humphrey Bogart and William Holden seeking her hand. That shows you what Paramount thinks of its new girl.

Fears Highway Traffic Will Be Unregulated If Decision Upheld

LONDON (CP)—Canada's deputy attorney-general Wednesday answered suggestions that interprovincial highway traffic in Canada would be unregulated if the Privy Council upholds a Supreme Court of Canada decision.

F. P. Varcoe said the solution would be for the federal government to fill the gap by taking over responsibility for such traffic.

He was arguing before the judicial committee of the Privy Council in a case involving the question of whether the provinces or federal government have the right to control interprovincial and international highway traffic in Canada.

The Supreme Court decision was that such traffic is under federal jurisdiction although the federal government has made no laws governing such operations.

UP TO PARLIAMENT

Counsel for three provinces which dispute the Supreme Court ruling — Alberta, Ontario and Prince Edward Island—have maintained that if the ruling is allowed to stand, then provincial and local traffic will be regulated while international and interprovincial carriers will not.

"The answer to that," said Varcoe, "is that regulation, if there is any, should be applied by Parliament and not by the provincial legislature."

The federal government intervened in the case, wherein the three provinces have appealed the Supreme Court of Canada decision of October, 1951. A cross-appeal was brought by a United States bus line and the two major Canadian railways.

100 European Firms Start Branch In Ont.

TORONTO (CP)—Planning Minister Warrander of Ontario said Wednesday nearly 100 British and German firms will have branches in the province by the end of this year. Many have already been established.

About 50 of these would be manufacturers and the others financial and investment houses.

Mr. Warrander, who recently returned from a two-week tour in Europe, said an Ontario government office will probably be opened in Dusseldorf during the next two years to handle inquiries of German firms interested in establishing Ontario branches.

FOLLOW PATTERN

The German move into Ontario would probably follow the pattern of United Kingdom movement. Sales offices would come first, then assembly plants and full manufacture.

The minister said Ontario's main immigration need is for skilled tradesmen. They would be encouraged to come to the province.

The value of branch offices to spread the Ontario story has been proven by a Chicago office, the minister said. Since its opening last spring the office had had requests from 129 new projects interested in establishing in Ontario.

Smog Big Killer

LONDON (Reuters) — London's great smog last December killed 12,000 persons—4,000 that month and 8,000 who died from after-effects in the next two months—a British scientist said Wednesday. And every mid-winter day sees more than 2,000 tons of sulphur dioxide and 2,000 tons of deadly carbon monoxide shot into the air of greater London, Dr. E. T. Wilkins, officer in charge of the atmospheric pollution section of the department of scientific and industrial research, said.

Make Test Borings For Power Project

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Test borings for the $600,000,000 St. Lawrence power project are underway at two points, a consulting engineer of the New York state power authority said Wednesday night.

Asa George said the borings are being made at the Powerhouse dam at Barnhart island and at Iroquois dam at Rockaway point.

The borings are being made by the state department of public works, George said. Canada is boring on the opposite side of the river at these points. The borings began Tuesday.

They are nedessary to insure proper design of the dam structures, George said.

White Inquiry Thrown Open To Public

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States Senate sub-committee today threw open to the public an investigation into the controversial case of Harry Dexter White, late financial expert who has been branded as a Communi[illegible] House of Representatives members struck a snarl in a companion inquiry starring former President Truman.

Harry H. Vaughan, who was Truman's military aide, was summoned to tell the Senate internal security sub-committee what he knows of FBI reports on White at the time in early 1946 when Truman named White as U. S. director of the International Monetary Fund.

After a closed session with Vaughan and his former secretary, Ruth Anderson, the sub-committee planned to throw its sessions open at 2:30 p. m. EST to the public, reporters and television cameras.

ALL TANGLED

Truman, in New York, still has not said whether he will comply with a subpoena to come to Washington and testify Friday about the case. Attorney - General Herbert Brownell contends White was promoted by Truman in the face of FBI reports that White, who died in 1948, was guilty of espionage for Soviet Russia. Truman has said he recalls no such thing happening.

The House un-American activities committee, which issued the summons for Truman, has become all tangled up in arguments over procedure.

It appeared highly unlikely the committee would proceed Friday to question Truman and his former attorney-general, Tom C. Clark, now a U. S. Supreme Court justice.

President Eisenhower jettisoned any hope for administration support that the committee might have held in efforts to force Truman to testify in the furore which Brownell touched off six days ago.

ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE

[illegible]nhower said he personally would not have subpoenaed the ex-president, and said it is inconceivable to him that Truman knowingly would appoint a spy to high office.

Brownell himself followed up with a statement he had "no intention of impugning the loyalty of any high official of the prior administration." But he said additional evidence just turned up seemed to show beyond doubt that there was laxity in dealing with Communist infiltration of the government.

The thankoffering was received by Mrs. Charlton and Mrs. J. McKerchar. Refreshments were served.

Causing a disturbance cost Ambrose Gorgerat of Princess Lake and Alec. Parks of Birds Creek $10 and costs. Gorgerat was fined an additional $10 on a minor charge of obtaining liquor.

Canadian Chemical Industry To Double Production By 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's fast-growing chemical industry, expanding five-fold in a quarter-century, may double its production by 1975.

Two government economists, Dr. John Davis and J. P. Lounsbury, make this prediction in a survey published in the trade department's weekly, Foreign Trade.

The economists noted that since 1925 the chemical industry has grown at an annual average rate of 10 per cent, compared with three per cent for manufacturing as a whole.

"An over-all projection of Canadian chemical requirements indicates that they will increase by at least 50 per cent between now and 1960," the economists said. "They may double by 1975."

Production, valued at about $150,000,000 in 1925, increased to more than $700,000,000 in 1950 and on the basis of the current prediction may jump to about $1,500,000,000 or more by 1975.

MORE COMPETITIVE

There is room for expansion in almost all chemical fields, the economists said. During the next decade, "plastics may well surpass synthetic fibres in terms of sales value."

The economists predicted that the world market will become more competitive during the next few years unless there is all-out war, but at the same time it noted that with the growth of Canadian population the domestic market is expanding. More and more plants are able to survive just by catering to Canadian needs—replacing imports.

Canada has almost all the raw materials required for the industry's expansion. It will need more capital to keep abreast of new chemical developments, but "the mounting world-wide demand for Canadian materials and the fact that it is becoming increasingly economic to process them initially in this country will help to give Canadian chemical producers much of the support they need."

Taking all factors into consideration, "it looks as if domestic production will, in future, increase more rapidly than Canadian imports," the economists said. "The further growth and diversification of Canadian industry will largely account for that."

Baronet Missing

KIRKOWAN, Scotland (CP)—Sir Adrian Dunbar, former Maryland odd-job man, has disappeared since arriving in England Sunday to take over the derelict 40-room mansion which he inherited with his title. Scots villagers who live on his 3,400-acre estate are peeved because they had planned a big welcome. Dunbar is believed to be at Southampton waiting till interest in him dies down.

Plan To Stress Comedy For Russians

By ROSS BIRTWHISTLE

LONDON (Reuters) — Two veteran Soviet entertainers Wednesday described their plans to give the Russian people plenty of laughs in a series of films and puppet shows next year.

They said pie-throwing farces have lost their box office allure, so they will concentrate on satires showing the faults of Soviet bureaucracy and backwardness in living conditions.

Film actor-producer Georgi V. Alexandrov, a disciple of the great Sergei Eistenstein, and puppeteer Sergei V. Obrastzov told a press conferenc here about the Soviet entertainment industry. They are members of a 27-member Soviet dlegeation, largest Russian cultural mission ever to visit Britain.

"I like laughter," said Alexandrov. "Half the films we will produce in the Russian Republic next year will be comedies. They are by far the most populat type."

APPRECIATE MESSAGE

He said Russian audiences appreciate a message in their films and split their sides at bureaucratic blunders and crudeness of living conditions.

Asked if he were free to present views directly opposed to those of the government, Alexandrov replied seriously: "I think it would be possible, but they would not succeed. The public are too enthusiastic about building their new society and culture."

Obrastzov cut in: "We have staged plays satirizing our ways of living—for 22 years I have produced what I want and nobody has hindered me."

They criticized Hollywood cheesecake, murder films and comics. Stress on violence and sex is out in Russia, they said.

Fire Guts Stables

WELLAND (CP)—The stables of the Welland county fair grounds were destroyed by fire Wednesday. Equipment from the other buildings was stored in the stables and was also lost. The stables could accommodate 60 horses. Damage was estimated at more than $10,000.

Try To Stamp Out Aussie Cannibal Tribes

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (Reuters)—Dozens of young Australians are hacking through unexplored jungles of western New Guinea in a major drive to take stone age cannibal tribes by the end of next year.

The hazardous campaign received fresh impetus from reports that two Australian patrolmen were cut to pieces in the last week by a savage pygmy tribe.

Reasons for cannibalism in the remote tropical territory have never been clearly established. Some authorities say it is simply due to a meat shortage. Others say cannibalism is a tribal ritual unrelated to food supplies.

Patrol Officer W. J. Johnston said the first signs of cannibalism he had encountered were the gruesome sight of half-eaten bodies in campfires. He said he had found at least 20 tribes openly practising cannibalism.

Tribal custom varies in each locality, he said. Some eat only their enemies and regard their own dead as sacred. The ancient belief that a man who eats the heart of a brave warrior will himself become brave still prevails among many tribes, Johnston said.

Alaska Highway Brings Tourist Industry To North

EDMONTON (CP)—A 1,500-mile highway, built at a cost of $139,000,000, has opened a new frontier and given northern Canada a new tourist industry.

The road is the Alaska Highway which runs from Dawson Creek, B. C., across five mountain ranges, 129 rivers and 8,000 mountain streams, to Fairbanks, Alaska.

The road was slashed through some of the roughest country in world by 14,000 Americans during the Second World War when Japan threatened Alaska.

The road was maintained by the United States until March, 1946, when the Canadian portion was turned over to the Dominion. It was opened to civilian traffic the same year.

MANY VISITORS

Since then cars from the 10 provinces, Mexico, Hawaii, the Philippines and the 48 states have used the road.

The road is still a military highway, with a brigadier in charge of several hundred Canadian Army maintenance men.

Equipment is spotted at various points along the route to keep it open summer and winter.

The speed limit is 45 miles an hour but many tourists hit 50 or 60, particularly in winter when the snow packs as hard as asphalt.

They find good accommodation, meals, gasoline and automobile service along the road. Those maintaining the road advise tourists to start the trip with new tires, two new spares, an extra fan belt, pump, patching kit, ax and shovel, plus the usual car tools.

SPRING THAW

Tourists are warned off the highway in May and the first half of June because the road isn't passable after the spring thaws.

The highway is a series of unpredictable stretches of good and bad road. The first 200 miles is a three-lane class A road. Then it begins a series of agonizing twists and turns which alternate with straight wide stretches all the way to Fairbanks.

More than 10,000 vehicles used the road last year. The figure is expected to rise each year as the road and tourist services are improved.

Overweight Not Primary Cause In Heart Disease–Doctor

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The idea that being overweight makes you easier prey to heart disease—unless you are sure you are really a fat butterball—was challenged today by a researcher in physiology.

Dr. Ancel Keys presented the evidence giving some reassurance to those on the heavy side to the American Public Health Association. He is director of the laboratory of physiological hygiene, University of Minnesota.

He urged more research to discover the reasons why Americans suffer more heart disease and deaths than people in many other countries.

NOT A PRIMARY CAUSE

"Overweight of itself, except in extreme degree, is not a primary cause of coronary disease," he said. "There is some evidence that overweight may contribute to the development of high blood pressure."

Dr. Keys said the warning of greater risk of heart attacks for fat people is based mainly upon life insurance company studies. Partly because of this, he said, "obesity has been singled out as the public enemy No. 1," and an anti-obesity campaign is under way.

He declared there is a real difference between being overweight due to fatness and heaviness due to muscularity or body build. Dr. Keys cited studies which found little significant difference in relative body weights of persons who had died of or survived heart attacks, and others who had not had heart disease.

United States Hysteria Criticized A cross Europe

LONDON (AP)—West Europe's editors trotted out their big black headlines again today to tell readers the latest developments on the subpoena of ex-president Truman in Washington's Harry Dexter White case.

But the only extensive editorial comment was in Britain, where papers of all political shades declared that the summons for Truman to appear before the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities will blacken the name of the United States in the court of world opinion.

One or two continental papers blamed President Eisenhower for what they called a new Republican attack on the former president.

REDS SEE HYSTERIA

Communist papers cited the subpoena to show the "hysteria" in the U. S.

In Paris, the leftist but non-Communist paper Combat attacked Eisenhower for "lifting the brake on extreme right-wing republicanism."

"Where," it asked, "is the man who knew so well how to solve high command conflicts when he headed the campaign in Europe."

Said Franc-Tireur, another Parisian leftist paper: "The men of the Kremlin must be laughing hard.

"What authority can the U.S. president have in the world, at Bermuda or elsewhere, if he shows such weakness before the most delirious demonstrations of intolerance and hysteria?"

"CROWNING FOLLY"

The London Daily Herald, Labor, described the incident as the "crowning folly of the witch hunters," and the Liberal News Chronicle said it was "an exhibition of political rowdyism."

The Conservative Financial Times termed the call for Truman to testify "plainly a political move, the direct consequence of election losses."

In Rome, the independent Il Tempo suggested the Republicans might be worried by recent Democrat election successes.

Moscow radio was heard to say the U.S. has established a new "record of stupidity and political cynicism."

The incident, said a Russian commentator, "made a general laughing stock of the glorious U.S. dollar diplomacy."

GREENLEASE RANSOM MONEY — Mrs. Henry J. Krauser, a registered nurse of Petoskye, Mich., points to a list of the Greenlease ransom money serial numbers. Mrs. Krauser received a $20 bill which was part of the ransom money from a mail-truck driver, Norman Clark, who in turn said he got it from a gas station. It was reported that FBI agents moved swiftly into the Petoskey area and were questioning strangers in an attempt to trace the bill.

Asks Foreigners Be Allowed See H-Bomb

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Atomic Energy Commission member suggests that foreigners, presumably including Russians, should see a United States hydrogen bomb exploded as a sample of the destructive alternative to world peace.

The idea, expressed by Thomas E. Murray Wednesday night, came as the U.S. is preparing another and probably fiercer hudrogen test blast, and as Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson talked of "many more discoveries in the atomic age."

Murray made his H-bomb suggestion in a speech at Pittsburgh. He said first-hand observation of an H-bomb's thunder "is an essential qualification for future negotiators of the great survival issues in the years ahead." Such an American showing, he added, might persuade the Russians to match it with a demonstration of their own.

Murray said the AEC hasn't yet studied the idea in detail or reached a decision.

BEFORE COLD WAR

Murray's speech was the first official indication that there is consideration of a plan to let foreign observers watch a major atomic test. He recalled that this was last done at Bikini atoll in the Pacific in 1946.

In those days before the cold war, several hundred American and foreign observers and correspondents, including two Soviet representatives, watched the atom-bombing of a fleet of warships.

The AEC has announced, without detail, that Bikini will be used in further atomic tests, supplementing the facilities of Eniwetok atoll, used since 1948. There have been reports that the hydrogen test at Eniwetok last year disintegrated an island.

In another atomic development Wednesday, Lewis L. Strasuss, chairman of the AEC, said the U.S. intends to "extend" the exchange of atomic information with Canada and Britain, but no data on atomic weapons will be involved.

He said the U.S. plans to "extend the area of our co-operation . . . in certain limited respects and to our mutual advantage."

In Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe welcomed the news and said the exchange might speed the development of atomic power plants in Canada.

Girls' Club Given Turkey Dinner

FAIRVIEW (ENS)—The South Smith Women's Institute entertained the Homemakers club, their leaders and mothers at a turkey dinner in the Fairview United Church on Tuesday evening.

The girls under the leadership of Mrs. Clarance Mann and her assistant Mrs. Albert Bulmer, have done splendid work during the past three years. They won first place at Achievement Day, winning a trip to W. I. Convention, to present their skit and display. They also have won at Peterborough exhibitions. Barbara Mann was chosen last August to represent Peterborough County at opening day of the A.C.C.W. in Toronto where she carried the Norwegian flag.

Mrs. Mann the leader presented the six girls with the money they had won as prizes at the Peterborough fair. She voiced her appreciation to girls' mothers and her assistant for support given her during the past three years.

Following the dinner Nola Wilson thanked the ladies of the Institute, and their leaders. Gwen McKee presented the leaders with gifts from the club. Mrs. Elmer Milburn and Mrs. Wesley Bell on behalf of the Institute presented gifts to the leaders and the girls. Girls of the club who sat down to dinner with their mothers were Barbara and Aileen Mann, Myla Bulmer, Nola Wilson, Gwen McKee, Anna Northey, Ruth Fowler, Reta Parsons, Betty Gilbert, Beverley Hetherington.

Nola Wilson and Barbara Mann have completed six units.

Mrs. W. D. Wilson expressed thanks on behalf of the mothers to the leaders of the Institute.

Mrs. Wesley Bell and Mrs. Elmer Milburn convened the dinner.

LAKEFIELD

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Speaking on United Nations, Gordon K. Fraser, MP, told the Lakefield Home and School Association it was the only official machinery in the world today trying to bring about a lasting peace. Beginning with a membership of 56 nations, it now has 61.

The UN building is the last word in modern architecture, with the assembly hall on three levels. The first is for delegates, the second for the press and the third for the public.

At most meetings, speeches are simultaneously interpreted into five official languages, English, French, Russian, Spanish and Chinese. Earphones wired into a selector switch are provided at each seat.

Mr. Fraser spoke on some of the organization under UN, such as the World Health Organization, UNESCO and UNICEF, and suggested those present would benefit from a visit to UN.

Introduced by citizenship chairman, William Whetung, Mr. Fraser was thanked by J. E. Stephens, principal of Lakefield District High School.

The opening prayer was given by the Rev. H. Kaye. The president, Mrs. Stanley Burger welcomed the guests and conducted a short business period.

It was reported that six dozen cups and saucers and two sets of cream and sugars had been purchased for use at the meetings. The sum of $50 will be paid to the Lakefield Branch, Canadian Red Cross Society, towards purchasing vitamin tablets for public school pupils. A "skate exchange" will be held again this year under the convenership of Mrs. Roy Farrow and Mrs. W. C. Grant.

Reports of the regional conference in Peterborough were given by Mrs. J. Kennedy and Mrs. Burger. Miss Jean Clark sang a solo. The grade mothers of Murray Paterson's room were hostess for lunch.

"Custom-made" Coffee New Breakfast Vogue

Marvellous 100% Real Coffee Made "Strong, Medium or Mild" Right in the Cup

At breakfast you could always get your toast light or dark—your bacon medium or well-done—your eggs, 2, 3 or 4-minute boiled. But your coffee? Well, you just got coffee!

The coffee might be too strong for you—it tasted bitter. Or too mild for you—it tasted weak. But if you were in the minority—too bad! After all, one pot of coffee can't satisfy everybody's taste.

But then came the revolution—the "Coffee Revolution"! Now the most forgotten "little man" can get just the cup of coffee he likes! Seriously, though, it's the women who make the coffee who brought on the revolution! It was they who discovered the wonderful new Instant Chase & Sanborn, and started serving it for breakfast.

First of all, here's 100% real coffee that really tastes like it. Chase & Sanborn scientists saw to that! They took on the job of producing an "instant" worthy of Chase & Sanborn's 100-year-old coffee reputation. They never relaxed till they had succeeded in extracting from the finest coffee beans the color and texture—the rich robust flavor and aroma of freshly ground coffee.

Next, housewives decided that this definitely superior "instant" plainly belongs whenever and wherever coffee is served. And then, everybody caught on to the other important benefit. Cups of Instant Chase & Sanborn can be "custom-made" to each person's taste. Goodbye to the old one-pot handicap!

Farewell to Grounds

For the housewife, Instant Chase & Sanborn means the end of that doleful after-meal chore of scouring a stained coffee pot and disposing of coffee grounds. Here is the modern, dainty, trouble-free way of serving fine coffee.

Budgeteers are excited about the savings on Instant Chase & Sanborn too. The regular size jar makes about the same number of cups as a pound of regular ground coffee. Yet it sells up to 40¢ less than a pound of regular coffee.

THIS REALLY IS MY COFFEE!

New Instant Chase & Sanborn is 100% real coffee—and tastes like it. Rousing, rich-flavored coffee—ready with its magical lift the moment you add the hot water.

It's your kind of coffee—made by people with nearly 100 years of coffee experience.

One sip and you'll agree—it's so good you'll make it your regular coffee!

Now!..the Flavor and Aroma of Freshly Ground Coffee Instantly!

12 Children Sent To Orillia

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Twelve children from East Windsor Hospital, an institution for the chronically ill, were placed aboard a special railway car Wednesday night bound for the Ontario Hospital, Orillia.

Transfer of children patients is part of a series of changes made by the new board of directors appointed last spring following a months-long inquiry into the hospital's affairs. It was demanded by Attorney-General Dana Porter who dismissed the old board.

Superintendent Dr. John Nettleton, appointed to succeed Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, fired by the new board, said the hospital was not designed to care for children patients.

"At Orillia," he said, "proper facilities have been provided and arrangements made to give them the very best therapeutic care."

Four children remain at the hospital. Two will be transferred Nov. 19 and the other two will be taken over by the Children's Aid Society.

"Confession" Heard

LONDON (CP) — Business man Edgar Saunders, who spent 3½ years in a Hungarian jail for alleged espionage, Wednesday night heard his "confession" on television news program. He seemed unperturbed as he listened to the recording.

Memorable Day

HENSALL (CP)—Eleven farmers made Remembrance Day one that air force veteran Gerald Carey will never forget. Recently discharged from the RCAF, Carey arrived with his wife from Vancouver to find the land on his nearby farm not plowed. He had no farm implements. The work on the 130-acre farm was done by 11 of his neighbors.

OLD BUGGY, NEW TAX — Modern innovations like vehicle taxes must apply to buggies as well as new-fangled methods of transportation, the Indiana State Legislature has ruled. So hundreds of Amish residents of the state, such as this couple stopping at Berne, Ind., will pay a $15 tax, effective January 1, 1954, for the right to keep their buggies on the road.

Says Truckers Not Helping Civil Defence

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's transportation industry was urged Wednesday to throw more effort into civil defence.

Harvey W. Adams, director of civil defence transport here, accused carriers generally of not putting a full effort into defence preparations in an address to the Canadian Automotive Transportation Association convention.

Saying he wanted to "talk turkey" to the representatives of 7,000 trucking firms, Mr. Adams said:

NOT PULLING WEIGHT

"I'll give it to you right from the shoulder. Industry—and that includes the transportation industry—is not putting its full weight into disaster preparedness."

Later, Health Minister Martin—the cabinet member in charge of civilian defence—told the delegates that highway transport will be important in an emergency.

Mr. Martin also said that, without highway transport, Canada's current expansion would not have been possible.

The minister called for "a more personal part" in civil defence work by truckers in their communities.

Make First Identification Of Polio Paralysis Virus

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — First "definite" isolation and identification of human infantile paralysis virus was reported Wednesday by a University of California scientist who said the development "is expected to speed up the fight against polio."

Dr. Wendell Stanley said it paves the way for chemical analysis of the structure of the germ, and thereby might conceivably lead to improved polio vaccines and possibly even to the ultimate development of a chemical weapon to treat the disease. The research is supported by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Stanley said two of his colleagues at the university's virus laboratory at Berkeley have obtained "the first photographs definitely identifying the human polio virus" and have established with certainty that it is a spherically-shaped germ about a millionth of an inch in diameter.

FIRST TO DISTINGUISH

He added that the scientists were the first to distinguish—with experimental certainty — between virus particles and impurities accompanying them in preparations known to contain polio germs.

Stanley made the announcement of the virus identification at the autumn meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, convened at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

He told the scientists that virus of "unusual purity" has been isolated—in small quantities so far —by means of special purification techniques. And he told a reporter:

"The new knowledge is expected to speed up the fight against polio, primarily by providing more definite facts about the virus."

Fire Bullet At Car On Road

ST. JOACHIM, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police today were investigating a shooting which occurred Tuesday night when a bullet crashed through the windshield of a car occupied by five persons. No one was injured.

Albert Edwards, 55, Windsor, told police he was driving on a highway near this town about 20 miles east of Windsor when the shooting occurred.

He was about to pass a car, he said, when "suddenly there was a red flash from the other car and pieces of my windshield started flying."

Also in the vehicle were his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards, and their two young children.

Australia purchased 21,965 Canadian-built motor vehicles in 1952, valued at almost $13,000,000.

Men Cowards To New Styles

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP) — Men are corwards, says Elsa Schiaparelli, French fashion designer, because they're afraid to depart from the well-trodden rut in their habits of dress.

Schiaparelli thinks men should wear bright-colored dinner jackets and light, comfortable evening shirts, maybe with ruffles. She advocates daring in sports clothes and draws the line only at shorts for business wear. In the city and during business hours, she concedes, men look better in regular suits. If they wear shorts, she asks, what are they going to do about those hairy legs?

These remarks came at a luncheon celebrating the coming of age of Schiaparelli Inc., a sort of omnibus corporation co-ordinating all the various interests of this small, Italian-born designer in the United States market.

The magic of the Schiaparelli name, it has been found, will sell almost anything, from children's snow suits to men's neckties. This astute business woman discovered long ago as 1936 that the public loves big names.

In her new French-American corporation, Schiaparelli is working with a group of "affiliates"

Military Chapter of IODE Holds Tea On Nov. 11th

The Remembrance Day Tea of the 17th Regiment Chapter, IODE, on Wednesday afternoon, was a very lovely affair, and was conducted befitting the occasion in the YWCA Green Room. This is the military chapter of the IODE in Peterborough and its regent is Mrs. M. E. Clarke, wife of the officer commanding the local regiment, 30th HAA Regiment.

Assisting Mrs. Clarke to receive was Mrs. C. E. Newman, the first vice regent, and Miss Mary Medd, the regent of the Municipal Chapter, IODE.

The tea table was done handsomely in red, white and blue. The flowers were white 'mums and red carnations, beautifully arranged in a white bowl, and the tapers in the three colors were in matching white triple holders. The table cloth was solid red and the cups selected were blue and white and the tea napkins also blue and white.

Tea conveners and decorators were Mrs. G. A. Stewart and Mrs. W. A. Masters.

Tea pourers were Mrs. A. R. McWilliams of Otonabee Chapter, Mrs. Donald Murray of Major Bennett Chapter, Mrs. P. C. Sanders of Peter Robinson Chapter, Miss Mary Medd of Municipal and Jeanette Scott Chapter, Mrs. T. G. Ardern of Col. Agnes Neil Chapter and Mrs. Graham Donaldson of the Eleanor Carleton Chapter.

The guests were served by Mrs. H. Willis, Mrs. A. E. Chalmers, Mrs. H. W. Cardwell, Mrs. J. C. C. Dawson, Mrs L. D. Foster, Mrs. L. Gilders, Mrs G. K. Fraser and Mrs. R. Stewart during the first hour. At three thirty Mrs. J. M. Gray, Mrs. J. F. Heffernan, Mrs. S. J. Williamson, Mrs. Alice Leach, Mrs. J. E. Rexe and Mrs. R. E. Clarke took charge, and at four thirty Mrs. V. Scott Stallard, Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mrs. Cecil Watson and Mrs. R. Brooks were serving.

Seeing that the table was supplied was in charge of Mrs. A. G. Stock and Mrs. G. H. Moore, Miss Maud Rush, Mrs. R. Y. Kenny and Mrs. Hurrell Dodds, and the plates and tea pots were filled by Mrs. E. Graham and assistants. Mrs. R. W. Williams, Mrs. C. Heintzman, Mrs. E. A. Adams and Mrs. H. Burrows.

The bazaar section of the room featured a bazaar table of members handwork and a home cooking table, Mrs. C. Whatley, Mrs. V. Thraves and Mrs. A. Nokes in charge of the former, and Mrs. G. Groombridge, Mrs. D. J. Eldred and Mrs. W. J. Davies busy selling the baked goods.

Draw tickets were very easy to sell because of the fine prizes, —a handsomely hand-carved leather purse, which was drawn for at close of the tea, and an attractively patterned afghan to be given at the Christmas meeting of the chapter.

Mrs. S. J. Williamson was the maker and donator of the purse and she drew the winning ticket, that of Miss Kitty Allen of the YWCA house staff.

The sale of tickets on these two draw prizes was in charge of Mrs. F. Frape, assisted by Mrs. J. D. Rowlandson.

Tickets to the tea were received at the door by Mrs. R. A. Ward and Mrs. P. A. Martyn was on hand to receive proceeds of the advance ticket sale.

"Remembering" Is Topic At B.B. Meeting

Miss Myrtle Sargent was guest speaker at Trinity Baby Band Mother's meeting Wednesday evening, and chose the very appropriate topic, "Remembering" on this special day, whose meaning is lost to the greater proportion of the free world. She took members back to the end of the first World War, the signing of the Armistice and the joy of the people and then to the end of the second World War only eight years ago, and the relief that followed expressed by reverence and worship. Miss Sargent spoke of indifference of people to such supreme sacrifice, "so that we may have safety and freedom, —freedom of speech, through the press, the radio, television and communciation of all kinds; freedom of worship, which is given simply forcefully and helpfully Sunday by Sunday, though many do not take advantage of it. We find that the things of spirit are crowded out by material things, in a life where we have so much prejudice and ignorance, but for our love of God and his teaching much of this could be overcome" she said.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. K. Baritrap, and thanked by Mrs. D. F. Manning.

Mrs. Wm. Taylor presided for the business meeting. Mrs. R. M. Elliott read a most interesting paper on Mission Work in Africa. "After centuries of serving foreign rulers a new spirit of self-reliance and self-realization is striving in the mind of the African, who, given an equal opportunity, has proven that he can do anything that the white man con do," she pointed out. The Christian Church is the only agency in all of Africa whose exclusive objectives is the welfare of the African people, and it is discovering and preparing African men and women for leadership among their own people. We must realize that Canadian missionaries cannot do their share in advancing this tremendous cause without our full support.

Two new members introduced were Mrs. William Waye and Mrs. Peter Tuck.

Reports of the various conveners followed, and supplies secretary, Mrs. R. Huffman, and Mrs. McCullough had a most attractive display of layettes made by the members, which are given to welfare agencies.

Mrs. A. Thompson was appointed a member of the nominating committee.

Date for the Christmas party is to be Wednesday, December 16.

Mrs. H. A. Mitchell, president of Trinity Women's Association, spoke to the members, telling them of the vital and important part of church work done by them, and the need for support of the various organizations in the church.

Mrs. K. Barltrop, Mrs. E. Ritchie, Mrs. O. Jamieson, and Mrs. G. Tanney volunteered to assist in the nursery at the tea being held by the Women's Association.

Mrs. A. Thompson's group was in charge of the program and opened the meeting by observing a two minutes' silence. Scripture was read by Mrs. R. E. Seabrooke and Mrs. Tanney led in prayer.

Bobbie Ritchie sang two delightful solos, "O Valiant Heart" and "Guard While I Sleep", his mother, Mrs. E. Ritchie, being the accompanist.

Lunch was served by the group in charge at the end of the meeting.

Kinette Meeting And Installations

Annual meeting of the Kinette Club was held Tuesday evening, following dinner at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. There were 26 members present. President Mrs. C. A. Craig presided and proposed the toast to the Queen.

A guest for the evening was Mrs. Normn Kelly, a Kinette who recently moved here from Sarnia.

Letters from mothers of the children sent to Ilalee Lodge last summer by the club, told members how much the children had enjoyed themselves and how much better their health seemed to be on return.

Officers of the past year gave their annual reports and were thanked for their excellent work by Mrs. Harvie Ball.

Kinsmen president Mr. Arthur Black installed the following Kinettes as officers for the coming year:

President Mrs. Cameron Craig; 1st vice president, Mrs Robert Hamilton; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Harley Carr; secretary, Mrs. George Stone; treasurer, Mrs. Norm Buzzell; press secretary, Mrs. Jack Gamsby.

Remainder of the evening was spent socially in the club lounge.

Mrs. Dick Nicholas CBS Club Head

HAVELOCK (ENS)—The CBS Club, under the direction of its leader, Mrs. William Woodbeck, and assistant leader, Mrs. Robert Melville, met Tuesday evening at the home of the latter for organization purposes.

The project of the club as its name indicates is cooking, baking and sewing. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Dick Nicholas; secretary, Miss Larraine Thompson; treasurer, Miss Dorothy Graham.

The club had 14 members enroll with two more prospects. Two of the members, Mrs. Nicholas and Miss Graham are commencing the fourth project of club work.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Ten-Pound Christmas Cake Costs About 50c A Pound

The best cooking time of the year is Christmas time, which is early in our kitchen.

But not early enough for some of you. I have dozens of your letters on my desk asking for my 1953 Christmas cake recipe. One girl wrote in August for it.

My family loves the sampling session. They act like starved savages. Sometimes I wish I would just make my own decisions, but happily this year everybody decided on the cake I was going to give you the recipe for anyway.

Here it is folks—full of flavor and big nut chunks and whole cherries and all the luscious ingredients Canadian grocery stores offer.

Proceed with respect, for any fruit cake worth the work, calls for expensive ingredients—so watch your oven. Don't wander off to the neighbors during the last baking hour. When this is in the oven temporarily you are a cake-sitter.

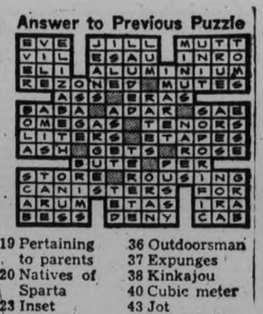
EMEM'S 1953 CHRISTMAS FRUIT CAKE

(Medium Dark)

(NOTE: This cake weighs a little over 10 lbs. There is no reason why, if you want a smaller cake, you may not cut the recipe in half.)

(NOTE 2: The ingredients cost about $5.30 using butter; about $5.13 using margarine. Result: finest quality Fruit cake at a little over 50 cents per lb.)

Cream ½-lb. butter or margarine very well in very large container II used a white enamel dishpan. Cream into it 2 cups each white sugar and brown sugar. When this is perfectly smooth add 10 unbeaten eggs and beat them in until smooth, then add the contents very well-drained of 1 20-oz. tin finest quality crushed pineapple and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Into another very large container sift 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon mace and ½ teaspoon each cinnamon and baking soda. Add to this sifted flour mixture the fruit and nuts: 1 lb. broken but not chopped walnuts, ½ lb. each whole red candied cherries, whole green candied cherries, chopped citron peel, mixed oranges and lemon peel, currants; 2 lbs. seedless light Sultana raisins, 1 lb. seeded dark Muscatel raisins. Mix the flour mixture well into these fruits and nuts to thoroughly coat them. Add them to the sugar-butter-egg mixture. Also add ¼ cup of the pineapple juice drained from the crushed pineapple. Stir to mix all thoroughly. You should enlist the help of the male members of the family for this for it is hard work. This may be baked in any shape or size of pans including tube pans, but they must be lined with double thichness of new brown paper, pan being greased before paper is put in and paper being buttered Then line pan with 4 thicknesses of wax paper and buttr it. Fill pans to 2-3 or 3-4 full, smoothing top of batter and pushing it close to sides. Put waterpan in oven with ½ inch hot water in. Waterpan should be as big as bottom area of cakes, but not so big it prevents hot air from circulating around sides of oven. Bake at 275 deg. Fahr.—no hotter. My cake was in 1 very large pan and required 4½ hours. If this cake is baked in 3 pans it will require about 3 to 3½ hours. If there is one small cake in your batch it might bake in 2½ hours so keep an eye on it. Don't overbake your cakes—this only serves to caramelize the sugar in the fruits and give them at bitter taste. Cake is baked when it is firm to the touch at the very centre. Replenish water in pan as necessary.



I will give you almond pastes and icings later on .

Cook the cakes in the pans, then remove from pans, but do not peel off papers. Let stand on cake racks until cold, then wrap in wax paper and heavy towels and store in covered containers in cool place.

HAPPY VOYAGE

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — The guests of honor arrived in a small boat when Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Little of Cedar Lake attended their own 25th wedding anniversary. They travelled 75 miles down the Saskatchewan river for the celebration at the home of a daughter and son-in-law.

DOROTHY DIX

Happy Mother Of Eight Resents Sister's Comments

DEAR MISS DIX: We are a very happy family with eight children, getting along very well. My husband has a good business, the children are bright and helpful. I do all my own work and we have many advantages. My only complaint is about a sister of mine, who is unmarried, has a good job, but is never satisfied unless she is making trouble. Whenever she visits us she takes great pleasure in giving me "digs", saying my looks are fading, I weigh too much, my home isn't well kept, the children are unruly, etc. True, I'm no glamour girl, but I'm 44 and have kept my figure and looks quite well. The youngsters are obedient, enjoy many advantgages such as music lessons, and our home is definitely above average. My sister also belittles much of the work I do, saying it doesn't pay to can vegetables, etc., or that it's foolish to spend time sewing. I'm timid, I know, and hate arguments, but how can I handle this situation without becoming so upset over it?

ELLEN.

ANSWER: Bolster up your own confidence, girl. A mother of eight children, who accomplishes as much as you do, needs no praise from outsiders to assure her that her job is very well done.

While your sister is having a field day criticizing you, just look around at your happy and healthy brood, and you'll find commendation enough for your work. Sister is probably dissatisfied with her single and childless lot and takes her disappointment out on you. She has chosen single blessedness, according to your letter, and should look to its advantages. Obviously she isn't happy, as no happy person takes delight in baiting others. However, that's not part of your problem. Just learn to accept the remarks in the light of the spirit that prompts them—which is discontent and envy. Always keep your own good fortune in mind and thank God that you have no trouble more serious than one petty sister.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Bill and I had been going together for two years when he went into service and was stationed in this country. Last March we had an argument and broke up. Weeks passed by and I didn't hear from him. I began writing to Pete, a soldier in Korea. Then Bill and I patched things up. The letters between Pete and me were only friendly, and now I hate to write him a "Dear John" letter. Would it be all right to continue writing him as heretofore?

MARTHA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Ending a friendly correspondence of a few weeks duration scarcely constitutes a "Dear John" letter. Those are usually from sweethearts and wives. By all means end the correspondence. Why get into further trouble with Bill?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 16 and have one big problem. I'm very nervous and the condition manifests itself in a cold perspiration of my hands. This makes me very self-conscious, so that I hate to accept invitations to dances, etc. Should I continue to go out, or make excuses and remain at home.

BETTY SUE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Don't do either. Instead, see a doctor immediately. He can give you something to quiet your nerves and let you continue the social life of a 16-year-old.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Can one love a daughter-in-law the same as a daughter? If not, can they be treated alike?

K.V.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's doubtful if, under ordinary circumstances, a daughter-in-law could be accorded love equal to that of a daughter. However, under any circumstances, they can certainly be treated at least almost alike. You are bound to have more affection for your own child but in a successful in-law relationship the difference can be kept so that it is hardly noticeable.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly in Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wabbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Guild Donates $125 For Building Purposes

BETHANY (ENS) — Mrs Charles Reynolds, president of the Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's church, entertained the members, with Mrs. T. S. Gault leading the devotional period.

The ladies voted to give $125 to the wardens to assist in changling the church and rectory, $5 to the Barley for Korea fund and $15 towards blankets and sheets for the Richard Armstrong family, who lost their home and all its contents through fire last week.

Christmas cards were sold and candy and parcels were packaged for the fish pond at the bazaar which will be held next Saturday. Mrs. Morgan Bigelow and Miss Florence Smith will be in charge of the homebaking table.

The December meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Rupert Woods and will feature an exchange of gifts and the annual election of officers.

Mrs. T. S. Gault and Mrs. J. T. Coburn assisted the hostess in serving lunch.

WA Make Final Plans For Annual Bazaar

BETHANY (ENS) — Mrs. Ina Palmer entertained St. Paul's Woman's Auxiliary with 16 members present and Mrs. Allan Gribble presiding. Mrs. T. S. Gault read the scripture lesson and led in prayers.

It was decided to pack a box of gifts to be forwarded to the St. Faith's Messengers to be distributed among needy families at Christmas.

Final plans were made for the annual bazaar on Saturday in the town hall. There will be many useful and fancy goods as well as home baking and candy offered for sale. A turkey dinner will be served.

Assisting the hostess to serve lunch were Mrs. E. Smith and Miss Winnifred Nesbitt.

MARMORA (ENS). — A special program has been planned for November 20, the night Marmora opens its new artificial ice rink, the Dr. Hamilton Crawford Memorial Arena.

On the program that night will be music by the RCAF Training Command Band, figure skating by Francis Dafoe, Norris Bowden and Barbara Jacques, and a hockey game played between two district teams.

Dit Clapper of Peterborough and Jack Baker of Madoc will referee the hockey game.

All but 10 per cent of the $30,000 needed for the artificial ice rink have been raised.

To Send Gifts To Korea For Children

BETHANY (ENS)—The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. W. L. Rowan with 21 present. Mrs. Thomas Jennings presided.

Mrs. R. W. Price reported for the hall kitchen committee giving details of the work done and the amount expended to date. Mrs. H. Rayson reported for the representatives who had attended the International plowing match at Cobourg and who had helped in the Institute booth on that occasion.

Mrs. M. Finney gave an account of the Junior Homemaker's club, sponsored by this branch. The girls are the top group for Durham county and represented the county clubs at the recent convention in Toronto. The treasurer was instructed to pay expenses of the club to date, $27.80.

Mrs. T. Jennings gave a brief report of the convention, which had been attended by five institute members and five of the girls' club.

Plans were made to cater for a banquet on November 20 for the Athletic Association in honor of the girls' softball team, 1953 champions of the Rice lake league. Leaders of the five groups were appointed to look after the menu.

AID FAMILY

It was decided to send a donation of $23 to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Armstrong as temporary help in buying clothing for their children. This family had their home and all its contents destroyed by fire last Friday. Further help will be arranged when the family have a home to move into.

The program was in charge of Mrs. H. L. Challice who gave a paper on the work of the United Nations children's emergency fund. This group is doing a wonderful work in caring for needy children in 68 countries. The organization has concentrated on supplying essential milk, clothing and bedding and medical supplies. Disease is rampant in the European countries and much of it comes from malnutrition.

Mrs. Hope Rayson gave a reading and all took part in a quiz.

The December meeting will feature home economics and health. The roll call will be answered with a white gift for a needy child to be sent to Korea, instead of the usual exchange of Christmas gifts among the members.

Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. L. Challice, Mrs. William Phillips and Mrs. Clara Armstrong.

Four swimmers finished the YMCA Swimming Club's weekly handicap swim this week in a photo-finish. David Ross was announced winner of the event, 40 yards free style, with Peter Wood, Wilton Tranter and Kenneth Stickle placing second, third and fourth respectively.

Ross in winning the swim took a full second off his best time for the 40 yards to bring his record down to 25 seconds.

Leonard Minty and Bobby Stickle each took three seconds off their best times. Ken Stickle clipped off two seconds and Terry Reid, Ross Dobbin, and Davis Ross improved by one second.

CARDIFF, Wales (Reuters) — The Welsh newspaper Western Mail launched a fund here today to bring the body of the Welsh poet Dylan Thomas home from New York.

The paper said it was certain that the people of Wales would find the sum necessary.

Queen's Yacht To Enter Race

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh have accepted an invitation from the Canadian Yachting Association to send their yacht "Bluebottle" to Canada to take part in a series of races in Montreal and Toronto next summer.

"Bluebottle," a dragon class boat, was given to the Queen and the duke as a wedding present by the Isle of Wight Sailing Club. The duke raced in the yacht during the Cowes Regatta in August.

A palace official was unable to say today who will skipper and crew the "Bluebottle" in Canada but it is probable that her sailing master, Lt. Cmdr. R. L. Hewitt, will be with her.

He has skippered the yacht through this year's sailing season.

Give Final Approval To Regency Bill

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons today gave final approval to a bill to place the Duke of Edinburgh ahead of Princess Margaret in line for the regency.

The measure was given third reading—a formality after the unanimous approval given wednesday on the principle of the bill in second reading.

It now goes to the House of Lords where it is expected to be dealt with quickly.

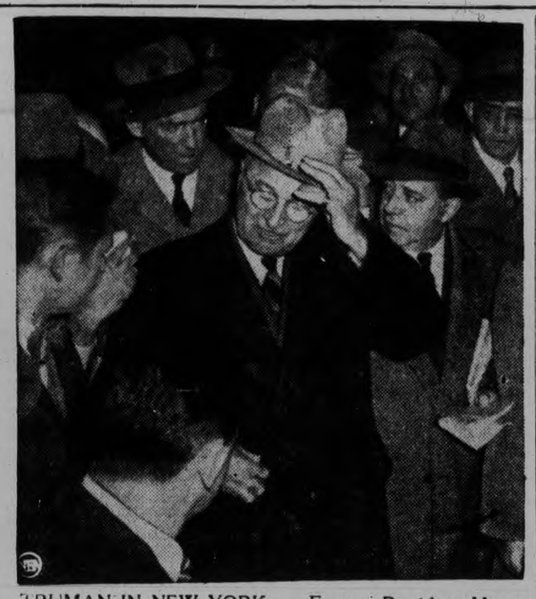
Under the bill, the duke would become regent in the event the Queen should become incapacitated or di before Prince Charles is 18.

Churchill Government Defeated On Issue

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's government was defeated by four votes in the House of Commons Wednesday night. But it was only on a minor issue that would not require the government to resign.

The vote—145 to 141—came late as the opposition side of the House was crowded and there were relatively few on the Conservative side.

The vote was on a Conservative move to annul an order controlling the import of glassware.



Conservative Party Defending Seats

CROSBY, England (Reuters)—The Conservative party today is defending parliamentary seats in by-elections here and in the neighboring Lancashire constituency of Ormskirk, and predicts it will hold both with solid majorities.

The Crosby contest was caused by the resignation of Capt. Malcolm Bullock, the Conservative member, through ill health, and that at Ormskirk through the elevation of Sir Arthur Salter to the peerage.

In the 1951 general election the Conservatives had safe majorities of 14,783 at Crosby and 13,821 at Ormskirk in straight contests with Labor opponents.

The Labor opposition recognizes it is almost impossible to capture these two seats at present, but is hoping to gain some ground in the voting margin.

TRUMAN IN NEW YORK — Former President Harry Truman adjusts his hat as he speaks to newsmen on his arrival at New York City. On the subject of the late Harry Dexter White, Truman told the reporters that he didn't think anybody ever took advantage of him to push a disloyal individual into his administration. "If they did," he said, "I didn't know it."

British Critics Praise Shapiro For Armistice Day TV Play

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — A couple of Canadians, writer Lionel Shapiro and actor Macdonald Parke, won critical acclaim today for their contributions to the British television play, "The 23rd Mission."

Shapiro's Armistice Day story of an American father seeking an airman son shot down in Belgium seven years earlier was seen by Britain's TV millions Wednesday night. Parke, veteran Canadian actor who once played football for Toronto Argonauts, took the part of the father.

"One of the neatest and most touching short plays of the year," writes Daily Express critic Leonard Mosley. He says Parke made the father a "most sympathetic" figure.

PRAISES AUTHOR

Peter Ustinov, one of Britain's most celebrated actor-playwrights, reviewed "The 23rd Mission" as guest critic for The Evening Standard. He describes Shapiro as a "valid and ascendant" author but says the play would have been more successful if it had been less emphatic about what it was trying to do.

"The message was not devoid of wisdom or bauty," writes Ustinov, "(but) the road to it was."

SHAPIRO'S SECOND FOR TV

The play was the second written for British TV by Shapiro, former Montraeal newspaperman who hit the jackpot with his books "Sealed Verdict" and "Torch for a Dark Journey." It is one of the few plays to be telerecorded, going straight from the film cans to the cameras.

Parke, formerly of Cornwall, Ont., and Toronto, has done more than 1,000 broadcasts on British radio.

He has imitated a wide range of accents but specializes in Canadian cowboys.

German Doctor Plans To Separate Twins

DARMSTADT, Germany (AP)—A German surgeon today said he will soon begin initial steps to separate two-year-old Siamese twin girls joined at the skull.

Prof. Wolfgang Rueckert, chief surgeon at a Darmstadt hospital, said the process he plans for separating Rosemarie and Lotte Knaath will take considerable time, possibly several years, before an operation is performed.

He plans to place a band around the section where the girls' skulls are joined to restrict the growth at that point. After the joined portion has narrowed, an operation may be performed.

Examinations have shown the twins have individual brain structures and do not share any major arteries.

Charged In Attack

COBOURG (ENS)—George Hutching, 23, formerly of Peterborough, has been charged with robbery with violence and his case remanded until Friday. The charge is a result of an attack made on Frank Ibbertson, Cobourg, in which the victim was robbed of $15. Ibbertson was attacked at a house party.

Two Cars Collide, One Snaps Telephone Pole

A car driven by Mervin Monteith, 16, of 305 Stewart St., collided with another car Wednesday night on the Wallace Point road and then went out of control, snapping off a telephone pole.

Monteith was driving east on the Otonabee township road, a quarter of a mile east of the Bensfort bridge, when he came into collision with the westbound car of Roy Spears, of RR 11, Peterborough.

The left front of both vehicles collided causing $85 damage. Nobody was injured.

Monteith's car veered onto the south shoulder and clipped off a telephone pole. The accident occurred about 8 p.m.

OPP Constable Douglas Ross investigated.

Goes To Reds

BERLIN (Reuters) — An unnamed British soldier has gone to East Germany and asked for political asylum, the East German news agency ADN reported today. ADN quoted him as saying: "I have come voluntarily and I do not want to return to Britain. I ask for permission to stay and live in your republic. I will do all I can to prove my loyalty towards your government and your people."

Smugglers Caught

LONDON (Reuters)—Mrs. Chaja Glatt was fined £2,000 and given a six-month jail sentence Wednesday for trying to smuggle $33,000 worth of diamonds to Belgium in her girdle. Her husband, Polish-born diamond merchant Hersch Meilich Galtt, was given an 18-month sentence for trying to smuggle the diamonds and for evading duty on $3,000 worth of Swiss watches.

MOSSADEGH'S TRIAL OPENS—Former Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh (left) shouts as his treason trial opens in Tehran. The 73-year-old political leader wept and banged his fists on the table while declaring that he was still the legal premier. He stated that he would never recognize authority of the five-man military court "even if you cut off my head." Mossadegh wore grey pyjamas at the trial. The man at right is not identified.

Contour Plowing Aids Production

TORONTO (CP) — H. A. Smallfield of Guelph said Wednesday night that contour plowing, strip cropping and fertilizers have increased his farm production about 60 per cent in the last seven years.

His farm now supports 40 head of cattle and 40 hogs. Previously it supported 25 cattle and no hogs, he said during a panel discussion at a University of Toronto extension course on soil conservation.

Milk production has gone up 60 per cent since 1947, he said. Shorter rotation of crops and use of legumes and fertilizer, were also helpful in getting increased yields.

Advantages of strip farming, said Mr. Smallfield, are ability to work higher ground while lower ground is still wet, time saved in turning equipment, and less land wasted along fences.

Nixon Makes Hit With South Koreans

SEOUL (AP) — An estimated 50,000 South Koreans braved an icy winter wind today to greet United States Vice-President Richard Nixon on his arrival in this battered capital.

Nixon told top American and Korean officials who met him at the airport that Korea is "the halfway point—and the high point" of his goodwill tour through the Far East, because Korea was where "aggressive imperialistic communism was stopped."

The vice-president and his wife repeatedly stopped the motorcade to shake hands with cold, shy school children who lined the street.

Koreans said Nixon's gesture helped to ease the hurt resulting from President Eisenhower's failure to make a public appearance during his hurried visit last December.

Envoy Flies To Rome To Deal With Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Sir Ashley Clarke, Britain's new ambassador to Italy, left by air today for Rome where anti-British demonstrations over disputed Trieste have clouded relations between the two NATO allies.

His departure time was pushed ahead four days, presumably because of the urgency of the situation.

Bomber Hits House Five People Killed

NAPLES (AP) — A U.S. Navy torpedo bomber crashed into a house on the outskirts of Naples today, killing three Americans aboard and two Italian children in the house.

Dead were the pilot and two American soldiers, passengers on the plane bound from Rome to Naples.

Two small girls, pulled from the debris of the house, died in hospital. The plane's co-pilot and another passenger—also an American soldier — were gravely injured. Four other Italians in the house when the plane crashed also were injured.

Two Planes Collide

Parents Charged With Manslaughter

RICHARD'S LANDING, Ont. (CP)—Clarence Campbell and his wife, Elise, were charged today with manslaughter in connection with the death of one of their seven children. They were remanded to Nov. 18 for preliminary hearing.

The child, two-month-old Percy Campbell, died Nov. 6 a few hours after his father brought him to hospital here. He had not been fed for three days previous to his death, police said.

Children's Aid Society officials today took the other six Campbell children into their care. A 13-month old boy was placed in hospital suffering from malnutrution.

Richard's Landing is on St. Joseph's island, 20 miles southeast of Sault Ste. Marie.

LONDON (Reuters)—The British government has awarded Pye, Ltd. an electrical engineering firm, 20,000 for the wartime invention of the radio fuse, later developed by the United States into the proximity fuse, it was announced Wednesday.

London Paper Lashes British Workers

LONDON (AP)—A columnist for the London Daily Mirror declared today that the American worker makes his British counterpart look like Rip Van Winkle.

"The British workman — long lauded as the finest in the world—is no longer the finest," said William Neil Connor, who writes under the name "Cassandra." He recently returned from a tour of the United States.

He said the British worker "is often one of the laziest. He is also inefficient and opposed to change."

"The American works harder. He is more interested in the job. He is more adaptable. These are sweeping assertions—but they are true.

WANTS TO GET AHEAD

"The American working man has a vast desire to get on—and getting on in America means earning more money and owning more things.

"He delights in inventiveness, takes an almost childish glee in any machine from a 50-ton press to any cute little gadget that will save human toil."

American bosses, too, he asserted, are far more efficient than those in Britain.

"They talk a lot of rubbish at times," he said, "but when it comes to getting on with the job there is nobody to touch them."

111 Passengers Lost Lives On Vestris 25 Years Ago

By MARTIN POST

NEW YORK (AP)—The 10th of November, 1928, was a fine clear day in Hoboken, N. J., as 328 men, women and children—129 passengers and 199 crew—went aboard the British liner Vestris, leaving for South America.

The 10,494-ton ship, Capt. William J. Carey, stood out to sea, creating hardly a ripple in the passing scene. Some said later they could not see her plimsoll mark as she went by. Others remembered she may have had a slight list.

Two days later—25 pears ago today—the liner went down in a storm, taking 111 of her passengers and crew to their deaths.

CLEARED—BUT NOT SAFE

The Vestris had clearance from the U. S. steamboat inspection service, which found her fire-fighting and life-saving equipment in order, and from Lloyd's surveyors, who found hull and equipment generally in good shape. But months later, after extensive inquiry, a court of the British Board of Trade said the Vestris was not in safe condition when she left Hoboken. It said overloading was the chief fault.

Yet no one ever successfully challenged in a United States court the contention of the owners, the Liverpool, Brazil and River Plate Steamship Co. Ltd., and the operators, Lamport and Holt, that the disaster of sea was an act of God, brought on by a lashing hurricane.

Eight years later an American judge declared lawsuits that reached a peak of $5,000,000 were settled. Claimants received £110,000, the equivalent in those days of around $500,000.

SHIP LISTED BADLY

The Vestris ran into freshening weather early Sunday, Nov. 11. The ship began listing three to five degrees to starboard. Slowly the ship began to take on water, the list became more pronounced and the weather grew worse.

At noon Sunday, some 240 miles off the Virginia capes, with the Vestris steering wildly, Carey hove to in a trough of the sea and ordered engines stopped. Water poured into the vessel. Pumps strained ineffectively; even a bucket brigade was tried.

Two heavy seas hit the Vestris a one-two punch Sunday night. Twelve tons of motor cars broke loose and crashed into the seamen's quarters.

At 8:37 a. m. Nov. 12, Carey ordered his chief wireless man to send a "CQ" signal, an alert. Seventy-nine minutes later he flashed an SOS.

BULKHEAD BROKE

At 11:30 a. m. a watertight bulkhead between the engine room and stokehold gave way, and the fight to stay afloat was all but over.

Three boats were lowered to within 15 feet of the water; the screaming women and bewildered, sobbing children were placed in them.

But something went wrong. One lifeboat never got loose and went down with the ship. One was cut free, but capsized. Another got clear but was swamped.

At 1:40 p. m. the wireless man transmitted a "Goodbye." He was not among the survivors.

Other lifeboats and a raft got free of the sinking ship. Male passengers and crew swarmed over the side into waves which sometimes towered 100 feet.

Fourteen hours later rescuers picked up eight boats. A man and a woman were found clinging to debris 18 hours after they left the Vestris.

CAPTAIN, CREW ABSOLVED

The captain was not a survivor. Alone, and without a lifebelt, Carey had walked down the side of his ship into the sea, ending his career of 40-odd years.

The Board of Trade absolved Carey and his officers of any wrongdoing.

Today, a quarter century later, Vestris survivors are hard to find. One is Alfred Duncan of Liverpool, England, who at the age of 27 was a second steward. Says Duncan, now a chief steward:

"I've had a few sinkings since then—that one has gone right out of my mind."

Dunning Farmer Wins World Potato Crown

TORONTO (CP) — The first of eight world championships was decided Wednesday at the Royal Winter Fair although the annual agricultural show does not open its doors until Friday.

Gabriel Kolometz won the world seed potato championship with an exhibit of Irish cobblers, a victory for one of the older strains of potatoes which have been yielding frequently in recent years to newly developed types.

Mr. Kolometz farms at Dunning, near Coehrane in northern Ontario's clay belt. He displaced an other Ontario farmer, Russell E. Hartwick of Walford Station near Sudbury, who captured the award last year.

The new champion was not in Toronto and it looked as if it might take some time to let hik know about his victory. There are no phones in the Dunning area and a trip from Cochrane involves a ferry crossing of the Abitibi river.

Other world champions will be settled Thursday and Friday.

Youth Wounded

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Philip Joaniss, 15, was shot in the neck Wednesday night while he and two other boys were playing with a sawed off .22-calibre rifle. Hospital officials said the boy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Joanisse, is in serious condition. Police said they were questioning the other boys in connection with the shooting.

PORT ROWAN (CP) — The charred bodies of an elderly Port Rowan part-time tobacco worker and the woman with whom he was living were found among the ashes of their 15- by 20-foot shack, destroyed by fire Wednesday.

They were identified by police as John Illes, 59, and Lillian Rogers, 60.

Police said the fire started as one of them poured kerosene into the stove.

Nervous, Tired, Rundown Headaches, Stomach Rebelled

MISS MARGARET HUGHES

Is Delighted with Improvement in Health Since Taking Syntona says Stomach Felt Better from First Few Doses—Then Nerves Calmed Down—Pains Went Away.

There has been such a definite improvement in my health since I've been taking Syntona that I will be only too glad to have other know about my experience," said Miss Margaret Hughes, 526 Talbot Street, London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"About 2 years ago I had a nervous breakdown and was in a very rundown condition. I could not sleep as my nerves were so on edge and I would get up mornings feeling exhausted and worn out. What food I ate would not digest properly, but caused awful gas, indigestion and sour acid risings. I was subject to throbbing headaches and constipation.

TRIED MANY THINGS

"I took all sorts of medicines that were recommended to me for nervousness, but nothing helped me. Then a few weeks ago my father suggested that I try Syntona. So, I got some and from the first few doses my stomach felt better. I was so encouraged that I kept right on taking it, now I am delighted with the improvement in my health. My nerves are calmed down. I sleep well at night, and have no trouble with headaches or constipation. My food digests so much better that I feel I cannot praise this medicine highly enough."

PURE HERBAL COMPOUND

Syntona produces these results without the aid of harsh drugs. It is made only from the Purest Herbs and Roots that have long been known for their medicinal value. Syntona is pleasant to take and results are quickly felt.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough by Elliott's Drug Store.

A-Reactor To Be Back In Action

One For Electricity Being Considered Officials Reveal

CHALK RIVER — (CP) — Canada's powerful MRX atomic-energy reactor, knocked out by a leak last December, will be in operation in a few weeks with new safeguards to prevent similar mishaps.

Dr. W. B. Lewis, vice-president for research and development for Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., says resumption of the atomic-energy pile "is not many weeks off."

Dr. Lewis also said that Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., and the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission are studying possibility of building an atomic reactor to generate electric power.

REACTOR DISMANTLED

The NRX reactor broke down nearly a year ago when aluminum water tubes, used to cool the pile's energy-producing uranium rods, sprang several leaks, allowing radio-active material to escape. The entire reactor had to be dismantled and rebuilt.

Dr. Lewis said Atomic Energy of Canada and Ontario Hydro have started a "feasibility study" to determine whether it would be practical to build an electric-power reactor.

"No firm decision has been made as yet to build such a reactor," Dr. Lewis said. "It's still in the idea stage."

In Ottawa, Trade Minister Howe, who reports to Parliament for Atomic Energy of Canada, said the federal government would bear part of the cost of building a power reactor. The federal share of such a project, however, had not been determined.

ACTUAL CONSTRUCTION

The U. S. Atomic Energy Commission announced Oct. 22 that it plans to build an industrial power reactor during the the next three or four years. The reactor is expected to produce at least 60,000 kilowatts—enough to run a city of 50,000.

Dr. Lewis said if Atomic Energy of Canada and Ontario Hydro decide to build a power reactor, actual construction probably will not start for "a year or two."

The cost of the feasibility study, Dr. Lewis said, would be about $100,000 a year.

FIRM IDEAS

"We have started the feasibility studies, and in due course we will have firm ideas on whether a power reactor should be built," he said. "We also must decide where it should be built."

The power reactor would be separate from three other reactors at Chalk River.

TRAFFIC SMASH AT CHARLOTTE and Reid Sts., intersection today at noon involved a car, foreground, going north on Reid St., on a green light and a small westbound car on Charlotte that finally came to a crumpled stop after hitting a parked fruit truck, behind the Police motorcycle. An estimated $500 damage to each car was the estimate of the policemen who investigated. (Examiner Staff Photo)

Cars Collide At Intersection Friday, 13th

Damage is estimated at more than $1,000 in a two-car accident shortly before noon today at Charlotte and Reids Sts. Nobody was hurt.

A westbound car according to its driver, Mrs. May Thompson, 50 McDonnel St., went through a red light and was struck on the left front fender by a northbound auto driven by Mrs. Muriel Levine, 223 O'Carroll Ave.

Mrs. Thompson's car continued west after the collision and smashed into the rear of a truck parked on the north curb of Charlotte St. The impact drove the truck forward almost 10 feet.

HOOD POPPED OFF

The hood of the Levine car popped off completely and the radiator, bumper and grill were heavily damaged.

On the Thompson car, the front end, including both fenders, the bumper, grill and radiator, were damaged. Constable Don Mackay, who investigated, estimated damage to be at least $500 to each car.

Officers would not say whether a charge would be laid. Constables Jack Wilson and Gerald Emmons assisted in the investigation.

Police Find Stolen Bills

KAPUSKASING (CP)—Four $10 bills, believed part of an $11,000 consignment taken from the Canadian National Railways express office here Nov. 7, were reported to have turned up Thursday in Hearst.

Post office officials in Hearst, 50 miles west of here, said they deposited the money at a bank but did not know who passed it to them.

No record was kept of the post office transactions, which happened Tuesday. Police said the bills were crumpled to give the appearance of age.

The bundle of $5 and $10 bills was brought here by train from Ottawa, destined for the Kapuskasing branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada. It was signed for at the express office in this town, 75 miles northwest of Timmins, and was missed shortly afterwards.

Three Miners Given Beating

TIMMINS (CP)—Violence broke out again in the strike-crippled Porcupine gold mining area today as three miners were beaten and another was warned his car would be dynamited.

Police said they have launched an investigation into the slugging of three Broulan Reef gold miners early this morning. At least three suspects were picked up and questioned.

The three miners, Vernon Peterson, his brother, Wilber, and Lucien Roy, told police they were jumped by eight or 10 men as they left their car at the Peterson home after working the night shift.

Roy was taken to hospital for treatment and was later released. The others did not require hospital treatment.

Earl Snyder, a hardrock miner at Broulan, told officers he was visited by three men at his home Thursday night. He said the men threatened to blow up his car if he did not stop working.

Offer Man House Can Keep Eyes

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Martin will have a house for his wife and six children. He won't have to sell his eyes to do it.

Martin had offered to sell his eyes for enough money to buy a home. They were living in a converted garage and had to be out by Saturday.

Percy Wright, a contractor, said Thursday he has a six-room home for the Martins and they can live rent-free until spring. By that time he will have a low-rent-apartment for them.

Property Badly Damaged Owners Put Up Barricades

LAC DU BONNET, Man. —(CP)—Irate property owners in this southeastern Manitoba town, irked by alleged destruction of their property by a hydro-electric contractor, have set up barricades to halt further work. On some farms nearby, shotgun-carrying farmers are reported to have stopped bulldozers last week pending receipt of compensation cheques. They later got their cheques.

RCMP said today they had no report on the incidents.

In the town itself, 65 miles northeast of Winnipeg, barricades went up while a civic committee was negotiating a damage settlement with the Manitoba hydro-electric board.

MUCH DAMAGE

Residents claimed trees were being destroyed, sewage systems disorganized and gardens wrecked by the contractor, building a road to haul rock-fill for dike-building along the Winnipeg river.

D. M. Stephens, the hydro firm's general manager, said in Winnipeg there is no stoppage of work due to the barricades. The project is completed or nearly completed in most sections.

He said he met with the town's solicitor and others last Saturday "in a friendly and cordial manner" to decide the form of compensation.

"Most of them appeared to favor restoration of damaged property instead of a cash settlement," he said. "It was left to them to submit a proposal to the board."

Meanwhile, some residents put up barricades.

Contractor George Brincheski used the road to deposit gravel and rock piling along a mile stretch of river bank to prevent erosion, expected next year when completion of the board's McArthur falls dam, eight miles downstream, raised the water level 16 feet. More than 60 farms in the area will be affected.

Seven Left Homeless In House Fire

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Four adults and three infants were left homeless by a blaze which swept through a two-storey frame house here today, causing $2,500 damage.

The fire started in the kitchen in the rear of the dwelling, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown, and their sons Gerry, 2, and Ricky, 1. Also extensively damaged were front rooms occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Grant Baker and their daughter, Trudy Ann, 2. Both husbands were at work at the time.

Condemn Scottish Paper For Attack On Philip

LONDON (Reuters) — The Conservative Daily Mail today condemned a Scottish left-wing journal for making a "monstrous attack" on the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Glasgow Forward, an independent Socialist weekly, Thursday criticized the Queen's husband as a "Royal meddler" for making a speech which they interpreted as favoring conscription. Some sections of the Labor party are seeking a reduction in Britain's two-year national service period.

The Daily Mail counter-attacked today with the query:

"Are our Royal personages expected to be mere ciphers or parrots saying only things which are trite or meaningless?

"For the benefit of those who might think otherwise he (the duke) went out of his way to add that his remarks 'had nothing to do with the much-discussed question whether national service is necessary or not from a purely military point of view.'

"The duke is, in fact, a remarkable young man who is deservedly popular with the British people.

"Attacks upon him, especially in the interests of party warfare, will be bitterly resented—not least, we are certain, by the great majority of Labor supporters."

The Labor party itself has refused to be drawn into the controversy. Forward, a spokesman pointed out, is an independent journal over which the party has no control.

5 Factories Swept By Flames

100 Men Battle Difficult Blaze One Wall Collapses

TORONTO—(CP)—A three-alarm fire raged for two hours in a string of factories in west-end Toronto today, severely injuring three firemen and sending loss estimates as high as $1,500,000.

The blaze spread through the four adjoining factories at Queen and Dufferin streets so quickly that firemen had trouble bringing it under control two hours after the outbreak.

Three firefighters, among the 100 men fighting the blaze, were hurt when a wall collapsed and sent bricks and wood tumbling to the street.

LOSS GUESSES VARY

Some reports placed loss at $500,000. However, a fireman at the department's main switchboard said estimates "run as high as $1,500,000."

Taken to hospital were:

Harley Murphy, 31, Robert Wilson, 27, and Roy Bell. Murphy suffered severe internal injuries and a fractured skull, Wilson received severe internal injuries and a broken left ankle, and Bell a cut tendon in his hand.

The blaze, of unknown origin, broke out about 2 a. m. Firemen put out calls to 15 of the city's 28 fire halls for help in keeping it away from chemicals.

SPECTACULAR COLLAPSE

Flames shot 100 feet into the air as firemen played water on the biggest building, a four-storey structure. They were showered with bricks and debris when the fourth storey collapsed.

The fire gutted most of the four factories.

Firemen said they could not immediately identify the companies. They were tentatively identified as the Alloy Metal Company, Chrome Chair Company, Canadian Glass an Ornaments, Gillies Manufacturing Company, and a dye works.

The blaze was checked before it could spread to a separate building nearby. The burned-out buildings were still smouldering at noon today.

Denies Board Aiding Project

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the Canadian defence research board, denied today that the board is associated with an Ottawa research program on flying saucers.

In announcing at Ottawa Wednesday that a detection laboratory is being built near the capital, W. B. Smith, engineer in charge of the broadcast and measurement section of the transport department, said the research board was co-operating in the project.

Today Mr. Smith said that the project is a private one by him and his associates on government property, using available materials and having the full authority of the transport department.

He said Wednesday that the laboratory was being built "in the hope of finding out something tangible about flying saucers." If flying saucers actually exist, the equipment in the laboratory should be able ot detect them.

Dr. Solandt said today the defence department is not planning immediately any research "even remotely connected" with flying saucer research.

Police Locate Missing Head

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said today they have located the head of a man whose mutilated, bullet-pierced body was found Oct. 28 in an east-end lane.

Police said a package containing the head and possibly the hands of the victim was found near St. Gerard de Majella, about 40 miles north of Montreal.

They believed that the discovery will enable them to identify the victim.

A road worker putting up a snow fence stumbled over the paper-wrapped parcel containing the head. It was at a spot not far from where the feet of the victim were found.

Police had been able to establish the man had died from a bullet that pierced both lungs and the heart. The head, hands and feet had been neatly severed, making identification difficult.

Platsville Horse Grand Champion

TORONTO (CP)—Willie, a towering draught Clydesdale belonging to Nile Shantz of Plattsville, Ont., today was judged grand champion draught clydesdale gelding at the Royal Winter Fair.

Neil Campbell's Flash was judged reserve champion. The Melbourne, Ont., breeder's horse was tops in the 1950 gelding foals.

The Shantz horse was best in the heavy draught class of clydesdales and came through against 21 other horses for the grand championship.

Sandy, a 1951 gelding owned by A. Learmonth of Brandon, Man., was best in that class and Joe, belonging to W. F. Batty of Brooklin, Ont., was best light draught horse.

Jailed 15 Years For Manslaughter

L'ORIGNAL (CP)—George Lahaie, 20, was found guilty of manslaughter Thursday and sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary.

He had been charged with murder for the knife-slaying last May 6 of Antonio Lalande, 35. The slender, pale-faced youth wept when sentence was pronounced.

Wednesday Lahaie denied that he deliberately murdered Lalande. Then he told a life story of childhood neglect and deprivation. As he spoke, members of the jury and many others in the courtroom wept.

He said he had been forced to try and help support has 10 brothers and sisters from the time he was six. He had gone barefooted about Ottawa even in winter. For truancy, "Because I had no shoes," he had been sent to the industrial school at Alfred. A woman in Hawkesbury, into whose custody he was released for two years had given him his only real home.

Conservatives Win In 2 By-Elections

ORMSKIRK, England (CP) — The Conservative government held both parliamentary seats in by-elections held Thursday here and at the nearby constituency of Crosby, also in Lancashire.

In Ormskirk, the new Conservative member, Col. Douglas Glover, was given 65.4 per cent of the votes to beat his Labor opponent by a majority of 8,472.

In the Crosby election, Conservative R. Graham Page led the Labor candidate by 11,069 votes. An Independent Conservative, not backed by the party, polled 1,180.

Both seats were regarded as safe for the Conservatives.

In both by-elections, labor gained in voting strength. In Crosby the 1951 Conservative majority was 14,783 in a straight two-party fight.

Man Kidnaps Girl 13, Freed Unharmed

NEW YORK (AP)—A 13-year-old girl was found today unharmed after being kidnapped from her east side Manhattan home and held captive for almost four hours by a scar-faced man.

The girl, Dorothea Del Longo, was wearing only pajamas and a coat when she was forced into a car about 5 a. m. after the man had terrorized her family for an hour.

Police said she reported the man put her out of the car about 9 a. m. after giving her $5. Police said the girl had been riding around in the kidnapper's car for about four hours.

She still was wearing the pajamas and coat when found in Queens.

Police were called and the girl was taken to Elmhurst police station for questioning. A doctor was called in. Police said she apparently had not been harmed.

Police broadcast an alarm for a two-tone green sedan.

The bizarre story was told to police by the girl's stepfather, James Botticelli, 40, superintendent of a five-storey rooming house at 187 East 95th street.

About 4 a. m., Botticelli said, a loud knock on the door awakened the family—Botticelli, his wife, Bertha, Dorothea, and a son, Thomas, 10.

"Who is it," Botticelli asked.

"The law," was the reply.

When the superintendent opened the door, he said the man smashed him in the face with his fist.

The man, about 28 years old, held a hand in his pocket as though he had a gun.

"You squealed on me," he told Botticelli.

NEVER SAW HIM BEFORE

The superintendent said he had never seen the man before.

The intruder seated himself at the kitchen table and then demanded "the money".

"What money?" Mrs. Botticelli asked.

"The rent money," snapped the man.

Then the man began to ransack the apartment. He finally selected a portable radio and a tape recorder.

After forcing Botticelli to pour two glasses of wine and drink with him, the man moved toward the Turpin, whose wife divorced him in June on grounds of cruelty, recently was named co-respondent in a divorce suit by a British policeman.

Big Crowds Cheer Eisenhower's Ottawa Arrival

OTTAWA—(CP)—Obviously pleased to be paying another visit to Canada, President Eisenhower arrived here by special train today for a two-day state visit. The 15-car train arrived 15 minutes late—at 11:45 a.m. EST. It had reached the border 35 minutes behind schedule. The president, wearing horn-rimmed glasses, grinned broadly as cameras popped in his face when he stepped from the rear car to a small platform and a 500-foot red carpet which led through Union Station to the street.

Mr. Eisenhower wore a black suit, dark coat and white scarf and carried a homburg in his hand as he first shook hands with Governor-General Vincent Massey and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

CABINET PRESENTED

Members of the Canadian cabinet were presented to him. When the president shook hands with Trade Minister Howe, he said: "There isn't a day goes by that I don't hear your name."

Mrs. Eisenhower, smiling and laughing, wore a fur cape over a black dress, green hat and pearl necklace and earrings.

She was presented with a bouquet of sweetheart roses and blue orchids by Mrs. St. Laurent. The prime minister's wife wore a broad-tailed fur cape over a black dress.

The president introduced members of his party to the governor-general.

CHEERS FILL STATION

A terrific cheer split the air as the president left the glass-ceilinged train shed and walked into the station concourse.

An overcast sky and chilly temperature did not prevent thousands from jamming into Confederation square in front of the station to welcome the president, who visited here previously in 1946 and 1951, first as U.S. army chief of staff and then as supreme commander, Allied powers in Europe.

1,200 GUARD WALK

After the greetings, the president walked with Mr. Massey through the station, up the stairs and into Confederation square. Their path was flanked by 1,200 "liners" from the army and air force.

A 100-man guard of honor from three armed services snapped to the "present arms" as the president emerged from the station and the band of the Royal 22nd Regiment struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." A battery of guns fired a 21-gun salute.

The president inspected the guard, then walked 100 yards to the National War Memorial where a 100-man guard of veterans was drawn up. The president inspected the guard, then slowly mounted the granite steps to the base of

Eden Says Egypt Disregarded Pledge

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden said today the Egyptian government has disregarded its pledge guaranteeing free parliamentary elections in the Sudan.

"More than this," he continued, "the Egyptians have clearly shown they have no intention of allowing the Sudanese people freely to choose their own future status."

The foreign secretary made the charges in a parliamentary written reply to Brig. O. L. Prior-Palmer, Conservative member of Parliament.

The Sudanese are choosing their first national parliament in an election being conducted by phases until Nov. 25. The million-square-mile territory at the headwaters of the Nile, is jointly administered at present by Britain and Egypt.

Canada Envied, Not Feared By Countries Of World

QUEBEC (CP)—Canada holds in the world the unprecedented combination of being envied and yet "not dreadful to anyone," Dr. G. P. Gilmour, president of McMaster University, said today.

Dr. Gilmour made his comment in opening as chairman a conference on the subject of "Canada's Tomorrow."

The conference is sponsored by Canadian Westinghouse Co., Ltd., to mark its 50th year in business, and the gathering was arranged by a committee headed by Dr. Gilmour. It consists of more than 200 people, chosen as representing a wide section of Canadian life—industry, business, finance, labor, education, culture.

Dr. Gilmour, in his theme of a Canada envied but not feared, added:

"Other people look on us with friendly rather than malicious envy as a most-favored nation whose history, circumstances and temperament are still without hint of aggression or dangerous design.

"They seem to be actually pleased that things are at last going well with us, and they appear to hope that we will not spoil our future or worsen theirs by repeating the mistakes of older nations or by misusing our heritage.

"We are no powder-keg. We sing of ourselves as 'The true north strong and free,' and no man is offended or afraid."

However, continued Dr. Gilmour, Canada herself is not free from dread.

"It is the kind of dread that is born of the dangers and inadequacies we feel within ourselves. We know enough to realize we have obstacles to our progress—geographical, cultural and international; too much space and too few people, and those people now in a national adolescence, that makes us feel awkward and unsure of ourselves."

Missing Ear Returned To Crash Victim

BRANTFORD (CP)—A doctor sewed an ear on the head of a young crash victim early today, 25 minutes after it was found under a bridge and sped 10 miles in paper wrapping to hospital here.

The operation was performed by Dr. W. T. West on 19-year-old Thomas Coulter, after a truck crashed into the bridge at nearby Oakland and injured three persons.

Coulter's ear was severed by flying glass when he was tossed from the vehicle. He also suffered a cut eye. Dr. West said following the operation the youth was "doing all right."

Others hurt were Donald Bowen, 22, the driver, who suffered knee lacerations and shock; and Macklem Cox, 21, forehead lacerations and possible fractured cheekbone. All three are from Wilsonville, 10 miles southwest of here.

After the truck struck the temporary bridge, it swung sideways, throwing both Coulter and Cox clear. An ambulance took the injured to hospital and police organized a search for the missing ear.

Workmen found it in grass under the bridge. An unidentified motorist was stopped and took the ear to hospital, where the doctor was waiting to operate.

May Boost Aid To $1,500,000

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada has offered to boost her contribution to the United Nations technical assistance program to $1,500,000.

Senator Stanley McKeen, Canadian delegate to the fourth technical assistance conference, said Thursday the Canadian government strongly supports the principle of technical assistance.

"Last year the Canadian government contribution was $800,000 which has all been paid in. I am pleased to anpounce on behalf of the Canadian government that it is prepared, subject to parliamentary approval, to raise its contribution to the 1954 program to a maximum of $1,500,000 provided that the support from other contributors in our view warrants such action and provided that the total of contributions is sufficient to keep the program at a level which we regard as economically sound.

"Should either of these conditions not be fulfilled, the Canadian contribution would be adjusted accordingly."

Industrial A-Power Seen In 10 Years

HAMILTON (CP)—Atomic energy will probably be available as a source of power for industry before 10 years, in the opinion of Dr. H. G. Thode, principal and director of research, Hamilton College.

Asked to make a prediction following the announcement Thursday night by Robert Saunders, Ontario hydro commission chairman, of a two-year study of its possibilities for use in this province, Dr. Thode said he was optimistic with respect to the time element.

He pointed out also that other nuclear scientists had lately predicted its availability in 5 to 10 years.

Dr. Thode said the chief problem was to design an atomic power plant commercially more efficient and better adapted to competition than plant designs already existing.

Molotov Says West Big Stumbling Block

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, in a rare press conference, tonight accused the Big Three Western powers of blocking a foreign ministers' conference.

He restated a Soviet demand that if such a conference can be held it must include Red China and deal first and foremost with "measures for reducing international tension."

Vishinsky Charges U.S. Plots Halt Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—(AP)—Russia's Andrei Vishinsky charged today that aggressive American plots against the Soviet Union have created international tensions making disarmament impossible. He listed three main examples of the alleged American policy as the establishment of a ring of air bases surrounding Russia, plans for the remilitarization of Western Germany and thwarting of a Korean peace conference. Vishinsky claimed the United States planned bombing attacks against Soviet cities from its ring of bases.

He told the 60-nation UN political committee Russia "must strengthen our might to reply to any such attack. Are we supposed to be so impotent as not to be able to repel the planned bombing attacks?" he asked.

FAILS TO MAP COURSE

Vishinsky did not say what action the assembly should take. The question of Korea is scheduled for debate at the end of this assembly—probably the first week of December—at which time the UN may take over if the Panmunjom talks have not been successful.

Vishinsky made his charges as the political committee went into a double session in hopes of winding up the arms debate and reaching a vote on a Western call for "private" Big Four talks on atomic control and disarmament.

UN sources voiced optimism that Russia might support the Western proposal for a big-power conference offered by Britain, France and the United States. The Soviet Union has backed similar proposals in the past.

The direct-negotiation proposal apparently was initiated by France's Jules Moch, who suggested Wednesday that the disarmament commission set up a sub-committee of powers "mainly involved in the armaments race" to try to break the deadlock on disarmament and atomic-weapon control.

LONG DEADLOCK

The 12-country commission, currently sitting in New York, has been deadlocked for months by opposing East-West views.

The French resolution proposed that the commission sponsor the talks and urged the Big Four to "seek in private an acceptable solution and report to the disarmament commission."

The Big Four held similar meetings on disarmament in Paris in 1951. Those talks lasted only 10 days without apparent results.

The current resolution, observers pointed out, is more farreaching. In effect it transfers the task of the hamstrung commission to a Big Four sub-committee and places the responsibility in their laps.

SLIGHT CONCESSION

Russia's revised arms-cut proposal was seen as a silght concession. It shunts aside Russia' perennial call for a one-third reduction in the armed force of the U. S., Britain, France, Red China and the USSR.

In general, however, the Russians are following the old line on armaments. They want a ban on atom and hydrogen weapons and strict international control.

The West contends the commission should work out effective control plans first and then see about a ban on mass-destruction weapons.

Pay Increases Not Settled

OTTAWA (CP)—Though the government is known to be considering pay increases in the Commons, members gathering for the new session got no official clue to how much they will get for their four-year term here.

The speech from the throne read at the opening of Parliament did not mention members' sessional indemnities. However, informants said the question is under study by government experts and that legislation to increase the indemnities is fairly certain to be brought in some time during the current session.

The timing of the legislation, these sources said, will depend largely on when the government agrees on the type of increase to be given.

At present, all Commons members receive $6,000 a year, of which $2,000 is tax-exempt. Parliamentary assistants to ministers get another $4,000. Ministers get $18,000 altogether, and the prime minister receives $23,000. The prime minister also lives in a government residence, but he pays back $5,000 a year for this.

Pansy Dandy World Champion Milk Giver

KITCHENER (CP) — Maplewanna Pansy Dandy, a holstein cow, Thursday night became the world's champion milk producer in the senior two-year-old class.

Her production of 8,874 quarts—24 quarts a day for the last 365 days on twice-a-day milking—deposed the previous world champion, a United States holstein named Bobby Rag Apple.

Pansy Dandy, owned and bred by Ward A. Shantz of Waterloo county, set her record under supervision of the federal agriculture department. She gave 22,185 pounds of milk containing 752 pounds of fat with an average test of 3.39 per cent butter fat.

The U.S. champion produced 21,950 pounds containing 738.9 pounds of fat.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A 22-year-old London and Kitchener football star, Alexander M. (Sandy) Auchterlonie died of polio at Victoria Hospital Thursday.

Halfback this season with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the senior ORFU, he became ill Monday and was taken to hospital that night.

He was formerly an all-star halfback with Central Collegiate here and was also a member of London Falcons intermediate ORFU team, and played in city league basketball as well.

A native of Toronto, he lived in London for 21 years. He is survived by his widow and an infant son, Garry.

Family Gets Word From "Dead" Son

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A family of recent immigrants at nearby Harrow has received word from a son they haven't seen for eight years and whom they believed dead.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Loscher, who brought their family to Canada three years ago, said they received a letter recently from their son, Andy, Jr., whom they had believed died while a prisoner of the Russians.

Andy, who served with the German Army during the Second World War, said he escaped from Russia and now is in the American sector of Austria.

Members of the family last saw Andy shortly before he was taken prisoner in 1944. They last heard from him three years ago.

Durham Farmers Win Prize For Judging

TORONTO (CP) — Three more world championships were decided in advance of today's official opening of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

Chris Morck, of Dickson, Alta., won the world title for rye. Mr. Morck, who won in 1950, showed a sample of petkus rye.

The soybean championship this year remained in southwestern Ontario, where it has been won since the award was introduced at the fair. This year's prize went to De Putter Brothers, of Appin. Last year the soybean award was won by Daniel A. Clunis of Ridgetown, a schoolboy who worked on bean cultivator on his father's farm.

The corn award again went to the United States, this time to Frank W. Lux, of Shelbyville, Ind., a district noted for corn production. The variety was hybrid 844-D.

Last year's corn winner was another Shelbyville grower, Charles N. Fischer.

Top award in butter went to the northern Alberta dairy pool at Peace River for the highest scoring exhibit of butter in any section. Reserve winner was Notre Dame creamery at Notre Dame de Lourdes, Man., winner of three section prizes. Other class winners were Seaforth creamery, Seaforth, and the Hibbert Co - Operative Dairy Association, Staffa.

Three Durham county farmers defeated 28 other teams in the intercountry livestock judging competitions for the Jeffrey Bull Memorial Trophy.

The winning team was comprised of Howard Trewin of Burketon, Sam Turner of Bowmanville and Bev Gray of Port Hope. The competition, which covered judging of beef and dairy cattle and swine, horses and sheep, was open to farmers under 26 years of age.

Will Spend More On RCAF

OTTAWA—(CP)—The RCAF is likely to get a larger share of the defence budget next year. Government policy outlined in the throne speech Thursday forecast no relaxation in the defence buildup next year. In the current fiscal year, the government is spending $2,000,000,000 for defence, half the entire budget. Officials say roughly the same sum likely will be appropriated for 1954-55. "We're right in the middle of some phases of our defence program and we naturally can't stop now," one official said. Though stockpiling of some defence materials is over the hump, production of such items as jet fighter planes and radar equipment will continue in top gear.

CONTINENTAL DEFENCE

Officials predict an increased appropriation for the air force They base their reasoning on an increased emphasis on continental defence, especially in light of reported Russian possession of the hydrogen bomb.

In the current year, 41.7 per cent of the $2,000,000,000 defence budget was earmarked for the RCAF compared with 37.6 per cent in the previous year. The army appropriation was cut from 27.2 per cent to 23.7 and the navy's increased slightly from 13.3 to 14.8 per cent. Appropriations for mutual Treaty alliance were chopped from 17.4 to 15.3 per cent and for the defence research board from 2.1 to 1.9 per cent.

Some officials here predicted that the RCAF might get as much as half of next year's defence budget, or arownd $1,000,000,000. This would mean a decrease for some or all of the other defence services and departments. The navy is planning to buy new carrier planes and the army is forming a new division.

Reds Planted Agent In GE Lab

Toronto Man Witness In McCarthy Communist Inquiry

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) —Senator Joseph McCarthy today summoned into closed hearing 10 more workers from the General Electric Company's big Schenectady plant where, the Wiseonsin Republican says, there is a "concentration of Communists".

Seventeen witnesses, including one unidentified Toronto man, appeared Thursday before his Senate investigations sub-committee as it opened inquiry of "alleged Communist infiltration and alleged espionage" at GE' main plant.

Afterward, the senator told reporters he had heard testimony that:

1. There are no secrets from the Communists at GE.

PLANT AGENT

2. A New York City official of the Communist party once said the Reds had planted a man in the hush-hush Knolls atomic power laboratory, which GE operates for the Atomic Energy Commission.

3. It is well known among Red leaders that the Schenectady plant is a prime target for Communist infiltration, and a party cell was established there.

McCarthy did not identify any of the witnesses, but said all 17 were employed at GE or had worked there, and that 15 were or had been members of Local 301, United Electrical Workers (Ind).

COME VOLUNTARILY

A former GE employee who came voluntarily from Toronto to testify told of the Communist plant at the Knolls laboratory and referred to the Schenectady works as a main target for Reds, McCarthy said.

The man joined the Communist party in 1949 but dropped out last February, the Senator said.

The first witness Thursday was Sidney M. Friedlander of Schenectady, identified by GE as a member of local 301's executive board and a shop steward. Friedlander identified himself as a witness.

RADICALLY WRONG

The senator said that the man from Toronto had sworn that Friedlander was a member of the Communist party as late as last February. But, McCarthy added, Friedlander had refused to tell the hearing whether he now is a member.

After the session McCarthy told reporters: "I don't know who is at fault but I do know there must be something radically wrong when so many Communists are concentrated in a defence plant." He gave no estimate of the number.

There was no comment from company officials.

Character War Takes New Turn

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto's "character war" has taken a new turn. Someone bricked up the main entrance to Trinity College.

Ever since university president Dr. Sydney Smith called for more individuality and less conformity among students in a speech last month, the tempo of goings-on has increased.

Two weeks ago the engineers staged a pantie raid on St. Hilda's girls' residence. Then someone stole the architect's model of Trinity's new wing. The Trinity provost, Rev. R. S. K. Seeley, reported his chair missing.

Campus signs surrounding Victoria College and Burwash Hall disappeared.

The bricks were blocking Trinity's entrance early Thursday, No one knew who put them there.

Dr. Smith declined to comment.

Appeal Court Criticizes Trial Judge

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Court of Appeal Thursday criticized a trial judge who instructed a jury hearing a damage action to "put yourself in the driver's seat of the defendant's car . . . and answer the question 'What would you have done..,

The appeal court, which dismissed an appeal by John Piper Murray of Woodstock against $3,000 damages for injuring pedestrian Peter Kralj of London on a highway near Centralia, said what Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly should have told the jury was:

"The standard by which a driver is judged is the care that would be exercised by an ordinary prudent man."

NO INJUSTICE

It was not the standard of any individual juryman—"but is the standard of what a reasonable or prudent man would do or would refrain from doing in the circumstances of the particular case."

However, the appeal court was of the opinion that no injustice had been done, even though the jury had been misdirected on one point. The appeal court judges said the defence did not object to this part of the trial judge's charge at the trial.

Russians To Get Love

Passionate Not Milksop Type Now Demanded

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

MOSCOW (AP)—Along with all the promised new iceboxes and vacuum cleaners, the Russian people are due to get a lot of real love in Soviet novels and plays.

The magazine Theatre says the Soviet people want love on the Russian stage—passionate love and not any old milksop stuff.

There will be love in novels, too, and it will be the passionate, real thing. On this score, Komsomolskaya Pravda, the Young Communist newspaper, has discussed a novel by Nikolai Toman called "Secret Agent," a theme popular with Russian adventure story writers.

This novelist has the hero and heroine meet in a railroad club. Obviously there are stirrings of the grand passion in the offing. The two go for a walk. The heroine is pensive. She is looking soulful as she walks hand in hand with her hero. And what does her hero whisper lovingly into her ear? Here's the passage:

"'You know,' said Sergei after a long pause, 'there is something wrong with our schedule.'"

ALL WRONG

He meant the railroad schedule, of course. But, says the Komsomolskaya Pravda critic, this is all wrong. It's not natural.

Theatre magazine takes up the same theme, in great detail. In an article entitled "Note on the personification of love on the stage," the magazine reviews the old masters and how they handled love.

The article says actors and playwrights these days do not always handle love well.

"Actors," says the article, "can do nearly everything, but they have forgotten how to cry, to worry, to love and hate passionately. This, of course, is an obstacle to their fully exposing the social idea of the character. Soviet audiences expect from our actors and playwrights characters who personify great passionate love."

Boss Assigned Correspondent To Moscow

MOSCOW (CP)—G. W. (Bill) Boss, Canadian Press correspondent in two wars, has been assigned to Moscow.

After three years covering Canadian troops in Korea, Boss has arrived in the Soviet capital from Tokyo to report the Russian scene for CP's 92 daily newspaper members.

He will be the Canadian news association's first resident staff correspondent in Russia. His reports will supplement those of The Associated Press and Reuters which now appear in The Examiner through CP.

Foreign assignment is nothing new to Boss, a 36-year-old native of Ottawa who speaks five languages—not counting a smattering of Russian.

He joined CP as a war correspondent in Italy in 1944 after an army career with the 4th Canadian armored division and the 1st Canadian corps. He accompanied the corps to northwest Europe and remained there after the war, reporting on the Canadian occupation force, repatriation, and European recovery.

SERVED IN BUREAUX

He returned to Canada in 1946, served in five CP bureaux from New York to Vancouver, was assigned to London in 1948 and in 1950 travelled 10 countries from Scandinavia to Italy.

His three-year reporting job on the Canadians in Korea began when he sailed with the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricias, in November, 1950. Except for two jaunts across the world to look in on Canadian service men in Europe—he has just completed a reporting visit to the 27th Brigade in Germany—he has been in Korea ever since.

U.S. Delegation Halts Daily Press Briefings

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The American delegation has cancelled its daily press briefings, and put a new information policy into effect.

The drastic step was taken in the wake of published complaints from UN correspondents that relations with the American delegation headed by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. had been reduced almost to the vanishing point.

Under the new policy, correspondents were informed that if they have questions of "an urgent nature" they can telephone a U. S. delegation secretary stationed in the delegate's lounge. She, in turn, has been instructed to attempt to locate a U. S. press officer and arrange for him to make contact with the questioning correspondent.

Start Erecting Roof For Rink At Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS)—With the arrival of the special wooden arches for the rink, erection of the roof will be under way by the end of the week. Replacing the recreational centre which burned down last August, the new one will be much more fire-resistant, with a fire wall at the auditorium righ up to the roof. In the diastrous fire of August, a wooden wall between the auditorium conveyed the flames to the rest of the building so that fire ranged from end to end in a very short time.

Instead of the composition roof in the previous building, the roof of the new one will be of aluminum sheeting with insulation underneath.

COBOURG (ENS)—Chief Constable H. Pearse and Earl Hamilton, who have never failed to get a deer for many past seasons, didn't bag a thing on their recent hunting trip back north. In fact they didn't see a deer to shoot at. Provincial Constable Lyle Erskine was another one in the party who failed to get a deer, but Provincial Constable Cy Meadows, also of Cobourg, shot two deer in one day and got his third next day.

Churchill Just Laughs Off Minor Technical Defeat

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill has just laughed off his government's technical defeat on a minor measure in the House of Commons. He said he would gather sufficient Conservative forces to put the matter right.

He had a field day with the Labor opposition who manoeuvred a four-vote defeat of the government Wednesday night on a Labor motion to restore import controls on cut glass.

Labor members howled "resign" as the prime minister strolled into the House Thursday an impish grin lighting his face. But he soon had the House—both the government and Labor side—rocking with laughter.

SHARP WORK

Churchhill with a chuckle began by accusing Labor of pulling "a rather sharp piece of work," by their 145-141 vote against the government.

He said everyone—including himself—had gone home when a reserve detachment of 13 Labor members "emerged suddenly from the cellars and other hiding places and were able to play a noticeable part in parliamentary business."

He admitted the Conservatives had done the same sort of thing when Labor was in power. As for the defeat, he said, the government would put it right by a new order. When not caught off base, his government has sufficient votes to pass any measure.

The new order, Churchill said, will revoke import controls on cut glass "which would otherwise have been reinstituted on the responsibility— might say the irresponsibility—of the party opposite."

Farmers Help Follow Clues

LLANGINNING, Wales (Reuters) The farmers of this Welsh valley banded together today for a mass search in a murder case that has defied police for a month.

The 200 farmers are seeking clues—possibly the murdered remains—of their life-long neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. John Harries, who vanished without trace from their farm Oct. 17.

In small parties, the searchers began at dawn to probe every inch of more than 100 square miles of the surrounding valley.

Directed by detectives from London, the farmers were told to look for "anything that is horrid and eerie."

"Don't look only for bodies; you might find parts of bodies," police told them Thursday night at a meeting.

An Unexciting Speech

It is well that the opening of Parliament yesterday had a bit more colour than usual because the Speech from the Throne was more colourless than usual. That is not the fault of Mr. Massey who read it, nor of the Government which prepared it. It is a result of the times. In periods of stable, efficient government, of thriving economic conditions, of no more than the usual international wrangles, and of steady expansion, government policies are never startling. The recipe is: more of the same. That is what was given us in the Speech from the Throne yesterday outlining general proposals for legislation and the condition of affairs. It is not exciting, but it is satisfactory.

* * *

From the point of view of taxpayers the statement that "My ministers therefore consider it would be unwise for the free nations to slacken our efforts to build up and maintain the necessary strength to deter aggression and they intend to continue to work to that end" —that statement shows that there is no intention of reducing expenditures for defence. These take about half the money the Government gets from the taxpayers—the defence budget last year was for two billion dollars. In a statement made last week Mr. Abbott offered no hope of tax reductions in the next budget. The money needed for defence, social services and government operation is not becoming less, and therefore taxation cannot be reduced unless production (on which much of it it based) increases. However, Mr. Abbott has his own example of the last budget. Taxes were cut (income tax by about eleven per cent. and corporation taxes by about nine per cent.). Production has increased, so have the government revenues. In the first six months of this year a surplus has accumulated of more than $200 million.

* * *

The most important legislative action pending seems to be the amendment of the Bank Act and the National Housing Act, and the completion of the revision of the Criminal Code. Of local interest will be the amendments to the Municipal Grants Act. Administratively the most important concern of the Government will be Canada's external trade. The announced intention to continue efforts to reduce trade restrictions will meet with the approval of all Canadians who believe that Canada's prosperity depends largely on its foreign markets. Already an important administrative step has been taken in this area—the establishment of a permanent joint Canadian-U.S. committee on trade and economic affairs. Since it will be composed of senior cabinet ministers of both countries, the economic policies it advocates and the rough trade ways it smooths between the two countries, will have more than advisory significance.

* * *

A piece far down in the Speech reflects the glow of a great battle over natural gas which is now blazing. Parliament will be asked to give the Board of Transport Commissioners jurisdiction over "all companies authorized to build or operate inter-provincial or gas pipe lines". There is bound to be smoke in Parliament over this issue and the intention to consider and treat the gas pipe line (whatever is built or operated) as a common carrier (like the railways) has interesting possibilities of control.

* * *

It was a dull Speech, but its very dullness is a refraction from the prosperous times behind and an indication of good times immediately ahead. The Speech was almost entirely concerned with material progress and international commitments. There were bland statements that "Canada continues to enjoy general prosperity". It would probably be asking too much of a business-like government to refer Parliament to the state of Canada's cultural health. Is the Massey Report to be allowed to gather dust during the new session?

No Earphones In Parliament

Canada has two official languages. Debates in Parliament may be conducted in either French or English, and Hansard is printed in both languages, as are all statutes. The Ottawa Citizen remarks:

> It seems therefore a reasonable proposal that the debates should be simultaneously translated into both languages, using similar techniques to those employed as assemblies of the United Nations and at other international meetings. One result would be to enable the majority of English-speaking members and senators to follow the speeches of their French-speaking colleagues, instead of having to wait until the translations appear in the English edition of Hansard. Whether such a move would dissuade these members from trying to understand the original French and thus tend to retard rather than advance the cause of bilingualism is a question that only experience can settle.

We strongly condemn the propsal; we would not give experience the chance to test it. Canada is not a United Nations or its parliament a babble of polyglot. It is one country with two main heritages and two languages. Let parliamentarians (and Citizen reporters) acquaint themselves with the two languages as well as with the traditions, and get on with their business in Parliament as men of the same native land. The only earphones that should be allowed in Parliament are the kind one turns a deaf ear to. When our parliamentary debate is carried on through the intermediary of thin tones distorted by lines of wire, the next step would be to save members of parliament the bother of assembling at all; they could carry on their artificial intercourse by remote control from their living rooms at home and let some dictator run the country.

The RCMP Attend The President

The bulky young men of the American Secret Service are, we are happy to learn, not riding the wings of the Vice-Regal car which takes President Eisenhower and his wife around Ottawa on their visit to the capital. American authorities who busy themselves with the security of the President have been firmly told that when President Eisenhower is on Canadian soil, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will accept the responsibility for his safety, and the big bruising outriders and bristling cavalcade which ordinarily attend the President when he visits American cities can stay at home.

Ottawa is in Canada, and the RCMP are quite competent to attend to whatever minor security measures have to be taken to guard the person of a distinguished visitor. It sometimes amuses Canadians to see the elaborate and menacing guard which is mounted, trots around and spread-arms people and President in the U.S. It is not amusing when this spectacle is transferred to Canada. The Governor-General, the Prime Minister and other important Canadian figures move easily and unguarded about Ottawa. The President needs no armed posse hovering over him and Ottawa day and night during the forthcoming visit. Adequate precautions have of course been taken, but discreetly, and by our own police.

We are relieved that Ottawa authorities have been firm in asserting the Canadian way of doing things, and they have sent the Washington agents, who came to prepare the way, home with instructions that all we really want to see are the President and his wife, not a company of Washington guards and secret service men.

All Canada welcomes today, with warm pleasure, the head of the American State and Mrs. Eisenhower. Today Canada stands on guard for them, all hats off, and the hand of real friendship extended in salute to them.

Armistice Day Parade

The parade in Peterborough on November 11th has been remarked on by more than one casual visitor to town that day, for its simple sincerity, its decorum, and its numbers. It was a good tribute and a good civic reminder. Parades are not, and should not, always be displays of pomp or processions of propaganda. One small child—too young for school but old enough to gather impressions—described it afterwards to his mother: "Soldiers, big horns, boys from ships, men with ribbon on their coats, and no clowns".

It was not a circus parade, it was not bally-hoo; it was a recollection of poignant memories and a tribute by men and women to their service and their comrades in it. That so many should assemble to parade without fustian was a public demonstration of continuing faith in their country and their sincerity in keeping faith with their comrades. Old veterans and young cadets attested Peterborough's allegiance and the devoted unity of this place, without affectation, with dignified integrity. The thousands of citizens and children watching understood, and were drawn together. The past should not be forgotten and children should hear the step of history on their own main street.

NOTES AND COMMENT

All the world's a stage—and badly cluttered up with clowns.

A judge in Michigan recently sent a woman to jail for refusing to talk. Surely he should have sent her for psychiatric examination.

French car manufacturers announce a steering wheel which "bends forward in an accident, smashes the windshield outward and cuts off the ignition to prevent fire". Good; now we shall wait for the steering wheel which takes over the job from the drunk, the careless or the mentally crippled creature behind it.

THE AMERICAN SCENE

How They See Sir Winston

By ROBERT STEPHENS

THE AMERICAN public's attitude towards Sir Winston Churchill is now curiously equivocal. He is regarded by many here as at one and the same time the world's greatest elder statesman and, just a wonderful and delightful old gentleman with a bee in his bonnet about meeting Mr. Malenkov.

Sir Winston's personal prestige here, already tremendous, has been further enhanced by the award to him of the Nobel Prize for literature which has coincided with the publication in the "New York Times" and "Life" magazine of the first instalments of the sixth volume of his war memoirs. But at the same time this prestige does not seem to lend weight to Sir Winston's ideas on a meeting with the Russians. American opinion tends to treat these ideas quite separately with something of the respectful and regretful reserve accorded to a personal aberration by an old friend.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN American official quarters here considerable alarm has been aroused by suggestions in the British Press that Sir Winston should "go it alone" to see Malenkov. Although the United States Government was pleased with the results of the recent London conference between the American Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles, and the Foreign Secretaries of Britain and France, Mr. Anthony Eden and M. Georges Bidault, it is still a good deal concerned about the strength of feeling both on right and left in Britain and elsewhere in favour of Mr. Churchill's proposal for top-level talks with the Russians. It is worried by the reported growth of anti-American feeling in Europe caused by the suspicion that American "intransigence" is blocking the way to a new understanding with Russia.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT for a variety of reasons, none of which can fairly be said to spring from a desire to block the road to peace, the official view here is still opposed to any Big Four meeting, at least at this stage. An independent visit to Malenkov by Sir Winston would be regarded as something of a diplomatic disaster. It is believed that nothing good that Sir Winston might achieve in heart-to-heart talks with Malenkov would outweigh the harm that would be done to the essential unity of the Western Powers.

✧ ✧ ✧

KING PAUL and Queen Frederika of Greece are now well launched on their official visit to the United States which is to last nearly a month and to take them right across the continent from Washington to San Francisco and from Detroit to New Orleans. They are being "given the whole works," from the White House to a typical farm house and from the United Nations General Assembly to the considerably more productive assembly lines of the great Ford motor plant at River Rouge.

The traditional American interest in royalty is increased in this case by a special "big brother" feeling towards Greece. Americans tend towards a sentimental attachment to small countries, like that of nineteenth-century English liberals, especially if their governments take the line, so popular here, of uncompromising anti-Communism.

✧ ✧ ✧

GREECE AND TURKEY, which were the first countries to benefit from the "Truman Doctrine" of aid against Communist aggression and which between them have received some two million dollars worth of military and economic aid from the United States, are today very much the favourite children among America's allies.

The Greek royal couple were preceded here by a spate of rather fulsome publicity which their actual presence seems to have survived pretty well. Queen Frederika especially has the kind of lively personality that Americans like.

✧ ✧ ✧

AT a recent meeting of leading businessmen and scientists from the American Electrical industries, one of the speakers, Dr. Allen B. Du Mont, forecast that within five years fifty million television sets will be in operation in the United States, with a gradual swing over from black and white to colour TV. He foresaw what he called a "telectronic age," with the large-scale development of TV for many educational, commercial and industrial purposes, quite apart from mass entertainment.

✧ ✧ ✧

PEOPLE HERE, especially those with more highbrow tastes, or those who have not yet hardened themselves to the intrusion of "commercials," take a desultory and rather wistful interest in the current controversy in Britain as to whether or not the British should have commercial television as well as the B.B.C. programmes. Several American friends, who look upon the British as still having a fighting chance in a battle which over here is already hopelessly lost and who fear that I might go back to Britain as devotee of the victorious American way of TV, have been at pains to try to show me the worst that commercials can do. There is no doubt that they can be intensely irritating and very difficult to escape. Yet the quality of some American TV programmes is very high. "Life" magazine has been having a look a Britain's present TV programmes on behalf of its American readers and delivers its verdict as "generally dull—but with superb moments."

✧ ✧ ✧

ALTHOUGH there is a flourishing two-way traffic—and has been for several decades between the theatres of America and Europe, it is still an extremely risky business to predict whether or not a stage success will survive an Atlantic crossing. The latest illustration of this is the Broadway flop of the play "The Little Hut," which has now been withdrawn after a very brief run. "The Little Hut" is a comedy about an eternal triangle which changes sides on a desert island, written by the French playwright, Andre Roussin, and translated into English by the English novelist, Nancy Mitford. It was a great success in London and Paris but was coldly received by the New York critics. Perhaps heavy handed acting by the New York cast was the cause, so some critics suggested, yet one cannot help sympathizing with the producers. They must have felt little doubt that this play in particular would have little trouble in pleasing New York's traditional taste for sophisticated comedy.

Research For Canada's Prosperity

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

AS the world moves into the atomic age, Canada cannot afford to relax in the expectation that uranium, together with its other great resources, will ensure the continuance of a somewhat fortuitous prosperity. The United States and Britain, increasingly interested in the peacetime uses of atomic energy, seem to be giving more encouragement than does Canada to both private and public research. With much industrial plant renewed, Germany and Japan are sharpening the competition in foreign markets. Mr. J. W. Murphy, MP, whose riding boasts of the Dow and Polymer enterprises in "Canada's Chemical Valley," is sponsoring a timely motion for a non-political parliamentary committee that would survey research in Canada and consider an expansion of grants and tax concessions to promote it further.

The phenomenal rise of Germany as an industrial power in the decades before the First World War was due in large measure to the team work of industrialists and scientists. New products were made from coal, for example and Germany soon led the world in artificial dyes. The newest methods in metallurgy were employed. Britain's relative decline resulted partly from its being stuck with older equipment and from a lag in research that is only now being overcome. Today the Americans are spending generously for the invention of new processes and manufactured goods.

In the post-war period, Canada finds itself with a much enlarged industrial capacity, and it depends heavily on foreign trade. Governments and corporations, the National Research Council, the Atomic Energy Control Board, and the universities, are all busy trying to ensure the effective use of natural resources and the economical efficient operation of both agriculture and manufacturing.

But the federal-provincial division of powers creates difficulties unknown in a unitary state like Britain. The federal government does not control natural resources or education in the provinces. In several fields it must advance the national interest indirectly, haltingly, and often against political obstruction like Quebec's rejection of grants to the universities. Meanwhile, the universities are starved for funds, and each year a good many highly-trained Canadians seek opportunities in other countries.

Mr. Murphy's motion could lead to parliamentary action that would give greater encouragement to applied research. It shows an awareness, however, of the concern in the United States that fundamental research may be neglected. Unless universities have sufficient funds for their basic work of expanding general knowledge, progress in the application of science slows down, and a nation falls behind its better-grounded competitors.

British Investment In Canada

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

THERE are a number of disturbing features in Canada's outlook. But one of the heartening things is the surprisingly great volume of British investment that has been pouring into this country.

British investment in Canada has been running at a rate about four times that of last year. This is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that last year's total marked an increase on the three preceding years. It is possible that British investment in Canada for 1953 may amount to $238,000,000.

This money is going into a great variety of ventures. Some of it will set up retail stores. Some of it will finance ventures in oil, timber, base metals and manufactures.

The scale of this investment and the rate of its increase are welcome indications of the growing strength of the British economy. Philip Weate, writing in the London Financial Times, says that the "new projects are considered in London with a confidence and a breadth of vision reminiscent of the last century."

This may be a rather excessive appraisal. Yet the projects certainly show a keen desire to play a part in the development of Canada's impressive resources. And as the return on this investment will go to Great Britain, it should help to strengthen Britain's holdings of Canadian dollars and to counteract in some part, that dollar shortage that has largely destroyed Anglo-Canadian trade.

Marrying Hostesses

(Wall Street Journal)

"In a normal year," says a spokesman for United Airlines, "the turnover of airline hostesses is among the highest for any group in industry."

Last year, airlines established that one-third of their girls had to be replaced. Main reason: A rule that hostesses cannot fly if they are married. "We don't regard it as a problem any more," explained another airline official. "It's the price we pay for hiring intelligent and attractive young women."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made. . . And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat, and gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat. (Gen. 3:1, 4-6.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of? (Isa. 2:22.)

✧ ✧ ✧

But be ye glad and rejoice for ever in that which I create: for, behold, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing, and her people a joy. And I will rejoice in Jerusalem, and joy in my people: and the voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying . . . And they shall build houses, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat: for as the days of a tree are the days of my people, and mine elect shall long enjoy the work of their hands. (Isa. 65:18, 19, 21, 22.)

Letter To The Editor

MORE DIALECT

SIR: I was interested in your reprint of the article "Discussion of Dialect" in your issue this evening and a few examples of dialect coming to my personal notice in course of the years might be of interest to readers, so here they are.

Lying in a bed in a military hospital in Camiers, France, in June, 1916, where the other 59 patients in the ward were English, a bottle was spilt near me for the contents to trickle down the slightly sloping floor to where three nurses stood in conference with each other. As the water eventually reached them, one said to the other two "What is that?" The English orderly standing near by to mop it up said, "Yon man on yon bed spilt waiter (water) Miss". I think through using the word "yon" that he was Yorkshire born.

A fellow employee of mine at one time was in a quandary and said to me "what we better we do?" I know him to have been born in Devonshire.

This one pertains to Somerset: "Thee cas'nt see so well as couldst, cast?"

In the Red Cross Hut at Bearwood convalescent Hospital in Berkshire in 1916, a local elocutionist gave us a poem in Berkshire dialect, the refrain of which went as follows:

"I sez Garge, I love ee, I love ee true."
Garge sez, "What for dost thee love I?"
I sez, "Cos I do."

I was once accosted by a lad in the county of Somerset who endeavoured to recall for me the incident of a boy losing his temper over a jackknife. This is what he said: "Cast thee remember thic ther day when thic ther boy threw this ther knife into thic ther water."

In Devonshire it seems to be common to say of a man, "Er know er does." Quite the reverse in Ontario when men will say to ladies as well as to men, "Yes Sir! it happened."

Yours truly,
W. J. COTTRELL.

NEW HIGHWAY 28 BRIDGE across Eel's Creek, north of Haultain at the Tourist Park, replaces narrow structure at right, will also straighten dangerous dogleg in road. Deer hunters park their cars here and hunt in the bush to the left.

Building Two New Rectories Deer Hunting Keeps Apsley People Busy

Always a busy little town during the deer hunting season, Apsley is more than that this year. Two church rectories and a Department of Land and Forests office are under construction as well as a new highway bridge over Eel's creek, south of the village.

When the Anglican minister, Rev. W. T. Boddy with his wife and son, arrived in Apsley last June, they met with to say the least, a ramshackle dwelling. Nothing was said however, and the minister and his wife started fixing up their allotted house. They were disappointed no doubt, but made the best of things.

Then soon after their arrival the congregation, consisting of about 55 families, startled the couple by announcing that a project was underway which would soon give them a new rectory.

To Mr. Boddy this seemed like quite an undertaking for such a small group of people and he doubted that the good intention would ever materialize. Today, after about two weeks work, the new home is in the shingling stage and will be ready to move into before spring.

SHARE WORK

All the men of the congregation are sharing the work, and supplying the material. Lumber, sand, stone, and even trucking facilities are being donated. Jack McFadden, who is supervising the job, offered two weeks service free as his donation to the project.

The house will be a two storey, frame building complete with furnace, and is situated directly behind the old rectory.

The minister and his wife were overwhelmed, not only at the generosity of the people, but at their determination. Needless to say, they are well satisfied with their new ministry in Apsley.

But St. George's Anglican church isn't the only church in Apsley that is building. The congregation of Apsley Trinity United, also numbering about 50 families, is also undertaking the construction of a new rectory. Although details are skimpy at present, the foundation has been laid and plans are being drawn for the completion of the building. Ross Reynolds, an Apsley man, is supervising the construction and the materials and labor are being donated by church members. Mr. Cleveland Robb is the present United church lay minister there.

FOUNDATION DONE

Foundation work has been completed on the Lands and Forests new office and garage building which is being constructed on the headquarter property. When the building is completed, the old office will be converted into storage space.

A new concrete bridge is under construction on Highway 28, about three miles north of Haultain where Eel's creek crosses the road. It is being built just west of the old bridge and is part of the road straightening program being carried out by the Department of Highways.

The Red Cross outpost at Apsley has been a busy institution during the last couple of weeks. The present nurse, an English immigrant of three months, Miss Beryl has been working night and day.

"Yes, I've only been here three months, but if this grind keeps up, I'll soon be going back," she said. Once the deer hunting season is over, the patient list usually diminishes however, and Miss Price will be able to catch up on some much needed rest.

Wooden Pencil Still Permits Nickle To Keep Self Respect

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — In some snobbish circles a man's social rating today is determined by four things: The size of his car, the breed of his dog, the fur his wife wears, and the number of tricks his pen will perform.

This has led some worried friends of the wooden lead pencil to ask:

"Why can't it keep up with the times, too? It will go the way of the dodo."

Well, we have just had a long talk with Clyde Nissen, the tall, pencil-slim executive vice - president of the Lead Pencil Manufacturers Association, who assured us that the lead pencil is still in fine shape.

"To being with," he said pointedly, "the wooden lead pencil was able to write under water years before the pen, and can still do it better.

KEEPING PACE

"There have been more changes and improvements in the lead pencil in the last 20 years than in the entire motor car industry. But it has been trained to do more kinds of real war, not just tricks." The industry turned out 1,247,000,000,000 wooden lead pencils last year in some 350 types and styles. What can they do?

"We have pencils that will write on white hot steel," said Nissen, "paint water color pictures, outline the operation area on the skin of a hospital patient, mark stockyard beef, erase rust and touch up the paint on your auto, cut into stone, play a phonograph record, write on glass, plastics, film and chinaware, retouch furniture scratches or stained wallpaper."

EVEN SAVE LIVES

One pencil is so slender it is sold as a bookmark. There even is a "kosher pencil," guaranteed free of pork-derived products, developed for kosher butchers. Pencils, used to tighten tourniquets, have proved livesavers to accident victims.

"And the wooden pencil is still the only writing instrument that enables the nickel to keep its feeling of self-respect."

Of course, you knew all the time there isn't any lead in a lead pencil, and never has been?

Hamilton Lashes Windsor With 7-2 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sault Ste. Marie, (Mich.) Indians switched coaches and the move paid off.

Under bench boss Don Grosso, Indians could manage only one victory in their first nine games of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series. Last Friday Hub Macey took over and since then the Indians have won two consecutive games—both impressive victories.

Thursday night they defeated Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds the red-hot league leaders, 6-4. The Greyhounds won the previous two meetings with the Indians.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series, Hamilton Tigers defeated Windsor Bulldogs 7-2 in Hamilton to move into a fourth-place tie with the Bulldogs.

PETE SCORES THREE

Centre Laurie Peterson, who fired three goals in the second consecutive game, enabled the Indians to move into sole possession of fourth place in the NOHA loop. Jackie Heon, Gordon Kerr and Hank Backor scored the others.

Jim McBurney, Terry Biocchi, Johnny Ubriaco and Carl Smelle were the Hound marksmen.

Tigers fired three goals in 51 seconds while three Windsor players were in the penalty box to run away with their victory. Gordon netted a pair for Hamilton. Eric Unger, Bud Kemp and Murray Comfort scored the other goals for the Tigers. Lyle Wiseman and Frank Bathgate were the Windsor snipers.

Tonight Sarnia is at Niagara Falls, Stratford at Kitchener and Owen Sound at Chatham. North Bay is at Sudbury in the only NOHA game.

Orfuns play tomorrow aft in Montreal in the Eastern Canada intermediate grid final. We're going down at Examiner expense to cover the big playoff, and no doubt a number of club officials and some fans will take it in, too. At their expense. CRU only goes good for a party of 28, and Orfuns have about three dozen players, not to mention the coach trainer, equipment men, etc. However, all players will be taken, some at club expense. CRU actually has said just $700 would be guaranteed, plus 20 per cent of the gate if the gate warrants it. Let's hope it does, and Orfuns might break even financially on the jaunt. Winner of this test plays host next weekend to Fort William in the Canadian football final.

Welland and PCVS clash at two tomorrow afternoon in Riverside in a sudden-death game for the COSSA senior "A" championship. Warning the strong Welland squad not to be overconfident in this fray, the St. Kitts' columnist comments: "The Liftlock City has turned out some cracking good teams, aces of which went on to star for Queen's in the past, and until the 1950 era the best units St. Kitts could gather lost out to the Petes. They are well coached by Bev Goulding, one of the ranking topnotchers in COSSA ranks. Petes had to rebuild from ground up during recent years, and they may make it now, as Welland Tigers could find." So, there it is, grid fans.

Re That Kearns Trophy

The Charlie Kearns Memorial Trophy is about to be put into circulation finally, if recreation commissioner Alex Sinclair has his way. Alex has the fine gold trophy at present and suggests that a committee be formed to pick the outstanding local athlete of the year (combined with sportsmanlike play) with the presentation to be made at the civic sports' banquet later this year. Have the name engraved on the trophy, which the athlete keeps for one year. A sound idea. The trophy was put up by the Petes' ball club in memory of their popular ace rightfielder, Chuck Kearns, who was drowned in Rice Lake in 1941. With athletics nearly dear here during the war, nothing was ever done with the trophy. We feel it is high time it was put in circulation now.

Latest edition of the Canadian Sport Monthly magazine, dealing with NHL rookies of this season, has this to say: "Ike Hildebrand of New York Rangers is one of the smartest little hockey players to enter the National Hockey League for a long time. He's as scrappy as they make them. Ike was born in Winnipeg 26 years ago. He stands 5'7½ and weighs 155. One of Canada's outstanding lacrosse players. He topped the American League in goals last season with 38. He also had 34 assists for 72 points in 64 games. A right-winger, he is slated to play on a line with Don Raleigh and Nick Mickoski." Local OLA senior fans will be glad to know Ike is doing okay in the NHL.

It's K's and the Petes

Provided the Petes' puckists snap back to the form they showed in Kingston a week ago when they beat the champ Goodyears, Eddie Redmond's men can pull out another victory o'er the K's here tonight. But not if they play as they did last start in Bella Villa when the Memos humbled 'em. It's quite a senior "B" race and anything can happen in any game. Kingston has such w.k. players as Johnson, Nicholson, Londry, Watts, Goodfellow, Stewart, Sweetman, Latimer, Tinkess, McKeown, Reid, Atkins, Tindal, Bellringer, Murray, White, McGregor, Wager, Joyce, Partis, Ohlke, Aitken, Anson, Myke and others. Always tough they'll extend the Petes plenty in this fray but we have a hunch the locals will down 'em again.

* * * * * *

Hildebrand Finds National League Tough Business

By BEN OLAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Ike Hildebrand, a unanimous choice on last year's American Hockey League all-star squad, is convinced that they don't call the NHL "hockey's big league" for nothing.

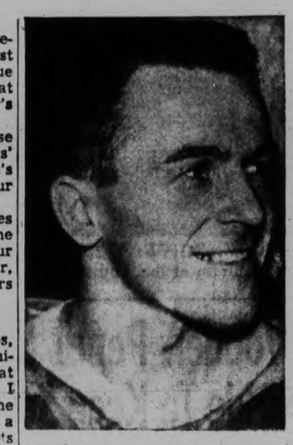
"They certainly check you close up here," New York Rangers' rookie right wing says. "There's not too much chance to get your shot off."

Hildebrand, who scored 38 times with Cleveland Barons during the 1952-53 AHL campaign, has four goals for the Rangers this year, and he finds the NHL netminders a pretty solid lot.

KNOW ALL MOVES

"These guys know all the moves, particularly that Al Rollins (Chicago goalie). He's stopped me at least five times when I thought I had sure goals. Of course, in the other league, you had more of a chance to wind up, pick your spots and then let go.

"Another thing, if you happen to be among the top scorers in this league, they put a special man on you."



Hildebrand is one of the increasing lot of performers who is a standout in two sports. During the summer he plays lacrosse with the Peterborough Trailermen, a club which has won three straight Canadian championships.

EVEN ROUGHER

"That sport is even rougher than hockey. There's a lot of cross-checking, which calls for a penalty in hockey but is legal in lacrosse. There's more chance of getting hurt what with all those high sticks flying all over the place."

Frank Boucher, the Rangers' manager-coach, whose only interest in Ike is his hockey ability, believes the 26-year-old Winnipeg native may develop into one of the league's best freshmen.

"He's always around that net," Boucher says. "He's missed several good chances. But he has a hard shot and if he finds the mark like he did in the American League—watch out!"

NEW YORK RANGER rookie, Ike Hildebrand is finding there's quite a difference between the NHL and the AHL. The star lacrosse player for the Trailermen has found the NHL checking and goaltending stiffer. Just the same he's fairly well up in the league scoring. (Examiner Staff Photo).

No One Dares To Guess Cup Finalists

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's just two weeks to the Grey Cup final, seven clubs are in the running and, with the exception of the two Ontario Rugby Football Union teams, there's hardly a soul who would guess as to the probable finalists at Toronto Varsity Stadium Nov. 28.

This weekend the list of probables will be cut to five and possibly four. ORFU finalists, Toronto Balmy Beach and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, settle their total-points series at Toronto Sunday. The winner gets a trip west to meet the Western Interprovincial Football Union champions.

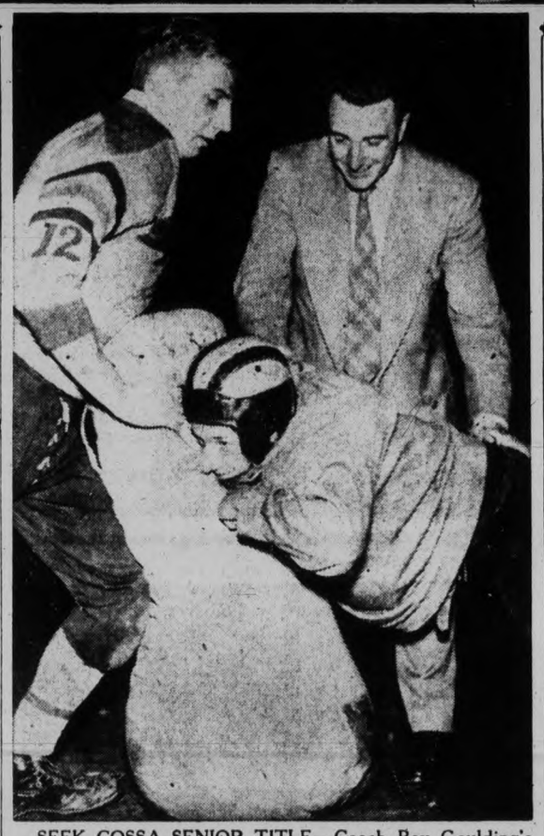
If either of these clubs defeated the western titleholder it would be the upset of the century. The ORFU, long a power in Canadian football, has been reduced to farm-club status in recent years and now is looked upon as a breeding ground for eastern Big Four clubs.

DEFENSIVE POWER

The WIFU championship is down for decision at Edmonton Saturday night. The split-T Edmonton Eskimos won the first of the best-of-three games series and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, with tackle Dick Huffman a tremendous defensive power, evened it Wednesday.

In the East, the Big Four games at Toronto and Hamilton have captured the imagination of fans. These close out the schedule and a three-team first-place tie is possible, but not likely.

Montreal Alouettes, Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Ottawa Rough Riders are deadlocked at the top of the standing with 14 points each. Toronto Argonauts, defending cup champions, are out of the running for a playoff berth and the best they can do in their final season appearance is snarl up the final standing.



SPLIT-T SWITCH

Argonauts meet the Als and a victory for Toronto would send the Montreal team into second place and a semi-final playoff with the loser of the Ottawa-Hamilton game. A triumph for Montreal would send Als into the final best-of-three series against the winner of the Rough Rider-Tiger Cats set-to.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen carry a three-point lead over Balmy Beach in the home-and-home total-point ORFU final. The Dutchmen switched from the straight T to a split-T formation Wednesday afternoon at home to defeat Beaches 9-6.

Final games of the short Intercollegiate Union schedule will be played at London and Kingston. McGill Redmen, with only two victories in five games and with no chance of a play-off berth, meet the University of Western Ontario Mustangs and University of Toronto Blues play Queen's Golden Gaels.

The Blues and Mustangs are tied fon first place with eight points each, two more than third-place Gaels.

Everybody Trying Split-T Style

By LORNE BRUCE

EDMONTON (CP)—Once upon a time there was a split-T football team in Canada. Now everybody is getting into the act.

When coach Darrell Royal came to Edmonton this year he brought the split-T with him.

His Eskimos were picked by the "experts" to finish a distant runner-up to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Instead the split-T Esks finished an eased-up first and won a bye into the playoff finals. Then they chopped Winnipeg 25-7 in Edmonton in the first game of the best-of-three series.

Now Ottawa Rough Riders, Toronto Argonauts and Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are experimenting with the split-T.

BOMBERS IN ACT

Even the Blue Bombers used it on a couple of plays as they edged Esks 21-17 in Winnipeg Wednesday in the second game of the finals.

Esks, now almost scraping the bottom of the barrel for backfield talent, and Bombers meet here Saturday night in the deciding game.

The western titlist is slated to play the Ontario Rugby Football champion in the west Nov. 21 for the right to meet the eastern Big Four champions for the Grey Cup.

The Esks are down to third-string backs. Second-stringer Don Simon, a homebrew who filled in after all-star halfback Billy Vessels fractured a spinal muscle, is definitely out for the rest of the season. Simon suffered torn knee ligaments when tackled in Wednesday's game.

NOT LIKELY PLAY

Frank Anderson, chosen all-star defensive end this year, also was hurt Wednesday.

"It doesn't look to me ilke he'll play," Royal commented.

Earlier in the year Esks lost end Rollin Prather, chosen last season on several all-Canadian teams. Now the only import end Edmonton has is Tom Stolhandske.

"Kwong is okay," Royal said about Normie the China Clipper who missed the first game of the finals with a bad ankle but got into the second game Wednesday.

Minor Players Rack Up Goal, Penalties In Quantity

Two shutouts were registered Thursday night at the Civic Arena in Peterborough Minor Hockey Association play. Both were in favor of the Shamrocks as the bantams recorded a 3-0 victory over the Aces while the midgets romped to a 11-0 whitewashing over Norwood. Norwood suffered the second large defeat of the night when the Aces coasted to a 12-1 win over the Norwood juveniles.

In a penalty-studded game the Shamrocks and the Aces went scoreless in the first period of the bantam game. Finally in the second period McCormick opened the scoring on a solo effort at the four-minute mark, followed five minutes later by the second goal, scored by McFadden assisted by McCormick.

PENALTIES

Amid a mixture of elbowing, charging, tripping and interference penalties, the Shamrocks managed to score their last goal in the third period. McFadden counted again this time helped by DeNoble.

The experienced Shamrock midgets were too powerful for the Norwood lads and from the start the Shamrocks rolled up the score for the 11-0 win. Only two penalties were handed out in the first two periods but the game became rougher in the third when the Sharmocks earned five of seven penalties handed out.

Darling, Jay and Forestall whipped home the puck in the first period for the Shamrocks. Jay and Forestall added their second goals along with a goal by Mahoney in the second period. The Shamrocks put the game away in the third with goals by Stewart and Forestall, Heron, Baker and Casey without a reply from the Norwood lads.

FIRST VICTORY

The Juvenile Aces lost little time in running up their first victory at the expense of Norwood. Between penalties they gave the Norwood goalie few idle moments.

Ferren with two and Kane with a single gave the Aces a 3-0 lead in the first period. All the Aces began to hit their stride in the second period as they surged ahead 9-0 on goals by Floyd, Smith, Godfrey, and Ferren. Strickland, Godfrey and Ferren added three more in the final period.

Norwood's lone tally came in the last period when Patterson scored, helped by Ken MacMillan.

Sabourin, Barega To Join Senators

TORONTO (CP)—Hap Day, assistant manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, announced Thursday that rightwinger Bob Sabourin and defenceman Bill Barega will join Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Hockey League.

Barega and Sabourin have been playing with Pittsburgh Hornets, Toronto's farm club in the American Hockey League. Sabourin scored 22 goals for Pittsburgh alst year. Barega hasn't had a chance to get back into the Pittsburgh line-up after being sidelined with rib injuries. The Leafs have a working agreement with the Senators.

Jailed For Life For Second Time

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Eddie Coco, 44-year-old prize fight figure, was sentenced to life imprisonment Thursday for the killing of Jonnie Smith, Negro car washer, Feb. 1, 1951.

It was the second time a life sentence has been given Coco, identified with the management of former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano.

The sentence was first imposed June 18, 1951. Coco won a new trial.

Fines Decides Not To Play This Year

BARRIE (CP) — Defenceman Walter Fines said Thursday he will stay out of hockey this season because "I'm a marked man."

The 19-year-old Aurora player was acquitted Tuesday of manslaughter and two assault charges in the death last March of Robert Gillies, 17. The Collingwood player died from head injuries after being boarded in a game.

"I've still got two years of junior hockey ahead of me," Fines said. "I can afford to lose this season. I'm just going to lay off, because after this I wouldn't be able to play the same.

"Accidents happen, and an accident like this one could happen again. If it did, I wouldn't have a chance. Out there on the ice, I would be a marked man."

Canadiens Edge Hawks 4-2; Refereeing Uproar

By WALTER GRAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fans in Montreal Thursday night voted referee Frank Udvari "the man we'd most like to try out our brass knuckles on." And if Frank decided after the National Hockey League game to stay within the Forum walls for the night it was understandable. At least six times the crowd of 13,920—smallest of the season, showered the ice with paper as they expressed distaste over Udvari's calls in a game in which Montreal Canadiens defeated Chicago Black Hawks 4-2.

Bernie Geoffrion pushed Udvari into the boards in the third period and received a game misconduct penalty which carries an automatic fine of $100.

Hawks' George Gee also got his Irish up. Twice he was involved in a two-player penalty, once when he mixed with Maurice Richard and the second time when he and Elmer Lach crossed sticks.

MANY PENALTIES

Altogether, 13 penalties were called, seven to Montreal.

Richard took over as the season's top goal-getter by scoring his eighth and ninth for a total of 13 points. Geoffrion assisted on one for a 17-point total, one more than his rival Tod Sloan of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Calum MacKay and Paul Masnick, who scored his first goal of the season, netted the other Montreal goals. Gus Mortson and Larry Wilson tallied for the Hawks.

The win kept the Canadiens' home string of victories intact, running it to nine. Montreal leads the league by four points over second-place Toronto.

FIRST OF THREE

The game was the first of a three-game series between the two clubs. Chicago is at the Forum again Saturday and then the teams journey to Chicago Sunday. Other Saturday action sees Boston Bruins at Toronto and Detroit Red Wings at New York.

Sunday Toronto is at Boston and New York at Detroit.

Gavilan Solid Choice To Take Fight

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Kid Gavilan, making the 147-pound weight limit without a strain, is a solid 8-to-5 choice to retain his welterweight championship tonight from a threatening and determined Johnny Bratton.

The 15-round fight, promising to be a scorcher, will be televised and broadcast starting at 10 p.m. EST. The Chicago area is blacked out on TV, which is expected to boost the Chicago Stadium crowd to 17,000, with a net gate of about $130,000.

Bratton, who at 26 has been in the ring professionally for nine years, will receive 20 per cent of the net and $10,000 from a TV cut—in all approximately $36,000.

Gavilan, making his seventh defence of his crown since taking a 15-round decision from Bratton, then the National Boxing Association titleholder, in New York two years ago, will get 40 per cent of the net gate and TV.

THIRD CLASH

It will be the third meeting of the two. Gavilan became the third fighter to fracture Bratton's jaw in their first scrap, and Bratton also broke his hand in that maul. Later in 1951 they met in an overweight non-title bout in Chicago that was ruled a draw. Gavilan claimed he was a victim of a home-town decision.

In 112 fights, only Ike Williams and Carmen Basilio have floored the Kid. Bratton has been down only once, conked by Robert Earl in 1945. He got up and chilled Earl in the same round, the third.

If Bratton ever needs a victory it is now. He knows he has everything to gain, and a loss would slide him back into the category of just another welterweight on the peanut circuit.

CARTER GETS OFFER

BOSTON (AP)—Boxing promoter Sam Silverman said Thursday he has offered Jimmy Carter, lightweight champion, $35,000 to defend his title against Teddy (Red Top) Davis of Hartford, Conn., here Dec. 12.

Silverman said Davis' victories over George Araujo of Providence, R.I., and Tommy Collins of Boston made him the logical contender.

Carter knocked out Armand Savoie in the fifth round Wednesday night in a title bout in Montreal.

Havana, Richmond Admission Studied

MONTREAL (CP)—Admission of Havana, Cuba, and Richmond, Va., to the International Baseball League will be the main problems coming up for discussion at the league's annual meeting Sunday, president Frank Shaughnessy announced Thursday.

Representatives of seven teams at present in the triple A loop will also consider the possibility of transferring Springfield Indians' franchise to another location and the finding of a replacement for Baltimore Orioles, now in the American League.

Delegates from Havana and Richmond are expected to attend.

Race Horse Sale Passes Million Mark

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Sales at the annual standardbred harness race horse sale have passed the $1,000,000 mark.

A total of 188 horses for a grand total of 717 this week changed hands for $606,800 Thursday bringing the week long sum of $1,388,825.

The million-dollar plus figure approaches last year's one-week volume of $1,452,075.

Best price of the day and week was established at $35,000, paid by W. E. Miller, Washington, D.C., race track owner and trainer-driver, for Hillsota, a three-year-old pacer. The horse was consigned by Jimmy Wingfield, Indianapolis, Ind.

NEXT IN LINE

Behind was the $30,000 paid by Two Galts Farm, Carmel, Ind., for Excellent Chief, two-year-old pacer consigned by E. J. Baker, St. Charles, Ill.

The $20,000 given by Marc Robinson, Walpole, Mass., agent, for Adios Helen was believed to be a record price for a yearling pacing filly. The horse was consigned by Hempt Farms, Camp Hill, Pa.

S. A. Camp, Shafter, Calif., paid $25,000 for Dutch Hanover, one of 69 Hanover shoe farm yearlings auctioned Thursday. In three days, 121 Hanover head have brought $401,750 or an average of $3,326.

LONDON BOY WINS

DETROIT (CP) — Ken Hohner, 140, of London, Ont., Thursday night outpointed Frank O'Neil, 136, of Detroit in a four-round preliminary fight.

GOING DOWN—Armand Savoie, Montreal challenger, is toppling to the ring floor in the fifth round of his world title lightweight fight with Jimmy Carter, of New York, as the result of a short right to the face. He was counted out at the 59-second mark.

Irwin Catches Fans' Fancy With Rangers

NEW YORK (CP)—Ivan (The Terrible) Irwin may not be the best defenceman in the National Hockey League but the arrival of this likeable, rough-and-tumble personality seems to be the best thing that has happened to fan interest in New York in years.

Ivan made his first appearance with New York Rangers before the hometown customers Wednesday night and immediately caught their fancy with a knock-'im-down display reminiscent of the days of the great Ching Johnson.

Irwin, a 26-year-old six-foot-two 185-pounder who came up to the Rangers from Vancouver as a replacement for Allan Stanley, laid Chicago Black Hawk attackers out on the ice with some 15 body checks in the first couple of periods as the Rangers won 3-2.

MOSTLY IN CANADA

Irwin, a native of Chicago who has spent most of his years in Canada, has been playing hockey since he was 16. His skating is somewhat hampered by his late start.

But what he lacks in finesse, he makes up in fearlessness, and coach Frank Boucher feels that even more important is his personality which seems to spark the enthusiasm of his teammates.

EASTERN INVASION

HALIFAX (CP) — Servicemen from western and central Canada brought Canadian football into this stronghold of English rugger during the war. Today it gives way only to hockey in spectator appeal.

A combination of record-breaking crowds, floodlights and perfect weather has helped in its development.

Canadian football is played in the Halifax-Digby-Antigonish area in Nova Scotia and the Moncton-Fredericton section of New Brunswick and rugger attendance in this section has suffered.

In Nova Scotia, the navy has been the backbone of Canadian football. In the four-team Provincial Senior League three clubs, Stadacona, Shearwater and Cornwallis, are made up of naval personnel. The fourth is Dalhousie University.

This season for the first time, a four-team junior league was formed in the Halifax district.

This has been a banner season in Nova Scotia. A few weeks ago an attendance record was set when more than 3,000 fans turned out for a Dalhousie-Stadacona game. The average attendance is 1,500, up 300 to 400 over last year.

FOLLOWS BROTHER

MONTREAL (CP)—While his big brother Maurice (Rocket) Richard leads the National Hockey League in goals scored, young Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard is doing the same in the Quebec Junior Hockey League.

Playing for the Junior Canadiens, the 17-year-old Henri has 12 goals in 11 games. With 13 assists on top of his 12 goals, Pocket Rocket is the top point-getter in the league.

BESTS WORLD MARK

LONDON (AP)—Sheila Lerwill of Britain, holder of the women's world outdoor high jump record, bettered the world indoor mark Thursday by clearing five feet, 3¾ inches at Wembley Empire Pool. The best previous indoor performance was a leap of five feet, 3½ inches set in 1930 at Boston by Jean Shiley, a former American Olympic champion.

Marcotte Issue Tossed Back To Hockey Body

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Marcotte, 18-year-old goalie whose ownership has been disputed by two Quebec City junior hockey clubs, was figuratively right back today on the hands of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association by a Superior Court decision.

During hearing Thursday of an injunction petition, which was refused, Chief Justice W. B. Scott made caustic remarks regarding the "amateur" designation of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, a provincial governing branch.

His Lordship also had some sharp remarks about a player being "property" of a club and about "slavery."

What brought the case sharply into public focus—and into Superior Court—was a petition by Frontenacs asking that the QAHA be restrained from carrying out a threat to suspend the club.

NOT CLEAR

Whether Marcotte continues to play with Quebec Frontenacs or must revert to Quebec Citadelles—his team last year—still was not clear pending QAHA action.

The petition was refused. Camil Noel of Quebec, counsel for Frontenacs, announced an appeal will be taken.

Frontenacs sought the injunction when the QAHA threatened to suspend the club if it continued to use the player.

The QAHA, acting as an appeal body, early this season granted Marcotte his release from Citadelles, made him a free agent and allowed him to sign with Frontenacs. It then found itself at loggerheads with the CAHA.

Voyles Started Whole Rash Safety Touch Concessions

By JIM BASTABLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—An American coach ...lled a new twist to an old Canadian football rule and turned it into the screwiest point giveaway in the game.

Carl Voyles sprang the gimmick—the conceded safety touch—Sept. 19 when his Hamilton Tiger-Cats defeated Toronto Argonauts 12-9 in a Big Four game here. Since then at least 15 safety touches have been conceded from professional clubs in eastern and western Canada down to high school ranks.

It started this way:

Tiger - Cats had possession on their three-yard line, with the minute flag up and Argonauts driving hard. American import Auburn Lambeth "froze" the ball on two downs.

SURPRISING MOVE

On third down, to the amazement of Argonauts and 20,000-odd fans, Lambeth took the snap and streaked to the deadline, automatically giving Argonauts two points and Tiger-Cats first down on their 25. In three plays the game was over.

Even Voyles admits it was wacky and figures the rule should be changed. Most other coaches and league officials, polled by The Canadian Press, agreed and the safety touch rule will be discussed—and probably amended—by the rules committee of the Canadian Rugby Union early next year.

Voyles, who nursed the idea of springing this version of the safety touch for a couple of years, says the rule "has to be changed." He adds:

"It should be like the United States system where there is a kickoff from the 20-yard line after the safety is made. Because the Canadian field is longer the kickoff should be made from the 25.

"The U.S. rule was changed years ago after a game between Princeton and Dartmouth. In that one, one of the teams was leading 7-0 and then conceded three safety touches to retain possession and win the game 7-6."

OTHER OPINIONS

Here's what other professional coaches and officials have to say about it:

W. C. (Billy) Foulds of Toronto, long-time member of the CRU rules committee and in Canadian football for the last 45 years:

"The safety touch has been in the books since I can remember. I'm certain it will be discussed by the committee at the next meeting. However, I'm not prepared to say what will happen."

Coach Clem Crowe, Ottawa Rough Riders: "A team could concede safety touches and stall around, holding the ball for a whole quarter. The other team deserves to get the ball. After all, they've pushed you back into your own end. However, if we stood to lose a game by an opponent's touchdown and won it by conceding a safety touch, I don't think the Ottawa crowd would criticize the team."

MULLING IT OVER

Jim McCaffery, president of the Rough Riders and vice-president of the CRU: "The matter was discussed about two weeks ago and it was decided that league officials should mull the thing over but take no action until the annual meeting. It will take a lot of thought."

Coach Frank Clair, Toronto Argonauts: "I think the rule should be changed. When a safety touch is scored, the ball should be brought out to the 20-yard line for a kickoff, giving the opposition a chance to get possession."

Frank Filchock, coach of Edmonton Eskimos in the Western Interprovincial Football Union: "If it isn't changed, we are going to see more of it and it will make it bad for football."

Ken Montgomery, president of the Eskimos who points to the five conceded touches—all after Sept. 19—in the WIFU this season: "We favor a change."

TRAFTON'S VIEW

George Trafton, coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers: "I would not like to see the rule dropped but I think it should be revised. The ball would be brought out to the 20 or 25-yard line and kicked on first down, either a punt with all players onside or kickoff style so that both teams have a chance to gain possession."

Dave McCann, Ottawa, chairman of the CRU rules committee: "There should definitely be something done about it. I favor putting the ball back on the 15 instead of the 25 after a safety. This would make a team think twice before conceding the two points."

Opposition to any change comes from Bert Warwick of Winnipeg, a member of the CRU rules committee, and general manager Lew Hayman of Montreal Alouettes.

Warwick says: "The safety touch is a good thing and I would not want to see it dropped. Canadians have been using the safety touch for years as a method of keeping the ball but now it is used more frequently and before larger crowds than before."

Hayman says: "I am against a change in the rule."

TITLE BOUT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Jim Carruthers, Australia's inexperienced champion, and Pappy Gault, a so-far unimpressive challenger from Spartanburg, S.C., meet here Saturday for the world bantamweight championship.

And, in spite of his lack of big time experience, Carruthers is favored to retain the title he won from South Africa's Vic Toweel a year ago.

The outdoor fight is expected to draw some 30,000 spectators.

To Co-ordinate Collection For Strikers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A committee representing all union locals here was named Thursday to co-ordinate the collection of money clothing and Christmas offerings for striking gold miners in northern Ontario and Quebec.

Arnold Peters, a member of the gold miners' picketline at Timmins said dues checkoff, although highly publicized, was not the sole issue in the five-month-long strike.

"Surface workers get 93 cents to $1.02 an hour and underground workers get $1.12 to $1.16," he said. "The miners will never go back without increased union security but neither will they work any longer for their former wages."

DONATE $1,000

Tommy Rees, president of dairy workers Local 440, of division one, Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union (CIO-CCL), said some 300 milk and bread delivery men have donated $1,000.

Philip T. Badour, second vice-president of Local 195, United Automobile Workers (CIO), was named chairman of the committee.

UAW officials announced 50,000 handbills will be distributed to union members throughout Ontario. Committeemen and stewards will be provided pledge cards asking members to donate $1 a week to assist the strikers.

No Frank Buck Here

KITCHENER (CP) — A doe bounded down a street near the centre of the city Thursday and disappeared inside a box car at a railway freight yard. Game Warden Fred Merner entered the car and tried to take the animal alive but had to shoot it in self defence.

5 Elect Trial By Higher Court For Kidnapping

GALT (CP) — Five men from nearby Ayr, charged with kidnapping a special constable on Hallowe'en night, Thursday elected trial by higher court.

They are Bill and George Mitchell, Raymond and Douglas Sherk and Erle Goodwin. They also face a charge of assault.

James McLeod, the special constable, testified that he investigated a road block Oct. 31 and was forced into a car. McLeod said he was taken about five miles, roughed up and dumped in a swamp.

Says B.C. Weeklies 'Most Progressive'

VANCOUVER (CP)—W. Kenneth Walls of Barrie Thursday night termed British Columbia's weekly newspapers "the most progressive in Canada," at a talk to the 35th annual meeting of the B.C. Weekly Newspapers Association.

"B.C. Weeklies have a reputation of being the most progressive in Canada," said Mr. Walls, president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and publisher of the Barrie Examiner.

"This is evidenced by the high proportion of awards they have won."

He said B.C. has less than 10 per cent of Canada's weekly newspapers, but consistently wins from 60 to 70 per cent of annual honors.

Burr, Injury Win Acquittal

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The combination of a thick Scottish burr and a game left foot were enough to get 63-year-old Samuel Crombie freed of an impaired driving charge.

The local stableman, who said he couldn't walk a straight line "if you paid me," was picked up following a minor accident. Police officers said he smelled of alcohol, staggered when he walked and was glassy-eyed.

Stewart Fleming, a local lawyer and Crombie's employer, said Thursday the Scotsman's burr was so thick he couldn't understand him at times and the limp came from a game left foot.

He told the court Crombie had a bottle of beer at lunch, but the accident occurred 4½ hours later.

Prince Charles Observes 5th Birthday Saturday

By ROBERT JONES

LONDON (AP)—Chubby Prince Charles celebrates his fifth birthday Saturday with his life as a schoolboy about to begin.

The little heir to the throne acquired a governess last week to start teaching him the three R's. She is Miss Catherine Peebles, 31, former governess of Prince Michael, son of the Duchess of Kent.

British law says every child must start his education by the age of five—and Charles is no exception.

At first he will be taught at home. But he may get a crack at public school life by the time he is 10. If he does, Charles will be the first heir to the throne ever to get the typical schooling of a blue-blooded British boy.

QUEEN WAS 18

The Queen was 18 before she mixed with people of her own age at a wartime officer's training course for the Auxiliary Territorial Service.

King George VI, the Duke of Windsor and their father, King George V, all were 15 before they left their tutors to become cadets at Dartmouth Naval Training College.

But the Duke of Edinburgh, who attended a preparatory school in England when he was nine, is reported to favor a less sheltered upbringing of his son.

SOME SUBJECTS STRESSED

Prince Charles will not have to spend much time studying Latin, mathematics, science and English literature. But he will have to learn French and German. He must know geography. He will have to delve deeply into economics and social studies, and he should become an expert on constitutional history and government.

Later, perhaps, will come the traditional stint as a naval cadet—although at the moment he shows more interest in soldiers than sailors—and a few terms at either Oxford or Cambridge.

He's a bright lad and he's been taking a few unofficial lessons from his mother and nurse Helen Lightbody. Already he can count up to 100 and sign his name in capital letters.

BIG PLATFORM

The port of Liverpool, England, has a floating landing platform stretching more than half a mile.

Want Strict Immigration

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Kenya's 30,000 white settlers called Thursday for strict immigration, land tenure and education laws to maintain British control over the African colony.

The settlers gave the first full explanation of their views in an unprecedented manifesto prepared by the 14 elected white members of the colony's legislative council.

"Whatever changes in the constitution there may be, it is necessary to maintain British guidance and control, and it will be desirable for all groups to participate in the government," the statement said.

Britain is considering constitutional changes which would eventually lead to self-government in Kenya after Mau Mau terrorism is crushed. The formula must take into account many multi-racial problems since there are 90,000 Indians and 24,000 Arabs in Kenya in addition to 5,500,000 Africans and 30,000 Europeans.

To Present Prizes In Poster Contest

LAKEFIELD (ENS). — Open house will be held in the public library from 7 until 8 p.m. Thursday, November 19, when prizes for the successful contestants in the poster contest in connection with Young Canada Book Week, will be presented by Reeve William C. Grant.

This was decided at a recent meeting of the board, with chairman Mrs. W. H. Fife presiding. Present also were Miss Grace Yonge, C. J. Davis, Mr. Grant, and librarian Mrs. J. W. Ridpath.

Mrs. Ridpath reported the circulation for September had been 623 books, a drop of 54 from September, 1952. However, October circulation was 1,236 books, an increase of 296 over October of last year.

Thirty-five readers joined in October. Of these, the majority were children. Mrs. Ridpath noted that an increasing number of parents are accompanying children to the library. During a busy period it is almost impossible to give the individual attention to book selections that some children require, and here a parent can be a real help.

The noon hour library period has been resumed. It has proved to be a help to out-of-town students who are not in the village during regular hours.

Requests for obtaining a thesis from several members were granted.

Donations of books have been received from Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Wasson, Mrs. W. W. Leonard and Miss D. Moher.

Accounts totalling $256 were authorized for payment.

Women Steal Show In Senate Ceremony

OTTAWA (CP) — Three women and nine men today swore an oath of allegiance to the Queen and heard their commissions as senators read in an ancient ceremony of introduction in the upper chamber.

The women stole the show. In clearly audible tones they swore to uphold and bear true allegiance to the Queen. Unlike the men, they showed no signs of nervousness.

Women senators who took their seats for the first time were: Mrs. Marianna Beauchamp Jodoin of Montreal, Mrs. Muriel McQueen Fergusson of Fredericton and Mrs. Nancy Hodges of Victoria.

The nine men: Hon. W. Ross Macdonald, new government leader in the upper chamber; Joseph A. Bradette of Cochrane, Ont.; Walter Jones, former premier of Prince Edward Island; Alan Woodrow of Toronto; Hon. F. Gordon Bradley, former state secretary; L. D. Tremblay of St. Malachie, Que.; Aurel Leger of Grand Dugue, N. B. Sarto Fournier of Montreal; and John J. Connolly of Ottawa.

3 British Frigates Dock In Trieste

TRIESTE (AP)—Three British frigates docked in this troubled port today while red-capped British military police and two Bren gun carriers patrolled the quai.

A Royal Navy spokesman described the visit as "routine." He said, however, that the length of the stay would depend on "the circumstances." He did not elaborate.

The Mermaid, Peacock and Magpie made fast just 100 yards from the piazzi where four persons were shot to death last Friday in clashes with Trieste civil police.

Mr. Dyson conducted a short devotional period.

A hymn was sung, followed by the benediction. After the singing of the National Anthem, the Legion Women's Auxiliary and Women's Institute, followed by the school children, paraded to the cenotaph where wreaths were placed.

Mrs. Fred Sharpe placed the provincial wreath, Mrs. Howard Parcels the Institute wreath, Mrs. Harry Clements the Auxiliary wreath and Bob Banks the Legion wreath.

Lewis Lively Despite Injured Leg

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Despite having his knee in a brace, Jerry Lewis is living it up in the picture of the same name.

There have been reports that the zany member of the Martin and Lewis team is ailing. He added substance to the reports when he took a tumble while subbing for Lou Costello on The comedy Hour and injured his knee again. But he isn't letting such matters slow him down.

When I saw him in his Paramount dressing room he was playing songs from his current picture and going through wild contortions of the dance number. He seemed as nimble as a jitterbug with the seven-year itch. But when he sat down for a quiet chat, he favored the left leg.

"It's all right when I stand up, because the leg is in a natural position," he explained. "But I can't bend it when I sit down. I have to keep it up on a table or something. If I don't, I'll fall on my face when I get up."

NOT SLOWING UP

Lewis isn't letting this trouble slow down the pace and he and his crooning partner have been setting in the last few years. As soon as they finish their picture, they'll take off for eight one - night stands in Texas.

Lewis made no secret of his happiness over "Living it Up," the first big property that has been purchased for teh team. It is taken from the recent stage hit, "Hazel Flagg," which in turn was taken from the Carole Lombard-Fredric March movie, "Nothing Sacred." The producers pulled a switch and Jerry is playing the Lombard role.

He remarked that the picture will cost $2,500,000, which is quite a difference from their first big hit, "At War with the Army." That one ran $400,000.

Ottawa Council Adds Glittering Touch

OTTAWA (CP)—Robed and glittering with medals, Mayor Charlotte Whitton, aldermen and controllers Thursday added their touch to the opening of Parliament.

They met the governor-general as he left the grounds of Rideau Hall, his residence, to drive to Parliament hill. This has been his practice for many years but this time he was formally told that he had the freedom to use the city's streets in a scroll presented by Mayor Whitton.

The ceremony apparently harks back to the address presented to the reigning monarch on entering the City of London.

Witness Testifies Driver Drinking Beer

OSHAWA (CP)—A witness testified Thursday that Vincent Gorman, 19, of Oshawa, was drinking beer while driving 65 miles an hour along a four-lane highway with four girls in a borrowed automobile.

Police said the car hit a railway sign, uprooted a tree, hit two other down. The four girls were injured.

Gorman pleaded guilty to charges of dangerous driving and of having liquor illegally. He was remanded a week for sentence.

Pubs Suspended

TORONTO (CP)—Two Brockville hotels had their beer licences suspended Thursday for two weeks for multiple servings of beer. The Commercial House was described by Judge W. T. Robb as the worst to ever come before the liquor licence board of Ontario. The other was the adjoining Clifton House. Judge Robb said the Commercial House not only served double, but triple glasses of beer.

Extensive repairs are needed in the mansion as can be seen by the view of the staircase (right). The house has been unoccupied except for a reported lady ghost since its use as a Commando billet during World War II.

Aids On Speaking Given WI In Belmont Meet

HAVELOCK — (ENS)—Miss Eethel Chapman of the Women's Institute Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto, and a former associate editor of the "Home and Country" (the WI publication) addressed the Belmont Women's Institute, Tuesday at the township hall, on the subject, "Aids to Effective Speaking".

There were morning and afternoon sessions with an interval at noon for a pot luck dinner. Members from the Havelock branch also attended. An interesting item on the morning program was the part where impromptu speeches were made by the members. Miss Chapman had a list of topics from which each one made a selection.

Miss Chapman demonstrated how to propose and reply to a toast, and how to introduce and thank a speaker. She added a few words of caution against making a lengthy speech when introducing a speaker.

She stressed the importance of speaking in a proper tone of voice and showed how to make the voice carry properly. She advocated writing out the entire speech. It was not necessary to memorize it but it was necessary to read it over carefully several times before delivering it. She also advised taking the script to the meeting, not necessarily to read but because it gave the speaker confidence. Sincerity and a gracious manner make what is said more effective than a carefully prepared speech. The audience she said would soon sense any lack of sincerity.

Indian Brings Baby To Doctor In His Pocket

COCHRANE, Ont. (CP)—An Indian walked into a doctor's office recently with a baby in his pocket.

The child, born prematurely, weighed only two pounds nine ounces at birth.

It needed appendix and hernia operations. The doctor brought it to Lady Minto Hospital here, where emergency transfusions, special feeding and several operations saved its life.

The case was all in a day's work for the hospital, which is seeking to raise $100,000 for a proposed 41-bed extension. It has been ministering to residents of 90,000 square miles of northern Ontario since 1915.

If the money is raised by public contribution, federal and provincial governments will grant an additional $250,000. This will make possible the extension to provide a new maternity ward, an outpatient's department, larger kitchen facilities and an x-ray department.

To date, about $50,000 has been pledged.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

"IN THIS INSTANCE," wrote Molotov, "the Soviet Government sees not a misunderstanding, but something worse." Such was the astonishing charge of the Soviets when the Allies first began dealing with General Karl Wolff, commander of the S.S. in Italy in February, 1945. Wolff is here shown signing surrender documents affecting one million men.

SOVIET SUSPICIONS

While all the vexations of the Soviet abandonment of the spirit of Yalta were the subject of the prolonged correspondence set forth in the preceding chapter a far more bitter and important interchange was taking place between the British and American Governments and the Soviets.

By the middle of February (1945) the Nazis realised that defeat was near. The advance of the Soviet armies, Alexander's victories in Italy, the failure of their counter-attack in the Ardennes, and Eisenhower's march to the Rhine, convinced all but Hitler and his closest followers that surrender was imminent and unavoidable. The question was, surrender to whom? Germany could no longer make war on two fronts. Peace with the Soviets was evidently impossible. The rulers of Germany were too familiar with totalitarian oppression to invite its importation from the East. There remained the Allies in the West. Might it not be possible, they argued to make a bargain with Great Britain and the United States? If a truce could be made in the West they could concentrate their troops against the Soviet advance. Hitler alone was obstinate. The Third Reich was finished and he would die with it. But several of his followers tried to make secret approaches to the English-speaking Allies. All these proposals were of course rejected. Our terms were unconditional surrender on all fronts. At the same time our commanders in the field were always fully authorised to accept purely military capitulations of the enemy forces which opposed them, and an attempt to arrange this while we were fighting on the Rhine led to a harsh exchange between the Russians and the President, whom I supported.

In February General Karl Wolff, the commander of the S.S. in Italy, had got into touch through Italian Intelligence Service in Switzerland. It was decided to examine the credentials of the persons involved and the link was given the code-name "Crossword." On March 8 General Wolff himself approached at Zurich, and met Mr. Allan Dulles, the head of the American organisation. Wolff was bluntly told that there was no question of negotiations, and that if the matter were pursued it could only be on the basis of unconditional surrender. This information was immediately conveyed to Allied Headquarters in Italy and to the American and British Governments. On March 15 General Airey and General Lemnitzer British and American Chiefs of Staff at Caserta, went in disguise to Switzerland, and four days later, on March 19, a second exploratory meeting was held with General Wolff.

I realised at once that the Soviet Government might be suspicious of a separate military surrender in the South, which would enable our armies to advance against reduced opposition as far as Vienna and beyond, or indeed towards the Elbe or Berlin. Moreover, as all our fronts round Germany were part of the whole Allied war the Russians would naturally be affected by anything done on any one of them. If any contacts were made with the enemy, formal or informal, they ought to be told in good time. This rule was scrupulously followed. There was at no stage any question of concealing anything from the Russians. The Allied representatives then in Switzerland even explored ways of smuggling a Russian officer in to join them if the Soviet Government wish to send someone.

On March 21 Mr. Eden accordingly instructed our Ambassador in Moscow to inform the Soviet Government of these hapenings. This he did. Next day Molotov handed him a written reply, which contained the following expressions:

In Berne, for two weeks, behind the back of the Soviet Union which is bearing the brunt of the war against Germany, negotiations have been going on between the representatives of the German military command on the one hand and representatives of the English and American commands on the other.

Sir Archibald Clark Kerr of course explained that the Soviet had misunderstood what had occurred and that these "negotiations" were no more than an attempt to test the credentials and authority of General Wolff. Molotov's comment was blunt and insulting. "In this instance," he wrote, "the Soviet Government sees not a misunderstanding, but something worse."

In the face of so astonishing a charge it seemed to me that silence was better than a contest in abuse.

At the same time it was necessary to warn our military commanders in the West. I accordingly showed Molotov's insulting letter both to Montgomery and to Eisenhower, with whom I at this time was watching the crossing of the Rhine.

General Eisenhower was much upset, and seemed deeply stirred with anger at what he considered most unjust and unfounded charges about our good faith. He said that as a military commander he would accept the unconditional surrender of any body of enemy troops on his front, from a company to the entire army, that he regarded this as a purely military matter, and that he had full authority to accept such a surrender without asking anybody's opinion. If however political matters arose he would immediately consult the Governments. He feared that if the Russians were brought into a question of the surrender of Kesselring's forces what could be settled by himself in an hour might be prolonged for three or four weeks, with heavy losses to our troops. He made it clear that he would insist upon all the troops under the officer making the surrender laying down their arms and standing still until they received further orders, so that there would be no possibility of their being transferred across Germany to withstand the Russians. He would also at the same time advance through these surrendered troops as fast as possible to the East.

I thought myself that these matters should be left to his discretion, and that the Governments should only intervene if any political issues arose. I did not see why we should break our hearts if, owing to mass surrender in the West, we got to the Elbe, or even farther, before Stalin. Jock Colville reminds me that I said to him that evening, "I hardly like to consider dismembering Germany until my doubts about Russia's intentions have been cleared away."

I minuted to Mr. Eden on March 25:

Further reflections convinces me we should send no answer to the insulting letter from Molotov. I am sure the right thing now is to get absolutely in line with the United States, which should be easy, and meanwhile let Molotov and his master wait.

I agree with you that the whole question of the San Francisco Conference hangs in the balance. The sending of Gromyko instead of Molotov is a grimace. I should suppose the President would be much offended by this.

And later on the same day:

 I am to see Eisenhower tomorrow at his request. I showed Montgomery Molotov's rude message, as of course the venue of the negotiations may easily be changed to his theatre. I well understand the Russian anxiety lest we should accept a military surrender in the West or South, which means that our armies will advance against little or no opposition and will reach the Elbe, or even Berlin.

 In my view the Russians should be in from the start, and we should carry on in accordance with our duty, our obvious advantage, and our plain right. They are claiming to have everything yielded to them at every point, and give nothing in return except their military pressure, which has never yet been exerted except in their own interest. They ought to be made to feel that we also have our point of view.

On April 5 I received from the President the startling text of his interchanges with Stalin. These were the telegrams:

Marshal Stalin to President Roosevelt
3 April, '45.

I have received your message on the question of negotiations in Berne. You are absolutely right that, in connection with the affair regarding negotiations of the Anglo-American command with the German Command somewhere in Berne or some other place, "has developed an atmosphere of fear and distrust deserving regrets."

You insist that there have been no negotiations yet.

It may be assumed that you have not yet been fully informed. As regards my military colleagues, they, on the basis of data which they have on hand, do not have any doubts that the negotiations have taken place, and that they have ended in an agreement with the Germans, on the basis of which German commander on the Western Front, Marshal Kesselring, has agreed to open the front and permit the Anglo-American troops to advance to the east, and the Anglo-Americans have promised in return to ease for the Germans the peace terms.

I think that my colleagues are close to the truth. Otherwise one could not have understood the fact that the Anglo-Americans have refused to admit to Berne representatives of the Soviet command for participation in the negotiations with the Germans.

I also cannot understand the silence of the British, who have allowed you to correspond with me on this unpleasant matter, and they themselves remain silent, although it is known that the initiative in this whole affair with the negotiations in Berne belongs to the British.

I understand the there are certain advantages for the Anglo-American troops as a result of these separate negotiations in Berne or some other place, since the Anglo-American troops get the possibility to advance into the heart of Germany almost without resistance on the part of the Germans, but why was it necessary to conceal this from the Russians, and why were your Allies, the Russians, not notified?

As a result of this at the present moment the Germans on the Western Front in fact have ceased the war against England and the United States. At the same time the Germans continue the war with Russia, the Ally of England and the United States. It is understandable that such a situation can in no way serve the cause of preservation of the strengthening of trust between our countries. * * *

This accusation angered the President deeply. His strength did not allow him to draft his own reply. General Marshall framed the following answer, with Roosevelt's approval. It certainly did not lack vigour.

President Roosevelt to Marshal Stalin
5 April, '45.

I have received with astonishment your message of April 3 containing an allegation that arrangements which were made between Field-Marshal Alexander and Kesselring at Berne "permitted the Anglo-American troops to advance to the east, and the Anglo-Americans promised in return to ease for the Germans the peace terms."

In my previous messages to you in regard to the attempts made in Berne to arrange a conference to discuss a surrender of the German Army in Italy I have told you that (i) no negotiations were held in Berne; (ii) that the meeting had no political implications whatever; (iii) that in any surrender of the enemy Army in Italy there could be no violation of our agreed principle of unconditional surrender; (iv) that Soviet officers would be welcomed at any meeting that might be arranged to discuss surrender.

For the advantage of our common war effort against Germany, which today gives excellent promise of an early success in a disintegration of the German armies, I must continue to assume that you have the same high confidence in my truthfulness and reliability that I have always had in yours.

I have also a full appreciation of the effect your gallant Army has had in making possible a crossing of the Rhine by the forces under General Eisenhower, and the effect that your forces will have hereafter on the eventual collapse of the German resistance to our combined attacks.

I have complete confidence in General Eisenhower, and know that he certainly would inform me before entering into any agreement with the Germans. He is instructed to demand, and will demand, unconditional surrender of enemy troops that may be defeated on his front. Our advances on the Western Front are due to military action. Their speed has been attributable mainly to the terrific impact of our air-power, resulting in destruction of German communications, and to the fact that Eisenhower was able to cripple the bulk of the German forces on the Western Front while they were still west of the Rhine.

I am certain that there were no negotiations in Berne at any time, and I feel that your information to that effect must have come from German sources, which have made persistent efforts to create dissension between us in order to escape in some measure for responsibility for their war crimes. If that was Wolff's purpose in Berne your message proves that he has had some success.

With a confidence in your belief in my personal reliability and in my determination to bring about together with you an unconditional surrender of the Nazis, it is astonishing that a belief seems to have reached the Soviet Government that I have entered into an agreement with the enemy without first obtaining your full agreement.

Finally, I would say this: it would be one of the great tragedies of history if at the very moment of the victory now within our grasp such distrust, such lack of faith, should prejudice the entire undertaking after the colossal losses of life, material, and treasure involved.

Frankly, I cannot avoid a feeling of bitter resentment toward your informers, whoever they are, for such vile misrepresentation of my actions or those of my trusted subordinates.

I was deeply struck by this last sentence, which I print in italics. I felt that although Mr. Roosevelt did not draft the whole message he might well have added this final stroke himself. It looked like an addition or suming up, and it seemed like Roosevelt himself in anger.

Next day I addressed Stalin myself.

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN
6 Apr 45

The President has sent me his correspondence with you about the contacts made in Switzerland between a British and an American officer on Field-Marshal Alexander's staff and a German general named Wolff relating to possible surrender of Kesselring's army in Northern Italy. I therefore deem it right to send you a precise summary of the action of His Majesty's Government. As soon as we learned of these contacts we immediately informed the Soviet Government on March 12, and we and The United States Government have faithfully reported to you everything that has taken place. The sole and only business mentioned or referred to in any way in Switzerland was to test the credentials of the German emissary and try to arrange a meeting between a nominee of Kesselring's with Field-Marshal Alexander at his headquarters or some convenient point in Northern Italy. There were no negotiations in Switzerland even for a military surrender of Kesselring's army. Still less did any political-military plot, as alleged in your telegram to the President, enter into our thoughts, which are not, as suggested, of so dishonourable a character. * * *

There is * * * a possibility that the whole of this request to parley by the German General Wolff was one of those attempts which are made by the enemy with the object of sowing distrust between Allies. Field-Marshal Alexander made this point in a telegram sent on March 11, in which he remarks, "Please note that two of the leading figures are S.S. and Himmler men, which makes me very suspicious." This telegram was repeated to the British Ambassador in Moscow on March 12 for communication to the Soviet Government. If to sow distrust between us was the German intention it has certainly for the moment been successful.

After quoting some of the more insulting phrases from Molotov's letter I continued:

In the interests of Anglo-Russians relations His Majesty's Government decided not to make any reply to this most wounding and unfounded charge, but to ignore it. This is the reason for what you call in your message to the President "the silence of the British." We thought it better to keep silent than to respond to such a message as was sent by M. Molotov, but you may be sure that we were astonished by it and affronted that M. Molotov should impute such conduct to us. This however in no way affected our instructions to Field-Marshal Alexander to keep you fully informed.

* * * Neither is it true that the initiative in this matter came, as you state to the President, wholly from the British. In fact the information given to Field-Marshal Alexander that the German General Wolff wished to make a contact in Switzerland was brought to him by an American agency.

With regard to the charges which you have made in your message to the President of April 3, which also asperse His Majesty's Government, I associate myself and my colleagues with the last sentence to the President's reply.

On April 7 Stalin replied to the President's reproach.

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT
7 Apr 45

Your message of April 5 received.

In my message of April 3 the point of issue is not that of integrity and trustworthiness. I have never doubted your integrity and trustworthiness or Mr. Churchill's either. My point is that in course of our correspondence it has become evident that our views differ on the point as to what is admissible and what is inadmissible as between one ally and another. We Russians think that in the present situation on the fronts, when the enemy is faced with inevitable surrender, if the representatives of any one ally ever meet the Germans to discuss surrender the representatives of another ally should be afforded an opportunity of participating in such a meeting. * * *

2. It is difficult to admit that the lack of resistance by the Germans on the Western Front is due solely to the fact that they have been defeated. The Germans have 147 divisions on the Eastern front. They could without prejudicing their own position detach fifteen to twenty divisions from the Eastern Front and transfer them to reinforce their troops on the Western Front. Yet the Germans have not done and are not doing this. They are continuing to wage a crazy struggle with the Russians for an insignificant railway station like Zemlyanitsa in Czechoslovakia, which is as much use to them as hot poultices to a corpse, and yet they yield without the slightest resistance such important towns in the centre of Germany as Osnabruck, Mannheim, and Kassel. You will agree that such behaviour on the part of the Germans is more than curious and unintelligible.

As regards my informants, I can assure you that they are extremely honest and modest people who discharge their duties conscientiously and have no intention of offending anyone. We have very often put these people to a practical test. Judge for yourselves. Last February General Marshall sent the Soviet General Staff a number of important reports, in which he warned the Russians, on the basis of data in his possession, that in March there would be two serious counter-attacks by the Germans on the Eastern Front — one would be aimed from Pomerania against Thorn and the other from the region of Moravska Ostrava against Lodz. In actual fact, however it turned out that the Germans' main blow as being prepared and was directed not in the directions above-mentioned, but in an entirely different area, namely, in the neighbourhood of Lake Balaton, south-west of Budapest. * * * This was one of the heaviest attacks of the whole war, with such a large concentration of tank forces. Marshal Tolbukhin was able to avoid a catastrophe and subsequently inflict a smashing defeat on the Germans because, among other reasons, my agents discovered, though somewhat tardily, this plan of the Germans for a major attack and immediately warned Marshal Tolbukhin. In this way I was able once again to convince myself how conscientious and well-informed Soviet agents are. * * *

He also sent a copy of his telegram to me, together with the following personal message:

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER
7 Apr 45

* * * I consider it necessary to make the following remarks.

1. Neither I nor Molotov had any intention of "blackening" anyone. It is not a matter of wanting to 'blacken" anyone, but of our having developed differing points of view as regards the rights and obligations of any ally. You will see from my message to the President that the Russian point of view on this question is the correct one, as it guarantees each ally's rights and deprives the enemy of any possibility of sowing discord between us.

2. My messages are personal and strictly confidential. This makes it possible to speak one's mind clearly and frankly. This is the advantage of confidential communications. If however you are going to regard every frank statement of mine as offensive it will make this kind of communication very difficult. I can assure you that I had and have no intention of offending anyone.

I passed this to Roosevelt, with the following comment:

PRIME MINISTER TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

I have a feeling that this is about the best we are going to get out of them, and certainly it as near as they can get to an apology. However, before considering any answer at all from His Majesty's Government please tell me how you think the matter should be handled so that we may keep in line together.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO PRIME MINSTER
12 Apr 45

I would minimize the general Soviet problem as much as possible, because these problems, in one form or another, seem to arise every day, and most of them straighten out, as in the case of the Berne meeting.

We must be firm however, and our course thus far is correct.

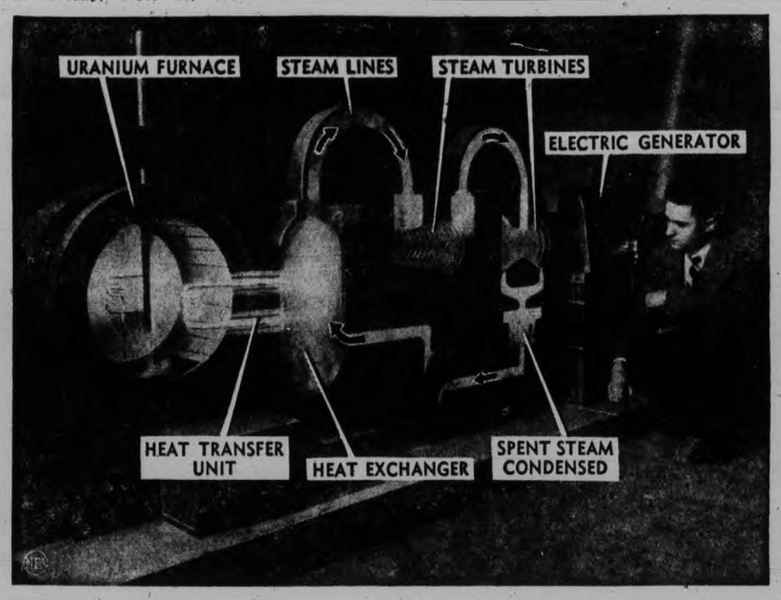
Discuss Plans For Korean Peace Parley

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Top United Nations and Red negotiators return Saturday to discuss plans for a Korean peace conference after a week's recess during which staff advisers worked in secret on an agenda.

The advisers today ended a series of six closed meetings, but refused to give any information on the results. They apparently reached some sort of agreement, however, since the top delegates were called back.



Meanwhile Gen. John E. Hull, UN Far East commander, said in Kora that he will "absolutely" press for the release of all remaining anti - Red Korean and Chinese war prisoners Jan. 22 if the already-late conference hasn't begun by then.

NOT SETTLED

By this, Hull meant the UN would object to any Red claim that any prisoners be held longer for any reason.

The truce agreement specifies that all unrepatriated PoWs be released as civilians one month after the end of efforts to woo them home, if the political conference has not settled their fate.

The Red interview program, now at a standstill, is due to end Dec. 23 by UN interpretation. The peace conference, originally scheduled to start by Oct. 28, has been stymied by the deadlock over an agenda for planning the talks.

DESIGN FOR ATOMIC POWER — A simplified explanation of how the atomic power plant for the nation's first atom-powered sub will operate is offered by this model "mock-up," designed by Westinghouse, and placed on display in New York. When installed in the USS Nautilus, heat generated by splitting of the atom will be transmitted by fluid in a sealed, coiled pipe, to a "heat exchanger," or boiler. Steam will be formed in the water-filled boiler, pass through piping to the steam turbine, which will drive an electric generator to power the sub's electric motors. Spent steam will be condensed, pumped back to the heat exchanger. Demonstrating the power plant is Robert Dollison.

Find Committee Hands Tied By Refusals

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP) — Harry Truman won't testify. Harry Vaughan says he can't remember. So congressional probers of the Harry Dexter White case looked today to a third controversial figure of the Truman administration.

Tom Clark, now a United States Supreme Court justice, was subpoenaed for appearance before the House of Representative un-American activities committee today. The odds were overwhelming, though, that the former attorney-general would take former President Truman's tack and send or bring a statement rejecting the summons.

Truman told the committee politely but firmly Thursday that he could not obey its order to testify on Attorney-General Herbert Brownell's charges that he promoted White to director of the International Monetary Fund in 1946 despite FBI reports that White was a Communist spy.

NO POWER

To honor the subpoena, Truman asserted, would go against the constitutional separation of U.S. government branches.

A Democratic source in touch with Clark, who was attorney-general in 1946, said the justice had decided to refuse testimony on the grounds that a committee of Congress has no power to subpoena a member of the federal judiciary.

This source, who didn't want to be named, said also that Truman is giving thought to going on radio and television to tell his side of the White controversy and answer Republican charges of White House laxity in checking the loyalty of officials.

James F. Byrnes, once Truman's secretary of state and now his bitter political foe, declined to leave his post as governor of South Carolina to answer a committee subpoena. Chairman Harold Velde (Rep. Ill.) accepted Byrnes' suggestion to send investigators to him, but set no date.

That left the committee—arguing among itself and reported to be under heavy pressure from the White House and the Republican national committee—with a mighty tenuous schedule of witnesses and hearings.

Brownell was one witness. Velde and other Republican committee members gave in to their Democratic colleagues' demands Thursday and invited—rather than ordered—the attorney - general to testify. Brownell accepted, but again no date was set.

Vaughan, who was military aide to Truman, told the senators Thursday he couldn't recall seeing any FBI reports on White. But he added that if Brownell said they were sent to him to be brought to the president's attention "I would not question it for a moment."

That was exactly what Brownell did say in the Chicago speech which set off the whole uproar a week ago today.

Herring Fleet Reaps Unexpected Windfall

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's $11,000,000 herring fishing fleet put to sea this week for an unexpected $72,000 windfall.

The fleet, led by 57 big herring seiners, moved out of berths in Vancouver and New Westminster for the narrow waters between Galiano island and the east coast of Vancouver island in search of 10,000 tons of the small, silver fish the rugged fishermen had not expected they would be allowed to touch this year.

Earlier this year, federal fisheries inspectors placed a 40,000-ton quota for the lower B.C. coast area, but decided to increase the quota by 10,000 tons early this week after reports from the fishing grounds indicated unexpectedly large schools of herring still were in the vicinity.

ANOTHER $72,000

With packing companies agreeing to pay $7.20 a ton for herring the quota boost meant another $72,000 for close to 450 men who make up the crews of the seiners and split the profits regardless of the size of catch of any vessel. Skippers and engineers of the seiners usually get bonuses from the processing companies.

There was no catch during the 1952-53 season due to a strike. However, this year estimates of retail worth range up to $10,000,000, half of which will go to the fishermen.

In past years, much herring has gone to make fish meal and oil but this year an unusual amount is being canned, industry spokesmen said. The herring season is October and November with a one-month layoff, then January and February.

PACKED IN ICE

Accompanying the seiners to the fishing grounds were 75 packer vessels, whose crew pack the catch in ice and carry it to processing plants where the fish are ground up and used in the production of herring oil and fertilizer.

By the beginning of next week, the fleet is expected to be operating in northern coastal areas using echo sounders to locate herring in sufficient numbers to make fishing feasible.

Echo sounders have revolutionized the West Coast herring industry. Before the Second World War, most of the herring fishermen were Japanese, who used much smaller boats and smaller nets than the big $100,000 seiners whose $15,000 nets sink to a depth of 40 fathoms and can haul in more than 200 tons of herring at a time.

ECHO SOUNDERS

Before the war, the Japanese used to send small scout boats ahead of the seiners. The scouts located the presence of herring schools by dipping silk threads into the water. Nowadays, echo sounders show up a school of herring as accurately as they pick up the sea bottom.

Herring spawning will begin early next month in the shallow bays of the gulf islands and Saanich arm in the straits of Georgia.

Cured Of TB Unable To Work Go On Relief

LINDSAY—(ENS)—The Lindsay Board of Health decided Thursday night to put patients now on post-sanitoria care for tubercular conditions on the relief rolls, as soon as physical examination proved they were incapacitated for some other cause than TB.

A prolonged discussion arose on the subject when it was discovered that a Lindsay man, who had been under treatment for TB in Toronto since 1939, and who only recently was released, was still not working, although he was cleared by radiological examination because of a stomach ulcer.

In correspondence concerning the case, doctors in Toronto recommended that such cases be referred to the relief account for further maintenance, rather than be kept on the tuberculosis prevention accounts after they had been properly declared cured of the disease.

The town's radiologist, Dr. McLennan, was authorized to refer all post-sarnitoria patients whom he considered able to work, from the TB standpoint, to another town doctor for physical examination to determine their further course of action.

A Lindsay woman living in the south ward of the town notified the board that she would like a bylaw passed prohibiting the pasturing of cattle on residential property in the town. A neighbor, it was reported, had a cow which was proving offensive to others around it.

Dr. J. H. Gleeson, MOH of the town, commented that the existing by-law controlled the aroma of the cattle in two ways, and promised the woman that sanitary inspector Ellam would look into the case.

A Kent street storekeeper will be warned again that he must clean up unsanitary conditions caused by tenants of apartments above his store, in the lane behind the building.

Sanitary inspector James Ellam reported that previous warning of this condition has been ignored as had a registered letter, written over a month ago. Dr. H. J. Gleeson, moved that Mr. Ellam be authorized to lay an information and complaint of a violation of the public health act against the property owner and warn the man in question of future law action unless condition is remedied.

'Copter Commuting Is A Reality

By RICHARD KLEINER

BRUSSELS, Belgium— (NEA) — The world's first intercity helicopter service is a rousing success, even though it is losing money. The passengers like it, the cities are enthusiastic, and even Sabena Airlines, which runs it, is happy about the whole thing, although every flight costs them money.

I rode the commuting coper between Antwerp and Brussels, a 22 minutes flight that costs 150 Belgian francs ($3). And that 22 minutes took me from city centre to city center, which, is the biggest advantage of helicopters.

Sabena has heliports right smack in the middle of each of the eight cities it serves in Belgium, the Netherlands, Western Germany and France. I landed at the Brussels heliport, for example, on the Alle Verte in the heart of the capital. I had a pleasant seven- minute walk to my hotel after I landed, doing a little window-shopping as I went.

Sebena's "Hellibusnetwork" began in September. It's the pet project of Anselme Vernieuwe, Belgium's first helicopter pilot and now a Sabena executive. He thinks the copter is the ideal means of transportation between the many cities of northwestern Europe.

LIVE 75,000,000

"In a circle 200 miles around Brussels," Vernieuwe says, "live about 75,000,000 people. Yet the area has only five major airports —Brussels, London, Paris, Amsterdam and Frankfort. Nowadays, for example, it is quicker by train from Liege to Paris than by fixed-wing plane, because the airports in each city are far away from the center."

So Vernieuwe dreams of a day, not too far away, when almost every city in the circle will be connected by a copter route that goes directly into the heart of each city. The frist step was the Sabena system.

Brussels is the hub of the Helibusnetwork. Every day, there are two flights to Lille, France; three trips to Rotterdam, in Holland, via Antwerp; one flight to Liege, Belgium, and Cologne and Bonn, in Germany; and one flight to Maastrict, in Holland, via Liege.

Sabena uses two Sikorsky S-55 helicopters for this service. Two more are on order. They only hold eight passengers, which is why the line operates at a loss. The rates charged are the same— three francs (six cents) per kilomter — as that on fixed-wing routes. With a maximum of eight passengers, it doesn't pay.

AIR SERVICE CONNECTION

But, indirectly it does. Many of the passengers take the helicopter to connect with Sabena's international air services to other European cities or to New York or to Africa. A resident of Lille, for example, might formerly have gone to Paris to connect with a New York-bound flight. Now it's easier for him to go to Brussels. Sabena feels that, indirectly, the Helibusnetwork is making money, as a sort of feeder line.

And eventually they hope helicopters will make a direct profit. That day will come when they can get ships that carry around 40 passengers. Vernieuwe is sure they'll have them soon, and equally sure that the demand will keep them well filled.

Sabena is one of the most progressive airlines in Europe. Besides its passenger helicopter service, it runs helicopter mail service throughout Belgium, and uses copters for crop dusting in its Belgian Congo service. And it has just inaugurated the first direct service from New York to Manchester, England, bringing Britain's industrial northwest with 12 hours of the United States.

Riding the Helibusnetwork is a pleasant experience. I got to Deurne Airport, in Antwerp, in plenty of time. Actually, you need only check in 10 minutes before the schedule take-off. The copter came in low, landed on the runway and taxied to a red circle where the outbound passengers— there were four of us — were waiting.

The atendant slid open the door, four passengers got out, four got on, the door was closed, and we took off. The copter was on the ground barely two minutes. Three minutes is the maximum Sabena allows for loading and unloading.

In the air, riding the copter is much like riding any commercial airline. You fasten the same kind of seat belt, have the same thrill of looking down at things, and the actual sensation of flying is identical. There are some differences —you can't smoke, the flight is so short you keep your coat on, and the copter makes so much noise conversation is impossible.

We flew over the pretty Belgian countryside. We flew over the smokestacks of the industrial city, Boom. We flew over the cobblestone highway with the adjacent lane for bicycles. And, quickly, we were flying over the palace and royal gardens that mark the outskirts of Brussels.

The route is carefuly plotted to follow set paths over open ground At the moment, all flights are in daylight and they never fly on instruments. As a result, more copter flights than fixed-wing flights are cancelled by weather. Visibility must be good or the copters are grounded. There have been no crashes.

Landing is a strange sensation, because it's like coming down on a busy street. There are buildings on both sides, and you sort of drift down between them, with people staring at you from buses and buliding windows as you gently settle to earth.

When you touch ground you are right in the middle of the city you aim for. No long bus rid, no hour in a taxi, no nothing. Just get out and walk down the main street.

The helicopter is in business.

LANDING AT BRUSSELS. Sabena's inter-city helicopter settles down for a landing smack in the middle of city buildings.

Lays Libel Charge Against R. Churchill

LONDON (Reuters) — Best-selling British novelist Ursula Bloom has issued a writ alleging libel against Randolph Churchill, son of the prime minister.

She has also issued writs against Britain's newest daily newspaper, the 18-d a y-old Recorder, and against its publisher, William J. Britain, former Montreal and Toronto newspaper man.

Churchill, who recently launched a vigorous campaign against certain British newspapers, writes a weekly column in The Recorder surveying and criticizing the British press.

In the first number of the paper Oct. 27 he mentioned a serial, "Hitler's Eva," written by Miss Bloom which is currently running in The Sunday Dispatch.

Talk On Governor-General Distorted Ceylon P.M. Says

COLOMBO, Ceylon (Reuters)—Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala has denied versions in the British press of a letter he had written about the governor-generalship, the British national anthem and the Union Jack.

Responsible newspapers abroad, he said, "had been misled by an unscrupulous twist given to a surmise of what I had written in a friendly letter" to Lord Soulbury, the British governor-general.

The report first appeared on the front page of the daily newspaper Dinamina, which has the largest circulation in Ceylon.

In it the premier was quoted as saying one of the points the people of Ceylon were unable to understand was "Why in this free land should there be a foreign governor-general?"

But Thursday he declared that the "alleged verbatim report" in Dinamina was a "travesty" of what he had said. On the contrary, he added, he had written that it was his sincere desire that Ceylon should have a British governor-general as long as possible.

RELATIONS FRIENDLY

"It is pepostenous fo anyone to suggest htat relations are not of the friendliest between the governor-general and myself, especially when we are both planning a right royal welcome for our Queen," he continued.

"As I have said before, the British anthem and flag will be used along with the Ceylon national anthem and flag when Her Majesty visits Ceylon and will be permitted on other such appropriate occasions."

His letter was in reply to a request for information from Lord Soulbury on two recent government decisions governing official occasions, not to fly the British flag along side the Ceylon flag and not to play "God Save the Queen" with the Ceylon anthem "Namo Namo."

Housing Project Of Amateurs Makes Progress

A multiple co-operative housing project in Ottawa, inspired by the Rev. F. A. Marrocco, former Peterborough boy, has blossomed into frames and roofs and shingles.

Father Marrocco is director of St. Patrick's College Institute of Social Action. Thirty-four young men volunteered for this experiment in joint effort. Only two are bachelors, and they have plans of marriage by the time their houses are finished.

One-third of the group are English speaking Catholics, another third Protestants, and the rest are French speaking Catholics. Few of them had building experience, but when the houses are finished their total equity will be more than $250,000.

Individual deeds of homes will not be distributed until the last nail has been hammered as reported in the Ottawa Journal. That was in the agreement arrived at after months of discussion of everything involved in the undertaking, including the important factor of continuous endeavor until the last dash of paint was laid on. All the houses are getting the same attention.

SAVE $3,500

These young Ottawa men estimate that by their own work and purchasing they are saving $3,500 in the cost of building each house. Financing is done under the National Housing Act. There are three and four bedroom bungalows, storey and one-half and so on.

This undertaking was not lightly assumed. Father Marrocco formed a group of 60 persons, from housewives to engineers, weighing the possibilities of joint action, particularly in the detail of costs and financing. Research produced study material. The study material, after nine months, brought out the 34 persons of knowledge and spirit to join their forces and also their determination to see it through.

That was the careful approach. Recently, the men have been working in the changing weather, and in the time they can arrange, a rather chill experience at times finally testing the quality of the spirit that stitched them into the scheme.

Father Marrocco recently said: "Like many other people we are anxiously watching the Ottawa project. It may prove that co-op housing is the ideal solution to the housing problem of the fit father of a family."

A similar enterprise is being studied in Peterborough, and is working in the direction of the trail blazed in Ottawa.

Supreme Court Judge Refuses To Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court justice Tom Clark refused today to comply with a subpoena to testify before the House of Representatives un-American activities committee on the Harry Dexter White case.

Clark offered, however, to give "serious consideration" to any written questions the committee may wish to send him.

In a letter to the committee, Clark based his rejection of the subpoena on the premise that the judiciary branch oft he government is independent of the legislative.

This is the same constitutional basis on which former president Truman declined Thursday to honor a committee subpoena. Truman's stand was that the executive branch of the government was not subject to authority of the congressional branch.

Private Enterprise In British TV

LONDON (Reuters) — The government today disclosed details of a plan by which it proposes to allow private enterprise to enter British television, now run by the state.

A state corporation would lease facilities to private TV broadcasting companies and maintain some control over them.

The private companies would carry advertising and compete for viewers with the non-commercial BBC TV service, which would continue its present single-channel service.

The policy recommended was designed to introduce competition into television and to reduce to the minimum state financial commitments.

Film Workshop Held Next Week

The sixth annual film workshop will be held in the public library auditorium on November 16, 17 and 18. There will be three major subjects, one each night. The subjects are entitled: (a) Group Dynamics, (b) Audio-Visual Aids in Education, (c) The Use of Films in Business and Industry.

The first program, Group Dynamics, will deal with the importance of community groups and discuss methods by which they will be able to function more effectively, with or without the aid of films. Also a film, "Let's Talk About Films," will be presented by William Graff.

Mr. Bruce Adams, director of the Teaching Aids Centre of the Toronto Board of Education, will be guest speaker on Tuesday night. Audio-visual aids such as movies and records, have become increasingly more effective as a teaching medium since their worth was first established in armed services training programs. Today, every school, secondary and elementary, in Toronto, is equipped with at least one record player and movie projector. It is Mr. Adams' responsibility to provide film and records for these schools.

In addition to describing the functions of the Teaching Aids Centre, Mr. Adams will give some demonstrations in the varied uses of the tape recorder and the making and use of filmstrips.

Wednesday night's program concerning the use of films in business and industry, will be divided into three sections. Clarence Corbett will speak on the use of films for training in safety and accident prevention. A lecture on training for faster reading will be given by James Dutton. The program will end with the screening of some new films dealing with these fields.

The purpose of the film workshop is to stimulate the correct form of community leadership, a d to help leaders in the use of films and other audio-visual aids.

Would Cancel Holiday For Schools Nov. 11

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — St. Catharines board of education decided Thursday night to ask the Ontario department of education to eliminate the Remembrance Day holiday for school children.

H. R. Partlow, a public schools inspector, said some teachers and principals considered the holiday a loss of precious time.

Trustee Lloyd Goodwin said there were few students at the local cenotaph service.

"The biggest play on Remembrance Day is at the shows," said trustee Allan Boyce.

Ottawa Plans To Reinforce Pipeline Backing

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is moving to reinforce its support of a Canadian transcontinental natural gas pipeline.

In the speech from the throne at the opening of Parliament Thursday, it was announced an amendment to the Pipe Lines Act will be sought to give the board of transport commissioners jurisdiction over all companies building international or interprovincial lines.

At present, the board's jurisdiction extends only over companies incorporated by Parliament.

CAN BLOCK U.S. GAS

The forecast legislation follows action by the Consumers Gas Company of Toronto, a provincially-incorporated concern, towards importing gas into Ontario from the United States.

The federal and Ontario governments, favoring a line to bring Alberta gas into eastern Canada, are known to oppose the Toronto company's proposal on the ground it might make it difficult to build up the Ontario market for Canadian gas.

As the law now stands, the transport board has no jurisdiction over the Consumers company. The government has been reluctant to take some other form of action to block the Consumers move.

Train Derailed

Will Try To Improve City's Milk

Hope To Provide Incentive To Improve Quality

The city's department of health is planning an educational campaign this winter to improve the quality of milk.

Although the quality of fluid milk has improved during the cool weather, there has been no corresponding improvement in the quality of manufactured milk.

Manufactured milk is the term applied to milk used in the production of powdered, evaporated and condensed milk and such dairy products as butter, cheese and ice cream. Milk distributed in bottles is known a fluid milk, for which a much higher price is paid to the producer by the distributor than for so-called manufactured milk.

Milk prices are arranged periodically by agreement between the milk producers association and the distributors, subject to formal approval by the provincial milk contorl board. If the two parties fail to agree, prices are set by the board. Price negotiations for fluid milk are usually conducted annually but manufactured milk prices are negotiated oftener, sometimes monthly.

Peterborough prices during October were $4.50 a hundredweight for fluid milk and $2.40 for manufactured milk. The latter price does not apply to milk used in the manufacture of butter and cheeses, the price for which is set by separate agreements.

PROVIDE INCENTIVE

Department of health officials hope to provide an incentive to producers of manufactured milk to improve the quality of their product by inducing the dairies to give them the first opportunity to ship fluid milk if additional sources are required.

Dr. J. P. Wells, MOH, told the board of health Thursday night that his department was also studying the matter of artificial cooling of milk by dairy farmers.

Dr. F. J. Harden, the department's veterinarian, reported a decided improvement in the quality of raw milk during October. There had been 337 samples of raw milk taken last month, with 94.44 per cent of the fluid milk being graded as satisfactory, compared with 60-65 per cent during the summer months.

"It would appear from these results that the season of the year greatly influences milk quality and indicates the need for utmost care in handling and cooling of milk during the warm weather", Dr. Harnden said in his report.

EDUCATIONAL CAMPAIGN

Even with cool weather, 40 per cent of the manufactured milk had been graded unsatisfactory as a result of tests.

"A purely educational campaign on manufactured milk producers, is planned for the winter in an attempt to improve the quality of this milk", Dr. Harden reported.

"As an incentive to these producers, those whose milk has been shown to be unsatisfactory in milk quality will be given the first opportunity to ship fluid milk should additional shippers be required".

Dr. Harden took 35 samples of pasteurized milk during October. No evidence of underpasteurization was indicated. On the whole, the bacterial counts of milk at the city's dairies had improved since September.

Water samples were taken from all the dairies whether their supply was municipal or private. In two cases where the sources of supply were wells, the water was graded unsatisfactory. The owners were advised to chlorinate the wells and further tests showed the trouble had been corrected.

The high bacterial counts of milk, from one dairy especially, were attributed to the poor water supply.

Repeater

With what Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw described as "bare-faced effrontery," Allen Zachariah, 23, RR 2, Peterborough, appeared for the second time this week in magistrate's court on a charge of driving without a licence Thursday. Monday he was fined $25 and costs and his car was forfeited to the crown. Thursday he pleaded guilty to another charge of driving without a licence and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. Explaining why he drove again, Zachariah said it was "the only living I ever had".

RANSACK EMPTY HOUSE

Early this morning Provincial Constable John Gray discovered that vandals, presumably young boys, had broken into the abandoned home of Mr. Tom Hetherington some three miles north of Peterborough on Highway 28. The building, which is boarded up, has been broken into on three occasions. Constable Gray said that nothing appeared to have been taken, but articles had been scattered about the rooms.

Magistrate, Lawyer Square Off

Cadi Accuses Counsel Of Trying To Suppress Truth

After charging defence counsel W. J. Arthur Fair, QC, that he tries to "suppress" the truth, Magistrate R. I. Moore told him he would continue his personal policy of interrupting testimony of witneses.

The action came when the two became embroiled in an argument apart from the legal aspects of the drunk driving charge against John Johnston, 28, of RR 7, Peterborough.

The crossfire went so fast that Clerk of the Court James Fleming stopped taking shorthand and let his tape recorder pick it up alone.

TEE OFF

It started as the magistrate pointed out to Mr. Fair that the witness he was cross-examining wouldn't know whether there would be any dents in a car involved in the accident from which the charge arose at court time, three weeks after the accident.

"I wonder if I can continue my cross-examination alone?" Mr. Fair roared. That started the argument and led to such statements:

"I just want to bring out the truth."

"You usually try to suppress it, Mr. Fair," the magistrate retorted.

"I'm only asking you leave me alone during cross-examination," the lawyer continued.

"I'll interject if I wish," was the answer.

Finally: "If I am to be continually interrupted then I'm just wasting my client's money if you're going to conduct the cross-examination."

"You'll be interrupted if I want to interrupt," Magistrate Moore calmly replied.

Finally Mr. Fair cooled, then continued examination of the crown witness.

HAVE SUSPICIONS

The charge was eventually dropped. "I may have my suspicions but I haven't got any evidence," the magistrate concluded.

According to evidence, Johnston was driving east on Highway 7 at the Lock's bridge when his car swung out from behind a truck and struck another vehicle driven by Michael Sullivan who was returning from the Aragon.

Johnston got out of his car, inspected the damage, said he didn't touch Sullivan's vehicle, and drove away. Both Sullivan, his wife and a passenger, Mrs. Estelle Shaughnessy agreed the accused smelled of alcohol but wouldn't say he was intoxicated.

PC Cec Bowyer arrested the accused later that night, October 21, and described his breath as "smelling of liquor," said Johnston wasn't walking straight and described his answers to questions as jumbled.

Seven Doctors Help Out Schools, Clinics

The board of health Thursday night voted its appreciation of the co-operation shown by the city's medical profession since Dr. Harry Wright, assistant to the medical officer of health, had taken ill.

Dr. Wright, who supervises the school health services and the child health clinics in the city, suffered a heart seizure November 2. The medical officer of health, Dr. J. P. Wells, said Dr. Wright was not expected to return to duty for about three months.

Seven local doctors have taken over the school health services and the child health clinics during Dr. Wright's illness, Dr. Wells reported.

The board also decided to send a letter to Dr. Wright, expressing their regrets at his illness and wishing him a speedy recovery.

During October, in the city's 13 elementary and two secondary schools, Dr. Wright had completely examined 119 pupils with the parents present and 127 pupils with the parents' consent.

In the seven separate schools and St. Peter's high school, during October, Dr. J. J. Neville had completely examined 92 pupils with the parents present and six with the parents' consent.

The agreements between the city and the public and separate school boards permit a parent to be present at the physical examination of a pupil if it is the desire of the parent to attend. In any case, the consent of a parent is required to conduct the examination.

NOT WELL ATTENDED

Dr. Wells said the child health clinics had not been attended as well as he had hoped. He thought the prevalence of poliomyelitis had caused this and probably more mothers would start bringing their children to the clinics in the new year.

There were 15 clinics held during October with a total attendance of 275, of whom 81 were infants, 173 of pre-school age and 21 of school age. Of these, 238 attended for weighing, 267 for conferences with the nurse, 191 for immunization, 19 for consultation with the doctor and one for a tuberculin test.

Miss Mary MacIlveen, supervisor of public health nursing, reported that public health nurses had made 390 visits to 203 families for health guidance and supervision and 137 visits to schools during October.

School health activities of public health nurses included 71 first aid treatments, 239 inspections of pupils, 211 medical health examinations of pupils with parents present, 196 with parents' consent, 716 vision tests and 709 hearing tests.

The department conducted three chest clinics last month, taking 102 chest X-rays. Two new cases of tuberculosis were discovered. None were admitted to sanatorium but one patient was discharged. There were 89 new cases of tuberculosis reported to the department to the end of October this year.

Saturday night the girls will demonstrate at the John Innis memorial centre where proceeds go for British Empire games swimming contests.

CELEBRATION

Five years ago, Sadie Hawkins day gained especial significance for Mr. and Mrs. William Dyer of 255 Armour Rd., for on that day, Mrs. Dyer, in true Sadie Hawkins fashion, got her man and led him to the altar. Today is the fifth anniversary of their wedding and one wonders if Friday the 13th has the same significance as is attached to Sadie Hawkins day.

MOH Lauds Canada Packers For Plans Against Pollution

Canada Packers Ltd. was commended by the city's medical officer of health, Dr. J. P. Wells, Thursday night, for their willingness to help clear up pollution of Little Lake. Dr. Wells told the board of health that the company had prepared plans for altering their methods of waste disposal but he had asked them to delay putting them into effect until he had completed his report on pollution in Little lake, the Otonabee river and Jackson Park creek.

"They are prepared and anxious to co-operate," Dr. Wells told the board.

EXTENSIVE PLANS

Canada Packers General Manager Lionel Brown told the Examiner today that the company had prepared extensive plans for altering their drains and pumps in order to effect a new method of disposing of waste materials and water.

Dr. Wells told the board that Dr. A. E. Berry, director of sanitary engineering for the Ontario health department, had prepared a report on pollution of Little lake but its contents were not revealed at the meeting.

He said that, insofar as it referred only to conditions in Little lake, the report was a partial one in relation to the city's other bodies of water.

The board concurred with Dr. Wells' suggestion that he prepare a report on conditions in the Otonabee river and Jackson Park creek to supplement that of Dr. Berry.

The complete report will be sent to Dr. Berry for his approval and suggestions and will then be referred back to the local board for consideration before implementing its recommendations.

Asks For Rinks For West End

Mrs. R. B. McWilliams appeared before the Board of Education on Thursday night and asked: What about skating and hockey rinks in the west end of the city?

K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said the board had moved out of that field. First of all, the weather was unreliable for outdoor rinks; secondly, hired help would be required to look after the rinks and keep discipline.

It was suggested to Mrs. McWilliams that the proper authority to refer to was the Peterborough recreation commission.

"Could the rinks be built on school grounds?" queried Mrs. McWilliams. (She was referring to the rink being on school property even though some other person or group was looking after it.)

The board asked Mrs. McWilliams to make formal application for her request.

Mrs. McWilliams described the "west end" as the area in the city northwest of Reid and Kings Sts. Skating rinks and hockey cushions are needed out there, she said.

Regional Festival Set For Brockville

The Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival will be held in Brockville February 22-27, it is announced by the executive. Last year it was held in Ottawa, and two years ago in Peterborough.

The three-day festival of one-act plays being staged in Peterborough next Thursday to Saturday is preliminary to the Regional Festival at Brockville. Professor Arnold Edinborough, adjudicator, will select from the Peterborough festival winning entries for the Regional Festival, which will be the official competitors from the Belleville-Oshawa-Peterborough district in the one-act play class.

The entry of full-length plays for the Brockville festival must be indicated by December 1, and the definite entry made on January 1, to the secretary, Mrs. W. A. M. Heard of Ottawa.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Edible Oils and Margarine on Forum Broadcast Monday . . . West Dartford Forum Tops in Northumberland with 45 Members Attending . . . 350 Hastings County People at 4-H Club Presentation Night . . . Holstein Club to Royal Tuesday . . .

"The challenge of dairy substitutes" is the Forum topic for Monday, November 16.

It turns discussion again to the competition of imported edible oils in a market which until recent years the dairy farmer took for granted as his own.

In providing pertinent information for Monday night, the Forum guide emphasizes the fact that the main edible oil product grown in Canada is the soy bean, expanding commercially only in southern Ontario. Estimated value of this bean crop in the province in 1952 was $10½ million.

On the other hand, dairying is an established industry in every province. It yielded $381 million last year, an agricultural income that is expended entirely in Canada.

Seventeen per cent, or nearly one in every six Canadians, are dependent on the industry for a living. This includes producers and employees of dairy plants.

"These people," says the Guide, "are themselves consumers of all kinds of products (and particularly products of urban manufacture). Thus their prosperity is a benefit to manufaturers, retailers and many others."

Consumption of margarine in the U.S. last year almost caught up with the demand for butter. The average person in the U.S. consumed 7.7 pounds of margarine in 1952 and 8.7 pounds of butter. "In 1938 the corresponding figures were 2.9 pounds of margarine per capita and 16.4 pounds of butter."

A SELLING PROBLEM

The challenge to the dairy farmer is mainly in the field of selling. And the handmaid of selling is advertising, publicity. The Dairy Farmers of Canada have been developing during the last three or four years a program of advertising and public relations which is financed from their own industry. The June set-aside of one cent per pound of butter fat or the milk equivalent provides a budget of around $330,000 a year. A similar scheme in the U.S. amounts to $2,000,000 a year.

The Guide asks: "Is this worth while- Should farmers support it?"

Forum groups may give some attention to that topic. There is no question of the quality of Canadian dairy products: milk, butter, cheese, ice cream, condensed milk and so on, because government inspection applies generally to them.

Increasing population of this country is bound to be a factor in domestic consumption of the output of the dairy industry, helping to make up the loss of export demand. Meanwhile the soy bean growers are enlarging their acreage, although only about one-fifth of their yield in Canada is crushed for oil. Most of the crop goes into soya meal and concentrates.

As to more active sales effort, the dairy industry goes to market with quality products, and on the way is recognizing gradually that selling is a major problem.

A BLANK RESPONSE

Incidentally, the industry's executives have been recommending publicity campaigns, nationally and locally. As a medium in this area, the Examiner advertising department recently endeavoured to make a special publicity effort during part of November. Suggestions came from the office of the Dairy Farmers of Canada. Enquiries here were made among the dairy plants of the city and immediate district, the people who process the dairy farmers' cream. The result was almost complete indifference from that quarter. The only exception was almost negligible, being merely one minor tie-up with the Dairy Farmers' agency advertisement.

Stirring of selling activity of dairy products will be recognized when publicity signs for milk, cheese, butter, are substituted in the prominence of place that is now sold in farm fields for hotels, motels, restaurants, and various commodities seeking to catch the public eye, taste and purse.

Owners' names in big, attracting letters on barn space serve a good purpose of identification. Painting beneath it: "Your best food — milk, cheese, butter, ice cream," would probably be noticed, too. And it all comes under the head of publicity and propaganda—selling.

Big Dartford Attendance

With 45 members present, West Dartford Forum reported the largest attendance in the Northumberland circuit for the first broadcast November 2. Plainville was next with 34.

For Front Road East Forum it was their annual meeting, wtih pot luck supper and colorde slides of their bus trip last spring to the Hydro development at Niagara.

On the subject of "the Agricultural Representative and the Farmer," most of the Forums agreed that they received help on soil testing, pasture and drainage, farm loans, Junior Farmer activities, club leadership, livestock and poultry organizations, and various activities.

Further help was needed, they said, on permanent pastures, improved fertility of the soil, keeping the farmer better posted on scientific developments, weed, insect and warble fly control, conservation. "He could seek out and give advice to young and less prosperous farmers and help them with their individual problems." Those were some of the proposals.

On their part, farmers should invite the agricultural representative to address meetings at which the whole community is urged to attend; back him up in his projects; refer people to him; have crop demonstrations and winter short courses.

Forums were fairly unanimous in affirming "we do not make as much use of him as we should."

✦ ✦ ✦

"Only Board And Keep"

"Farm wives should keep informed on farming techniques and marketing problems as partners in the business. Often a farm wife has more chance than her husband of listening to pertinent radio programs or reading articles."

That is a comment from Westwood Forum discussion Monday night on the subject of the partnership in the farm home. Six were present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Neilson.

"Co-operation between a farmer and his wife should include planning the farm business, financial matters and helping with outside work as circumstances and inelinations of the family permit. Our members are agreed that it would be desirable to have a legal partnership, but it is almost impossible to be achieved due to the poor legal standing of a married woman in Ontario and Canada. The legal position of all married women was discussed —a wife is legally entitled in marriage only to her board and keep. "We would like to draw the attention of all farmers to the results of a recent study made by the committee on the status of women of the University Women's Club concerning the present outmoded laws."

Pigs Average $100

At the Edmonton fall livestock show, 331 purebred breeding swine sold for $32,800, averaging close to $100 as compared with $72.50 a year ago.

The average for Yorkshire sows was about $92 and boars $105. Tamworth males made the top average of $124.50 for 24 head; ten sows averaged $89.50. The champion Yorkshire sow brought $215, and the champion white boar sold for $165.

Probably these prices may be significant to eastern breeders not only in their comparatively high levels, but also as reflecting western breeder interest in pigs.

✦ ✦ ✦

Bastion Of Freedom

Belief that the modern Canadian way of life was perfect was termed balderdash by the Rev. G. W. Goth, minister of Metropolitan United Church, London, Ont., at the Middlesex Boys' and Girls' Potato Club dinner this week.

"There is a synthetic quality to our lives," he said. "We are instruments in the hands of exploiters. We no longer strive for individuality and distinctiveness, but become accommdated to the trend of our times."

London Free Press reports: "Mr. Goth lashed out at some amusements offered today, the overemphasis on sport, present-day advertising, and the 'easier' method of education. He saluted rural residents as 'the 'very basis of our civilization,' and the country as 'the last bastion of human freedom'."

Farmers, Mr. Goth said, are not organized on the same scale as urban dwellers. And, lacking organization, they think for themselves and make their own decisions. He said there was "a grave danger of rural areas becoming urbanized." The collective state was scored as "dull and deadly." "There are too many specialists today. We are losing our personal initiative . . . shelving responsibilities and letting the specialists make the decisions."

"For those who spend their time on bleachers, listening to Bob Hope or reading the Sunday supplement, it would be better not to have the eight-hour day and five-day week. It is only commendable when used creatively."

Mr. Goth urged the Middlesex juniors to strive for more personality, individuality and initiative. It that way democracy would not have to depend on a collective state, he said.

Sells Holstein Herd

Robert J. Polk, Kingston, dispersed last week his Holstein herd of 62 head by auction, grossing $15,800 for an average of $254. The sale was at Oakville. Best price was $500 for a five year old cow. A four year old heifer brought $435 from Herman Hanagy of Belleville. Another was taken by R. B. Glaspell of Bowmanville for $400.

Thirty-five milking females averaged $275: two bred heifers $232. Top price for an open heifer was $320. There were so many buyers that the 62 head were distributed among 36 paying bidders. Expansion of the city of Kingston for real estate development took the Polk farm.

Herefords Average $384

Sixty-two Herefords grossed about $24,000 at the J. A. Paul ranch sale at Okotoks, Alta., last week. Top price was $2,200 and the average $384. Some of the offerings were recent weanlings of five to six months, which probably reduced the overall average.

The best price was paid for a 15-month old bull. It has been selected for the composite herd that will represent Alberta at the Royal Winter Fair. The second high was $1,225 for a two year old heifer. Other prices were $1,075, $1,000, $775 and so on.

Thomas Sandman of Okotoks paid $1,000 for a yearling show heifer that is also on its way to the Royal.

✦ ✦ ✦

75 Imported Shorthorns

E. J. Cammaert of Rockyford, Alberta, is assembling a herd of imported Scottish Shorthorns, and thereby realizing a life-long ambition.

He recently arrived home with 15 cows, heifers and calves; 16 more followed him last weekend, and his final consignment will boost the herd to 75 head,—all imports.

The thirty Shorthorns recently reaching the Cammaert stock and grain farm were bought 18 months ago when he was on a trip to Scotland, especially for that purpose. Delivery was delayed by quarantine restrictions imposed by the government of Canada, following an outbreak of foot and mouth disease.

Before going to Scotland Mr. Cammaert made a thorough study of all Scottish Shorthorn herds and their pedigress, and when he found himself among the breeders he knew pretty well what he wanted and where to look for it.

From the famous Cruggleton herd he selected six heifers, two cows and one calf; others are from the Glastullich herd; more from Millhills and there is one heifer in that lot from Willia of Drone. In the final shipment, not yet docked in Canada there are other breeders represented: Captain Rutherford of Balgowrie, and the Chergarten Shorthorns.

On landing in Quebec Mr. Cammaert learned that his young Red Adonis bull which he had sold to Mrs. W. C. Pitfield of Quebec had been named grand champion Shorthorn at the Sherbrooke show. A son of Calroosie Adonis, he was born on the train just as another shipment of cattle was received from Scotland two years ago.

✦ ✦ ✦

Stack Of Publications

Of the publishing of farm subject pamphlets there is no end. The four booklets on Ontario Farm Business, issued with an October date line by the provincial Department of Agriculture, are cited elsewhere.

Farm machinery companies and various other firms doing business with farmers had stacks of them for distribution at the plowing match at Cobourg a few weeks ago.

The volume of these publications is of such extent that it may discourage some farmers from getting them home or reading them when they are at domestic hand.

CIL News comments that winter is a time of comparative relaxation from the long season of prodution, and may be turned to profit.

"Information on the most efficient methods of farming is actually going begging. Provincial and federal departments of agriculture have an abundance of farm literature which describes the latest findings of agricultural scientists in experimental stations across the country. Many Canadian industries are constantly producing reams of valuable information matter for various segments of the rural population. The closer scrutiny of farm journals will often provide information that can be turned into dollars and cents by the farm . . ."

Some of the booklets recently received suggests their subject matter under the following titles: (O.A.C.)—Chicken feed formulas; swine feed formulas; swath combining; clover seed; how to build a stack silo.

The Organic Farmer (farming without chemicals); safety in tractor operation (OAC); broiler feed formulas (OAC); seed crop roto - windrower for mowers (OAC); rats and mice (Ontario Department of Agriculture); Massey-Harris manure spreaders and hay balers; Conservation authorities in Southern Ontario; Royal Winter Fair competitions; Agricultural Institute Review; soil and water conservation issued by the Conservation Council of Ontario; hammermills, corn shellers, etc., Fairbanks-Morse; The Windrow, issued by the New Holland Machine Co.

That is a sample of the kinds of publications that are available and without charge, but obviously involving considerable expense in the prepartion of text and printing.

350 At 4-H Club Night

Some 20 trophies, medals and other awards were presented to members of 4-H Clubs, Homemaking Clubs and Junior Farmers of Hastings county in Stirling Theatre November 5. Attendance was 350 people.

Chairman was Ray Mallory, president of the Hastings County Club Leaders' Association. Bank of Commerce specials were outstanding awards. Miss Mary Reid, of Plainfield, received a silver tray for completing provincial homemaking honors. Robert Mallory, of Trenton, won the 4-H Club prize, a gold watch. He has completed eleven 4-H Club projects in club work, and was five times first. Many silver spoons and other awards were given to homemakers and leaders, in addition to the trophy winners in other branches of club effort.

✦ ✦ ✦

Beekeepers' Dinner

Dates for next week include: Beekeepers' dinner at the YMCA Tuesday, November 17, at 6.30.

Thursday (19): Federation of Agriculture at the office of the Department of Agriculture.

All week: Royal Winter Fair.

Also: Tuesday, November 24: Annual meeting of the Central Ontario Spring Show, 10.30 a.m., at the Peterborough office of the Department of Agriculture.

✦ ✦ ✦

Bus To Royal Nov. 17

Holstein breeders have engaged Ivan Fletcher's bus for their trip to the Royal Winter Fair next Tuesday. They are leaving at 7 a.m. from the Exhibition Park, where there are acres of parking space, and are returning after the night show. Judging of dairy cattle is one of the program details for the day. Tickets are $5.50, covering transportation and admission.

✦ ✦ ✦

Keep Spirit Of Youth

The essentials of staying young while growing old are: imagination, courage, confidence, sense of humor and a sense of generosity. These are the true characteristics of youth, said Orlo M. Brees, clerk of Union, N.Y., to the St. Thomas Kiwanis Club and their Elgin farmer guests, 500 altogether, Monday nigh.t

It was true, he said, that they all could be done, and in proper proportions they represented a design for living a full and purposeful life. In one of his suggestions he quoted President Eisenhower: "Always take your job seriously, but never yourself." . . . "When we cultivate greed and meanness, we begin to grow old, no matter how old we are."

✦ ✦ ✦

District Cattle To Royal

Dr. George Penhall reports Peterborough district cattle that have received health approval for the showing at the Royal include: Shorthorns from the Louada Manor Farm in Harvey township; Holsteins—N. W. McConkey and A. D. Fleming estate, Reaboro; Shorthorns—M. H. Pimmett and Sons, Indian River and Roslyn Flett of Oakwood; Herefords—Ray Nokes of Manilla and John Junkin of Fenelon Falls who is sending two steers.

Neil Whitfield of North Monaghan is sending three steers, one each of the three breeds, Hereford, Angus and Shorthorn.

Quaker Opens Store

For customer convenience, Quaker Oats Co. have opened a store on Simcoe St., at the C.N.R., featuring a broad line of feeds. Walter Jones is manager. This location was secured for convenience of access for the public. Trucks and shipping business at lower level at the big mill on Hunter St. were a considerable obstacle and handicap to the retail outlet and its service to farmers.

THIS IS A FAR VISTA of the Peace River country as Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative, saw it on his summer holiday trip along the Alberta-British Columbia border. Most of the harvesting of the spring wheat is done by combines, but some stooking remains. Part of the Peace River district extends over the B.C. border. Mr. Paterson said there were still 12,000,000 acres left, but the best of that land up country in Alberta has been taken. It is land like this, with Saskatchewan and Manitoba, that has produced the splendid crops of the last three summers. Mountains of wheat have become an economic embarrassment, chiefly in the problem of transport. To see all the farm houses in this photograph, about a dozen, you require a magnifying glass to raise them out of the landscape.

Robt. Armstrong's Dawbul First Of Ontario Wheat

With a score of 96.125 points out of a possible 100, Robert Armstrong of Cavan is the winner of this year's 50-bushel winter wheat inter-county competition sponsored jointly by the Maple Leaf Milling Co., Ontario Crop Improvement Association, Ontario Department of Agriculture, and the department of field husbandry, OAC.

W. W. Dawson of Otonabee, the only other Peterborough district entry, placed fourth with 90.25 points, fractionally higher than the 1952 winner, Charles Osborne of Bowmanville, RR 2, whose score was 90.05 points.

The prize Mr. Armstrong received, with distinction of finishing first of 33 Ontario competitors, is $75 in cash and an engraved silver tray.

The announcement from Maple Leaf Milling came today to Frank C. Paterson, agricultural representative.

OTHER PRIZE WINNERS

Mr. Armstrong's score was five points more than the 91.125 for the second place wheat shown by Charles Casey of King, RR 3, York, who gets $60.

The others of the top ten of the 33 entries were: 3rd—William Latimer, Sutton West, York, 90.375 points, $50.

4th—W. W. Dawson, Otonabee, 90.25 points, $40.

5th—E. Ruthven, Port Hope, RR 3, Durham, 89.25 points, $30.

6th—Rosafe Farms (Hector Ostengo) Brampton, Peel, 88.75 pts. $25.

7th—R. K. Squair, Bowmanville, RR 4, Durham, 88.625 points, $20.

8th—George Jakeman, Beachville, RR 1, Oxford, 87,625 points, $15.

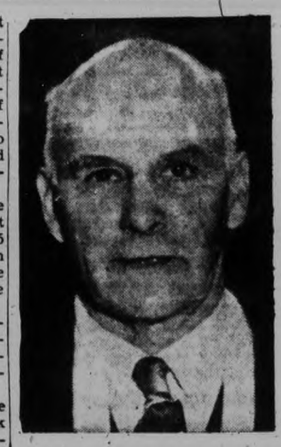
10.—John Kieffer, Mildmay, 2, Bruce, 87.5 points, $10.

Details of the possible score were: appearance of seed, 30 points, weight per bus. 10, weight per 1,000 kernels 10, disease free 10, protein content 20, time test, 20, determining the strength of gluten in the wheat sample.

WAS 29TH LAST YEAR

In the 1952 competition won by Mr. Osborne, with Don Metcalfe also of Bowmanville, RR 2, in second place, Mr. Armstrong's wheat stood 29 in the 34 entries, Harry Jackson of Emily township was 20th and R. Bonner of Cavan was 22nd. Mr. Squair of Durham was sixth, and this season 7th.

The 33 entries were from fifteen counties, and this is the first time a Peterborough district farmer has won the competition.



Robert Armstrong is president of the Peterborough Crop Improvement Association, and also of the Central Ontario Spring Show, formerly the Quinte District Seed Fair, whose exhibition in March is now permanently assigned to Peterborough, at Morrow Park.

Several hundred farmers of Durham and Peterborough saw the ten acres of Armstrong Dawbul wheat about a week before it was harvested. This was a joint twilight crop improvement meeting, including a visit to the winter wheat field.

Consensus of the farmers that night was that the Armstrong Dawbul would rate with the best in the province, including this winter wheat district.

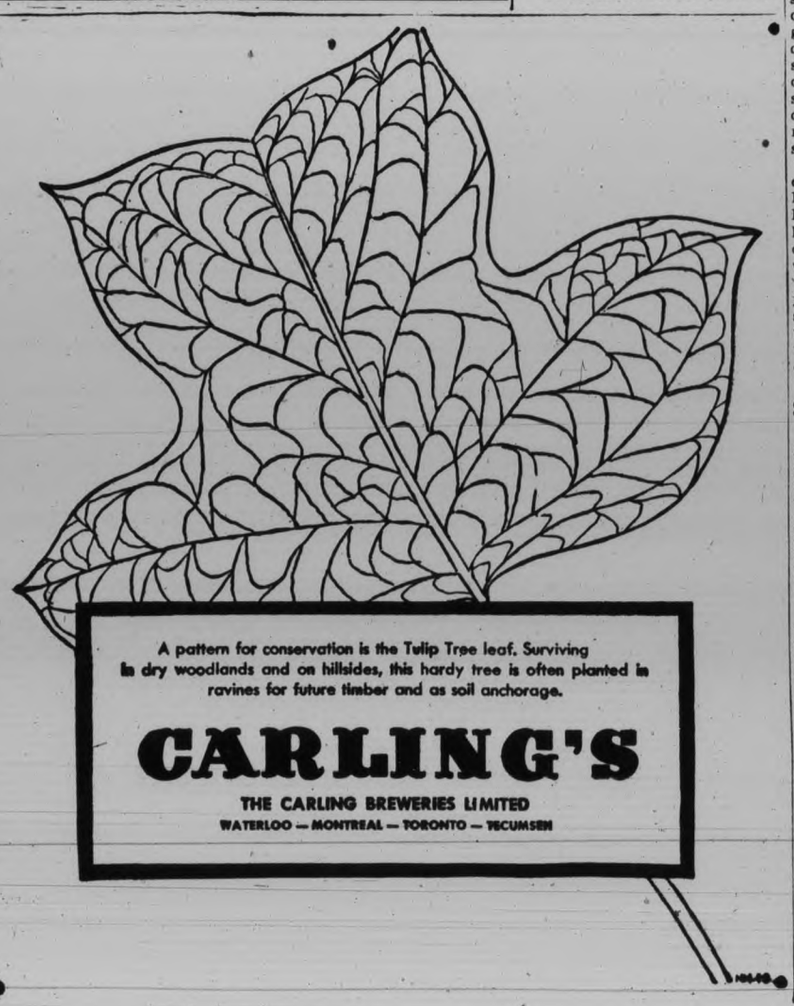
"SHOT" OF NITROGEN

When the grain was sprouting, Mr. Armstrong experimented with a treatment of nitrogen as a recommended pick-up for the crop recovering from its fall and winter slumber. The stimulating effect was noticeable all through the season in strong, tall stem growth and finally full heads. Visitors' estimates of the crop set the minimum at 60 acres.

ROBERT ARMSTRONG
"Nitrogen Helped"

The final test emerges from the inter-county competition, confirming all the good opinions of it through the season of growth.

Incidentally, the distributor box ran out of the fertilizer part way down the field, last spring, leaving a contrasting strip, quite accidentally, that served to emphasize the advantages of the nitrogen "shot in the arm".



Mr. Armstrong's many friends in the district will be delighted in his success. He is one of the rather few farmers who specialize in registered seed, an interest of his for some years. His township is in Durham county, and Peterborough would be the last to try to make claim on the distinction which Mr. Armstrong has earned for it, especially after the Osborne win last year.

However, the Armstrong farm is comparatively close to Peterborough, and it has been a convenience for him to associate himself with some of this county's interests, notably with the Peterborough Crop Improvement Association.

25 Peterborough Farms Adopt Re-Planning Among 400 In Ontario

Plowing across the slope of a hill, instead of up and down, as a means of preventing erosion of the top soil, can lead to gulleying unless as a change of practice it is intergrated into a scheme of replanning the farm.

That was a caution expressed by Lynn Fair, agricultural representative in Ontario county said here Monday.

Towards the close of the panel discussion on replanning farms at No. 4 Zone meeting of the Conservation Council of Ontario at the Kawartha Club, Mr. Fair said he had seen instances of gulleying on some farms where cross-plowing was adopted without relation to other phases of a re-planning program.

More than 400 farms in Ontario have been replanned or are in the course of it, as reported to the meeting of 55 men from seven central Ontario counties who are trying to promote conservation of forest, soil, water and wildlife. Tom Lane of the soils department of OAC said around 80 farms in York and 60 in Ontario county have been replanned, or the work is in progress.

Others are: Durham 8, Peterborough about 25, Northumberland, Victoria three or four each, Hastings two.

Frank C. Paterson, panel chairman, said that replanning was a service of the Department of Agriculture that was available on application. "We are not trying to coax any farmers to adopt re-planning, but we try to do the best we can for those who are seriously interested."

LAND USE MAP

Mr. Lane said that applications are made through the county offices of the department. Preparation of a land use map is a fundamental provision. Soil is tested, fields are classified, questions of drainage, rotations, fertility and other details are considered depending on the conditions of the individual farm. Some area may be recommended for reforesting. The lay of the land may suggest strip-farming as a check on erosion.

"There has been the odd farm where we couldn't suggest any change," Mr. Lane said. "Others are flat and need only better fertility program and a good rotation. Re-planning is no fad. It is intended to help the farmer make better use of his lands and also make his farm more profitable."

On the panel with Mr. Paterson were: Reg. McMullen of Smith; Roy Sanderson, Bailieboro; Milford White of Elizabethville, Mr. Lane and with him Ken King also of OAC soils department.

Mr. White said his re-planning decision was prompted by experience on his rolling farm, filling holes and washouts in the spring, wondering about yellow soil in deep plowing, reading about contour practice and finally coming closer to it in the Ganaraska project discussions. It was not a matter of taking over ten acres as a unit. The whole farm had been involved. Some fences were removed.

Obvious loss of tons of soil in ten acres of corn during a downpour of rain in 1947 sharpened Mr. McMullen's thinking. "I figured that it was time we had to do something about it."

Ken King said the quantity might have been 50 tons. That loss was possible. On an acre basis at OAC in similar conditions the soil loss from one storm was estimated at 200 tons.

SAW LOSS OF SOIL

When he was farming on the Chemong road just north of Peterborough, Roy Sanderson said he used to notice nearly every spring the amount of soil carried into the ditches by surface water. "Today there is almost none," Mr. Sanderson said.

He had called on Mr. Paterson and plans were laid, stone fence, ten feet wide at the bottom was moved, but before the operation was completed, the government came along and said "get out."

In other words, the Sanderson farm was acquired for the land assembly scheme providing ample space for the extension of the city.

He told having driven about 10,000 miles looking for another farm, did a lot of soil testing and finally selected the property "in Bailieboro, and I like it very much indeed."

"Before I had bought that place, and after taking 30 soil samples, Mr. Paterson said the department was willing to step in and help. I had seen the value of the system of re-planning.

"I wasn't thinking so much about myself. You have to be patient with farm changes. I was thinking of my boys, and whatever I could do for the coming generation.

SANDERSON PHILOSOPHY

"I came to the conclusion years ago that you don't own too much in this world. But, we can ask ourselves: 'Are we going to leave the land as good as we got it, or leave it a little better.' That is largely why I went into re-establishing the farm at Bailieboro."

Mr. Sanderson has begun work on a broad plan for improving it, a long term rehabilitation scheme.

Mr. White said it was still too early to assess the results of his change. "However, we've sold 35 acres off the farm, and it is still maintaining the same number of cattle as before."

Mr. White mentioned his strip cropping, rotation and fertility plan.

GAINS ARE GRADUAL

Heber Down of Brooklyn spoke, in part, in the vein of Roy Sanderson. You can't get in a hurry rebuidling a farm. It takes a long time for a farm to run down, and likewise to restore it.

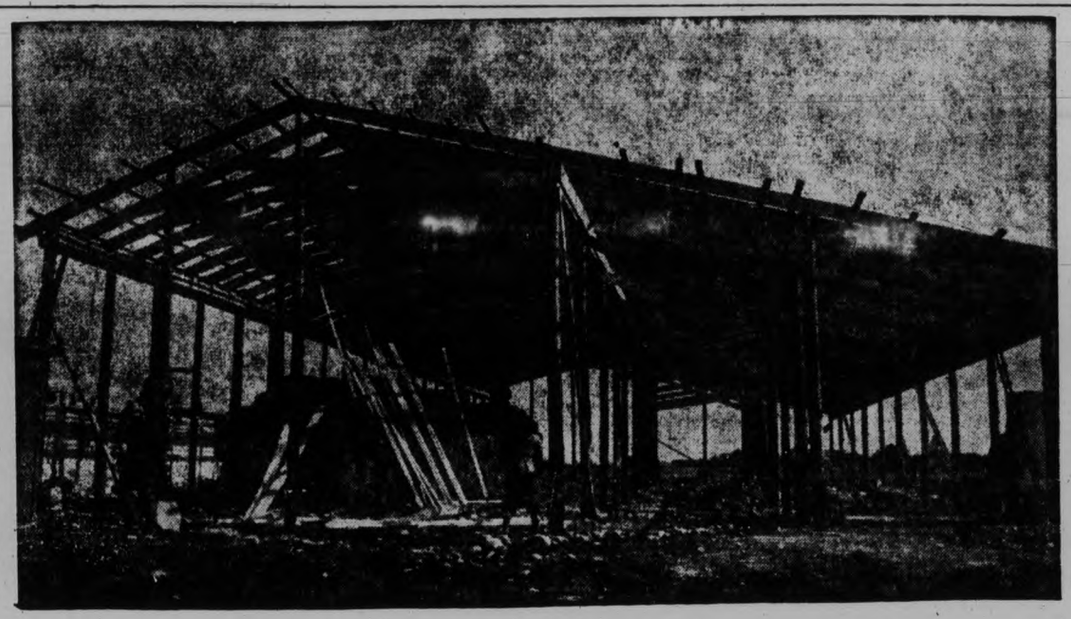
"I'm convinced that conservation pays off, but you have to look to the future," he said. "I considered myself a pretty good farmer, and it wouldn't have looked just right if there had been any immediate big change."

Farmers recall the day's concentrated revamping of the Heber Down farm near Brooklin several years ago. A detail of the work was the terracing that went along with the strip design to get effective control of surface water, and to prevent possible gulleying.

"Although we thought our farm was pretty well improved all the time, I can say that the re-planning is paying off. I consider it is worth twice as much as it was before."

Mr. Lane cited the results of the re-planning of the farm of James Speers, Bradford. From 1946 to 1953 production of wheat increased 62%, mixed grains 53%, hay 75%, total livestock capacity 54%.

NEEDED MORE STORAGE



One result on the other side of the ledger was the necessity of building a new addition to the barn for excess storage. Use of the land was formerly 60 acres in grain and 30 in hay. Those proportions have been reversed.

"As to the barn expense," Mr. Lane said, "that shouldn't be too long straightening out."

Mr. King emphasized a point in Mr. Paterson's remarks. Re-planning is not merely strip cropping and plowing on the contours, early evidences of change which neighbors once were inclined to regard as more or less crazy.

"We try to bring out good fertility practices," Mr. King said; "sampling the soil for testing as a guide to use; carefully decided rotation practice; the returning of crop residues to build up humus content and also stop wind and rain erosion. The result is that the whole farm gradually gets better all the time, rather than accomplishing some big change over night."

Contributing to the discussion were Ken Petrie, Bert Armstrong and Dan Nill.

POLE BARNS ARE POPULAR—Pole construction offers a low cost method of building farm structures. Using this method, farm buildings can be erected which will be serviceable for about fifty years. Basically they consist of poles set in the ground checkerboard fashion to support the roof and sidewalls. Rough lumber can be used throughout and cutting and fitting reduced to a minimum. Tests have shown that untreated Eastern cedar poles will last for about twenty years while pressure-creosoted pine poles have a service life of approximately fifthy years. Because of the high cost of conventional barn construction pole structures are becoming increasingly popular and are being used for housing many kinds of livestock.

Canadian Troops In Germany Move Into New Barracks

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOEST, Germany (CP)—Operation "come and go", the largest peacetime transfer of troops overseas in the Canadian Army's history, is approaching completion amid a marked absence of the usual soldierly gripes. In fact, everybody's happy.

Homeward-bound Canadians are glad to be going back after a tour of duty in Germany, and incoming soldiers speak in superlatives about their brand-new barracks in rural country beside the Moehne dam.

"As the saying goes, we've never had it so good," says Lt.-Col. S. U. Waters, a fast rising young officer who joined the army from the University of Alberta in 1941 and now commands one of the four new Canadian camps in Germany.

Beyond doubt, the happiest man among the Canadians is Pte. Robert Angus of Toronto, who runs the gleaming, gadget-strewn cookhouse at one camp.

"I've cooked in Toronto (Royal York hotel) and in several American cities but I've never seen anything like this," said Angus, pointing to kitchen contraptions as complicated as the guts of a jet fighter.

"Give me three fatigues and with this kind of equipment I'll whip up a meal for 400 men.

His favorite device is a huge mixer equally handy for hamburgers or ice cream.

More or less the same approval runs through all comments on the camps, spread over 35 miles of rolling agricultural land in Westphalia. Two are near Soest, one of the towns of the old Hanseatic League, and the others outside Werl and Hemer.

The barracks were built to British Army design and were completed in time to accommodate the first main party of Capadian troops, who reached here by train from Rotterdam Oct. 31. Other detachments arrive every week in a rotation movement involving a total of nearly 10,000 troops, nearly half of whom are going home.

NEW BRIGADE TITLE

The new headquarters in the Soest area will be known as the 1st Canadian infantry brigade group, replacing the 27th infantry brigade which for the last two years has been stationed outside Hannover and smaller centres such as Hoehne and Hameln. The 27th brigade now goes out of existence.

Brig. W. A. B. Anderson, 38-year-old career soldier who heads the 1st infantry brigade, told reporters the move presented problems similar to those which might be encountered by a force moving into the vicinity of Canadian communities such as Kingston, Belleville, Smiths Falls and Gananoque, Ont.

"I think we Canadians are essentially a small-town people, and we should be able to get along in what is essentially small - town country," said Brig. Anderson, who was born in Montreal.

CAMP COMFORTS

Other officers felt the switch away from Hannover, with all its temptations, would be a salutary thing. The new bases will have gymnasia, shows, canteens, soda fountains and ultimately even schools, run by Canadian teachers, making the base more of a self-contained unit.

The barracks are single-storey buildings of lime green and cream, each accommodating a minimum of 15 soldiers. They are set in some of the most beautiful scenery in Germany.

Tourist hotels in the district may soon shelter Canadian dependents. Although married quarters will not be ready until next summer, some officers hope to beat the gun.

Blame Russians For Decline Price Of Gold

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The price of gold has been falling on the world market. And, as with so many things, the Russians are suspected of being back of it.

The price of a gold bar in the so-called free markets has slipped nearly 30 per cent since March, 1952. Last week it brought only a fraction of a dollar more than the official price set by the U. S. treasury, $35 an ounce.

After the Second World War the price of gold on some black markets went as high as $60 an ounce.

Reports persist that Russia has been selling some of her large hoard of gold, thus weakening its price by increasing its supply in free or black markets.

Bankers believe that Russia has been selling gold for the currencies of other nations where she wants to buy consumer goods. Russia is believed to have one of the largest gold hoards of any government.

The Bank of England is in the market to buy gold when it can as it wants to build up its reserves. Russia, on the other hand, can use sterling to buy commodities.

If the price of gold falls a little more, the Bank of France may be authorized to buy it, reports from Paris say.

An important point in the shift in the price of gold on the free market is that as gold becomes less attractive to hoarders, closer comes the day when leading nations can make their currencies freely convertible.

Six Human Beings Sold At 1849 Auction With Oxen, Cattle, Hounds

Six negro slaves were listed as farm chattels at an auction sale in Kentucky just one hundred years ago.

The dates of the U.S. civil war of course confirm the fact of slavery in English speaking America until late in the 19th century, but sentiment and self-respect tend to suggest that abolition was accomplished much earlier in the history of this continent.

A newspaper clipping from Braden Bullock, Lakefield, RR 2, of a farm sale in 1849 brings the existence of slavery in the American community into sharp focus with a sense of shock. That was the year Peterborough was incorporated as a town, and it was 25 years later that the war between the North and South brought freedom to the negroes of the United States.

The sale was at the farm of J. L. Mess in Linn county, Kentucky. The indictment of the American democracy is casually indicated in the following paragraph: "At the same time I will sell my six negro slaves, two men 35 and 50 years old; two boys 12 and 18 years old, and two mulatto wenches, 40 and 30 years old. We will sell all together to same party and will not separate them."

Farmers reading this clipping from the Fairview Post, Alberta, may dwell upon the implications of that quotation from an old advertisement.

TREK TO OREGON

Farmer Mess announced that, having sold his farm, he was leaving for the Oregon territory by ox team, and would sell at public auction on March 1, 1849, "all my personal property" . . .

The way of life a century ago in Kentucky is reflected in the items that were left behind . . .

"All ox teams, except two teams, Buck and Ben and Tom and Jerry; two milk cows; one gray mare; one colt; one pair of oxen and yoke; one baby yoke; two ox carts, 1,000 feet of poplar weather boards.

"Plow with wooden moldboards; 800 to 1,000 feet of clapboards; 1,500 ten-foot fence rails; 160 gallon soap kettle; 85 (maple) sugar troughs made of white ash timber.

Ten gallons of maple syrup; two spinning wheels; 30 lbs. of mutton tallow. One large loom made by Jerry Wilson. 300 poles, 100 split hoops, 100 empty barrels.

STOCK OF BOURBON

One 32-gallon barrel of Johnson Miller whiskey seven years old; 20 gallons of apple brandy; one 40 gallon copper still; one dozen real books; two handle hooks, three scythes and cradles; one dozen wooden spiles (tapping maples); bullet mold and powder horn; rifle made by Ben Miller; 50 gallons of soft soap.

Hams, bacon and lard; 40 gallons of Sorghum molasses; six head of fox hound, all soft mouth except one . . .

Terms of sale cash in hand or to draw 4% interest with Bom McConnel as security.

My home is two miles south of Versailles, Kentucky, on McConnel Ferry Pike.

Sale will begin at 8 a.m. Plenty to eat and drink. J. L. Mess."

That "ad" is quite a broad transcript of rural life in the United States when Abraham Lincoln was a young and obscure lawyer.

NO FACTORY PRODUCTS

Apparently all the utensils and implements were made by hand, and virtually every item recalls a detail of rural living that might not be recognized by the Junior Farmers today.

The mutton tallow was for making candles, and thereby the illumination of homes; the bullet mold and the powder horn tell their own story; and evidently every farmer could have a licit still on his premises. The stock of apple brandy and Johnson Miller whisky seven years old (knock your hat off) may be a mirror of conviviality that has been corrected by change of manners and ideas in Old Kentucky.

Mr. Bullock's clipping is quite a sizable volume from the incomplete library of Americana.

Enter Sten-Gun As Evidence Against Elliott

WOODSTOCK (CP)—A sten-gun, along with 24 other exhibits, were entered as evidence at a special court session Thursday, to hear the charge against Henry Elliott, 24, Lucknow, of shooting a loaded sten gun with intent to cause grievous bodily harm.

Ten witnesses were called by Crown Attorney A. C. Whaley. Elliott through defence counsel John Burridge entered a not guilty plea to the charge.

The crown is attempting to prove that Elliott was the sten-gun-wielding man who fired a fusilade of shots into the farm home of George McBurney, 49, Embro, in the early hours of Sept. 26.

A neighbor of McBurney's, Harry Birtch, testified a man came to his door Sept. 26, and threatened him with a machine gun. Mr. Birtch later described the gun as a sten-gun. The man left when he learned there was no car available at the farm.

KNOCK ON DOOR

McBurney testified that Saturday morning someone knocked at his door. "I opened the window and asked who was there. Someone said there was an accident down the road and wanted to use the phone."

McBurney described how when he opened the door a man jumped in front of him levelling a gun at him.

McBurney slammed the door shut and jumped back into the kitchen. "Almost simultaneously with the shutting of the door," McBurney said, "the shots started. My dog dropped dead at my feet with a bullet in its throat."

THREE BURSTS

He said there had been three bursts through the door and one later in his car which had been parked near the house. He could not identify the person who fired the gun.

Magistrate R. C. Groom adjourned the special session until Wednesday.

Provide Homes For 3,000 Servicemen Now Serving In France And Germany

Married quarters for Canadians in NATO forces will form new suburbs for towns nearby. In this story, fourth in a series of five, Bill Boss tells how the Canadian government is providing homes for its servicemen in Germany and France. Saturday: How it feels to dive in a jet.

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BONN, Germany (CP) — More than 3,000 homes for married Canadian servicemen and 107 schoolrooms for their children are being provided in Germany and France.

In Germany, where most of the construction will be, the builder and landlord will be the German government.

In France, the Canadian government has exchanged letters with a private contracting firm which may lead to a contract under which the company will build housing to be leased by the RCAF.

Canada does not get ownership of barracks and other service installations she occupies in these countries under NATO. Similarly, in the housing programs she merely guarantees fixed rentals for five years, subject to renegotiation thereafter at lower figures.

WEST GERMAN DEAL

Canada has announced conclusion of an $18,000,000 agreement with West Germany to build 2,202 housing units and 68 schoolrooms for the army and RCAF. Sites are being chosen.

German contractors are being advanced the necessary capital by the German government. Canada is helping with a 10-per-cent prepayment of $1,800,000—in effect an interest-free loan—and a guarantee of occupancy at an annual rental of a similar 10 per cent.

The French program comes up for study Nov. 15, when the private company expects to satisfy Canada that it has sufficient finances for the job; that it has a sufficient interest in the necessary land; and that its plans and specifications have been approved by the proper French and Canadian government authorities.

MADE NO ESTIMATE

The company has given no estimate of its probable expenditure in building 1,014 housing units and 39 schoolrooms scheduled for Metz and sites near Gros Tenquin and Marville airdromes.

If the company is able to meet the Canadian conditions, Canada is prepared to sign contracts to pay an annual rental of about $1,683,400 during the first five years of occupancy, subject to renegotiation thereafter.

The first German quarters are to be ready early in March and the program is to be completed by next November. The French timetable extends from next April to July, 1955.

Real tenant in Germany and France will be the Canadian government, which will sub-let to servicemen.

How rentals will be recovered by the services has to be worked out. The army and air force charge for quarters according to rank of a serviceman; an airman occupying a three-bedroom apartment pays less than an officer with similar quarters.

The projected French contract specifies laid-down rates for each type of accommodation. A two-bedroom apartment must be sub-let at $93.80 monthly, a four-bedroom apartment at $129, regardless of the occupant's rank. Some form of sliding-scale allowances will have to be worked out to accommodate the rentals-by-rank policy.

OVER-ALL RENTAL

In Germany the Canadian government pays a flat over-all rental. It may apportion rentals as it wishes.

For almost the same annual rental, Canada will obtain roughly twice as much accommodation in Germany as in France.

Both in Germany and France, the housing developments will be four to 13 miles from the stations. They will form new suburbs for existing towns so that they are ultimately suitable for civilian use.

The question of providing medical and dental care for servicemen's dependents is under cabinet study in Ottawa.

HOSPITAL PLANS

Plans are ready here to establish a complete service hospital in Germany or add Canadian increments—including nursing sisters, gynaecologists and pediatricians—to existing British service hospitals.

Meanwhile, RCAF station hospitals are trying to serve the 655 mothers and children already on the continent. The stations are prepared to deliver 40 babies expected in December, but are not equipped for surgery.

In Germany the married quarters will be furnished by the German ministry of finance, according to Canadian specifications, and at Canadian cost, if the army so requires. There is no similar provision with the French contractors.

SCHOOLHOUSE ABROAD—More than 3,000 homes for married Canadian Servicemen and 107 schools for their children are being provided in Germany and France. At the RCAF'S base at Gros Tenquin, France, a temporary school was set up in a corner of the hobby shop. Most of the children live with their parents in trailers rented from a British manufacturer.—(CP from National-Defence).

STATION LAUNDRY—Conditions vary at the various bases of the four wings of the RCAF's air division overseas. At Gros Tenquin, in a corner of France where dry cleaning laundries are almost unknown, the RCAF station laundry is a godsend. Sgt. A. H. Dean, of Winnipeg, instructs a French employee in the dry cleaning part of the business. —(CP from National Defence).

Soldier Electrocuted At Camp Ipperwash

IPPERWASH (CP)—Pte. Joseph Ernest Victor Pacquette, 23, of the 2nd battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, was electrocuted at the army camp here Thursday night.

His widow, Jacqueline, lives at Grand Bend. He is also survived by two small children and his parents who live in the Sudbury district.

He was found lying on the ground at a hydro unit near a high-tension wire leading into the camp, authorities said. He had a piece of metal in his possession and it was thought he had climbed a hydro pole.

Paratrooper's Statement Admitted As Evidence

STRATFORD (CP) — A statement typed out by a paratrooper last February, in which he described shooting a young girl, was admitted as evidence in a murder trial late Thursday.

The statement, given to police by Reuben Henry Norman, was the last evidence in the second day of the trial.

Norman charged with shooting Jean Marie Satchell, 17, said in the statement that when "she did not wish to discuss our past and future I pulled out the gun and emptied the magazine into her body."

WAITED FOR GIRL

The statement, signed by Norman said he removed the gun, an automatic pistol from his brother Stan's fishing box and drove to Stratford where he "parked the car on a street where I knew she would be going to lunch."

He waited in a store doorway and when the girl came by "I stepped out and asked if we could talk. She said 'No' I asked why she had messed things up and she said because she wanted to . . . When she did not wish to discuss our past and future I pulled out the gun and emptied the magazine into her body."

GAVE SELF UP

Norman wrote that he then started toward the nearby Stratford police station "to turn myself in."

Detective Mark Anthony said Norman did not fight and even typed the word "murder" at top of the statement in the blank space provided for the charge.

The girl was shot at noon last Feb. 2 as she walked along a street in Stratford's business section.

Marilyn Satchell, 16-year-old sister of the murdered girl, told of Norman visiting Jean Marie at her grandparents home in Stratford the Saturday night before the shooting. When Norman was told the two girls were going out together and he was not included in the party, he followed them for a short distance in his car and tried to talk to them.

FOND OF NORMAN

In cross examination by defence counsel K. V. Stratotn she said her sister had been "fond" of Norman and agreed with counsel that a sudden change in attitude had confused Norman.

Alvin Jones, one of several eye witnesses called to testify in the shooting, said he told Norman that "You'd better go to the police", and Norman replied he was on the way.

When Jones, who went to assist the girl after the shooting, turned to Norman a few seconds later and suggested he should call a doctor, Norman replied "She won't need a doctor now" and fired three more shots into the girl's head.

18,500 Canadians On Strike Across Six Provinces

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Upwards of 18,500 Canadians are on strike in Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Major tieups are the mining strike which has made 5,000 idle in northern Ontario, about 2,000 in northwestern Quebec and the British Columbia woods-workers strike which affects 10,000.

In Timmins, Ont. area the strike, which since July has progressively closed down eight of the 11 gold mines, continues. Demands for checkoff of union dues and wage increases are main issues. One of the idle mines, Hollinger, this week held talks with the union but announced it still is determined not to collect dues for the United Steel workers (CIO-CCL).

There has been no sign of a break in the strike at Noranda mines and several other producers in the Rouyn-Noranda area of northwestern Quebec.

SEEK INCREASE

Striking B. C. woods workers, members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO-CCL), seek an increase of 18 cents in their hourly pay, now $1.29½ an hour. Five thousand men in timber cutting and associated trades have been on strike in the northern section for six weeks and about as many in the south for three.

Last week 300 workers at the Burns and Company meat packing plant in Vancouver returned to work after a 10-day strike arising from the demotion of a trucker. Another dispute was settled when 600 B. C. Electric Company employees voted to accept a company wage offer.

About 720 steel workers have been on strike since Sept. 29 against Manitoba Bridge and Engineering Limited and Dominion Bridge, former subsidiary, in Winnipeg to back demands for higher pay and shorter hours. The only labor trouble in western Manitoba is a walkout by 40 boiler makers at the Canadian Brown Steel Tank Company at Brandon in a wage dispute.

A threatened strike by 15,000 paper-mill workers in Ontario was averted this week when representatives of the men accepted a three-per-cent wage increase.

TAKE-HOME PAY

In Quebec, 575 employees of Howard Smith Paper plants in Crabtree Mills and Beauharnois have been on strike for two months. Main difference between management and union hinges on the union's demand for a 40-hour week pay.

About 130 employees of Maritime Steel and Foundries Limited at New Glasgow, N. S., went on strike almost a month ago to enforce demands for pay increases. The continuing strike has put 40 non-strikers temporarily out of work as well.

Seventy-four teachers at Jasper Place near Edmonston voted 72-2 Tuesday in favor of a strike in a wage dispute. A government conciliation board recommended an increase but the school board rejected it.

No strikes have been reported in Alberta, Saskatchewan, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island or Newfoundland.

AWARDED DFC—Capt. Peter J. A. Tees, 30, of Vancouver, a Canadian army flyer, has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for services in Korea. Capt. Tees, a pilot with the Royal Canadian Artillery, was attached to an independent air observation flight of the RAF with the 1st Commonwealth Division in Korea. His job was to direct gun fire for divisional and corps artillery.

Board Of Censors Bans Strip Tease In Boston

By JAMES CALOGERO

BOSTON (AP)—Boston, a stronghold for burlesque for more than half a century, will probably never again be thrilled by the tease of the stripper.

The board of censors Thursday ordered the city's two burlesque theatres—the 108-year-old Howard and the larger Casino—closed for the rest of the year because their shows were too dirty.

Major John B. Hynes, as spokesman for the three-man censorship board, didn't know whether the licences of the two theatres would be renewed the first of the year.

"But if they are," he said, "there'll be a whole new set of rules and regulations—more stringent than they are now." And he hinted broadly that if burlesque is allowed to return to Boston, the stripper will have to do a fade-out.

STRIPPERS OUTLAWED

What's more, there's little danger that the strippers will take to the nightclubs as they did in New York where burlesque has been banned since Fiorello la Guardia was Mayor.

Strip-Teasers have been outlawed from Boston night clubs for more than two years.

The old Howard and Casino theatres were ordered closed as a result of a municipal court conviction last week of three strip-teasers and the managers of both theatres on charges that they presented and participated in immoral shows.

Secret 16-millimetre movies made by police from the balconies helped bring about the convictions.

CALCULATED TO AROUSE

District Attorney Garret H. Byrne, who fought for the closures before the censorship board, said of the movies:

"They reveal a combination of indecent nudity combined with body motions of a most extreme intensity which have but one purpose—to arouse and excite members of the audience."

Rose la Rose, one of the strippers fined, told reporters: "It's a legitimate art, just like any other form of musical expression."

She pulled out a press clipping which termed her the "Mistress of Suspense, who reveals secrets of the plot bit by bit. She is the plot, and unfolds it bump by bump."

One-Striper Holds Down Job Of Flight Deck Officer

HALIFAX (CP)—Mr. Greco—or commissioned Airman Charles Greco, Royal Canadian Navy—left the aircraft carrier Magnificent recently to take up an appointment in the School of Naval Aircraft Maintenance at HMCS Shearwater in neighboring Dartmouth.

Mr. Greco (the Mr. is the proper naval term for his rank) probably is the only one-striper in any navy to hold down the job of flight deck officer, or "traffic cop" for the carrier's planes and fliers.

Mr. Greco was the boss of a team responsible for ranging the aircraft before takeoff and parking them after landing. He was also personally responsible for the signal sending each plane off the flattop. His voice has been made hoarse by shouting against roaring aircraft engines.

Born at Winnipeg, Dec. 8, 1917, Mr. Greco joined the navy in 1938. He was serving in the Restigouche when that ship took part in the evacuation of France. He later served in the armed yacht Lynx and corvettes Chicoutimi, Shediac and Kamsack on Atlantic convoy patrol. After that came the minesweeper Transcona and destroyer Skeena.

After the war, Mr. Greco transferred to aircraft handling and in 1946 became chief of the flight deck of the carrier Warrior. He was appointed flight deck officer of the Magnificent in April, 1952. A former football player, he found that his sureness of foot was an advantage in his job where a false step can mean death in a whirring propeller.

Mr. Greco was married in 1940 to the former Geraldine Connors of Halifax. They have two daughters, 12 and seven years old.

Trailer Camp Ideal Place For Show People To Live

By RICHARD KLEINER

MOONACHIE, N.J. (NEA)—It was a typical afternoon at the trailer park. The Apache dancers were sleeping, the mind reader was working on his lawn, the bicyclist was fixing his son's toy and the chimps were happily playing in their cages.

This particular trailer park, the Metropolitan, has become the modern counterpart of the old theatrical boarding house. Of 165 trailers in residence at the moment, 21 belong to show people. There are musicians, dancers, actors, animal trainers, acrobats, skaters. They live in the trailers, rehearse behind the laundry room and work as often as they can in New York, 30 minutes away through the Lincoln Tunnel.

Some of them keep their trailers here permanently, never "pulling" them. Others take them out behind their cars for long jumps. One family has logged 70,000 miles in the past three years, playing the fair circuit in the summers. Another has yet to move their trailer off its blocks.

For show people, a trailer park is an ideal place to live. The acts themselves give different reasons, but they boil down to three essential facts—it's inexpensive, it's homelike, and it can move.

* * *

Pierre and Julie Villenave — "The Cycling Villenaves"—go out every summer for 20 weeks to play fairs.

"Now we don't even have to pack a suitcase," says Pierre. "Before we were in and out of hotels, packing and unpacking. This way our son is always in familiar surroundings, we all eat better and we save. We were figuring the other day—it used to cost us $105 a week to live on the road. This way perhaps $7 a week for parking and $35 or so for food."

The Metropolitan draws show people for several reasons. Some parks won't take children, but Metropolitan does. And the management is careful to page residents for telephone calls, and there is the back of the laundry room available for practice.

"We go some places," says Julie, "and they say, 'Ugh, show people.' But here they are friendly."

Another couple, Nick and Vickie Collins, two young tap dancers, are currently doing their act in Camden, 85 miles south. Yet every night they drive the 85 miles back to their trailer, getting home about 4 a.m.

"This way," says blonde Vickie, "we're home, and we have our afternoons to see agents and so forth. If we stayed in a hotel in Camden, all that time would be wasted."

The Collinses looked at an apartment in a nearby development, and found it too expensive, so they bought a trailer. The're close to New York, which is what they want, and close to Teterboro Airport, where Nick teaches flying.

Don Greenwood, a mentalist, and his wife, Thelma, a magician, play mostly for private banquets and parties in and around New York. So they never pull their trailer, yet they say they wouldn't think of living anywhere else.

One feature they like is that their show business friends are close by. The old trouping tradition — a "night lunch" after they get home—often turns into a big party in somebody's trailer. And there's room for the family cat to play, and friends for the Greenwoods' son.

There's privacy when they want to sleep late, and companionship when they want to talk to somebody.

As far as the park's management is concerned, show people are always welcome.

"We'd be happy if the whole park was show people," says pretty Mrs. Pat Wetzel, who runs the office. "They're no trouble at all."

About the only complaint was a mild one registered by the Villenaves. In their bicycle act, Julie rides around on Pierre's shoulders as he wheels about on a one-wheeler. The laundry room roof is too low for them to practice that part of their act.

TRAILER MAGIC—In the kitchen of their mobile home at Moonachie, N.J., Don Greenwood, "mentalist" and magician, gets a cup of coffee from his wife, Thelma, who's also a magician.

TRAILER REHEARSAL—Outside their home, Pierre and Julie, "The Cycling Villenaves," rehearse their unicycle act. Both the act and the home go on the road in summer to play fairs.

Power Steering May Be Standard In Five Years

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — Power steering probably will be standard equipment on most automobiles within the next five years.

About two years old on passenger cars, power steering has taken a firmer hold on driver fancy than anything the car industry's engineers have developed since the advent of mass production.

A growing number of parts suppliers are going into the production of power units. Competition among them promises early reduction of manufacturing and retail costs.

Since Chrysler first introduced power steering on its larger cars several variations of the device have been brought out. There have been "integral" units, "booster" devices, "full power" steering and the type that operates only after a certain amount of manual pressure has been exerted.

KEEN CONTROVERSY

A keen controversy has been carried on in the industry as to the merits of the "full power" and the unit that takes over only after some manual effort has been applied. Advocates of the latter method claim it retains more of the "normal" steering "feel."

Retail prices for power steering range between $130 and $200. In many instances the unit costs approximately the same as an automatic transmission. However, the conviction is growing that power steering will reach the standard equipment stage before automatic transmissions.

When power steering becomes standard it isn't likely its price will be absorbed by the car makers. However, the prediction that it will be made standard is based on the manufacturers' assumption that increased production should bring a sharp reduction in manufacturing costs.

"CHOPPERS" PRACTICE LIFE SAVING — A powerful downdraft from the whirling blades of a U.S. Air Force H-19 rescue helicopter spreads out a circle of ripples on the surface of the Han River near Seoul. The plane was caught the instant it was about to touch the water in a simulated rescue of a downed pilot. Called "Choppers," they have made some 1,000 life-saving operations during the Korean war. This mission was flown by the 2157th Air Rescue Squadron.

Fiji Islanders Are Short Of Whale Teeth

SUVA, Fiji (CP)—Fijian officials by scouring the world for supplies have managed to ease the gravest shortage facing this South Pacific British colony. They have augmented the depleted supply of whale's teeth.

One official, in Britain for the Coronation, had a great windfall. A Scottish firm offered to sell several hundred whale's teeth. The offer was eagerly accepted.

Another Fijian official on a visit to New Zealand patiently searched museums and other collections for spare supplies. He returned with 33 whale's teeth.

The teeth are highly treasured in Fiji because they play an essential part in traditional ceremonies and customs, especially those connected with birth, marriage and death. Once they were used also as currency.

Down the years visitors have bought many as souvenirs, especially during the war when American servicemen bought so many that the supply was gravely depleted. It has not been possible to obtain sufficient from natural sources to replenish stocks.

This caused serious difficulties to the natives in carrying out their traditional ceremonies. Even with the new supplies there is still a shortage.

For the last five years export of whale's teeth without a permit has been prohibited. Now a total ban on export has been imposed, with one exception. This is the whale's tooth, the finest to be found in the islands, which will be presented to the Queen on her visit at the end of the year.

Canadian Cowhand Typed As Britain's Star Cowboy

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Cowboy Cal McCord studied for years to become a comedian. Now the former real-life cowhand in British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba finds himself typed as Britain's equivalent of the cowboy hero of North American movies and television.

The stock actor ended his career as a funnyman after six years of promoting Canadian Army shows in Europe. Since then McCord, his six-guns and his favorite mount Ladybird have become known to thousands of Britons through radio, television and personal appearances.

"I figured I was a good comedian," he says. "At least Canadian service men seemed to like me and they made tough audiences."

BACK IN SADDLE

After leaving the army in 1947, McCord came to London and appeared as a tough old rancher in a radio series called "Riders of the Range." It was a mistake—since then they've rarely let him take off his Stetson.

McCord—the Cal is short for Calby, in turn derived from Callum Benjamin—was born of an English mother and American father. He spent much of his life in Canada and the United States and did plenty of hard riding for real and dude ranches in both countries. Now his mother and five sisters have settled in Quebec and Ontario.

McCord and Ladybird drew big crowds recently in a provincial experiment by a cinema house combine. Box-office receipts at provincial houses here have been down and the management figured they might recoup by substituting a live variety show for films.

McCord spent two weeks at two small towns in Nottinghamshire in Semptember, riding, shooting and roping and running amateur talent shows. It was so successful that the combine has booked him for a three - month provincial tour starting next February.

Before the Coronation McCord broke away from cowboy parts to play an ex-RCMP character in a west end detective play, and was disappointed. The play folded in 10 weeks although McCord got good reviews.

JUVENILE FANS

Right now McCord is doing one-night stands in the province to publicize a television children's serial he will start at the end of the year. Television producers have been interested in a McCord feature since he made a popular children's serial called "How to become a Cowboy."

He has a one-third share in a dude ranch at Upminster, Essex, outside London. He calls it the Triple C ranch and it's popular with would-be cowboy youngsters who write him weekly fan letters. Youngsters with money to pay the fees are taught full-leg military-cum-western style riding and a popular sport is trail riding.

McCord lives with his English wife, Eleanor, in Streatham, known as London's "Little Canada." The Streatham ice rink and hockey team of the English National Hockey League makes it difficult to walk around the south west district without hearing a Canadian accent. Ladybird is stabled at Wimbledon common. McCord's other mount, the half-arab Diana, spends most of her time at Upminster.

Roseneath News

Mrs. Eldon George and Eva Anne were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kelly Jr., Cobourg.

Mrs. Sarah Brown is visiting relatives in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson, Campbellford, visited Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bray and Helen Anne Clarke returned to Creighton Heights after spending a couple of days with Mrs. Eldon George.

Canadian Soldiers Adopt 88 Children In Orphanage

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HOEHNE, Germany (CP)—The orphanage stands amid russet woods in a quiet country lane. Inside 88 children play quietly or learn lessons, unaware they will never know a real father or mother.

Such is Hof Boitzen Kinderheim, a 20-room home for orphans and illegitimate children run by the Lutheran church, and it is possibly the only place in Germany where the word Kanadisch, meaning Canadian, is spoken with real pleasure and affection.

That is because Canadians have taken the orphans under their wing, giving the Canada shoulder flash a special prestige. Elsewhere in Germany, however good the army may be and however considerate its soldiers, a Canadian soldier is just another foreigner in uniform.

It's a different story at Hof Boitzen, because of a chance remark by a British colonel's wife at a cocktail party.

Col. John Roe, commander of the 79th field regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, and Capt. Ted Dossett, now back in Chilliwack, B.C., took the British wife's tip and decided the 79th should adopt the orphanage. The Lutherans had little cash and all the children used to get for Christmas was a cake of soap or a tube of toothpaste.

The adoption idea clicked. In a single month, soldiers stationed at Hoehne chipped in £55. They built swings and seesaws in the backyard and came to visit loaded with gifts.

SOB STORY

Sgt. James Hegan, Australia-born bachelor serving with the 79th, bought presents out of his own pocket and took them to his favorite orphan, a bright-eyed girl named Gerda. Sgt. Colin Netlhorpe of Granby, Que., ran Hegan a close second and Capt. Donald Howson of Stoney Lake, Ont., a padre, went to Hof Boitzen ostensibly to polish up his German.

"It's a sob story, a real tear jerker," say soldiers at Hoehne, recalling the case of the unidentified Canadian photographer who took shots of the orphans with tears trickling down his face. Now the lament is that the Canadians are leaving Hoehne, and going home, depriving them of a chance to help the orphans further.

The children range in age from three months to 15 years. Most are sons and daughters of displaced persons.

The children are segregated according to age. They are so short of space one infant is quartered with the superintendent, fraulein Stage, a rather reserved woman who now greets Canadians with delight. All the rooms bear the faint smell of bad plumbing, a feature of many German homes.

THE DEAD RETURN FROM THE SEA — A woman wanders over the graves in Kassel, Germany, after they became visible following the draining of Edersee Lake. The water was diverted to the Weser River to insure a proper level of water for boat traffic. The graves were covered with concrete casings before being covered by the artificial lake, created in 1914 to feed an electric power plant and canal system in the area.

Kinsmen's Ladies' Nights Features Hypnotist Act

Kinsmen of Peterborough are fully aware of the fact that time they spend at Kinsmen meetings and on the club's eye clinic service work could be devoted instead to entertaining their wives and girl friends. So, once a year they go all out for a ladies' night party to show the ladies they appreciate their generosity, and also their help and advice when needed.

There were 75 couples at this gala party at the Kawarthat Golf and Country Club Thursday evening. They had a delicious dinner, a form of stage entertainment different from any they have had before, and then dancing.

Each lady received a pair of fine gauge nylon hose, a small vial of perfume and several other favors, and a few others won handsome prizes.

The door prize draws, made during dinner, gave a large box of groceries to Mrs. Ernie Braund, whose husband operates a rival chain of grocery stores, and a quart of the ingredient for refreshing drinks to Mr. Mel Mackie. Twelve others donated prizes were given during the dancing.

The toast to the ladies proposed by one of the several bachelors in the club, Mr. John Corkery, was one to remember. Mr. Corkery employed an eloquence enhanced by his legal training to pay homage and adoration to the ladies and attributed all honor and success that may come to Kinsmen to the wives, mothers and sweethearts behind them.

A cleverly worded and witty reply was made to this toast by the very charming president of the Kinette Club, Mrs. Cameron A. Craig.

President Arthur Black spoke briefly in welcome to the ladies and introduced the committee responsible for the evening, Messrs. Bud LaPlante, Wm. Keen and George Stone.

Entertainer Bill Straiten was introduced by Kinsman Don Lawrie as an "amateur hypnotist". Mr. Straiten proved himself a "hypnotist", though surrounding circumstances made the act difficult. Mr. Jim Clark, manager of the Walkwell Shoe Store, was the volunteer subject put deep into a trance on the stage. While the crowd watched breathlessly, he was brought out of it and in a post hypnotic state moved to a chair which immediately became too hot for him to stand.

Loud applause for both the hypnotist and the subject showed the aproval of this unexpected performance. Nine other guests had volunteered to be hypnotized but for various reasons were not apt subjects at the time. Mr. Clark said he wanted to be hypnotized and did not mind the experience at all.

Kinsmen and their ladies signing the club register were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Selkirk, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Selkirk, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Boorman, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Don Lowery, Mr. and Mrs. John Gamsby, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dorrington, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Stan Darling, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Towns, Dr. and Mrs. Harvie Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Rex McConkey, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Van Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Art Black, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gledhill, Mr. and Mrs. George Gatfield, Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Norris, Mr. and Mrs. George Schmindt, M. and Mrs. Ed. Vansteenburg, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Clark.

Two City Girls Complete Six Months Tour Of Europe

Marion Parks, 97 Crescent St., has realized a dream travel, that many entertain, but few accomplished. She has recently returned from a six month tour of Europe, including the British Isles, France, Austria, Germany, Switzerland and Italy.

Leaving Peterborough on May 6, with a friend, Phylis Page, the two girls arrived in England in plenty of time for the Coronation. They had previously secured seats from a ticket agency for the event, and their view, being situated directly across from Westminster Abbey, was unobstructed.

The two girls had made the acquaintence of an English woman, Florence McGill, who had visited Peterborough earlier in the year. Miss McGill's home is in Leeds, so the travelling couple made their headquarters there. From Leeds they journeyed to Scotland and spent two weeks in and around Glasgow. While there they visited Edinburgh, Loch Lomond, Firth of Clyde and much of the country which Robert Burns made famous in his poetry.

From there the girls went to northern Ireland. One of the things especially noted by Miss Parks was the Giant's Causeway, a formation of stone, rising in a series of steps to a height of some 500 feet overlooking the sea.

Of particular interest to Miss Parks was an incident in Wales. A public health nurse herself, she met a member of the Queen's nursing staff, a similar organization, and found that their functions were very similar to the Canadian organization. She also witnessed the International Singing Conference being held in Wales, but, sorry to admit, over television.

From the British Isles, the girls went to the continent and decided to take a scheduled bus tour of the various countries. In Austria, they visited the home of Wolfgang Mozart, which had been transformed into a museum containing many of his original manuscripts, and two harpsicords.

Miss Parks snapped about 500 color slides on her tour, and brought back views of the Swiss Alpine country which are equal to anything. While stopping overnight, in one of the Zurs, (a Swiss name for a collection of tourist hotels), she became aware of "the most beautiful bell-like tones, echoing through the mountains." On investigation she learned that the people there attached various toned bells to each cow on a heard, and the result was a polyphonic mingling of echoed sound as the cattle grazed on the mountain pastures.

The couple ended their journey with a walking tour of Paris. Their funds were getting low.

The entire trip cost each of the girls about $1,000. Miss Page remained in Leeds to work, but Miss Parks returned to her duties as public health nurse in this city.

Four Women MPs Take Places In Parliament

OTTAWA (CP) — Four women members of Parliament took their places in the Commons Thursday at the opening of the new session, giving the House the largest feminine representation it has ever enjoyed.

Baskets of roses placed on their desks and a desk-thumping ovation from male colleagues awaited them as they filed in—three of them for the first time in Parliament.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, 48-year-old Progressive Conservative from Hamilton West, is back for the second time.

The new women members are two Progressive Conservatives, Miss Sybil Bennett, 49-year-old member for Halton, and Miss Margaret Aitken, 45-year-old Toronto journalist from York-Humber constituency, and a lone Liberal, Mrs. Ann Shipley, 53, member for Temiskaming.

SENATE MEMBERS

The senate, too, has an added share of femininity this year. Senators Cairine Wilson and Iva Fallis have been joined since the last session by three other women: Mrs. Nancy Hodges, 65-year-old Victoria journalist; Mrs. Muriel McQueen Fergusson, 54, of Fredericton, and Mrs. Marianna Beauchamp Jodoin, 71, of Montreal.

Their fashions for the opening ceremony were quiet and conservative as compared with the colorful ceremonial dress of officials and members of the diplomatic corps who crowded the Senate chamber to hear the speech from the throne.

Mrs. Shipley, who wore a black dress with a band of sequins on the collar, termed the ceremony "most impressive."

Two Nurses See Coronation Visit Paris, Spain For $300

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Two graduate nurses from Montreal have the formula for seeing Europe the austerity way. It cost them less than $300 for a five-month tour that covered the Coronation, the Blarney Stone, Bastille Day in Paris and a host of experiences including a train ride in Spain shared with a flock of chickens.

Douglas Gorman, 26, of Galt and Lindsay, Ont., and Mexican-born Eleanor Lee, 24, thumbed through Ireland, Britain and most of Europe west of the Iron Curtain. They gained weight on a bread-and-cheese fare and wore out a set of jeans apiece.

Now, they are heading home to revel in what they missed most—"Hot baths, hamburgers, hot dogs and good coffee." And they are going back to work fast because they're broke. Blonde Miss Lee, a British citizen who trained at Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital and plans to make her home in Canada says simply of the shoe-string junket: "It will be hard to settle down again."

Dark-haired Miss Gorman adds: "We could write a book on the finer points of hitch-hiking." Both agree that the tour, hatched last winter, brought "laughs all the way."

STARTED IN MAY

The girls indulged in three luxury nights at a Liverpool hotel last May after arriving. Then, clad in windbreakers, jeans and stout shoes, they started their trip. The pack-sack-carrying duo kissed the Blarney Stone near Cork. They tramped desolate miles in western Scotland through pouring rain. They saw the Coronation, danced in the streets of Paris July 14 on Bastille Day and attended Swiss and French wine festivals.

Equipped with bad French and good Spanish, they thumbed rides from a swimsuit-clad Dutch traffic constable, countless truck-drivers and a young German painter who took them from Toulouse, France, to Barcelona, Spain.

From it all, the young nurses found: That Belgium is the hardest place to get a lift; curb cruisers make it safer to walk in Italy; Austria and Spain are the cheapest countries; Denmark is the friendliest; Britons and Americans ignore thumbers the most.

The girls returned to London with $8 and departed by sea Nov. 10, still carrying a three-book library consisting of H. G. Wells' "A Short History of the World," a work on British architecture and A. A. Milne's classic "Winnie the Pooh."

Miss Gorman, whose fiance is an Australian living in Toronto, spoke for both the hikers when she said: "By spring we'll have itching feet again—but next time the trip will be shorter."

Many People Ask Librarians To Suggest Books To Them

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The season to hibernate with a good book has arrived. There are those who compile lists of what they intend to read and others who strive to remember the book that kept cousin Alice up all night.

Librarians say that most readers like to have books suggested to them. Here are a few that such persons as a bishop, a jail warden, an actor and a football coach have read, relished and recommended for winter reading.

Rt. Rev. F. H. Wilkinson, Coadjutor Bishop of the Anglican Diocese of Toronto, liked "The Sea Around Us" by Rachel Carson. He also recommended the last book of the late Professor C. E. M. Joad, British philosopher, "The Recovery of Belief."

"Professor Joad was brought up on agnostic thought," said the bishop, "but died a devout member of the Church of England."

NINE-YEAR-OLD'S BOOKS

Radio actor Barry Morse said his choice was a book written by nine-year-old Daisy Ashford in 1912 and recently reprinted. The book, complete with misspellings, is "The Young Visiters".

"It's a high-flown romantic novel written with an uninhibited wisdom that is at once hilarious and satirical. It caused quite a flurry when it first came out and was thought by many to be a coy joke by Sir James Barrie to whom Daisy's parents sent the manuscript and who had it published," said Mr. Morse.

Coach of the Argonaut football team, Frank Clair, chose "The Caine Mutiny" by Herman Wouk.

"I don't have much time for reading these days," said Clair.

Toronto's plowing-champion mayor, Alan Lamport, said, "I haven't had a chance to read anything in the last eight months but civic regulations, the municipal charter and the like."

Col. R. H. Paterson, warden of Toronto's Don Jail enjoyed "Crown Imperial" by J. Delves-Broughton and "Hopeful Heart" by Philip Gibbs.

CANADIAN BOOKS

Sir Ernest MacMillan, conductor of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, surprised his secretary by having read anything at all during the last few months besides musical scorts. However, Sir Ernest read and recommends two of Bruce Hutchison's books, "The Incredible Canadian," the biography of the late prime minister Mackenzie King, and "The Fraser", the 42nd in the "Rivers of America Series."

Rabbi Abraham L. Feinberg of Holy Blossom synagogue, Toronto, recommended "Annapurna" by Maurice Herzog. It is a story of French climbers who scaled a mountain in India called Annapurna.

"A tremendous literary document which reveals the ability of human beings to master difficulties with courage and endurance," said the rabbi.

Rev. Lawrence K. Shook, Superior of St. Michael's College, Toronto, chose Jacques Maritain's "Creative Intuition in Art and Poetry."

"I think it will become a standard book on aesthetics for all time," he said.

Father Shook's second choice was "Right and Wrong" a meditation on the psalms by the well-known Hebrew philosopher, Martin Buber of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

HALF-SIZE FASHION

For the short, fuller figure — this is the line of most flattery! You look so slim, sleek, s-m-o-o-t-h through the middle. Newest fashion note—a flare of fullness on one side of the skirt is accented by soft gathers on the opposite side of the bodice!

Pattern 9274: Half Sizes 14½, 16½, 18½, 20½, 22½, 24½. Size 16½ takes 4 yards 39-inch.

Readers' Friday Column By Mary Moore

QUESTION: Thank you for mailing my last request to me . . . please print the recipe for Queen Elizabeth cake. I have eaten two pieces lately made by different people and the two pieces of cake were very different, so thought you would have the right recipe . . . Grace B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'm stuck Grace. I haven't the slightest trace of it. I've asked all of the Home Ec. girls that I know and the library cannot find it in any of this year's magazines. Readers will have to come to our rescue please. As soon as the dear dependables send it to me I'll print it here, so watch. I'm waiting for someone to send in Metropolitan Cake.

QUESTION: (from E. L. asking for Marmalade Cookies)

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER NO. 2: The recipe I gave you E.L. may have been wrong. I am wondering if this is the one you meant.

MARMALADE COOKIES (drop)

Measure into sifter 2 cups once-sifted flour (preferably pastry), 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ cup coarsely chopped pecans. Measure ½ cup shortening (or mixture of shortening and butter) and cream it well then begin to add ½ cup sugar gradually while beating until thick and light. Beat in 1 beaten egg. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and ½ cup thick orange marmalade. Sift as much of the dry ingredients in sifter as you can and tip out the floured pecans and beat until mixed. Drop by small spoonfuls on buttered cookie sheet, well apart. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 or 20 minutes. 6 dozen.

QUESTION: . . . still enjoying your column very much . . . I would like a recipe for a good rich dark fruit cake to fit in a pan 8 x 8 x 2. I never have made such a cake before so I'm afraid I will need your explicit directions. May I also have a nice almond paste . . . could I also have recipe for light fruit cake to fit 8 x 8 x 2 pan or may I use pyrex loaf pan successfully? and a topping for this . . . best wishes to you and yours. Ruth LeL.

ANSWER: Ruth, could you be patient with me for a week or maybe less? I'm working on the 1953 fruit cakes right now and will give you them as soon as I am satisfied. I loved the mauve tint. See yesterday.

QUESTION: I am one of your faithful followers. So far every problem I have encountered has been met at one time or another in your column . . . I make all my own bread, using white and whole wheat flour . . . I have noticed a difference in (little advertised brand) and widely advertised . . . the former is cheaper and darker, and somewhat coarser in the finished bread . . . would you advise me which would be better considering the above points and also from a health standpoint . . . I read that really white flour has much of the wheat germ removed . . . you may be interested in my monthly food budget . . . my husband is a teacher and we have 4 children under 10. On a teacher's salary one has to be very thrifty. We eat healthfully and adhere to the Seven Basic Food Rules. Except for the odd slight cold none of us are ever ill. Our food costs for the month are under $60! Beginning each month I buy all the staples and canned goods for the month, by the case when possible . . . fresh fruits and vegetables for 2 weeks, stored in plastic bags in refrigerator; meat is frozen in freezing chamber . . . we have a varied diet, but no chops or steaks or exotic fruits . . . we use powdered skim milk in largest containers and margarine in place of butter . . . I work my menus around special low-priced items. I make my own cake and cookie mixes and twice a week I make bread—3 whole wheat, 1 white, and 1 raisin each session. I twist or braid 1 loaf into a different shape each time just for a laugh . . . we can give the children little extras such as ballet music, and weekends in the county with the money saved by close buying. Hope you have not been too bored by all this.—Florence M. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Bored? It gave me a terrific lift. Would you mind sending me the cake and cookie mix recipes? For health's sake use the darker flour, and in addition throw in extra wheat germ bought at 11 cents per pound. Keep up the whole wheat flour routine—it could be the difference between poor and good health. The whole wheat contains nearly all of the minerals needed for good health, besides many of the vitamins. Congratulations on your intelligent program.

DOROTHY DIX

Mother Wishes Daughter 21 Remembers Pledge To Boy

DEAR MISS DIX: Don't you think a girl of 21 is old enough to do as she pleases? I feel I have a right to handle my own affairs as I wish. Mother doesn't agree with me— but here's the story. Just before Vinny went overseas some months ago, he gave me a diamond ring and asked me to wait for him. Now, for the past three years I have been corresponding with Frank while he was overseas. Vinny read many of our letters and shared my pleasure in them. It was assumed, of course, that the exchange of mail was on a purely friendly basis. Then, two months ago, Frank came home. I told him I was engaged, but he called and asked me out. Feeling lonesome, I accepted. After two or three dates, my mother forbade me to go with Frank any more, and finally she took my ring away, saying I had no right to wear it. While I don't feel altogether right about going out with Frank, I see no real harm in it. Do you?

Bea G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Do I see any harm in deceit, in failing to keep the solemn pledge imposed on you when you accepted an engagement ring, in deliberately hiding from Vinny the fact that you are no longer loyal to him? Yes, Bea, I'm afraid I do see a good deal of harm in these things. You assume that the mature age of 21 gives you the right to hurt people, to do wrong, to trifle with the affections of two men. No, my dear, no age gives that right! Twenty-one does give certain privileges, it's true, but the right to trample on someone's feelings isn't one of them.

MOTHER COMMENDED

Your mother's actions are absolutely in order, and she's to be commended for her stand. The only objection to it is, that if you continue to wear Vinny's ring it might awaken both you and Frank to the fact that you have an emotional obligation overseas.

For immediate action I suggest that you break off with Frank, wear Vinny's ring again, and try to act like an engaged woman. Perhaps you'll discover that, after all, you do really love Frank, but in the meantime you've given your soldier a chance before spoiling his dream.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: While on vacation abroad, I met and fell in love with a foreign girl possessed of beauty, intelligence and a radiant personality. I am well acquainted with her family, our religions are the same and I speak her language fluently. My problem is, would it be wrong to try to win her through correspondence in view of our relatively brief acquaintance? I don't know how she feels about me. I am 24, she is 20.

Perplexed

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Surely you wouldn't consider not wooing this paragon! Would she be prepared to leave her own country to come here? That would be the difficulty in her case. Since your business and home are here, she would have to leave her native country and come here. Well, thousands of girls have done it in the past few years. I'm sure your darling wouldn't object to coming to live over here.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For five months I've been going with a man who is married, but separated from his wife. They aren't divorced, however. He says he loves me but doesn't even try to get a separation. Lately he hasn't even been coming to see me as much as he used to. Should I keep on going with him, or give him up?

Barbara B.

ANSWER: I think you have no choice, my dear. The man, apparently, has already given YOU up, so I guess you can stop worrying about him.

Jail 2 Youths 17 Years On 8 Charges

TORONTO (CP) — Two youths were sentenced Thursday to 17 years in penitentiary on eight charges laid after a running gunfight with police in which a companion was killed and two officers severely injured.

Magistrate Tupper Bigelow sentenced Russell Benstead, alias Wolfe, 20, of Winnipeg and Allan Pidgeon, 23, of Tillsonburg, Ont., to 15 years for their part in a fatal crash after a wild car chase over miles of city streets Aug. 13.

The two got maximum sentences for resisting arrest and causing grievous bodily harm to police in connection with the crash.

EXTRA TWO YEARS

Benstead and Pidgeon were given an additional two years on seven charges of breaking and entering and car theft in Tillsonburg, Ajax and Newtonville. They pleaded guilty to all eight charges and were sentenced less than an hour after trial began.

The two were arrested within a block of where their stolen car collided with a police cruiser and crashed in west Toronto. William Atkinson, 18, of Tillsonburg, a third occupant of the car, was tossed to the sidewalk and died.

Apply Heavy Pressure To Drop Demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavy pressure was applied by the Republican national committee and the White House before Republican members of the House of Representatives un-American activities committee dropped their plan to require former President Truman to testify.

This was learned today from reliable sources who may not be named.

The idea of having the ex-president as a witness in an investigation of the Harry Dexter White case originated with the Republican committee members, and they made the decision to give it up. How much weight they gave to the views of high party figures could not be pinned down.

CAR AT REAR OF GRAFTON'S

As a further clue to the break-in at Grafton's early Thursday morning, police are investigating reports a car was seen at the rear of the building about five a.m. Officers checked the area at that time but nothing was found amiss until the caretaker reported the attempted vault break at 6:30.

Find Cheesecake More Popular Than Acting

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A great performance may win an actress an Academy Award, but a 37-inch bust lures more customers at the box office.

The Hollywood truism was accented today with the disclosure that a Berkeley, Calif., theatre man gave the local cheesecake experts a lesson in selling new star Audrey Hepburn to his customers.

When the movie, "Roman Holiday," was shown to the critics some weeks ago, the raves for Miss Hepburn were ecstatic. She soon was billed as the hottest acting discovery since Garbo and the one girl who could divert Hollywood from its worship of the bosom. However, the picture got off to a slow start at the box offices.

BERKELEY BROKE RECORDS

Not so in Berkeley. There the opening broke a two-year house record.

The theatre owner played down the raves of the critics and played up the cheesecake aspects of Miss Hepburn. There was only one drawback on the advertising art—the face was Miss Hepburn's but the body was Terry Moore's.

Movie exploiters long have switched bodies and faces in advertising pictures. But never, say veteran showmen, has the pulling power of such a practice been so accurately measured before.

Successful as the Berkeley campaign was, it was dropped when Miss Hepburn's agent protested.

Fine Salmon

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP)—John Schliemer of Kingsburg, Cal., in a brief holiday here caught 17 tyee salmon weighing a total of nearly 600 pounds. His biggest catch weighed 47½ pounds.

THIS ISN'T THE PLACE—At a glance, this eight-point deer appears to be just another hunting trophy being carted home by a happy hunter. But this is just how Prentice Brown, Jr., of St. Ignace, Mich., found him. The animal, trying to cross the highway in the black of the night, crashed into, and ruined the grille of Brown's automobile.

New Radio Set-up For City Police Puzzles Board

Admittedly no radio engineers, Magistrate W. R. Philp and Mayor Hugh Waddell puzzled over FM and AM radio descriptions as they sought to decide on a new police radio purchase Thursday.

After reading over four tenders, the two police commission members called another meeting for November 26 when they will call in expert advice on the matter.

The board of transport has been urging the department for several years to change their radio frequency to conform with other police networks across the country. The board has evidently threatened not to renew the department's radio licence unless a new two-way setup is installed.

REMOTE CONTROL

Tenders from RCA-Victor, Rogers-Majestic, Marconi and CGE were opened at the meeting. They included bids on the main transmitter, three car two-way sets and a motorcycle radio. Also included was a remote control unit to be installed in the station's radio room to control the larger transmitter and a broadcasting tower.

One idea was to install the tower beside the police garage, place the transmitter in the garage and control it from the station.

This would help preserve the city hall's appearance by taking an unsightly radio antenna from the roof besides saving the cost of expensive co-axial cable. It would, however, necessitate the installation of the remote control unit, an expensive accessory.

Between this meeting and next, a chart comparing the tenders will be prepared. Selection will be made of the radio then.

Neglected In Will, Wife Still Entitled To Share

A man who slights his wife in his will, may well have his will changed for his niggardliness.

Speaking to Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon, Ralph Standish discussed the legitimate claims that a wife has on her husband's assets. His speech was entitled, "It's greater than you think".

The first thing to note is, that when entering the marriage contract, any will previously drawn up by the man is immediately revoked. That is, of course, unless the will was made with the contemplation of marriage.

"A rare occasion."

REASONABLE CREDIT

Once the contract (marriage) is signed, the wife has the right to "reasonably" pledge credit in her husband's name. The obvious angle was clearly pointed out to the many merchants present. If the husband deserts the wife, this right is even more rigidly enforced. The only escape is a legal public notice stating that the husband is no longer responsible for the whims of his wife, and to publish such a statement requires a good and legal reason.

If marriage bliss should fail for any reason, and the couple decide to go their separate ways—well it's not quite that easy for the husband. This costs money too.

From the opening date of the divorce or separation proceedings, the man must pay an interim alimony. This little expense is to assure the maintenance of the wife during the proceedings, and applies whether or not the wife is later found guilty. Of course, if the husband is found to be the guilty party, he is expected to pay alimony, usually amounting to about one third of his income, after taxes.

But should the husband silently submit to all wifely provocation, in no way ensnarling himself in the web of alimony, so that at the end he may strike his espoused's name from his will and so reap post-humous revenge, even here the laws may intervene.

The Dependents Relief Act has made provision for niggardly husbands. All the little woman has to do is consult the county court judge and ask that a substantial sum of her late husband's estate be given over to her. Usually the judge is very lenient in such claims, and the widow walks away with more than she has asked for.

If no will is left, the widow gets the first $5,000, and half or one-third of the remaining estate, depending on the number of children.

As in the beginning, the closing remark was, "It's greater than you think".

Judge Has Received $10,000 Settlement

NORTH BAY (CP)—Judge A. B. Currey of Gore Bay has received $10,000 and costs in an out-of-court settlement as a result of a traffic accident in which three persons were killed. A counter-claim against him was dismissed.

(The Canadian Press erroneously reported Nov. 11 that Donald Hartwick of North Bay, driver of the other car involved in the crash last month, received $1,000 in a counter-claim.)

In the settlement, Mr. Hartwick and passengers in his car were paid a total of $1,000 by Judge Currey's insurance company for expenses and other costs.

Reserve Decision On Charge Against Peconi

Decision on a public health act charge against Nick Peconi of Otonabee St. was reserved by Magistrate R. I. Moore Thursday afternoon after he heard arguments by prosecuting attorney Walter Howell and defence counsel A. L. Elliott, QC.

The charge, first of six to face the accused, is in connection with the operation of Peconi's Smith township slaughter house.

Township officials charged Peconi with operating an offensive trade without permission of the council.

Eight witnesses testified for the crown and eight for the defence.

London Editor Fined £500

LONDON (Reuters) — Herbert Gunn, editor of The Daily Sketch, today was fined £500 for contempt of court because his paper published comment on an army court-martial before its findings had been finally confirmed.

The court-martial had imposed a year's prison sentence on Fusilier Patrick Lydon of the British Army for cowardice in Korea. His sentence was ultimately remitted, but not before The Sketch built up a feature with readers' letters on the subject.

Lord Chief Justice Goddard said the object of the newspaper's campaign was to bring pressure on the army law officer who had to decide whether the decision and sentence of the court-martial should be confirmed.

"Such conduct cannot be tolerated for a single moment," he said.

Cunningham Wins Jeff Russel Trophy

OTTAWA (CP)—Bob Cunningham, 25-year-old halfback playing his first year at halfback with Ottawa Rough Riders and his last year of football, has won the Jeff Russel Trophy for 1953.

Announcement of the award, given annually to the most valuable, popular and sportsmanlike player in the Big Four, was made here today by D. Wes Brown, secretary of the league.

Brown also announced that the Gruen Trophy—the award to the best rookie of the year—has been won by Bob Dawson of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, a former Windsor, Ont., junior.

CALGARY 'HERO' ADMITS STORY HOAX

Confesses Details Fabrication

Author Appalled When Newspaper Uncovers Duplicity

CALGARY (CP) — Quentin Reynolds, American writer who interviewed George Dupre of Calgary for the magazine article "The Canadian Who Wouldn't Talk," said Friday night he "was shocked and appalled" by Dupre's admission his story was a fabrication.

Reynolds, in a long-distance telephone interview with the Calgary Albertan from his home in Bedford Village, N. Y., said: "What can you say in the face of a situation like this? At no time did I receive the slightest hint that I should kill the piece."

The author interviewed Dupre for his article in the November issue of Reader's Digest. In the article, Dupre was said to have worked in France for the British intelligence during the Second World War and to have suffered Gestapo torture rather than disclose secrets of this work.

The Calgary Herald Friday published a story which said Dupre, when interviewed on technical details of operational intelligence, admitted his story was false.

Reynolds said Dupre's story first came to the attention of Reader's Digest editors after the former RCAF officer made a speech last June to a business men's club in Toronto. Dupre was brought to the Digest offices in Pleasantville, N. Y., where he told his story.

"All he got out of the entire thing was an expense-paid trip down here for five days," said Reynolds. "He asked that anything further that might come out of this be handed to the Boy Scouts. The man didn't ask for a penny for himself."

Reynolds said that after he had completed the manuscript and checked it word-by-word with Dupre, he asked the ex-RCAF officer to clear the narrative through Canadian channels. He said Dupre replied it had already been cleared and offered the Digest writer, at Reynolds' request, a signed written certification that the story was true.

Will Protect 2 Countries From Surprise Air Attack Eisenhower Says

OTTAWA (CP)— President Eisenhower today told an applauding Parliament that Canada and the United States "can and will" devise ways to protect North America from any surprise attack by air.

"And we shall achieve the defence of our continent without whittling our pledges to Western Europe or forgetting our friends in the Pacific," he declared as commoners and senators, sitting in joint session, thumped their desks in approval.

The loudest applause came when the president spoke out for freer world trade. However, he cautioned that the problem could not be solved hastily.

The president said he hoped the navigation part of the St. Lawrence seaway would be authorized by the U.S. Congress at its coming session. This was a departure from his prepared text in which he said Congress "should" authorize it at its coming session.

STARTED IN FRENCH

The Commons chamber echoed to cheers as the president began his address with a few sentences in French.

The president said he was being exceedingly bold in attempting even a few words in French and asked for forgiveness for errors in expression and pronunciation.

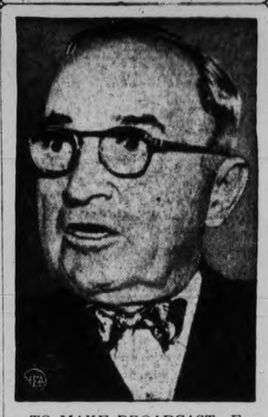
He said in French: "I include in my salutation my Canadian friends who speak the French language . . . I salute you for your great contribution you, together with your English-speaking brethren, have made in the growth of this great country."

Near the conclusion of his 26-minute speech, the president departed from his prepared text to say that the free world should never lose hope that a lasting peace will eventually be gained.

The 1,700-word speech came during the second day of the president's two-day state visit here. Mrs. Eisenhower sat in a packed gallery.

21-GUN SALUTE

The president was greeted at the main entrance by a 100-man guard of honor and a 21-gun salute. He was escorted into the chamber by Prime Minister St. Laurent.



A live television broadcast of the president's speech was carried over the CBC's Ottawa, Montreal and Toronto outlets and fed into U. S. networks. It was the first television broadcast inside Canada's Parliament Buildings. Radio broadcasts were carried in both French and English by the CBC and by the American radio networks.

Mr. Eisenhower, speaking in the same spot as the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt 10 years ago, urged both Canada and the U. S. to act swiftly to bolster continental defences.

He said:

"The basic threat of Communist purpose still exists. Indeed the latest Soviet communication to the Western world is truculent, not to say arrogant, in tone. Our security plans must now take into account Soviet ability to employ atomic attack on North America, as well as on countries, friendly to

TO MAKE BROADCAST—Former president Truman plans to make a broadcast Monday night to discuss the Harry Dexter White case.

OTTAWA (CP)— President Eisenhower said today that the United States is slowly swinging around to support world trade expansion, but warned that trade barriers cannot be removed overnight.

Greater freedom in trade must come mostly by economic evolution, rather than by some hasty decision, the president said in a speech prepared for delivery to a joint session of the Commons and Senate.

Yet, looking to the future, "the free world must come to recognize that trade barriers, although intended to protect a country's economy, often in fact shackle its prosperity," Mr. Eisenhower added.

WORLD LEADERSHIP

In saying this, Mr. Eisenhower expressed virtual agreement with the Canadian outlook. Twice this year Prime Minister St. Laurent has asked the president and the U. S. to accept world leadership in the fight against Communism and depression by reducing trade barriers.

Mr. Eisenhower, obviously replying to Mr. St. Laurent's speech in Washington last May when he appealed for freer trade, added:

"In the U. S., there is a growing recognition that free nations cannot expand their productivity and economic strength without a high level of international trade."

MUST BE CAUTIOUS

The economies of Canada and the U. S., he said, are "enmeshed intricately with the world economy," but, he indicated, governments must be cautious.

"We cannot risk sudden dislocation in industry and agriculture and widespread unemployment and distress by hasty decisions to accomplish suddenly what inevitably will come in an orderly economic evolution. 'Make haste slowly' is a homely maxim with international validity.

". . . every common undertaking, however worthwhile it may be, must be understood in its origins, its application, its effects by the peoples of our two countries—or it will have negligible chance of success.

COMMON PROBLEM

"Canadians and Americans do not accept government by edict or decree. Informed and intelligent co-operation is, for us, the only source of enduring accomplishment."

To Canadians who have been concerned about the growth of protectionism in the U.S., Mr. Eisenhower noted that he has appointed a special 17-man commission to study U. S. foreign economic policy.

Meanwhile, Canada and the U. S. have created the joint trade and economic committee, built of cabinet ministers. This committee will meet periodically to discuss common economic and trade problems.

Truman To Make Broadcast

NEW YORK (AP)—Former president Truman said today he will make an "all-out broadcast" Monday night from Kansas City on the Harry Dexter White case. The broadcast will "tell all the facts," Truman told newspapermen as he prepared to leave for his home in Independence, Mo. Truman earlier told reporters it was possible he transferred White from the treasury department to the international monetary fund to give the FBI a chance to watch him.

Attorney-General Herbert Brownell touched off a political controversy a week ago when he charged that White was promoted by Truman in 1946 in the face of an FBI report that White was a commnuist spy.

In the last few days there have been reports from several sources that White was moved from his treasury job to head the less sensitive monetary fund with approval of the FBI in an attempt to avoid revealing to the Communist espionage system that the government knew of White's alleged spy connections.

TOOK ADVICE

In New York, the New York Times says today that sources close to the administration of former President Truman have disclosed that Truman appointed Harry Dexter White to a new governmental post with the consent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The Times story from Washington coincided with a radio statement made Friday night by Rep. Francis Walter (Dem. Pa.) Walter said he had been reliably informed that Truman, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, Fred Vinson, then treasury secretary, and the attorney-general at that time, Tom Clark, decided in 1946 to promote White "and then keep him under surveillance." White was promoted from assistant treasury secretary to United States executive director of the International Monetary Fund. His promotion was confirmed by the Senate.

The story says the two cabinet members advised Truman to give White his commission but to abandon a previous plan to make White manager of the fund.

The story adds:

"As the U.S. executive director, it was argued, he could give little aid to Soviet Russia, whereas he could give much in the capacity of manager. . . .

Hopes Congress To Authorize Seaway Plan

OTTAWA (CP) President Eisenhower said today he hoped the United States Congress at its coming session would authorize U.S. participation with Canada in the navigation part of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The president, in an address to the combined Houses of Parliament, expressed confidence that generations of U. S. inaction on the $300,000,000 shipping project will be ended this year.

He said joint Canada-U. S. development of the waterway—tied in with a $450,000,000 power undertaking by the two countries on the river—is "inevitable, is sure and certain."

VITAL ADDITION

Mr. Eisenhower said that, with Canadians, he considers the seaway "a vital addition to our economic and national security."

"In the United States, my principal security advisers . . . favor the undertaking for national defence reasons. The cabinet favors it on both security and economic grounds. A committee of the U. S. Senate has approved a measure authorizing it.

(This was done at the last session of Congress. The measure died when Congress rose without action.)

JOINT PARTICIPATION

"This measure provides for U. S. participation in a joint development by both countries. The proposal now awaits action by the U. S. Senate, which, I am confident, will act favorably on it or some similar measure."

As observers here saw it, the president's declaration was more of an expression of hope than a prediction of expected action.

Congress' sidetracking of a joint U. S.-Canada seaway bill earlier this year was done despite strong backing of the measure from the administration. Powerful support of such a bill has been lost now in the death of Senator Robert Taft, majority leader in the Senate.

The federal government here has made it known that it would prefer to go ahead with the navigation job on its own rather than have it hang on the unpredictable —from here—actions of the U. S. Congress.

It has stated several times that it is ready to do this, once obstacles to the power-development phase of the project are cleared out of the way. At the moment, this is being held up by litigation in the U. S. by opponents.

French Farmer Arrested For U.K. Family's Murder

DIGNE, France (CP)—Farmer Gaston Dominici's family bombarded police with stones and curses when Marseille detectives arrived today for a final reconstruction of the murder of a titled British family 15 months ago. Police brought along Dominici's two sons, Gustave and Clovis, who told police Friday that their 77-year-old father killed Sir Jack Drummond, a British nutrition expert, his wife and 11-year-old daughter last year. Gaston denied throughout all-night questioning that he committed the crime, and remained here in custody this morning.

As police drove up to the white-washed farmhouse in the foothills of the Alps 20 miles outside Digne, one of Gaston's daughters shouted: "My father is not the murderer. You are drugging him to wring a confession from him."

POLICE CARRY ON

At least a dozen men and women relatives of the prosperous farmer hurled stones, shouted and brandished sticks at the detectives.

Undeterred, police took the two brothers separately into a farm shed and asked them where a rifle which figured in the investigation had been placed. Police said both brothers pointed to the same spot.

Drummond and his wife were shot to death as they camped overnight on the farm grounds. Their daughter was clubbed to death. Police found the rifle early in their investigations. They showed it to hundreds of peasants in this area last year, but failed to establish its owner.

"We have established now that the rifle with which the crime was committed belonged to the old farmer," a police spokesman said.

AGED MAN DENIES ALL

In Digne, the senior Gaston shouted after 10 hours of questioning: "It's all lies. It was not me." The most dramatic moment of the interrogation came as a detective: said

"Let's stop playing around, Gaston. You are the murderer, and no one else. Your sons have told us that it was you who murdered the Drummonds."

Gaston snorted: "That's ridiculous. Don't make me laugh. But if what you say is true, let my children repeat in front of me what they have told you."

Gustave was sentenced to two months in jail last year for failing to aid Drummond's daughter.

Allies, Reds Acept Agenda

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist diplomats today pumped new life into dwindling hopes for a Korean peace settlement with agreement on an agenda for preliminary talks to arrange a political conference.

Top-level negotiators reconvened after a week-long recess and approved an agenda drafted by staff advisers in six closed-door sessions.

The agreement provides for simultaneous discussion of a time and place for the peace conference and of the countries which will attend. Communist insistence on deciding the composition first had deadlocked the preliminary talks for three weeks.

Approval of the agenda will get the stalled preliminary talks under way, but United States envoy Arthur Dean told correspondents: "This is just the key that opens the door. The real hard work is just commencing."

The agenda for the preliminary talks closely parallels a plan proposed first by Dean Oct. 31. At that time Red negotiators called it "sleight-of-hand" and "absolutely unacceptable."

Dean said after today's meeting that he always has been optimistic about chances for a Korean peace conference "and I am even more optimistic now."

Canadian - U.S. Relationship Sets Pattern - St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today that the United States and Canada prove to the world that a great power and a lesser power can work in harmony without the smaller being submerged by its bigger neighbor.

"We Canadians know that in the interests of our mutual defence we can wisely and safely pool many [illegible] our military resources with you in a security system which is genuinely collective," he said in introducing President Eisenhower to a joint session of the Commons and Senate.

"The characteristically energetic manner in which the United States has fulfilled the responsibilities it has voluntarily assumed has been interpreted by a few detractors as an indication that your country is seeking to impose its policies on or dominate the life of other free nations.

"We Canadians are in the best position to know how false are such suspicions. Although your population, and your economic and military strength, is many times greater than ours, we have no fear that this strength will be used to threaten or overawe us. We are the more secure because you are a good as well as a strong neighbor."

At another point, the prime minister said:

"We would also like you to know that we are grateful for the leadership your nation is providing in the common effort of free men and women to make our world a safer and better place for future generations.

"This leadership . . . is moreover untainted by any desire for national self-aggrandizement. By positive and unselfish actions, which are unique in history, the American people have recognized that threats to the safety and well-being of liberty-loving peoples anywhere are threats to all peoples everywhere who believe in the dignity and freedom of the individual.

"Your nation's contributions to the restoration of war-devastated lands have been generous to an extent unprecedented in international relations. Your example, as a member of the United Nations, of vigorous and immediate resistance to wanton aggression has revived the hopes of anxious peoples that, through collective action, international peace may be secured and maintained."

Violent Storm Lashes Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The season's first violent storm smashed the Pacific coast with rain and winds up to 85 miles an hour during the night and moved into the Los Angeles area today.

A second storm is close behind, the weather bureau said.

The freighter Margo lost its propeller 1,160 miles west of the Columbia river mouth, but a United States coast guard cutter reached the scene early today and reported the Panamanian-registry ship in no immediate danger from the high seas and winds.

Fishing Boat Sinks 4 Crewmen Rescued

BOSTON (AP)—The Gloucester, Mass., fishing vessel J. B. Jr. sank 10 miles southeast of Eastern point off Gloucester early today after springing a leak.

The four crew members were picked up from dories by another fishing craft, the Carmela Maria.

A coast guard search meanwhile is under way for the 50 - foot schooner Independence of Camden, Me., reported missing on a trip to New London, Conn.

The two men aboard, identified only as Capt. Stinson of Camden and Capt. McKinley of Albany, N.Y., haven't been heard from since they left Camden last Sunday.

80 MPH Chase Ends In Arrest

HAMILTON (CP)—Three young men early this morning were apprehended following an 80-mile-an-hour chase from Wolfe island and along Highway 2.

Taken to Dundas and charged with breaking and entering and theft, were Frank and Herbert Taylor, both of Hamilton; and Richard Bugow, of Holty, northern Ontario.

The East Flamboro township police were near Wolfe island when two late model cars raced along Highway 2 at great speed.

Police in two separate cruisers caught them.

It is alleged that the two cars were taken from a garage in Niagara Falls late Friday.

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters) Lightweight boxer Roy Chapman, 22, died in hospital today after collapsing at the end of 12 gruelling rounds at Brisbane Stadium Friday night.

He is the third boxer in six years to die following a fight here.

Chapman lost on points to Tony Fisher, former Australian amateur champion. He collapsed after the final bell and was taken to hospital unconscious. A brain operation failed to save his life.

Has Session With Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP)—President Eisenhower went into conference with the Canadian cabinet at noon today.

The historic meeting was held in the famed Room 16, across the hall from the Commons.

Mr. Eisenhower sat beside Prime Minister St. Laurent at a big, square oak table with cabinet ministers and other Canadian and American officials seated around it.

The meeting is expected to result in a joint communique to be issued about 3 p.m. EST.

Three Canadians Win Top Prize Money

MONTREAL (CP)—Three Canadians—two of them from Montreal area and another from Winnipeg—won top prize money in a Quebec Army and Navy sweepstake based on the Manchester November Handicap, run today in Manchester, Eng.

First prize of $40,000 was won by William Lowe, Winnipeg.

Jacques Mondor, Montreal, won second prize of $24,000.

E. Randall, Verdun, Que., won third prize, $16,000.

A total of $24,000 was available for distribution among holders of tickets on the 22 horses that finished out of the running. This would work out to slightly more than $1,000 for each ticketholder.

Another $24,000 will be split among the holders of tickets on 12 horses that were entered but did not start. Each holder of such a ticket will get approximately $2,000.

TORCH SINGER

MANCHESTER, England (CP)—Torch Singer won the Manchester November Handicap today, coming in at the front of 25 contenders. Solar, pre-race favorite, was scratched because of a training accident.

Torch Singer, a 40-to-1 shot, plowed her way through the mud to win over Staress, a 22-to-1 shot who ran second, and Bondage, well backed at 8 to 1, third.

Push For Vote On Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United Nations General Assembly's 60-member political committee pushed for a vote today on Western proposals for disarmament talks by the world's atomic powers as the eighth assembly session ended its second month. Delegates still hope to finish their business by the Dec. 8 adjournment target.

New blasts from Russia's Andrei Vishinsky and Western replies prolonged the committee debate Friday. More discussion was scheduled today in an effort to reach a ballot.

Approval of the Western resolution appeared certain.

The resolution urges the 12-power disarmament commission—the 11 security council members and Canada—to keep looking for ways of reaching international agreement on disarmament.

Mercury Moves Across Sun

NEW YORK (AP)—The planet Mercury moves across the sun today in a rare astronomical phenomenon last seen in its entirety from North America in 1894.

The event, known as the "transit of Mercury," occurs with Mercury passing directly between the earth and the sun in essentially the same manner as the moon does in an eclipse of the sun.

Mercury, smallest planet in the solar system, is too small for the naked eye to see it against the blazing sun.

Planetarium officials here cautioned those watching through telescopes to use dark filters to protect their eyes.

The planetarium said the transit can be seen in the United States and Canada between 10:36 a. m. and 1:12 p. m. EST. It will next occur Nov. 6, 1960.

Chemistry Lesson Causes Stir

Youth Makes TNT, House Evacuated

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Jules Kaplan's chemistry lesson this week began in the basement of his home—and ended 500 feet out in the Ohio river.

Some of his teachers along the way included firemen, policemen, coast guardsmen and an army detonation team.

They spent a tense two hours disposing of the 17-year-old boy's product—about two pounds of nitroglycerine.

TRIED HIS HAND

With more than a year's experience in chemistry and a textbook to guide him, Jules figured he could make the explosive, so he borrowed the ingredients from school Thursday and went to work in his basement.

The next day he called the fire prevention bureau.

The bureau communicated with the United States Army, and was told to evacuate the eight people in the house.

BOMB EXPERTS COME

Several hours later two fire cars arrived, followed by a jeep with army bomb experts. They poured the frothing liquid into a pail filled with sawdust, and headed for the river, where a coast guard launch was waiting.

A safe distance from shore, the pail was lowered into the water and sank from sight.

"You could hear the silence," said fire prevention inspector Franklin Morgan. "And then you could hear seven sighs of relief."

At home, Jules also breathed a sigh of relief. But he added:

"It hasn't dampened my enthusiasm for science."

Winter Fair Begins Silver Jubilee

Alberta Men Sweep Grain Championships, Take Four Titles

TORONTO (CP)—The Royal Winter Fair began its silver jubilee run here Friday amid all the traditional glitter and pomp of what has been called the world's greatest farm show.

Mink-coated matrons and top-hatted gentlemen rubbed shoulders with visiting farmers and city folk at the horse show Friday night as Ontario's Agriculture Minister Fletcher Thomas officially opened the show.

The RCMP staged the famed Coronation Ride, international jumping teams drew raves from the packed Coliseum crowd and prize show horses were judged beneath the colored spotlights.

The United States won Friday night's first international jump-off with 42 points, mostly gained on faultless riding by Mrs. Carol Durand and Arthur McCashin on Reno Kirk and Paleface.

Canada placed second with 38 points as Bob Ballard took the 12 hurdles successfully on Reject. Great Britain drew 18 points and the Republic of Ireland eight.

ALBERTA SWEEPS SHOW

Alberta swept Friday's world grain championships, taking the wheat, barley, oats and forage titles.

Ronald Leonhardt of Drumheller repeated his 1952 victory in wheat with a variety of Marquis. He is the second person in the fair's 25-year history to win the world wheat title in two successive years.

Thomas Rhathigan of South Edmonton captured the world oats crown with Victory Variety. The world barley title went to George Snow of Milk River with a variety of Campana and Thomas Corlett of Clairmont took the forage championship with a variety of Alsike oats.

W. A. Douglas of Caledonia, Ont., took the Leicester sheep championship with wins in the ewe and ram sections. Ralph Young of Caistor Centre swept the reserve class.

H. M. Lee and Sons of Toronto topped the Lincoln sheep entries in both ewe and lamb sections. Arnold Guardhouse of Unionville was reserve champion.

A WARM WELCOME to President and Mrs. Eisenhower was extended by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent (right) and Governor General Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey on behalf of Canada. Although this is the president's first official visit to Canada as president, the Eisenhowers are old friends of both the prime minister and the governor general and greetings were friendly and cordial.—(Federal News Photo)

Natural Impulse

LONDON (CP)—There's nothing wrong with swearing if a hammer raps your fingers or you lose a collar stud, writes Dr. T. Traherne in the magazine Family Doctor. It's actually healthier, he says, because you let off pent-up natural emotions that way.

Demand FBI Chief Tell All He Knows About White

WASHINGTON (AP)—The top Democrat on the un-American Activities Committee has demanded that J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, tell all he knows about the Harry Dexter White spy case. "Everybody who had any contact with it ought to tell everything he or she knows," said Representative Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania in calling for Hoover's appearance before the Senate internal security sub-committee.

Walter, in a recorded CBS radio interview Friday night, said that as far as he knows, Attorney-General Herbert Brownell is the only person close to the case to have called White a Communist spy. Brownell touched off the far-reaching uproar in a speech at Chicago Nov. 6 when he said former President Truman gave White a better government job in 1946 despite FBI reports that White was a communist spy.

EXCLUSIVE DATA?

"He must have made that statement on the basis of information we've never had," Walter said. "We and the American people are entitled to have that information."

Walter said he had been reliably informed that Truman, Hoover, Carl Vinson, who was then secretary of the treasury, and Tom Clark, then attorney-general, decided in 1946 to promote White "and then keep him under surveillance."

But Senator William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind.), chairman of the Senate sub-committee, issued a statement challenging this. Jenner said Hoover is "too security conscious" ever to have made any agreement permitting subversives to remain in government service.

White, now dead, denied that he was a Communist or a spy.

Dupre Story Said Untrue

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary Herald says in a news story that the tale of George Dupre—"the Canadian who wouldn't talk"—is a fiction.

Dupre's story is the subject of an article by Quentin Reynolds in the November issue of Reader's Digest. In the article Dupre, now a Calgary business man, is said to have worked in France for British intelligence during the Second World War and to have suffered extreme Gestapo torture rather than disclose secrets of his espionage and sabotage network.

The Herald story, under the byline of reporter Doug Collins, says Dupre, on his own admission, was never in France during the war and never had any connection with Special Operations Executive, the organization which direct British clandestine activities on the European continent.

Wolverhampton's victory narrowed West Bromwich's lead at the top of the table to one point. Huddersfield, 2-0 winner over Sheffield Wednesday, is third with 25 points, two behind the Wanderers.

Leicester was held to a 1-1 tie by Notts County and now shares top place in Division II with Doncaster, 3-1 winner over Birmingham. Both teams have 25 points, one ahead of Everton, which tied 2-2 with Fulham.

Motherwell defeated St. Johnstone 3-1 in a battle between the leaders of Division B. Motherwell now has 16 points, only one more than Dunfermline, which shared second spot with St. Johnstone last week.

Plan Wholesale Reform In India's Judicial Set-up

By RAWLE KNOX

NEW DELHI—Slowly, for the Indian village is wary of the cold confines of the law, the ancient panchayat (local council assembled as a jury or court of arbitrators) is coming back into its own. Dignified by mention in the directive principles of India's Constitution, the panchayat's powers are now established by law in several States, and the five wise men of the village are functioning again.

India's stern and kindly Home Minister, Dr. Katin, announcing in Parliament the Government's intention of wholesale judicial reform, praised the good work the panchayats were doing already. No one, he said, could tell a lie in the middle of his own village, but every law court had become "a home of perjury."

Indians accuse the British of having destroyed the panchayats, though in fact the British did something far more typical; they kept the framework of the system standing and used it when it suited them. But the judicial side of the panchayats' work certainly withered in the face of the Briton's belief in the absolute superiority of his own country's legal methods.

Justice is nowwhere blinder than in eastern countries where the English judge has left his mark. She gropes along paths well worn by Privy Council precedents and since the ordinary citizen has only the sketchiest idea where she thinks she is going, it is not surprising that he often assists her into some strange by-ways.

The Delhi magistrate's court, for instance, must be a fearsome place for intending litigants. India's sixteen High Courts have a quite extraordinary record of distinctive judicial incisiveness, but in them the law is argued with dispassionate intelligence among lawyers who know the exact temper of each other's steel. The Delhi courts are dark, timbered rooms in old stone buildings connected by iron stairways and bridges. The stairs are crammed with sweating figures going this way and that, and by solicitors soliciting custom, but the rooms are filled with men sitting on wooden forms, waiting.

Outside you meet old men who have come in from their villages with nothing but a single scrap of paper on which is written the name of some lawyer or clerk. They do not know what they want, but they must see this man; he will know everything. They may take days to find him, and then it is too late, and they make their way back to their villages until the policeman comes with another piece of buff paper.

But for those who really discover the law which the English left behind it can be a wonderful thing. The other day in Simla, where the Punjab High Court is now lodged in a long white bungalow that was long ago the Viceregals eat, and which a Viceroy's wife called "the smallest house I have ever lived in . . . quite unsuitable," a lawyer friend of mine told me a story. It gives a clear, quick picture of the Punjab and of the hopeless incongruity of the Englishman's law in a rough and opportunist land.

In the Punjab, land is everything, and disputes about land are frequently settled with a violence that is impatient of litigation. My friend defended a Sikh who had murdered his neighbour in a field before witnesses and, by a coup of medical jurisprudence he proved that the body (which had been thrown into a pond) could not have risen to the surface at the time certain witnesses said it did. He got his man acquitted. (Ninety-five per cent, of prosecutions for murder in Indian Punjab end in acquittal.)

The Sikh returned to his village and proceeded to demand money with menaces from all and sundry, freely advertising himself as the murderer whom the British Raj was unable to hand. Eventually five of his exasperated neighbours seized him, dragged him through the village,and left him dead in a house on the outskirts.

My friend defended the five also, and once more got an acquittal through confusion of opposition witnesses.

Some time later he turned politician and was standing for election in the rural constituency of Amritsar and Lyallpur. It is not a polite part of the world. In the Amritsar district alone there is a murder every three days, and that is not considered the worst area of the Punjab. My friend, attending an important rustic polling booth, was disconcerned to see his opponent's strong-arm boys nobbling all voters as they got out of their carts and buses, and effectively warning them not to vote for him.

"Of course, I had my own roughs there as well," he said, "but they weren't nearly as formidable as the other fellow's." But he was approached by an enormous Sikh whom he did not recognize, but who turned out to be one of the acquitted five, and who had walked fifteen miles from his village to offer his services. From then on all was plain sailing.

The lawyer's man, whose name for villainy was respected far and wide, directed the voters with powerful confidence. When it was all over he approached the lawyer and asked one favour: would he write to the Sikh's local police inspector and ask him to turn a completely blind eye for the next six months? He didn't want to do any murders, he hastened to say. Only thefts. He reckoned that six months would be enough to enable him to buy the bride he wanted.

To the Indian villager the law is not so much as an ass as a whole herd of elephants. Its slow-moving wisdom defeats him; to tackle it costs him more than he can afford. His elected panchayat, against whose decision there is no appeal, allows him either to win quickly or to cut his losses. He gets personal mainfest justice. It is the chief, indeed sometimes the only, complaint of Indians living in States which until 1947 were ruled by Princes that they miss the cheap and speedy law the Rajah decreed in person.

We must not forget the old man who was hauled from the bottom of a well by the British political agent who had been sent to depose a certain Maharajah guilty to gross misrule. The only man had been put in a well twelve years before as a mark of his ruler's displeasure. When at last he was brought above ground, blinking, he was asked what he thought of the Maharajah.

"Ah," said the old man, "he was a very, very great sahib."

Charges U.S. Thwarts Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Andrei Vishinsky teamed up Friday with his boss, Foreign Minister Molotov, in demanding big-power conferences with Red China participating. Vishinsky at the same time accused the United States of thwarting plans for the Korean peace conference and preparing, in general, for another war. Vishinsky addressed the UN Assembly's political committee in the closing phases of a debate on disarmament while Molotov was holding a rare press conference in Moscow. The Soviet UN delegate, himself a former Soviet foreign minister, charged American preparations for a new war are preventing disarmament and are building up international tensions.

CITES EXAMPLES

As examples of what he said were American preparations for new conflict he cited establishment of a ring of air bases fronting Russia and plans for remilitarizing of Western Germany.

Selwyn Lloyd, British minister of state, made the chief reply for the West, saying Vishinsky had in effect rejected western plans for work on disarmament and that the Russian had made a "disappointing speech."

In Moscow, Molotov denied that Russia is opposed to a conference with the West but said Communist China must be invited.

He also said the possibility of holding such a meeting depends on western agreement to discuss a wide range of problems relating to international tension, not just the German question.

Molotov took the unusual action of summoning foreign and Russian correspondents to a press conference at which he said Russia regards a foreign ministers meeting to be "necessary and useful" provided it seeks to reduce international tension.

Renew Efforts To Question Igor Gouzenko

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator William E. Jenner, Indiana Republican who heads the United States Senate internal security subcommittee, today said he has renewed his efforts to question Igor Gouzenko, the Russian code clerk who walked out of the Soviet embassy in Ottawa in 1945 with voluminous documents exposing the Canadian spy ring.

Jenner made public a letter, dated Friday, to State Secretary Dulles asking him to renew the sub-committee's request for permission from Canada to interrogate Gouzenko. The Canadian government turned down Jenner's previous bid in a letter to Dulles dated Nov. 5, saying Gouzenko had nothing to add to what the U.S. government already knew about his case.

NOT IN REPORT

But Jenner said his sub-committee has a "1945 security document" which quotes Gouzenko, now living secretly in Canada, as saying he was told at the Soviet embassy that the Russians had an agent in the U.S. state department in May, 1945. This information, Jenner said, does not appear in the report of the Canadian royal commission which investigated Gouzenko's revelations.

Jenner emphasized that his subcommittee is not concentrating on the current controversial Harry Dexter White case, but is looking into the case of Alger Hiss and others named in a 1945 report by the Federal Bureau of Investigation on subversion in the U.S. government.

Hiss, a state department employee at the time, now is serving a prison term for perjury. He was convicted of lying under oath in denying that he passed secrets to a Communist courier.

"To withhold his commission would alert him, it was contended, and ruin any chance of catching him in the act of espionage and of identifying the other members of the spy apparatus to which he was believed to belong."

The Times said Truman followed this advice and that the FBI concentrated a large number of agents on the hunt, but failed to get the essential evidence. White resigned in 1947, and died in 1948.

us, lying closer to the USSR. Their atomic stockpile will, of course, increase in size, and means of delivery will improve as time goes on.

SEEK SECURE HOME

"Each of our two nations seeks a secure home for realization of its destiny. Defence of our soil presents a challenge to both our peoples. It is a common task. Defensively, as well as geographically, we are joined beyond any possibility of separation. . . .

"Canada and the United States are equal partners and neither dares to waste time. There is a time to be alert and a time to rest. These days demand ceaseless vigilance. We must be ready and prepared. The threat is present. The measures of defence have been thoroughly studied by official bodies of both countries. The permanent joint board on defence has worked assiduously and effectively on mutual problems. Now is the time for action on all agreed measures."

At another point, President Eisenhower said:

ADMIRE CANADA

"We, of our country, have long respected and admired Canada as a bulwark of the British Commonwealth and a leader among nations. As no Soviet wile or lure can divide the Commonwealth, nothing will corrupt the Canadian-American partnership."

Canadians and Americans, two independent and sovereign peoples, had built a stage on which all the world could see:

1. "Each country's patriotic dedication to its own enlightened self-interest, free from vicious nationalistic exploitation of grude or ancent wrong."

2. "A joined recognition that neighbors, among nations as among individuals, prosper best in neighborly co-operation, factually exemplified in daily life."

3. "An international will to cast out the bomb and the gun as arbiters and to exalt joint search for truth and peace."

SHACKLE PROSPERITY

On trade relations, the president said:

"The free world must come to recognize that trade barriers, although intended to protect a country's economy, often in fact shackle its prosperity. In the United States, there is a growing recognition that free nations cannot expand their productivity and economic strength without a high level of international trade."

But, he added, Canada and the U. S. could not risk sudden dislocation in industry and agriculture by "hasty decisions to accomplish suddenly what inevitably will come in an orderly economic evolution."

Mr. Eisenhower mentioned Thursday's announcements that the two countries have established a joint economic and trade committee.

HARMONIZE INTERESTS

"I confidently believe," he said, "that out of this process the best interests of both our countries will be more easily harmonized and advanced."

Referring to the St. Lawrence seaway, the president said the project is "inevitable—sure and certain."

The president said Canadians "have been valorous champions of freedom for mankind" and "patient and wise devisers of a stout defence for the western world."

"Beyond the shadow of the atomic cloud, the horizon is bright with promise. No shadow can halt our advance together. For we, Canada and the United States, shall use carefully and wisely the God-given graces of faith and reason as we march together toward it—toward the horizon of a world where each man, each family, each nation lives at peace in a climate of freedom."

The president was thanked in French by Rene Beaudoin, Speaker of the Commons, and Wishart McL. Robertson, Speaker of the Senate.

MEETS SPEAKERS

After the speeches, the president conferred with the cabinet for about an hour and then went to lunch with Mrs. Eisenhower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. St. Laurent.

His afternoon was free. In the evening he was to give a dinner at the U. S. embassy in honor of Governor-General Vincent Massey. The president and his party were scheduled to leave Ottawa at 11:59 p. m. EST, tonight to return to Washington.

Mr. Massey gave a state dinner in honor of the president Friday night. Presented to Mr. Eisenhower before his speech were the two speakers, Opposition Leader George Drew, CCF Leader Coldwell and Social Credit Leader Low.

Boys Set Tear Gas Off In Iowa Theatre

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP) — A tear-gas bomb set off by two 13-year-old boys drove 250 patrons weeping and screaming from the suburban Beaver theatre here Friday night.

One woman fainted. Her husband carried her out. A boy was overcome by fumes. A policeman became nauseated after several trips into the movie house to retrieve abandoned shoes and other items.

Police located the two lads at their homes. They said they took the bomb from a garage several days ago and decided to set it off as they left the theatre after seeing a double feature. Their case was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Education Of Women Needs Greater Attention–Mackenzie

By FORBES RHUDE

Quebec (CP)—Much greater attention should be given to the education of girls and young women, Dr. N. A. Mackenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, said today.

"For," he added, "although the independent role of women has been technically established, our culture is far from accommodating itself to the change, and far from developing to the full the talents and contributions of women."

Dr. Mackenzie made his comment in the course of a study on education prepared for delivery before "Canada's Tomorrow" conference. The two-day sessions, sponsored by Canadian Westinghouse, Ltd., are being attended by some 250 representatives of Canadian life.

FOUR OBJECTIVES

Dr. Mackenzie gave four objectives for the education of a young Canadian.

It should help him to prepare himself to make a living; to prepare himself for enlightened citizenship in a democracy; to refine his emotions, intellect and taste; and it should attempt through him to extend 'the rule of love' among all men.

These objectives "will require an extension of educational opportunity in Canada, more particularly by increasing the numbers of older adolescents completing high school, and by providing for other types of education which these young people may well need." These include vocational institutes and adult education programs.

"They will require a more generous conception of financial support for education . . . not merely through the support furnished by individuals and corporations, but of all our governments, including our federal government for institutions of higher education."

Campbellford Firemen 'Warm Up' New Home

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Campbellford firemen held a "house-warming" party in their new headquarters in the south annex of the old fire-hall building this week. The fire truck and equipment are now housed in this annex and the firemen have done an excellent job of renovating the premises. All the work has been accomplished through volunteer labour.

Members of the brigade enjoyed coffee and sandwiches, served from a new set of dishes which the brigade has recently purchased. The brigade plans to hold an "open-house" in their new quarters at some time in the future.

Weekend Church Review:

Need For Better Citizens Centres On Responsibility

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Recently I wrote of the need for better church members. It is a need that is by no means confined to the churches We need better citizens, more intelligent voters, better politicians, better leaders in every sphere and walk of life—not disparaging the many who are already giving their best.

And this need in the churches, the nation and wherever it exists, centers in the one factor of responsibility.

What is responsibitity? It centers in the simpler word, duty. But it means and implies something more. Duty is chiefly related to one particular task or object. Responsibility is a wholerange attitude of which every particular duty is a part.

The nature and meaning of responsibility are often brought out more clearly by the lack of it. Think, for instance, of the vast number of officials and people in what should be responsible positions who, annually or oftener, enter upon their offices or positions with oaths to perform all that pertains to place and office honestly and to the best of their abilities.

Then contrast that with the graft, the self-seeking and the downright dishonesty with which so much of our public life is marred. Could such things be if oaths of office had the real meaning of swearing to God, and not only to one's fellowmen?

Long-term sentences have recently been given witnesses in court who have committed perjury. Miscreants in office have frequently been disgraced and sentenced to usually mild terms.

Why have they not been indicted for the primary and basic offence of perjury?

It is strange, as I have suggested in a previous article, that even in the realm of religion so many persons feel, or display little responsibility. Nor is this just a matter of weakness, or a failure of good intentions.

They join churches without any real purpose of entering unto the church's spiritual life, or even without any idea of giving regular attendance at its services. Perhaps they join for social or business reasons.

The church that is socially prominent in a community is bound to have its proportion of hangers-on. Of one such church I once heard it said with some truth that it comprised in its membership the greatest saints and the greatest rascals in the community. Fortunately it did have the greatest saints.

The responsibilities of a true Christian, as a matter of fact, are not slight. Few of us measure up to them in their entirety. But to feel responsibility, and to strive earnestly to fulfil it, is the test of our sincerity.

There is today much study and talk of stewardship, and many Christian laymen are taking an active part in seeking to promote and develop this sense of stewardship, which is responsibility. In the minds of some it is related to money and gifts, and many are practicing tithing.

But stewardship goes beyond even the level of tithing, which few givers attain. Its nature and extent are clearly defined by St. Paul in II Corinthians 8:5. There he cites the example of the Christian discples in Macedonia, who, in their liberality, "first gave themselves to the Lord."

Former Pupils Honor Campbellford Teacher

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A few of the former pupils of Mr. Charles S. Haig, who recently retired after 32 years as principal of the Campbellford Public School, met at his home on Thursday evening and presented him with a cash gift.

Mrs. Francis DeCarroll made the presentation following a short oratory. Mr. Haig, in his reply, said that the gift, coming as it ddi from his former pupils, was to him the finest tribute that he could wish for at the close of his teaching career. The gathering spent a social hour before the lighted fireplace, and enjoyed refreshments.

About a month ago, Mr. Haig was honored at a special dinner given by the Public School Board and was presented with an arm chair.

PRIDE ON WHEELS—This is the first bicycle Audrey Hepburn ever owned, and she's proud as Punch. It was given to her by Billy Wilder who is directing her in her first Hollywood movie—Paramount's "Sabrina Fair," in which she stars with Humphrey Bogart and William Holden. Audrey is the girl who rose to stardom overnight after her first film, "Roman Holiday," shot entirely in Rome, Italy.

C. Of C. Discusses House Proposals

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—Walter A. Kiloran, newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce presided for the Directors meeting held in Lakefield Hotel.

A. G. Buchanan was secretary of the meeting in the absence of Mrs. W. O'Brien. It was decided to ask Mr. P. S. Wells of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to a meeting of the local chamber slated for November 18 to discuss particulars of the new Dominion government legislation dealing with the banks engaging in mortgage loans.

The need for mortgage money for home builders in Lakefield and smaller communities generally, was discussed. The chairman reported that a recent survey of available lan din the village, showed considerable vacant property suitable for building. The utilization of this land would increase municipal assessments and spread the financial load of local improvements and utilities. This matter will be brought to the attention of Mr. Wells on his visit, as a preliminary step towards finding out what might be done.

A letter of appreciation for the parade held by the Chamber on Fair Day, was received from the Lakefield Agricultural Society. Agriculture chairman, B. F. Blake, suggested contacting some members of the Fair Board with a view of having them join the Chamber and develop an agricultural program in which they might assist.

The resignation of William Sheppard was received and accepted with regret. It was hoped that Mr. Shephard would again assist with the Santa Claus parade, as he had made it such a success last year.

The need for additional playgrounds and recreational facilities, for both residents of the village and district as well as tourists was discussed. It was decided to contact the Lions Club and the municipal council to try and work out a co-operative scheme.

COBOURG (ENS). — Thirteen cases are on the docket of Supreme Court which opens next week before Mr. Justice King. Laid over to a later court was the action brought by J. E. Ayrhart of Toronto and W. S. Edwards of Cobourg against John Meincongen of Indian River, the result of an accident which occurred on the Norwood Road on July 14, 1951. Mr. Ayrhart seeks damages of $6,000 and Mr. Edwards $23,545.

Lulu A. Hogle of Campbellford is plaintiff in an action against William Hogle of the same town in which she seeks alimony of $400 per month, custody and $100 maintenance a month for a child and an order securing the gross sum of $25,000.

There are several actions arising out of motor accidents, and three divorce suits on the list.

Erratic Driver Claims Banana Skin Alibi

COBOURG (ENS). — Magistrate R. B. Baxter reserved judgment until Monday on a drunk driving count heard at Friday's police court in which Smith Ellis of Baltimore was charged. Provincial Constable Vic Piper testified that Ellis was driving erratically as he passed the provincial police office and forced two cars off the road. He found accused to be under the influence of liquor.

Ellis told the court that he was eating a banana and was leaning over to throw the banana skin out the right hand window when his car swerved. Jerry Davey testified that he had been with Ellis a short time before his arrest and that he was sober.

Germ Warfare

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow radio today renewed Communist charges that the United States used germ warfare in Korea. It broadcast a long report from the official party newspaper, Pravda, claiming new evidence has been obtained from prisoners in Korea.

Abduction Car Found On N.Y. Street

NEW YORK (AP)—The car in which an ex-convict Friday abducted a 13-year-old girl, after terrorizing her family in a pre-dawn robbery, was found early today on a Manhattan street.

Police searched for Anthony James Palazzola, 26, identified from photos by the girl, Dorothea del Longo, as the man who kidnapped her, held her captive in a hotel room for several hours, then let her out of his car on a street on Long island.

First police reports said the girl was not harmed, but later authorities said she had been raped. Dorothea originally said she had not been molested. When taken away she was attired in blue pyjamas under a topcoat.

A man entered the apartment of James Botticelli, the girl's stepfather, at 4 a. m. Friday, punched Botticelli in the face, demanded money and liquor and stayed on for an hour before leaving with the girl, $100 in cash, a portable radio and a tape recorder.

TAKEN TO HOTEL

Dorothea said the man took her to a hotel on East 70th street and then drove aimlessly around Manhattan and Long island.

He talked and boasted a great deal, she said, but became alarmed after listening to radio accounts of the police search for him.

He gave her $5 taxi fare, handed her the portable radio and recording machine, and let her out of the car in Woodside, Queens. A telephone operator on her way to work took her to police.

Police said Palazzola had been arrested several times on robbery charges and had been paroled while serving one term.

Friday night the night clerk at the hotel where the child was held was arrested on charges of impairing the morals of a minor. The clerk told police he thought the five-foot, 85-pound girl was about 20 years old.

Duplicity Dilemma In Wording Of Charge

COBOURG (ENS)—Mr. Justice Gale's recent decision nullifying a careless driving charge as at present worded because of duplicity, is tying things up properly in regard to several careless driving charges in police court. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman has been amending the charge to delete the duplicity and the cases have been proceeding subject to a subsequent final ruling on Mr. Justice Gale's finding.

A charge of careless driving against Oryille Kelly of Port Hope was dismissed in police court Friday. Kelly drove into a ditch near Port Hope Sept. 12. The case proceeded on a charge amended to conform with Mr. Justice Gale's recent decision. Kelly said that it had been raining and the road was slippery as he was coming down a steep grade, and that he also skidded on some loose gravel.

Photography New Way To Survey Unmapped Land

Aerial photographic surveying, a war-fostered science, has become a faster and more economical method of plotting ground areas than its parent, field surveying.

As an example of its accuracy, P. F. Osler, president and managing director of Photographic Surveys, Ltd., Quebec, told the Peterborough branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada Friday night, that heights can be determined within one foot for every thousand feet of the aircraft's height.

HAS LIMITATIONS

Though admitting aerial work has limitations and many claims have been highly colored, Mr. Osler dealt with methods of obtaining reliable measurements from aerial films through an allied and relatively new science of photogrametry.

Distortions produced by taking pictures of objects of different heights, at different altitudes, objects not directly below the lens, with a tilted camera and distortions as a result of lens and film, can be overcome enough to obtain a satisfactory degree of accuracy.

Once corrected, the image can be projected in stereoscopic enlargers and be seen in three dimensions. In that way heights of objects in the picture can be measured with special instruments, and a contour map drawn.

Mr. Osler described the instruments, showed slide examples of projects and concluded by saying "while field surveyors are still essential to our work aerial surveying can and does offer savings in time and financial outlay."

Preventative For Polio In Sight

The director of the Virus Laboratory at the University of California reported this week to the American National Academy of Sciences that for the first time the human polio virus had been identified and photographed in pure form. The director, Dr. Wendell Stanley, says that the identification prepares the way for chemical analysis of the germ structure, which could lead to improved vaccines and a chemical weapon to treat the disease. He said he was confident that a "fully adequate" vaccine would be available within five to ten years.

* * *

Experimental vaccines have already been developed by other American scientists, and one is to undergo extensive field tests next year. Good and useful as this vaccine may be, the actual identification of the virus will hasten the coming of certain, and mass-produced vaccines which may wipe out polio as diphtheria and scarlet fever and small pox have been removed as human scourges by the clinical use of viruses. The news is important here in this district as elsewhere throughout the world where poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) has become an annual and apparently increasing affliction of society.

Prince Of Wales's Yacht For Manitoulin

American and Ontario visitors to Manitoulin find the island pleasant in summer. The fact that they are on a big island—it is the largest fresh-water island in the world—gives them scope both for their cars and for the romantic detachment from the world of cares which islands traditionally provide. These tourists are the latest in a series which began in 1648. Father Joseph-Antoine Poncet, a cousin of the martyr Father Lalemant, was the first white visitor to Manitoulin. He lived with the Ottawa Indians from October of 1648 to the next May, and returned to spend the following winter with them.

The Indian population has had its ups and downs. In 1652 the Iroquois descended on the Ottawas on the island to punish them for their kindness in harbouring displaced Hurons. The few who escaped the Iroquois vengeance fled in panic and for nearly twenty years the island was deserted. But by 1670 enough of them had returned to make a Jesuit mission useful. This mission was established 31 years before Detroit was founded, so Manitoulin has a long history. Today the Indians on Manitoulin are more numerous than they were three centuries ago; according to the 1951 census there were 2,246 of them living on reserves—a fifth of the total population of the island.

The Indians were tenacious of their island heritage during its eighteenth century fur trading era and its nineteenth century lumbering period. In 1838 the whole island became a reservation, a deal which Sir Francis Bond Head made with the Indians, in exchange for their ceding 1,500,000 acres of some of the best land in the colony (on the mainland), 23,000 islands in Georgian Bay and other tracts. A further deal was made twenty years later, after the government had decided that the number of Indians interested in the reservation was not large enough to warrant its continuation. It happened at that time, too, that the government and businessmen of Upper Canada realized that there was much valuable timber and fertile soil on Manitoulin Island. It could be cropped and colonized. By a treaty of 1862 the Indians of Manitoulin were given a total of $700 for the whole place, and a promise of an annuity. Most of them accepted the cash but the Indians of Wikwemikong did not approve and refused to move out. So that part of the island became the Unceded Indian Reserve.

Other churches than the Roman Catholic have been interested in Christianizing Manitoulin, and during the last quarter of the last century the missionary work of the Anglican church among lumbermen, settlers and Indians became something of a famous cause. Philanthropists in England sent contributions as varied as second-hand clothing, old magazines, Bibles, cash and a yacht. The boat was the Prince of Wales's steam yacht "Zenobia." It was rechristened "Evangeline" and allowed the local Bishop to supervise his diocese in greater comfort than formerly.

Today the most comfortable way to reach Manitoulin is still by boat—a car ferry operates from Tobermory at the tip of Bruce Peninsula to Manitowaning. The adventurous can go by road, coming down from Sault Ste. Marie or Sudbury, and over a bridge built across the channel to Little Current about fifteen years ago. If you like to dawdle by train, you can reach Manitoulin by way of Parry Sound, North Bay and Sudbury. There are roads on the island, somewhat necessary, considering that it is a hundred miles long and from two to forty miles wide. Its total area is over a thousand square miles.

What do the 11,214 (1951 census) people of Manitoulin do with their 1,073 square miles? They fish from it. They farm, despite the hills and rocks which make only a quarter of it arable. They breed cattle for beef (there are only two creameries on Manitoulin). They raise turkeys; 165 farms engage in turkey farming—a considerable proportion, since there are only 900 farms in all. They raise foxes and minks—the largest fur farm in Ontario is on Manitoulin. They cater to tourists. They also raise families. Because of the isolation of Manitoulin in the past there has been a considerable amount of inbreeding.

Lumbering used to be important, but most of the trees of saw-log length have been cut; however, there are a few sawmills on the island, and a small pulpwood logging industry.

An annual event of interest is the auction sale of cattle each fall. Because it is difficult to grow enough feed on the shallow soils, only the breeding herd is kept through the winter; the cattle bred and raised on the island in the spring and summer are sold off for finishing on southern Ontario pastures.

Manitoulin has an even older and more interesting geological history than its social history. In its rocks, hills and soils meet the ancient Pre-Cambrian and the comparatively recent geological event which created the Niagara Escarpment. The island fascinates geologists. Tourists less far-seeing like to play with the Indian place names—Sheshegwaning, Kagawong, Sheguindah, Wikwemikong, Tehkummah, and the like. The last-named section has 509 people (1951 census). There are two towns—Gore Bay (752) and Little Current (1,397) and there are two weekly newspapers on the island.

Having said our all about Manitoulin we are tempted to go and visit it some time.

Temple Bar In Ottawa?

Something new has been added to the ceremonies associated with the opening of Parliament; when the Governor-General rode through the streets in his carriage on Thursday, the Mayor of Ottawa stopped him and wished him "a pleasant passage."

This is clearly in imitation of the ceremony which happens whenever the Sovereign enters the bounds of the ancient City of London; he is stopped at Temple Bar, and there assured of safe conduct by the Lord Mayor. The custom is a very old one, and dates from a time when the entry of a King into London was not necessarily peaceful, and when the Lord Mayor had both the authority and the force to stop him. We do not see any reason to import this custom into Canada, and to cause the Governor-General to pass through the streets of Ottawa by permission of the Mayor, however the ceremony may be disguised or the wording changed.

Our regular readers know that we like ceremony, and have often insisted that Canada could do with more of it. But ceremony must be rooted in common sense, or courtesy, or some other worthy ground. Our Canadian mayors are not the rulers of royal boroughs; there is no ancient quarrel between them and the King's representative. We feel that it is foolish to import a custom which had is origin in an old quarrel which never had any reality on this side of the water, and we can see no reason for it—except, perhaps to give the Mayor of Ottawa something to do which attracts attention at the opening of Parliament.

Ceremonials need better reason than that, and we feel that, as there is no Temple Bar, and no old quarrel in Canada, the Governor-General might very well pass through the streets without this ceremony in future.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Knowledge is power, and particularly when your knowledge is about somebody important.

It shows a nice spirit to take the will for the deed, but in matters of real estate it is wiser to get the deed.

The real trouble with little pitchers is not that they have big ears, but that they also have big mouths.

The Vancouver Province offers this pretty thought: "Pedestrian and motorist should be equally willing to give each other a break." Yes, like the comradely reciprocity between cat and mouse.

A pessimist says that more money is spent in this country on gum than on religion. Don't be downhearted. That could mean that our religion stretches farther than our gum.

Nowadays, when so few people are willing to contribute to a cause unless they can get an income tax reduction in return, charity might be called the pasteurized milk of human kindness.

IN ISRAEL

Making The Desert Bloom

By CYRIL DUNN

WHEN Israel refused to stop work on its plan to divert the waters of the River Jordan—which is objected to by Syria—the United States suspended economic aid; consequently, on October 28, the Israeli Government gave orders to halt work on the project. Aid was resumed; and the United Nations Security Council now has the matter under consideration.

I went to the Jordan Valley, between Lake Huleh and the Sea of Galilee, just before the work—so close to the heart of all Israelis—came to a sudden halt. The contractors were then pushing the new channel through the hills towards the Sea at sensational speed. Technicians had been urgently summoned from quiet desk jobs in the towns. Work was going on through the night under arc lights, and even through the Sabbath.

✧ ✧ ✧

AN ENGINEER told me with delight that if he went away, even for a short time, he scarcely knew where he was when he came back because everything had moved forward so quickly. Even the hot little tent used by the workers as a canteen was constantly being taken down and re-pitched. "Were going to have one," said the engineer. "On wheels."

Then, abruptly, everything stopped, leaving the sombre and hostile Syrians on the other side of the Jordan nothing new to stare at.

There are several possible explanations for the all-out effort before the halt was called. One, offered by my engineer friend, is to be found in the temperament of the Israelis. "We have a great vigour for the work," he said, tolerantly shaking his head in his capacity as a prudent engineer. "Everything must be finished immediately." Another was that the rains might come. When they do the throat-drying earth of Israel becomes virtually unworkable mud. But it is possible that there are other and less simple reasons.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE JORDAN is being diverted at this point as part of Israel's great scheme for the development of the country's water resources. The immediate aim of the diversion is simply to lift the river on to a more even keel along a stretch of nine or ten miles, and so to stop the water from wastefully galloping down this valley as it has done for centuries. Then, at a point above the Sea of Galilee, the stored-up energy will be released through a generator to provide hydro-electric power.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE TROUBLE is that work on the scheme has to be started within one of demilitarised zones along Israel's borders with the Arab world. The Syrians, Israel's immediate neighbours in this region, have formally objected to the work within the zone, first on principle; second because the new channel looks like a defensive device from their side of the river; and third because they contend that a number of local Arabs will suffer if the Jordan is moved away from their lands. One does not have to be unduly cynical to imagine, therefore, that Israel's burst of speed was designed to carry the water project, substantially completed, to the edge of the zone before the Syrian objections could be considered by the Security Council.

✧ ✧ ✧

ISRAEL INSISTS that the suspension of work is strictly temporary. It is certain that the new State will not easily be deterred from going ahead, not only with the Jordan Valley scheme but with the whole national plan for carrying water to the dry places. The present generation of Israelis is literally dedicated to the task of making the desert parts of the country bloom again. It is a theme on which even public relations offices quote the Bible with complete solemnity.

Israel's particular desire is to make things grow, and the expansion of life possible, in the Negev, the great stretch of desert territory in the south.

I have been down to parts of the Negev which are already settled. The frank fulfilment of prophecies by exploiting the Negev is apt to be embarrassing. But it is impossible not to be deeply moved by what they have already done.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE NEW CITY of Beer Sheba, the capital of the Negev, must be one of the most startling spectacles in the modern world—a complete contemporary New Town set in the middle of what is still a naked wilderness. They have just completed a huge cinema, of brilliantly, aggressively modern design. It is a considerable experience to turn from looking at the stills advertising this week's programme ("Gone With the Wind," when I was there and stare out across the barren, undulating distances where the dust eddies raise their ghostly Doric columns.

There are farming settlements too, where people have done wonders with highly mechanised farming—while just across the road the black-tented Bedouin scrapes the surface of the earth with a wooden plough drawn by a camel. But neither Beer Sheba nor the settlements can now advance much further without the kind of water supply which, the Israelis say, can only be brought down here by pipeline from the remote north.

✧ ✧ ✧

ON PAPER it looks as if Israel intends to move the river system in this part of the Middle East sideways into Israel, down the corridor between the Jordan border and the coast. It is asserted that this big-scale diversion will not, in fact, stop the main flow of water down the old bed of the Jordan, if only for the sensible reason that if it did so the Dead Sea, into which the Jordan runs, might dry up and so deprive Israel of one of its major assets.

The Arab neighbours object to Israel's scheme. The headwaters of some of the rivers on which the Israelis depend lie in Arab territory, and even though the Arab States have shown no great zeal for exploiting these resources themselves, they naturally object to the notion that Israel, whose very existence they resent, might benefit. An alternative plan, intended to develop the water resources of Syria, Jordan and Israel, has now been produced by the United States experts for the United Nations organisation faced with the problem of Arab refugees in the Middle East.

THE U.S. PLAN is based on the idea of cooperation between Israel and the Arab world, and would seem to offer a first step toward the reduction of dangerous tension in this area. Israel is willing to discuss the plan; possibly because the Israelis consider it unlikely that the Arabs will ever agree to a cooperative scheme involving tacit acknowledgement of the existence of the State of Israel.

Israel itself has good reasons for supporting any plan calculated to solve the problem of the Arab refugees now squatting in their tents along the Israel border and offering a constant threat of trouble. But the U.S. plan does not appear to promise the Israelis enough water to go ahead with the kind of development they have in mind for the Negev. And making the Negev blossom like a rose is an almost sacred policy on which the people of Israel are never likely to accept a compromise.

An American Opinion:

A 'Canada House' In New York

(MONTREAL GAZETTE)

THE Canadian Consul-General in New York Hon. Ray Lawson, has proposed the erection of a Canadian House in New York. It would house all Canadian Government offices in that city, as well as all those Canadian business firms which may wish to join the enterprise. By such a merging of publicity and promotion, as well as by an integration of effort, Mr. Lawson believes Canadian prestige would rise, Canadian business benefit, and a large amount of current duplicated expenses be eliminated.

To build the 18-storey showplace, it has been estimated that $5,000,000 would be required. Under the scheme, the money would be advanced by the Canadian Government, with amortization over a 40-year period. The investment, in short, would be self-liquidating.

As proof that this is quite practical Mr. Lawson points out that the Canadian Club—which has already agreed to enter the scheme—pays $120,000 a year for its quarters in the Waldorf-Astoria, and Canadian Government offices in New York pay another $80,000 a year.

Quarters leased by Canadian transportation companies and other Canadian enterprises would be added to this guaranteed income. The most encouraging reaction in New York itself to a Canada House is the list of architects, building contractors and real estate people who have visited Mr. Lawson since he proposed the plan two weeks ago. All of them wish to build the new Canada House for the Canadian Government, to its specifications. But all of them wish to retain ownership, leasing the quarters to Canadian interests.

One firm offered to tear down a large building across the avenue from the Waldorf and build Canada House there. They looked upon the scheme as a profit-making investment—for themselves.

There will doubtless be considerable discussion of the plan before a decision is made upon it. Meanwhile, several arguments in its favor already exist in New York—an Ireland House, a Finland House and an Indian Government and trade centre. Each of these is smaller than Mr. Lawson has proposed, but they have established that an integration of national enterprises in a city as large as New York is worthwhile.

Drunk Sailor

(Brantford Expositor)

In Hamilton, a sailor spent all afternoon in a hotel beverage room, reputedly consuming $16 worth of drinks. When refused more he smashed an expensive mirror. In court, later, a magistrate convicted the man of mischief but let him off with a $10 fine and a six-month suspended sentence. Said the cadi: "The owners of this hotel deserve what they got. I will do nothing about the damages. Instead I will report the hotel to the Liquor Control Board." The Letter-Review of Fort Erie protests that this judgement opens interesting prospects for Hamiltonians who like to get drunk and smash property. We think this is the wrong interpretation. Perhaps the magistrate should have imposed a heavier fine, but the point he was making was that by the time he had guzzled $16 worth of alcoholic beverage, the sailor was not responsible, whereas the people who sold him that much were.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The righteous shall inherit the land, and dwell therein for ever. The mouth of the righteous speaketh wisdom, and his tongue talketh of judgment. The law of his God is in his heart; none of his steps shall slide. (Ps. 37:29-31.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now I say, That the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all; but is under tutors and governors until the time appointed of the father. . . .

And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father. Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ. (Gal. 4:1, 2, 6, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands. Serve the Lord with gladness: come before his presence with singing. Know ye that the Lord is God: it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people and the sheep of his pasture. (Ps. 100:1-3.)

Overload Trucks

(Calgary Albertan)

During the war a massive piece of machinery was moved by truck across the state of Indiana. It left no trail at the time, but within two years the exact route of the truck could be traced by the cracked and broken pavement.

This Summer another trucker tried the same thing in Ohio, next door to Indiana. He was carrying a load which was 30 tons in excess of the legal limit. But this man was caught. Since the penalty in Ohio varies according to the amount to the excess load, the fine was $1,843.

The Ohio system is under consideration by some other states. Perhaps it is the best deterrent to overloading.

Winnipeg's Reds

(Ottawa Journal)

Winnipeg's ward three has what the Free Press calls the doubtful distinction of a Communist representative on the school board, a Communist in city council, and as a provincial riding a Communist in the Manitoba legislature.

Outside this ward the Communist vote in Winnipeg is not impressive but inside it the Reds turn out "like trained seals," to quote the Free Press again, at every election, and their solid block of votes out-weighs the indifference and division of the non-Communist electorate.

But the Winnipeg newspaper says the total Communist vote even in the third ward is steadily declining as the aims and purposes of the Red movement become more clearly revealed.

"The Communist candidates are finding it harder and harder to retain their seats, partly ecause some former supporters have been taking a more searching look at this party. No doubt the displaced persons who had a chance to view Communist regimes at first hand are opening the eyes of many who followed the Winnipeg Communists."

It is strange that any Canadian city would elect a Communist, whose objectives are revolutionary in their nature, to any public office, but Winnipeg is not unique in this respect—Toronto sends a Red to the Ontario Legislature. It is strange because it is basic in the Communist's political faith that the interest of communism must take precedence over everything else in his life. If the choice is between Winnipeg and Moscow the Winnipeg Red will choose Moscow.

HAVING A CUP OF TEA with Golden Milers at their fortnightly meetings is a pleasure which Mrs. Ada Stanton and Mrs. Edith Scott, of the Soroptomist Club are enjoying in this picture. The lady seated at left is a charter member of the Golden Mile Club. Her neighbor has belonged for several years and has made a number of friends through it, too. She is a bingo enthusiast.

A NEW MEMBER at the Golden Mile Club meeting this week had had some experience at weaving, so she is threading the small hand loom in readiness to show other members how to do it. After some practice, they hope to make squares that can be sewn together for an afghan.

'Golden Mile' Club For Elderly Ladies

Soroptimists' Downtown Club Is Favorite With Aging Women

By MARGARET LANCASTER

The "golden mile" has become a much happier mile for Peterborough's older women residents who have joined the Golden Mile Club.

Not only do they enjoy the fellowship and entertainment at club meetings every two weeks throughout the year, but they have formed friendships that are making life more interesting all of the time. They visit each other's homes, they telephone and they go out to bingos and social evenings together.

All of this has come about in the past five years, through the Soroptomist Club.

When this club of business women in executive positions was chartered just six years ago, it was decided to do work for older women as the service project. Hearing of the Second Mile Club of Toronto, which had not then reached anything like the proportions it now has, the members investigated, and then laid their plans similarly.

At the first meeting there were a half dozen half-reluctant comers. The older ladies were skeptical of their invitations. Though assured time and again that it would be purely a social club, and they would not be the objects of charity, pride at first would not let them take in the spirit which was intended.

40 ON REGISTER

Now there are more Golden Milers than Soroptimists—about 40 on the register—and they are becoming continually more eager and more active. At first they were called for and taken home from each meeting by Soroptimists, then a taxi service was arranged, but now there are few who take advantage of this, preferring to make their own way, and perhaps do a bit of shopping while downtown.

Generosity of the manager of Grafton's Peterborough store has made the spacious upstair recreation room available to the club every second Tuesday afternoon. Tables, dishes, stove and refrigerator are there and make it possible to serve afternoon tea with dignity.

TEA-TIME

Tea time is always the highlight time of Golden Mile Club meetings, though interesting programs may come before. The older ladies are always anxious to come to the table—no waistline worries with them—and the Soroptimists provide dainty sandwiches and delectable cakes and cookies.

Decorations are on the table for each meeting, but for special occasions such as Hallowe'en, Christmas, Valentine's Day, they are especially elaborate and pretty. Birthdays are recorded, though not ages, and every meeting there is someone's birthday to be celebrated with the singing of "Happy Birthday" and presenting cards.

Miss Ethel Miller, a sustaining member of the Soroptimist Club because she is not now active in business, is a tireless worker for the Golden Mile Club. It is she who comes down early in the day to decorate their tea table, and it is she who plans some activity for their pleasure.

Sometimes members contribute readings or songs or even skits. They do some sewing and some reading, but they prefer to do that at home and just sit and talk when they are together. Right now they are learning to weave small squares and hope to make enough this winter for an afghan w' ich they can sell at their annual bazaar.

SIMPLE ORGANIZATION

The Golden Milers until recently had an elected president and secretary, but lately they have decided to have a president for each month so that all will get some ex- ience in leadership. Mrs. E. Chatten was president for several years, and before her Mrs. R. Tyers had the office. Mrs. Ada Stanger has been the secretary-treasurer and calls the roll each meeting, as well as keeping account of money from the penny banks in which members drop spare pennies to be used as they may decide fitting.

They are entertained twice each year by the Soroptimists, at a Christmas dinner party and at a garden party in June. In turn, they entertain a Soroptimist or two at each of their meetings, depending on who of the club can find time to come. They are always happy to have a visitor.

GOLDEN MILERS are looking over some new books offered for their perusal at a recent meeting. They may take one home to read in leisure time.

MISS ETHEL MILLER AND MRS. E. CHATTEN are busy preparing greeting cards for Golden Mile Club members who celebrated birthdays at the meeting last Tuesday. All whose birthdays fall in the two weeks between meetings are remembered. Miss Miller is a Soroptomist who is not active in business now and devotes herself to promoting their service project. Mrs. Chatten was president of the older women's club for several years, but has stepped aside for a new system by which there is a new president each month.

THE LATE MARTIN B. CHENHALL

Memorial Window To Honor Longtime City Organist

Stained glass windows in St. Paul's Presbyterian church will be dedicated Sunday in memory of Martin Chenhall, for 27 years organist and choirmaster of the church.

Mr. Chenhall became, in his 27 years, more than an organist and choirmaster to the church. He aided, whenever possible, musical performances by city schools and organizations, and his contribution to the city was a large one.

Mr. Chenhall became organist of St. Paul's in 1921, retired in 1948, and died a year later.

He was born in Cramlington, Northumberland, England, at a time when musicians formed small bands at Christmas to serenade the citizens. His first fascination with music grew from an encounter with one of these bands, and that keen interest and curiosity remained with him and grew.

His family's natural fondness for music did much to nurture that interest.

Mr. Chenhall learned to play the piano in Newcastle, not far from his home, and later he studied organ and musical composition under Dr. G. F. Huntley, organist and choirmaster of Newcastle Cathedral.

In 1899 he graduated from the Royal College of Organists, and shortly afterward took up his first position as organist and choirmaster at St. Andrew's Anglican church, Newcastle.

Not long after his marriage, Mr. Chenhall moved to the United States where he became organist of Sage Chapel at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y. He was also pianist to the university's festival chorus.

From Cornell, he and his wife moved to Evansville, Indiana, where he was supervisor of music in the high schools for five years.

Three years after the First World War broke out, and just before the United States' entry into that conflict, he came to Cobourg, where he was organist and choirmaster of Cobourg Wesley church.

His next move took his to St. Thomas, in southwestern Ontario, where he stayed until 1921, when he came to St. Paul's.

Here, he served the church under five ministers: the late Revs. Robert Pogue and William Allen, the Rev. S. F. Johnston, the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr and the Rev. Dr. J. D. Smart.

The stained glass windows which will honor his memory are a departure from the usual; both artistically, and in the sense that they are the first windows dedicated to an organist.

The glass used is light golden shades, to permit more light to enter. The left window depicts three angels, with horn, cymbals and lyre, with a circular panel above them containing a lyre.

The right shows three angels in song, with a circular panel above containing a harp. Celtic Studios, Swansea, Wales, designed and manufactured the windows.

"To the glory of God and in loving memory of Martin Bodinner Chenhall, ARCO, organist and choirmaster, from November, 1921, to October, 1948. Erected by the choir of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Peterborough, November 15th, 1953," reads the inscription.

WELSH STAINED GLASS

Three stained glass windows for Morningside Presbyterian Church, Toronto, are now being made in Swansea, Wales. St. Andrew's United Church, River Heights, Winnipeg, has also ordered windows from the same firm, who also hope to do extensive work for Halifax Cathedral, which was started 25 years ago. The new St. Paul's memorial window was also done by the same firm, Celtic Studios, in Swansea.

National Film Board's Movies Win International Awards

In the space of two months last spring, three major international awards were made to films produced by the National Film Board of Canada.

The "Oscar" of Hollywood's Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for the best documentary short film went to Norman McLaren's experimental film Neighbours, a "parable" about peace (or about war).

Royal Journey, a film account of the visit to Canada and to Washington, D.C. of the Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, was named "best documentary film of 1952" by the British Film Academy.

Sports et Transports (French-language version of The Romance of Transportation in Canada) was named best animated short at the Sixth International Film Festival at Cannes.

FILM AWARDS WON

These were the most notable among the some 30 national and international film awards won last year by the NFB productions. The awards won by the NFB are by no means the only recognition given to Canadian film makers. Commercial producers consistently have won international awards with Canadian films sponsored by business, industry and governments. Newfoundland Scene, for instance, produced for Imperial Oil Limited won favourable notice in the documentary class at the 1952 Edinburgh Film Festival. Such awards and critical recognition are gratifying testimony of Canadian film standards, and provoke valuable publicity for Canada. There are few other fields in which Canada has achieved such widespread international recognition.

But films which win awards are not necessarily successful films. Films made for general distribution—as most Canadian films are—must be seen by many people if they are to be considered successful. If Canadian films are to be an effective medium abroad, other criteria than awards must be considered. Do Canadian films appeal mainly to judges and flim critics? Or do they also appeal to general audiences?

The audience reception and distribution records of the three prize-winning films above would give a fair answer for they are a mixed bag, a partial cross section of the types of films produced in Canada. Neighbours is a frankly experimental film, a category in which Canada is well-known; Royal Journey is a straight-forward documentary report, another type with which Canada is closely identified; Sports et Transports was designed for general audiences but not for the "double feature" trade, a characteristic of most Canadian films, which, since they are produced chiefly for government or private sponsors, naturally cannot concentrate on entertainment values.

WIDE VARIETY

Neighbours combines two techniques developed at the Board by Norman McLaren; single frame animation of real people which makes it possible, for instance, for an actor to appear to glide swiftly across a lawn on one foot and otherwise defy the laws of motion, and gravity; the synthetic sound which, in simple terms, substitutes hand-drawn striations on a film sound track for those ordinarily produced electronically by actual sounds, thus eliminating musical instruments and natural sound effects. The "parable" which is presented, using these techniques, is at once whimsical and shocking. Members of the audience, according to reports, may walk out of the theatre in horror—or stay to the end and appaud wildly.

Despite the unconventionality of its content and technique, Neighbours is being distributed in commercial theatres in Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom, France and Norway to date. In addition, 42 prints have been sent to Canadian diplomatic, consular and trade posts abroad for loan distribution and many prints have been sold. Neighbours will never be a draw at the "driv-ins" but, for an experimental film, it is being seen by a remarkably general audience.

Royal Journey had an obvious potential for general audiences. The question in the cast of Royal Journey was whether critical acclaim would parallel public popularity. The British Film Academy—and film critics in many countries—answered the question with enthusiasm. Royal Journey has been seen by more people than any other film ever produced in Canada. It was—and still is—distributed non-theatrically in more than 40 countries.

Sports et Transports is a cartoon history of Canadian transportation using a somewhat stylized animation technique. The commentary is a parody of a travelling lecturer's vague wordiness, counterpointed, in an innocent manner, against appropiate, or suitably inappropriate, visuals. The humour is quiet, the music unusual and the visuals do not attempt any of Disney's "realistic" effects. But the film, which was released only recently, is already obtaining good distribution. It is in general theatrical distribution in Canada. Distribution in the United States has been limited, to date, to specialty theatres but in these it has been very successful. It opened in a Broadway theatre on March 10, 1953 and at the time of writing (August 18) was still running in that theatre. It is to be featured this fall on the Ford Foundation television show "Omnibus". Commercial contracts have already been signed for France and Belgium. Other contracts are being negotiated. In addition, prints will be sent to Canadian posts abroad for non-theatrical use.

BROAD APPEAL

The records of these three films seem to demonstrate that Canadian films appeal not only to critics but to audiences. Admittedly these

Plant 'Food' When Planting

By HENRY PREE

The addition of some sort of fertilizer to the soil at time of planting is an advisable practice when transplanting trees and shrubs.

One must be sure with bare-root plants that the fertilizer is well mixed with the soil prior to planting, for fear of burning the roots.

Highly important to the welfare of plants is phosphorous and since it moves very slowly the best way to get it well distributed in the vicinity of the roots is to mix it with the soil used in the back fill.

The simplest way to add phosphorous to the soil is to use a complete fertilizer with an analysis of 4-12-4, or something similar. Such a fertilizer includes nitrogen and potash, the other nutrient elemer's essential to plant life.

In soils especially deficient in phosphorus it is advisable to add to the complete fertilizer five pounds of 20% superphosphate for each cubic yard of soil. The suggested application of 4-12-4 fertilizer at planting time, to be thoroughly mixed with the soil used in the back fill about the roots, is 10 pounds per cubic yard of soil.

Trees growing in lawns need to be supplied each year with an abundance of plant food. For best results the fertilizer should be placed deep in the soil so that it is readily available to the roots.

Many home gardeners believe that feeding the lawn also feeds the trees. But more plant food than the turf requires must be supplied so that some will get past the grass roots.

The best method of tree feeding for the home gardener is to make holes with a crowbar or soil augur, and fill them with a mixture of sand, peat moss and fertilizer and then flood each with water.

The holes should be 12 inches deep and two to three feet apart in three or four circles about the tree.

Use fertilizer, but first learn about various types and how to apply the kind you use.

The simple rule for feeding is three to six pounds of fertilizer per inch of trunk measured a foot above ground level. An elm, maple or pine should be given the larger quantity, while small trees and columnar evergreens should receive the smaller amount, about three pounds per inch of trunk diameter.

Estimate the number of pounds to be used and mix it with twice its bulk of sand.

The area to be fed for a specimen tree depends upon the character of growth.

A spreading tree like an elm, maple or pine should be fed to a little beyond the spread of its branches; an oval tree such as the oak to possibly as much beyond the branches as they are under the tree.

Columnar trees, like arborvitae and poplar, may need to be fed over an area equal to two or three times the spread of the branches.

While early spring feeding is perhaps more commonly done, feeding in autumn gives the roots an immediate supply of plant nutrients to aid in the development of next year's foliage.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

The two-week deer hunting season ends tonight.

And listening to hunters on the runways, in camps and back in town we have been able to plot some of their observations:

1. TOO MAN HUNTERS? Definitely. Unfortunately a great many of them are not hunters at all; seasoned men call them "pot-shooters", or worse. They hang around certain areas on the western perimeter of the Crown Game Preserve, hoping to peg away at deer breaking away across Highway 28 into the sanctuary. In crowded congestion they endanger one another's lives and even passing motorists. Some, more daring, wander into the woods on the west side of the road onto private club lands, on runways they do not realize is being covered by expert-owner hunters. They run the risk of being shot at. They shoot started game in front of club owners' dogs, and claim it for their own.

2. WILL THE DEPARTMENT be forced to allot so many licenses to various hunting zones to cut down the congestion and danger? This is not likely for the situation has a way of correcting itself. How?

3. ESTABLISHED HUNTING CLUB members who have bought Crown Lands and built permanent camps say they will be forced to post their land against wandering fly-by-night hunters. They will also acquire more ground, they say, and prosecute trespassers.

4. WHAT ABOUT DOGS? They were useless on the first week of the hunt, did better this current week when the damp ground held scent for them. Experienced hunters say they are fed up using their dogs to start deer for strangers. They think it might be a good thing to have the government ban dogs for the next five years; might encourage more deer to stay in areas, too.

5. WHAT OF FOREST FIRE DAMAGE? The department of lands and forests took a mighty dim view of the carelessness of hunters that caused 65 fires in Lindsay and Tweed areas. Had snow not arrived and had fires increased during this second week, the department might have closed the season altogether.

They made a very shrewd observation in their weekly report from Lindsay. I quote:

"It has been our experience in contacting hunters throughout the year at their various clubs and associations that they are, for the most part, good sportsmen and conservation minded. However, the evidence this year would indicate that these principles are reserved for their meetings and are soon forgotten when the time comes to put them into practice when they are in the bush for two weeks of the hunt."

6. BIG GAME CLASSES. At least four elk were legally shot of the herd that lives in the northern part of Peterborough County. They are wary beasts and great travellers and for their size, able to make mighty hard hunting. One carcase carries enough meat to supply all members of the party. The best of eating, too.

For all the bear stories circulating around the countryside before the deer season, we had expected to hear of more shot. They have not holed up, due to the comparatively mild weather, so perhaps their cunning saved a great many of them from becoming fireplace rugs.

Three moose were killed, "mistaken" for deer or elk, or so hunters admitted to game wardens. In some cases the shooting was deliberate, we hear, and hope the Law bears down heavily. What other animal except a moose could look like a moose? None.

* * * *

A heated kangaroo court was held in the Examiner newsroom this week as a reporter-hunter culprit was brought before that bar of crude justice. He hung his head in shame in the box beside the city desk to be tried by his fellows for one of the most dastardly crimes of the current hunting season. The hapless one had no defense, nor could witnesses be subpoenaed on his behalf. "Magistrate" D. T. White, on the bench, scratched his flaxen poll and began his shrewd cross-questioning.

Mr. White: We understand that you went hunting on Monday and while standing your watch, the sound of rustling leaves caused you to throw up your gun, and fire. Correct?

Prisoner: Yas.

Mr. White: What did you shoot? An elk, deer or moose . . . ?

Prisoner: Wal, 'twern't a deer, eggsackly . . .

Mr. White: Not a deer, eh? On your first shot, then, we assume that you brought down SOMETHING. What about the other three shots in the chamber of your gun?

Prisoner: They were for—Hey! You can't put words in my mouth. The gun was plugged and they were there for my protection. What if the wounded game had turned on me,

Mr. White (in horror): Heaven forbid. A man can't be too careful in the woods. Man to man, what DID you shoot?

Prisoner (breaking down): . . . . an itty-bitty chickadee.....

The prisoner was fined three rounds by bench and jury.

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

The YMCA is buzzing with activity; volleyball, basketball, swimming and floor hockey are all flourishing.

Friends, Jim McClenaghan, Bill McFarlane and Fraser Wade have been turning the Y's program upside-down, giving the older sports a little boost and throwing in a few new and interesting pasttimes. All are designed to keep the athletes in shape or to put Uncle Bulgy into shape.

Floor hockey, introduced by Fraser last year, is the rage this season. It caught on quickly among the young and older athletes who found it can be rugged, exciting and at the same time very exercising.

Its popularity has increased. Besides last year's players, many others are turning up for tryouts with the teams. They've found it takes a little knowledge of ice hockey, a good strong heart and a good pair of lungs to thoroughly enjoy a game.

The players went through last season with the barest of facilities. But realizing its possibilities, the YMCA has come through with regulation nets, similar to ice hockey. The players will also appear in bright, shiny uniforms.

With the best material in years, the basketball outlook is certainly good. Newcomers to the city, plus grads from Bev. Goulding's and Johnny Lynch's high school teams, will make the veterans work hard for positions.

Doug MacPherson will handle the intermediate "B" club and is highly pleased with its possibilities.

The club will be strong down the centre for Eddie Nicholls is back in addition to the arrival of newcomer Bob Smith, who has seen considerable action with the University of New Brunswick. Hugh Dibben, Bill Edger, Joe and Ab Stewart are back along with Don Ash, Dave Langhorne, Dan Griffin and Murray Grafstein only to mention a few.

An unusual situation has arisen in basketball. In past seasons there has only been sufficient players, seven or eight, for one good club. This year they have enough good players for two clubs.

Fraser hopes to form the overflow from the intermediate club into a youthful aggregation to represent the Peterborough "Y" directly. This quintet would play exhibitions and then enter the Ontario YMCA championship play.

Besides these teams, there'll be the usual city league play in the gym, beginning next week.

Former athletes, especially those who have developed bulging waistlines, are flocking to Fraser's health club. It started with two and is now averaging 10 to 12 each fat-burning session.

These men, usually businessmen, have found that a few volleyball games don't do the trick anymore. Through carefully planned diets and (Ugh) exercises they're gradually getting down to the shape which Mother Nature intended for them.

These Uncle Bulgies jog a while, skip, march, jump and do jackknives, scissors, and rocking-horses to keep them out of rocking-chairs before their time.

Volleyball is still volleyball around the YMCA. Fraser has lined up six teams, teachers, Friday Night Club, Y's Men and three from the membership, for a warmup league prior to Lillico trophy play. These fellows pick up practice play in pickup games on week nights and on regular Wednesday afternoon businessmen's hour.

The swimming club under Coach Gord Minty is coming back after several lean years. He has high hopes for some of his younger swimmers which could easily rewrite YMCA history by winning Canadian championships. Al Marshall and Bill Lech did some years ago under Gord's leadership.

Gord is also conducting the learn-to-swim class. From there Fraser takes over for the intermediate lessons and then Gord takes over again when the boys become seniors.

Body building, weight-lifting, are also making a come-back under Sam Freeman and Stan (How are things?) McBride. Sam's handling the beginners and big Stan the seniors in an effort to bring the class back to the high standard it maintained when Stan, Ab Blondin, Cliff McIntroy hoisted.

If the present enthusiasm continues, the YMCA sports department will have one of its best years.

CURLING NOTE

By HERB MARTIN

Well, the first week of the men's schedule is past and while we saw most of the games, we believe that the Baptie-Ingram game on the early draw Friday night was tops for the week. It was well played and a dandy game to watch. Tied several times and all square playing the last end, Baptie had to make a "cold" draw to the 8' circle to win.

President Dr. M. McCartney, who has been out west for the last 10 days, duck shooting, flew home yesterday just in time for his schedule game with W. M. Cruthers.

Tonight, it will be mixed rinks. Draw sharp at 7:30 o'clock.

Oh Unlucky Friday the 13th Moan Redmond's Petes As Kingston Takes 6-3 Win

Eddie Redmond's Petes must have passed under ladders, broken mirrors and let black cats cross their paths on unlucky Friday the 13th. Everything they did in their game with Kingston Goodyears at the Civic Arena seemed to backfire. On the other hand the Goodyears must have stepped around ladders, carefully held mirrors and let white cats across their paths. Everything they did seemed to be lucky with the result the Goodyears gained revenge for an earlier loss to the Petes with a 6-3 victory.

The Petes' bad luck chiefly involved referees Maurice Walsh of Ajax and Louis Lecompte of Trenton. They just couldn't see eye to eye with each other. Therefore the Petes were penalized and those penalties paved the way for the Goodyears' victory.

A tripping penalty to Keith Montgomery in the first period gave the fast-breaking Goodyears the opportunity they wanted. Before Montgomery's time was up Kingston was ahead 2-0. They stayed ahead 2-1 in the second period. Then midway through the third Denny Peterson went off for highsticking. Again the Goodyears scored twice, giving them an edge the Petes couldn't overcome.

JOHNSTON STARS

The Petes also suffered ill luck around the Kingston goal. Swarming in on netminder Ken Johnston, especially in the second period, the Petes did everything but score. They hit the post, rolled the puck across the crease and missed the wide open goal.

Goalie Johnston was also a bit of bad luck for the Petes. He saved the Goodyears with sensational stops three times on breakaways in the third period, twice out-guessed Peterson from close-in.

The Petes' bad luck went still further; they lost starry winger, Jack (Curly) Mason in the first period during a scramble in front of the Kingston goal. His left ankle was trampled and Mason was caried off on a stretcher.

Mason was treated for torn ligaments immediately after the accident, but club officials said his ankle will be X-rayed today to determine any further injury, possibly a bone fracture.

REFEREE HURT

But the Petes' didn't have all the bad luck. Referee Walsh knocked a vertebrae out in his back early in the second period when he jumped to avoid being hit during a Kingston rush. The vertabrae was slipped back into place after a 10-minute delay.

Walsh and Lecompte also had troubles with the home town fans who didn't agree with their calls. The fans indicated their sentiments in the third period when they twice held the game up by throwing programs and newspapers to the ice. Scrapers were used to clean up the mess both times.

TAKE LEAD

Twice in the early minutes of the game the Petes nipped the Kingston power attack during penalties. Finally they slipped during Montgomery's penalty when Ted Nicholson slapped in a screen shot. Twenty-four seconds later Ken Partis sank the second goal during the penalty as he neatly took a pass from George McGregor, pulled goalie John Donlevy out and tucked the puck into the corner.

The Goodyears held off the determined Petes in the second period. They even resorted to illegal tactics which didn't go unnoticed. Bob Londry went off for boarding followed by Nicholson for holding, both within seconds. But the Petes didn't score until they came back.

Actually Johnston scored for the Petes. Jim Munro shot the puck through a maze of players. It missed the net, hit the backboards and rebounded out. Johnston fell, but his leg nudged the puck across the crease.

Early in the third Johnny Myke after a corner face-off slapped in a loose puck to put Kingston ahead 3-1. But the Petes replied as Doc Prentice scored on a blueline breakaway with Bill Crowley.

Peterson a minute later was penalized for highsticking. Joe Catlin standing near the Petes' goal crease sank a pass from Nicholson and then 30 seconds later Donlevy scored on himself while attempting to clear, giving the Goodyears a two-goal lead.

Ted Collins later tipped in a shot by Bill McMaster for the Petes' final goal. Just before the game ended Murray blasted in a screen shot to end the scoring.

Kingston: goal, Johnston; defence, Londry, Goodfellow; centre, Partis; wings, Reid, Bellringer; alternates Nicholson, McGregor, Murray, Watts, Tinkess, Ohlke, White Myke, McKeown.

Peterborough: goal, Donley; defence, Redmond, Montgomery centre, Hill wings, Crowley, Prentice; alternates: Leonard, Munro, McMaster, Greenlaw, Belisle, Peterson, Mason Collins Floyd.

Referees: Maurice Walsh of Ajax and Louis Lecompte of Trenton.

Summary:

FIRST PERIOD

Kingston—Nicholson (Bellringer) 15:40
Kingston—Partis (McGregor Murray) 16:04
Penalties: Crowley, Londry, Munro, Montgomery, Myke, Nicholson.

SECOND PERIOD

Peterborough—Munro 15:40
Penalties: Londry, Nicholson.

THIRD PERIOD

Kingston—Myke 2:40
Peterborough—Prentice (Crowley) 6:47
Kingston—Catlin (Murray, Nicholson) 11:55
Kingston—Reid 12:25
Peterborough—Collins (McMaster, Leonard) 15:40
Kingston—Murray 18:35
Penalties: Peterson, Crowley, Londry.

CAMERA-SHY—Petes' goalie, John Donlevy, and Kingston star Ken Partis (top photo), aren't camera shy, they are just plain busy. Partis has just faked Donlevey out of position and is about to tuck the puck into the net for Kingston's second goal at the Civic Arena Friday night. The Goodyears went on to gain a 6-3 victory. Goodyear goalie Ken Johnston (lower photo) was sensational on close-up stops in the third period.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Orfuns Ready For Montreal Visit Recalls Team In Senior Loop Of 1938

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

MONTREAL. — "I have no predictions to make on the game, except that we'll give it all we have," Coach Tony Kotowski stated when he arrived here late Friday night for the Eastern Canada intermediate "A" football final today between Montreal Lakeshore Flyers and Peterborough Orfuns. The coach, club president Dr. Don Aitken and manager Wally Farr were busy herding three dozen players and equipment to the Queen's Hotel after the train trip from Port Hope.

Coach and players planned to look over the gridiron at Westmount Stadium during morning and be there in early afternoon to loosen up for the big playoff. They had a good sleep Friday night and the 24 players who will be used today are all in fine shape and free from injuries. Orfuns last year beat Lakeshores 2-0 in the Eastern final but lost out later in Winnipeg in the Canadian final.

The winner of today's game will play host next Saturday to Fort Wiliam, the western victor this year, the Forts having erased St. Boniface of Winnipeg two weeks ago. It was St. Boniface which defeated Peterborough out west in 1952. The Orfuns will remain in Montreal tonight and leave Sunday morning to arrive in Port Hope at 3:50 p.m. and be driven back to Peterborough.

It was 15 years ago that this writer first travelled to Montreal with a Peterborough football club. That was the senior Orfuns of 1938. They played Montreal Nationals at Alexandria Park, but the Orfun newcomers to the senior ORFU race lacked experience then and bowed 26-4 before 4,000 fans on that October 10 schedule opener. Later in the season, Orfuns pulled a big grid surprise by edging the champion Sarnia Imperials 3-2 before 3,000 in Peterborough. Next year, Montreal Westmounts replaced the Nats in the senior circuit with Sarnia, Balmy Beaches and Peterborough, but the war stopped footbal in this loop in 1940.

The writer recalls many of the names of those senior Orfuns of pre-war years. Some of the main executive workers were H. A. Cranfield, Hugh Campbell, F. Bowness, Ald. Rollie Glover, Walter and Bill Jackson and several more. Bill Irwin was playing coach, being one of the imports brought in from Toronto.

FORMER PLAYERS

Some of the players remembered those two seasons were Harry Marsh, Don Crowe, Ford Loucks, Mick Magee, Hendrie, Ed Pratte, Earl and Frank Spencley, Bill Flack, Al Winslow, Leo and Jack Deadey, Maurice Giardino, Curly Krug, Gord McIntyre, Shields, Em and Jerry Creighton, Don Hendren, Lambert, Ross Pulkinghorn, Pup Curtin, Lloyd Grose, Jack Kirkwood, Joe McNulty, Leether, Chuch Kearns, Haig Kelly, McPherson, Steve Csumrik, Bacon Thrasher, Rich Jackson, Dick Ouimet, Dave Wilson, Picard, Red Wakelin, Joe Begley and Les Ascott.

There were some mighty fine footballers in that bunch and quite a few later stepped up to play in the big four, Ascott still being a valued veteran lineman with Toronto Argos. They played against real stiff opposition in 1938-39 as Sarnia Imps boasted aces like Bummer Stirling, Tony Golab and others; Beaches had the famed Ab Box for kicking; and Montreal's outstanding player was Johnny Ferraro, often called by Ted Reeve "the best football import Canada ever brought in from the States."

It was good football and the big-shouldered boys had a lot of fun out of it, especially on the long hauls to Montreal and Sarnia, the overnight stops. There was no war then, though the threat was there, and everything was much cheaper and more leisurely. Jobs were scarce and players moved about with no other demand than work in return for play, plus a room—and there were a great many houses and apartments for rent then.

Yes, those forerunners of the present Orfuns were fine grid competition 15 years ago when they first rolled into the sprawling French-Canadian metropolis to advertise Peterborough to Canadian football followers. And the Peterborough Orfuns of 1952 and 1953 are worthy successors in the rugged sport.

TIMOTHY GEOHAGEN

The fans demanded it so the Brock management is obliging. It will be a return team match between Timothy Geohagen and Oyama Kato against the Mills brothers. Kato and Geohagen would only agree if the time limit was moved to one hour and a half. They figure with the extra time they can gain a decision from the western badmen. The militant Mills brothers only reaction to the extra time: "Bring 'em on, we'll bust 'em wide open in less than an hour". The bout should prove more sizzling than this week's encounter, which was crammed with action. Ilio De Poablo, a newcomer from Italy meets up with Reyes Nacho, full-blooded Yaqui Indian in the semi-final. The opener brings together Al Costello, New Zealand champion, and Herb Larson.

Box-Office Natural Coming At Weekend For Six Clubs In NHL

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League is a box-office natural this weekend. All the elements are there: The heroes, the villains, the rivals—and heavy advance ticket sales. The six teams are paired off for a home-and-home series tonight and Sunday. Take your choice of the best attraction—Detroit and New York, Boston and Toronto, Chicago and Montreal. The Detroit-New York series has already shaped up as a box-office success. Madison Square Garden Friday reported the largest advance sale for some time for tonight's series opener.

Sparking this sudden interest is Ivan (The Terrible) Irwin, New York Rangers' latest idol. In his Broadway debut Wednesday night, Irwin had the fans cheering—something new in New York this season. Irwin was brought in from Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League to replace Ranger captain Allen Stanley who was booed off the ice as a result of New York's poor showing at the start of the season.

GETS BATHGATE

Coach Frank Boucher has another attraction lined up. He has acquired Andy Bathgate, also of Vancouver Canucks, who will don the Ranger uniform for the first time in Detroit Sunday. Boucher plans to use him on right wing with Max Bentley and Ron Murphy.

The league's two hottest clubs—Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins—open their series in Maple Leaf Gardens tonight. Leafs are unbeaten in their last six games, winning four and tying two to set them in second place, four points behind leading Montreal Canadiens. The Bruins have won five, tied two and lost only one of their eight games. They are in fourth place, one point behind the Red Wings.

For sheer villainy there's referee Frank Udvari, Montreal referee. Wednesday night the fans stopped the Canadiens-Chicago Black Hawks game six times by throwing papers on the ice in expressing their feelings over Udvari's decisions. Bernie Geoffrion, Montreal forward, slammed the referee into the boards. He was given a game misconduct penalty and Friday NHL president Clarence Campbell fined him $250 for his "inexcusable conduct."

Sid Abel's Black Hawks are looking for a win. They've won only two and tied two in 17 starts, a record that leaves them deep in the league cellar.

Bratton Mauled By Gavilan Like Rag Doll

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP)—Welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, who Friday night punched Johnny Bratton as if he were a rag doll, is ready to do more 147-pound business before shooting at Bobo Olson's middle-weight crown. Gavilan won an unanimous decision from Bratton, who finished with a face like a pumpkin worked over with an iron mace. It was expected that, win or lose against the No. 1 challenger at Chicago Stadium, the Cuban Kid would abandon the welter class and try to emulate Sugar Ray Robinson in graduating from 147-pound to 160-pound boxing king.

But the Gavilan who threw countless searing punches at a befuddled and helpless Bratton now is reported wanting to meet Carmen Basilio or Gil Turner again in a couple of welterweight efforts before taking on Olson next spring. This was a change of heart which may be traced to the International Boxing Club's reaction to the Kid's flaming go here.

FLOORED SECOND TIME

Gavilan was floored for the second time in his career and had to scramble desperately for a 15-round decision over Basilio at Syracuse in September.

The talk then was that the Kid was rusty, incapable of making the welter limit.

But Gavilan's seventh defence of his title last night before a surprising crowd of 19,260 which paid a gross gate of $176,390 was one of his most artistic performances in a career of 113 pro fights.

Bratton, who dropped the National Boxing Association version of the 147-pound title to Gavilan in 1951, never had a chance after the eighth round, in which the champ cornered Johnny to administer a terrific pasting.

BADLY BEATEN

After it was over Bratton lay huddled and weeping beneath blankets in his dressing room. He could not talk. He was still lying there—both eyes swollen shut, a jagged cut over one of them, and his nose like a lump of clay—1½ hours after the brawl was over.

Dr. John Pribble of the Illinois Athletic Commission said Bratton had no broken bones.

The actual count of Gavilan's furious attack was 53 blows, all to the head. After the blistering eighth, Gavilan worked like a man who wanted to break a crate of eggs, one at a time.

In the closing 15th, Gavilan whaled away with his bolo punches against a weary, helpless Bratton who refused to fall and got an ovation from the crowd for his courage.

Gavilan, 146, collected 40 per cent of the net gate of $134,739, a slice of $53,895, plus $20,000 from TV, for a total purse of $73,859.60.

Bratton, 145½, received 20 per cent, or $26,947.80, plus $10,000 from TV, for a purse of $36,947.80.

M. Akers Rolls High Of 395 In City Bowling

M. Akers came within range of a perfect game this week in the men's city league. He rolled a 395-game to win the high single honors and totalled 918 to take the high three.

Payne's team also had a large night, roling 3,718 for the high three honors, and 1,354 for the high single team honors.

Closest to Akers in the singles was Doug Abraham with 344, G. LaPlante with 334, W. Stanbury with 324 and A. Pilling with 304. Stanbury was closest to Akers in the high three with 796 and then Abraham with 795.

Shutouts for six points were registered by Sunocos over Fergusons, McGillis over Family Credit, and MacDonalds over Primeaus. Four-two counts were by Payne's over Novelty Shoe, Golders over McBride and Anderson, McCormicks over Royal York, Parkhill Lunch over Monumental, and Stop-a-While over Wes. Edwards.

N. Knights swept the high three and high single with scores of 243, 236 and 210, totalling 719, this week in the ladies' bowling league at Duffus'. B. Hardill totalled high three of 626 while other high scores were B. McBride with 578 and G. Gibbons with 578.

Dunfield took four points from Callaghan while Butchers made a clear sweep over Parsons. Three-one scores were recorded by McBride over Miles, Graham over Gibbons and Knights over Reed.

J. Casey rolled the high single for the season this week in the Wednesday afternoon ladies' bowling. But despite her high score the high three honors went to P. Jackman with 633, Casey coming second with 610.

The afternoon's results made the standing as follows: Terrors, Rockets, and Cisco Kids, each with 22, Eager Beavers with 19, Whizz Bangs with 18, Dinkies with 16, Happy Gang and Tornadoes each with 15, Bombers with 11, Ramblers with nine, Wild Cats with seven and finally Playfairs with four.

Lucky Strikes and Tigers took six-point victories from Hurricanes and Corvettes in the YMCA senior ladies bowling this week. Commandos and Glens took four points from Aces and Bombers.

Shirley Beatty won the high three with 728, followed up by Dot Woods with 707, Ethel Stanbury with 699. She also took the high single with 277 while Dot Woods scored 266, Betty Pogue 264 and B. Kay 261.

SOMEBODY CATCH HIM! — Vinnie DeCarlo takes the long fall after being hung on the end of a sweeping right-hand punch thrown by Oscar Reyes in the seventh round of a middleweight tussle in Los Angeles. Referee Frankie Vann didn't bother to count.

Boxing Team Trials To Be In Ontario

By ROMEO MAGERA

MONTREAL (CP) — The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada has dealt with most of its business pertaining to the 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth games and ends its 60th jubilee annual meeting today with a general session which, among other things, calls for election of a new slate of officers.

Some decisions on places, dates and appointments concerning the trials for the games in five of the seven sports under AAU jurisdiction have been taken, but no decisions have yet been reached on the men's and women's track and field and the marathon.

The meeting agreed Friday night, that trials to determine the make-up of Canada's boxing team for the games will be held in central Ontario, provided AAU requirements are met by Dec. 15. Denis White of Montreal, national chairman of the AAU boxing committee, made it clear if Toronto fails to meet the requirements, Montreal will be host.

IMPORTANT DECISION

This was one of the most important AAU decisions on the games, fixed for Vancouver July 30 to Aug. 7. So far, a record 20 Empire countries have fielded entries for the huge sport spectacle.

Friday's AAU session was followed by a late night meeting of the British Empire and Commonwealth Games Association of Canada.

At the AAU meeting, Mr. White said boxing trials will have to be held before May 10, 1954. A coach had not yet been selected.

MONTREALERS OFFICIATE

Recommendations by the boxing committee to have three Montrealers, Gord Sauve, Tom Sullivan and Al Decarie, officate at the games was approved.

The meeting agreed to give Vancouver the 1954 western boxing championships, and Saskatchewan the Canadian boxing championships in 1955.

Weightlifting trials will be on an east-west zone basis, being held simultaneously in Vancouver and Montreal.

The gymnastic trials and the Canadian gymnastic championships have been awarded to British Columbia.

Montreal will play host for the fencing trials, to be held between May 10 and May 24. Three men and two women will be selected for each competitive event.

The Canadian fencing championships, it was agreed, will be held in Vancouver immediately following the games.

The wrestling trials were voted to Montreal and will be held between May 10 and May 25. Saskatchewan also was granted the 1955 Canadian wrestling championship, to be held early in May.

Here And There In Sports

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

MONTREAL (CP)—Bernie Geoffrion was fined $250 Friday by President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League for the player's "gross misconduct" in Thursday night's game.

There is no suspension from play.

The $250 includes the automatic $50 fine which accompanies a game misconduct penalty—the punishment given Geoffrion by Referee Frank Udvari, who was shoved into the boards by the Montreal player.

The incident occurred late in the third period of the game here with Chicago Black Hawks, following imposition of a minor penalty to Geoffrion for hooking.

Campbell said Geoffrion followed this up by "grabbing the referee with his hand and subsequently charging him into the fence as the referee reported the penalty to the official timekeeper."

BABY BLUES WIN

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Striking through the air and along the ground for five touchdowns, four of them converted, University of Toronto Baby Blues defeated Western Colts 31-17 Friday to win the intermediate intercollegiate football title in a wide open contest played before about 1,000 fans. The victory was Toronto's fourth straight league win this season.

✦ ✦ ✦

MANTHA TRADED

GALT (CP)—Galt Black Hawks announced Friday that defenceman Maurice Mantha has been traded to Quebec Citadelles. Both teams are members of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series.

Black Hawks officials said the Cits have until Dec. 15 to complete their end of the bargain, details of which were not disclosed. It is believed the Galt club will, during that time, receive the services of an experienced, but as yet unnamed forward from Quebec.

Mantha, a product of North Bay, was in his second year with the Hawks, although he saw only limited action last season.

ORHA TO MEET

WELLAND (CP)—The Ontario Rural Hockey Association will hold its 23rd annual meeting in Galt Wednesday.

Among several amendments coming before the committee will be the intermediate A., B. and C series population. At the executive meeting held in Hamilton acclamations moved all nominees into office, including: President G. R. Stewart, Barrie; 1st vice-president, R. Fewster, Ingersoll; 2nd vice-president, J. G. Feasby, Kitchener; 3rd vice-president, D. A. Beer-Brougham; secretary treasurer, H. D. Ovenden, Wainfleet.

✦ ✦ ✦

PANTHERS TRIM CLIPPERS

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A single two minutes before the end of play gave Patterson Collegiate Panthers a 6-5 victory over Kennedy Collegiate Clippers in a sudden-death game Friday night for the Windsor Secondary Schools Association Football League championship. Patterson now meets the winners of a semi-final between London Central Golden Ghosts and Woodstock Red Devils for the Western Ontario Secondary Schools Association title. The game will be staged in London next weekend.

BEATS RECORD AGAIN

LONDON (AP)—Sheila Lerwill of Britain bettered the women's indoor world high jumping record Friday night for the second straight night. Miss Lerwill cleared five feet, six inches, considerably better than her 5-3¾ effort the previous night. That jump, however, was good enough to beat the women's world indoor record of 5-3¼ set by Jean Shiley of the United States in 1932.

Eskies, Bombers To Battle For Title

By PHIL ADLER

EDMONTON (CP)—The combination which could easily settle tonight's game between Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the Western Interprovincial Football championship may be supplied by the weatherman as well as the coaches.

The forecast will mean the expected capacity crowd of 15,000 should see a good brand of football on a clear gridiron. Temperature is expected to be around 40 degrees, dropping to 35 by the end of the game; visibility will be 15 miles; wind will be southeast at 10 miles an hour.

TIED SERIES

Weather has played a prominent part in the best-of-three series. Edmonton won the first game 25-7 here a week ago on a field icy in spots. Winnipeg tied up the series Wednesday at home in a 30-mile-an-hour wind.

Both teams will be playing back-to-the-wall football with the outcome deciding who will meet the ORFU champions.

Coach Darrell Royal of Eskimos, mulling over loss of players through injuries, won't hazard a guess as to the final result while the Blue Bombers emphasize they are not in Edmonton to look at the scenery.

LIGHT WORKOUT

Royal put his Esks through a light workout Friday in an effort to iron out the creases which showed up during the 21-17 beating the team absorbed Wednesday in Winnipeg.

Six men are on the ailing list, Royal said, but he expects to use the same starting line-up as he did in Winnipeg. Oklahoman all-star halfback Billy Vessels, however, will see action from the start although the coach doesn't know how long Vessels will last.

The Blue Bombers arrived in Edmonton by plane and train Friday and took it easy at their hotel. Their last workout was Thursday night in Winnipeg.

Ferguson Retains Individual Title

CHICAGO (CP) — Toronto-born Rich Ferguson, representing Iowa University, retained his individual title in the Big Ten intercollegiate cross-country meet Friday. He was clocked at 19:43.2 for the four-mile course.

Two other Canadian runners finished up with the leaders.

John Cook of London, Ont., running for Michigan State, placed third behind Indiana's Francis Zellers. John Ross of Oakville, Ont., representing the University of Michigan, finished fourth.

The Big Ten crown went to Michigan State for the third straight year as the Spartans compiled 39 points.

Louis Declares Marriage Joke

CHICAGO (AP)—Joe Louis told friends Friday he was married but later denied it, saying "I was just kiddin'."

The former world's heavyweight champion was at ringside for the Kid Gavilan-Johnny Bratton welterweight title fight in Chicago Stadium.

When reporters queried "Joe about the reported betrothal, at Hamilton, Ont., he simply shrugged. "Just some kiddin," was the only comment he would make.

He was accompanied by Miss Greta Stark of Detroit, the woman he reported to intimates earlier in the day was his bride.

Louis was married twice previously, both times to the former Marva Trotter. They are divorced.

Remember When—

Warren Wright's great colt Whirlaway established himself winter-book favorite for the Kentucky Derby by romping through the mud to an easy win in the Walden Stakes at Pimlico 13 years ago today. Barrie Clips Hamilton With 4-2 Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a lucky Friday the 13th for most of the underdogs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Friday night. In three of the four games the lesser teams came up with victories.

In the other game a carton of rabbits' feet couldn't have helped the last-place Quebec Citadelles as they were crushed by the league-leading St. Catharines TeePees 11-2 in St. Catharines.

In Toronto, St. Michael's College Majors moved from eighth to seventh place by defeating the Marlboros, who remained in the third slot.

Guelph Biltmores moved up two notches into a four-way tie for third with a 5-4 home-ice decision over the second-place Galt Black Hawks.

SHARE THIRD PLACE

The two points gained by Barrie Flyers with their 4-2 victory over Hamilton Tigers in Barrie vaulted them into a share of third place with Hamilton, Marlboros and Guelph.

Cec Hoekstra scored three goals to lead the St. Catharines runaway over Quebec. Brian Cullen fired a pair and Hugh Barlow, Wimpy Roberts, Hank Ciesla, Jack Armstrong, Bulloch and Danny Poliziani added the others. Mike Ratchford and George Falkner scored for the Citadelles.

Walt Para tallied twice for Guelph Biltmores, who had to suppress a Galt rally after taking a 4-0 lead into the final period. Harry Scott, Bob Attersley and Bill McCreary rounded out the total.

Neil McDonald scored three of the four Hawk goals in the third period. John Sleaver notched the other.

COSTLY VICTORY

The Barrie victory over Hamilton was a costly one. The Flyers lost defenceman Bill Hope in the second period when he was taken off the ice with undetermined leg injuries.

Johnny Martan, Arnold Smith, Bob White and Jim Robertson shared the Barrie scoring. Val Mitchell and Real Larouche responded for the Tigers.

Guelph returns Galt's visit and Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts welcome Barrie in tonight's action.

Other officers: Honorary president Lionel Conacher; first vice-president, Charlie Conacher; second vice-president, Yank Boyd; secretary, Bert Bowsfield; treasurer, Charlie Watson.

Challenge Right Release Players

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's right to release players with 30 days' notice will be challenged when the major league club owners meet here next month, says lawyer Norman Lewis.

Lewis, engaged to represent the players in their dealings with the owners, said Friday: "The standard contract which permits a player to be dismissed after being handed a month's pay but does not give him the right to quit a club and seek employment elsewhere in baseball after giving similar notice is unfair. . . .

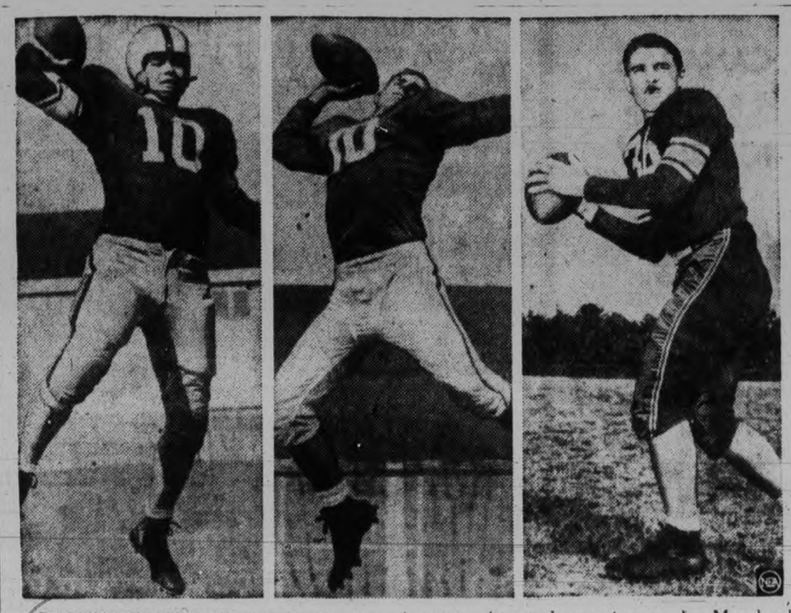
"If a player signs for a year and faithfully lives up to his obligations, he wants to be paid in full for the period. He doesn't want to be fired, say, at the start of the season for no fault of his own and then receive only 30 days' pay for the year."

TOM FOOL CHOSEN

NEW YORK (AP)—Tom Fool was named the horse of 1953 Friday by the turf experts of the Morning Telegraph and Daily Racing Form. Tom Fool, unbeaten in 10 starts this year and winner of $256,355, also was named the best handicap horse and top sprinter of the year. Alfred Vanderbilt's Native Dancer, loser of only the Kentucky Derby in his 10 races, won three-year-old honors.

Cunningham Wins Trophy

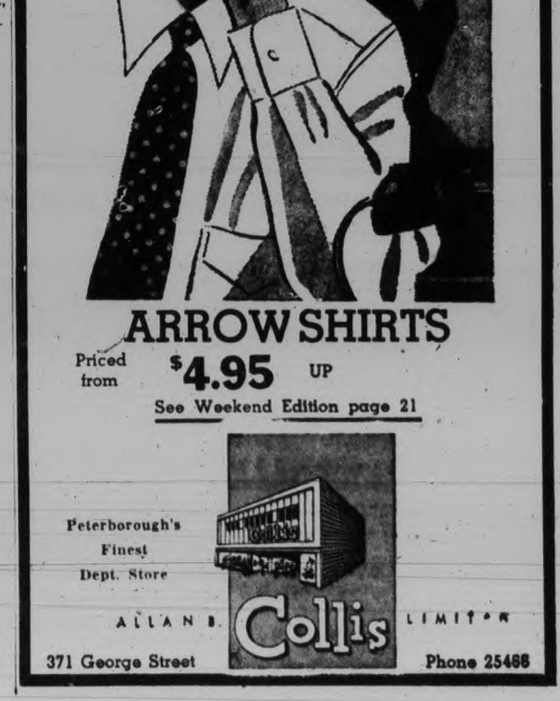
OTTAWA (CP) — Bob Cunningham, hard-charging halfback star, was picked up on a waiver by Ottawa Rough Riders this year for $200. Friday he was voted the most valuable player in the Big Four.



The 26-year-old veteran is the 1953 winner of the Jeff Russel trophy.

The award was announced here by D. Wes Brown, league secretary, who also reported that Bobby Dawson, Hamilton's newly-acquired halfback from Windsor junior ranks has won the Gruen trophy as the most valuable rookie of the year.

For Cunningham, who will retire next year, it was a peak in a seven-year career which saw him start with Toronto Balmy Beaches and graduate to Montreal Alouettes. With Als, he starred at half in 1949 and caught an important pass which helped Montreal win the Grey Cup that year.



BIG SHOTS—Bob Cousy, left, and George Mikan are back as the principal pointmakers for the professional Boston Celtics and Minneapolis Lakers, respectively.

President's Wife Wins Hearts

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Eisenhower won the hearts and acclaim of this unusually [illegible] capital Friday.

The wife of President Eisenhower, with her bangs and warm smile, set up a murmur of praise and admiration among the Canadian diplomatic set.

"Hi, Ike! Hi, Mamie!" crowds shouted, waving and applauding as the couple walked 100 yards from the station to the war memorial in Confederation Square.

Mrs. Jeanne St. Laurent, wife of the prime minister, presented Mrs. Eisenhower with a bouquet of tiny, sweetheart roses and blue orchids.

Mrs. Eisenhower is 57 today, but birthday celebrations appear to be obscured by the pomp and ceremony of her husband's state visit to Canada.

Contracts In 3 Years Reach $500,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has awarded more than $500,000,000 in defence construction contracts in the last three years and about 80 per cent of the work has been completed, the Commons was informed Friday.

Total contracts in the period November, 1950-March, 1953, amounted to $570,696,000, covering construction work on 162 sites, the Crown-owned Defence Construction Ltd., said in its annual report.

Biggest contracts were placed in Ontario and Quebec. Of the total $160,000,000 was placed in Ontario; $130,000,000 was completed by last March. In Quebec all but $13,000,000 of $114,000,000 was completed.

All Price Groups Dip Lower On Exchange

By BOB JOHNSTONE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

All price groups dipped sharply on the Toronto stock exchange this week.

Led by golds, the four groups on the exchange's indexes fell below what optimistic observers had recently described as "the cellar level." Base metals and industrials were down more than a point and western oils was the only group that closed less than a point lower. (The difference was nominal as the group showed .93 lower than last Friday's close.)

As settlement of the northern Ontario gold strikes seems, if at all changed, more remote, the golds group is having hard going. Few expected the present strikes to be short, but as both sides have dug in for a struggle, their promises of a month ago not to settle for anything short of their demands, have taken on a new meaning.

LESS IMPORTANCE

Two "gold" holding company activities stand out as the most noteworthy individual performances of the week, because they feature wide price ranges and the fact that gold is assuming less importance in current market activity as the present deadlocks have eliminated investors' confidence.

Prospectors Airways, usually regarded as a gold holding company, jumped more than $1.50 in active trading as a rumor of heavy lead-zinc ore discovery on Prospectors' Yukon territory reached Bay street. The other change, a drop, was made by Placer Development, a British Columbia holding company. Placer slipped $4 when the board announced the halving of the expected $1 December dividend.

Industrials, down 1¼ points, slipped as several elements took turns in registering lower levels. Agricultures have shown recent weaknesses on an up-and-down market as a western wheat surplus is expected to reduce Prairie purchasing power. Utilities were lower with Brazilian Traction touching a low for the year twice this week. Probable difficulties in exchange of Canadian and Braziilan funds are expected to complicate the dividend-paying picture. Bell was a little lower, but most traders attribute this to profit-taking following recent strength during the "rights" issue. Textiles are still low as the Canadian industry faces increased import competition. Manufactures were shaky because of high-inventory reports. In hardware, stocks are 40.9 per cent higher than last year.

MARKET FIRMER

Base metals also showed lower. But lead and zinc markets are expected to be firmer as present stocks in the United Kingdom and Europe, as well as on this side of the ocean, are lower. Ferrous metal demand is not seen as being overly strong with both Chile and the U.K. looking for markets for fairly large stocks. The brisk steel production that has existed all year in Canada, and most of the year in the U.S. is expected to continue into at least the first quarter of 1954.

Uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals, although lower than at last week's close, at least finished on a more optimistic note. After a little strength appearing in the uraniums Thursday and early Friday, it faded slightly, leaving traders uncertain but hopeful.

In the Bathurst-area issues, New Larder U countered the trend all week. In the first two sessions, it gained more than 50 cents. Then, at the end of the week it slipped again, although it still netted a gain.

PIPELINE NEWS

Western oils, awaiting news of natural-gas import versus inter-provincial-pipeline deliberations in both Ottawa and Edmonton, are still waiting.

A few issues moved up or down, while most just remained as they were (although the downs claim a victory this week, with the oil index almost a point lower than last week.)

On the bond market, the eighth issue of Canada Savings Bonds dominated the picture. The last figures available whihc cover sales to midweek, show the total at $492,822,350.

Private Members Of House Unload Barrage Of Ideas

OTTAWA (CP)—Private members of the Commons are beginning to unload on the House their annual barrage of ideas for legislation.

There already are 24 proposals before the House apart from what the government intends to do. The non-government ideas range from a Canadian Bill of Rights to no tolls on a St. Lawrence river bridge.

Annually, scores of such resolutions and proposed bills go on the order paper from among the members outside the Cabinet ranks. A rare one finds government favor and is adopted.

Here is a selection from among those thrown into the legislative mill in the first couple of days of the session:

WANT BILL OF RIGHTS

John Diefenbaker (PC — Prince Albert) and Alistair Stewart (CCF —Winnipeg North) want a Bill of Rights, though in different terms.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) asks for the removal of the three-per-cent "floor" on the deduction of medical expenses from taxable income. He also wants the checkoff of union dues written into federal legislation.

Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West) is pressing for equal pay for women.

J. W. Murphy (PC — Lambton West) has before the House a resolution calling for a special Parliamentary committee to report on the advisability of increasing research activities. The resolution does not specify whether these would be private or governmental activities.

Wants Steps Taken To Halt Layoffs

OTTAWA (CP)—Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) asked Friday in the Commons if the government will take steps to halt layoffs in personnel of the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways.

Transport Minister Chevrier indicated no such action will be taken.

He said he believes repair workers of the CNR have been laid off because of a reduction in traffic. When traffic returned to normal, he was sure the CNR would be glad to take on those who had been displaced.

Red Limousine Birthday Gift For Charles From Parents

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Pride in being "grown up" is Prince Charles' biggest birthday thrill today. His school days start soon.

"I'm five today," he likely will inform everyone he meets. The sturdy, active heir to the British throne already shows schoolboy condescension to three-year-old Princess Anne, who "won't go to school for two years yet."

"School" for Charles will be the same room in Buckingham Palace where the Queen and Princess Margaret once studied. Here the young prince will get one or two hours' instruction daily in reading, writing, drawing and painting. His governess and tutor will be Scotswoman Katherine Peebles, who acted in a similar capacity for young Prince Michael, son of the Duchess of Kent.

BIRTHDAY GIFTS

Birthday gifts will include a spanking red limousine with an electric motor and all the controls and gadgets of a real car, built to his father's specifications.

Unlike the pedal-operated model in which the prince breaks speed records in palace corridors, the heavier new model, a top-secret present from his parents, will carry the Royal stricture: "No driving indoors."

Other gifts probably will include lead soldiers and a jigsaw puzzle.

It is expected Charles and Anne will spend most of their time at Buckingham Palace while their parents are away on the forthcoming Australian tour. "They have a fuller life in town," the palace official explained. There are Thursday dancing classes at the palace and Charles and Anne exchange visits with their various young playmates.

To his young friends the prince is just Charles. So far nobody has bowed to him or made curtsies and it is not likely this will happen for at least five years.

The children will possibly spend week-ends at Windsor's royal lodge with the Queen Mother.

Charles had his fifth birthday without a party, without a birthday cake and without parents to wish him happy returns.

SPEND QUIET TIME

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, who have spent only one birthday with their son, were set to have a happy family time together this time, but suddenly changed their plans.

The royal couple decided instead to spend a quiet week-end at their country estate at Sandringham, resting before the start Nov. 23 of their gruelling six-month tour to Australia and New Zealand.

Charles and Anne were sent to spend the week-end at the royal lodge in Windsor with "grandma" —Queen Mother Elizabeth—instead of romping around Buckingham Palace with friends invited to a royal party.

However, the Queen and duke planned a telephone call to the young prince. And throughout Britain flags flew and bells pealed in celebration.

There was a small tea party at the lodge today, but it wasn't the real thing. That will have to wait until Monday when the Queen and the Duke return from Sandringham.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will not provide financial assistance for western families hit by poliomyelitis recently, Health Minister Martin said in the Commons Friday.

During the first question period of the new Parliamentary session, Mr. Martin said the government does not intend to go into matters that come within the compeence of the provinces.

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce E. McDonald of Mannville, Alta., was announced as winner of the Eaton agricultural scholarship Friday. McDonald, 20, will enrol next fall in a course in agriculture at the University of Alberta. The scholarship pays for tuition and lodging during the four-year course.

PROCESSION TO SENATE—Members of the House of Commons proceed through the concourse of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa from the green chamber to the Senate where Governor-General Vincent Massey opened the first session of the 22nd Parliament.

Sees Prosperity Depending Largely On Foreign Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—A. H. Hollingworth (L—York Centre), launching the traditional throne speech debate in the Commons, today said Canadian prosperity depends largely on foreign trade.

"The free exchange of goods goods among nations and the further development of trade are among the best assurances of continuing Canadian prosperity," he said.

Mr. Hollingworth, a freshman member of the House, was moving the address in reply to the speech from the throne, read Thursday by Governor-General Vincent Massey. The debate on the motion will give members of all parties a chance to air views on any subject they choose.

HOPES FOR GOLDEN ERA

In moving the address in reply, Mr. Hollingworth roved over the customarily-wide field. He expressed hope that Queen Elizabeth's reign may usher a new "golden era" for the Commonwealth, "because apart from the powerful sentimental ties of tradition and history, it is imperative that the Commonwealth function, for the future of the world."

Referring to Canada's friendship with the United States on this day of President Eisenhower's arrival for a state visit, Mr. Hollingworth extended a cordial welcome to the U. S. president.

As to Canada's foreign policy, he said:

"We have no axes to grind; we have always, and will continue to, go before the world court of public opinion with clean hands, and that is an asset without price."

Soldier Kills Self Demonstrating Gun

WINNIPEG (CP)—A 38-year-old ex-serviceman was demonstrating his gun collection to two friends here. They cautioned him when he loaded a German Luger.

"It's all right," he assured them. "It has a safety on it."

To prove his point, he held the gun against his head and pulled the trigger. The gun went off and killed him.

Police would not identify the victim.

Good Loam Found Essential When Planting Your Hedge

While some hedge plants may succeed quite well in rather poor soil, the advisability of removing very light or stiff clay soils and replacing with good loam goes without question. For best results, an abundance of plant food should be workekd into the bed. How deep and wide to dig?—as much as three feet wide and as near to two feet deep as you can reasonably manage. Good drainage is essential as, if the hedge is planted where water will lie in autumn or winter, the plants are liable to heave and, in some cases, roots may be killed in winter.

Plants from one to three feet in height are best in most cases. The smaller the plants—the easier it will be to have them well clothed with branches to the ground. Most hedge plants should be set from fifteen to eighteen inches apart.

PLANTING A HEDGE

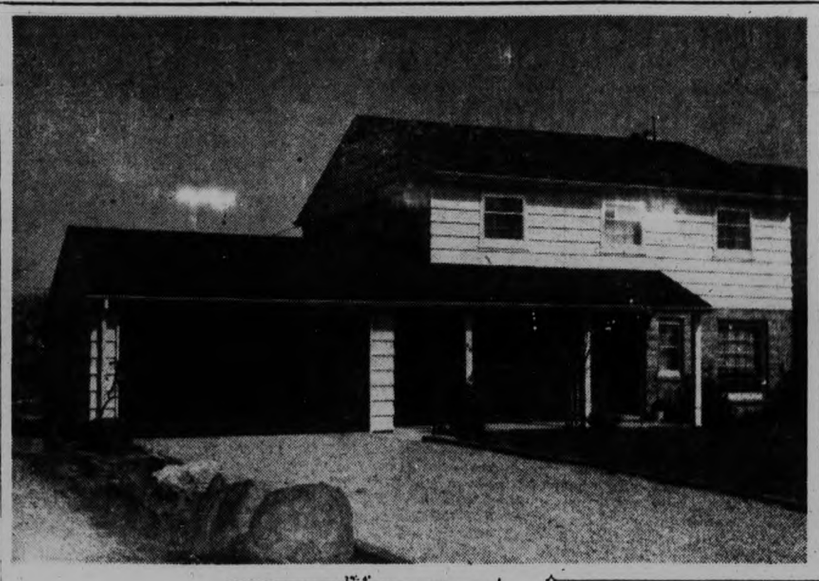
In planting, it is usually desirable to set the plants a little deeper (perhaps an inch) than they were before, so that if there should be a little heaving the first year they will not be so likely to be too shallow afterwards. Most hedge plants may be planted quite successfully in the autumn. Always firm the soil well when planting so that the roots will come in close contact with it and begin to draw moisture and food as soon as possible.

Avoid using quite large plants and merely pruning sufficiently to make them the same height. When this occurs, the hedge is very likely to never thicken satisfactorily close to the ground. Plants seldom send out many branches below the point where they are cut off. When large plants are used, ruthlessly cut them back, immediately after planting, to within five or six inches of the ground. They will then leaf out from near the ground and will always remain so if they are kept well pruned and have plenty of light. When the plants are smaller they also should be cut back in the same way, except in the case of evergreens well branched to the ground, which usually thicken well without this severe heading back.

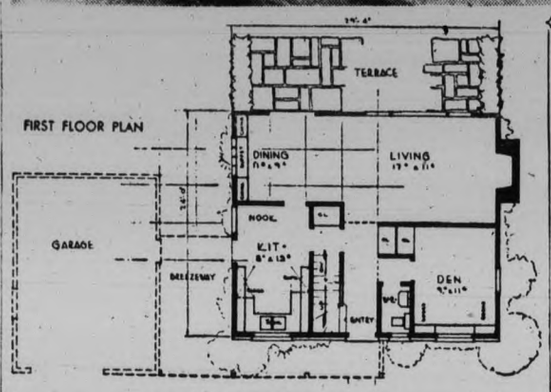
CEDAR HEDGE

Cedar dug from the wild for use in hedges is usually very open at the base or even without branches. It is therefore desirable to plant these deeper than the others so as to bring the leafy brances close to the ground, as, if the top is cut off altogether and only branchless stem left, you have very little chance of them leafing out at all. The cedar will stand this deep planting as it will root out along the stem.

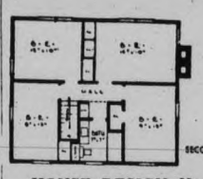
Experience indicates that it does not make very much difference, as far as the health of a shrub is concerned, at what time the hedge is trimmed, except that if trimmed when frost is in the branches there may be many twiggs unnecessarily broken off or, in the case of evergreens, many leaves.



If hedges are pruned in early spring before growth starts, should the growth that it made during the summer be uneven, as often happens, the hedge has a ragged or untidy look and, if pruned in the autumn, the same thing, of course, is liable to occur when growth takes place next spring. Many gardeners believe the best time to trim is towards the end of June, the time when for most species the season's growth is almost completed. When clipped at this time, a very short growth usually takes place on some hedges which is just enough to cover the wounds which have been made in trimming. The growth of conifers is, in most cases, a little later than deciduous plants, hence trimming of evergreen hedges should be delayed until about the middle of July. Trimmed at this time, the hedges have a neat appearance for between 10 and 11 months of the year. A few hedges sometimes require going over a second time to remove a few irregular second growths which are made. Trimming of hedges should be done annually, and if they cannot be trimmed at one season it is better to trim at another than to neglect it.



SHAPE MATTER OF TASTE



What shall the shape of the hedge be? This is to some extent a matter of taste. Some like to have the hedge much in the shape of an equilateral triangle, coming to a narrow ridge at the top. Others like it to rise to a certain height in rectangular form and then narrow sharply to the top. Others prefer to have the top slightly rounded and others with a broad, rounded top.

Always remember that a broad top is liable to hold too much snow and thus spread the hedge. This cannot be too strongly emphasized. Keep the broadest part of the hedge at the base—no matter what form it may take farther up.

One should not be too eager to get a large hedge quickly. The hedge will be thicker and it will be easier controlled if it is cut back almost to old wood each year. Deciduous hedges may be cut back severely if they have become too big and they will come back again, but in the case of evergreens it does not do to trim them severely at any time as, if bare branches are exposed, they will not become covered with foliage again as do deciduous plants, but the branches will die and the hedge become unsightly.

Layoffs Heavy In Plants Across Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—The National Employment Service reports that a shadow has been cast over Ontario industry by seasonal layoffs, declining business in some fields and cutbacks in other industries.

Except in the electrical industry and a few other industries, NES figures show production has declined and unemployment is increasing. However, only 3.23 per cent of Ontario's work force is idle.

Layoffs in the automotive industry are regarded as temporary but the cut in the payrolls of farm implement and textile industries is more serious.

Hardest hit, with the exception of farm implements firms, is the textile industry. Diminishing sales and periodic shutdowns are reported common in cotton goods, woollens and silks.

A Galt firm released 500 workers and woolen plants at Simcoe, Trenton and Perth have reduced operations. At Kingston, 185 workers in a silk plant were laid off because of the lack of orders for nylon thread.

Layoffs are continuing in the farm implement industries in Toronto, Chatham, Hamilton, Welland and Smiths Falls.

On the brighter side, furniture plants in Kitchener, Stratford, Gananoque, Walkerton and Woodstock are maintaining steady production. Some Kitchener plants were reported looking for young men to learn machine operating and for experienced furniture rubbers.

Iron Ore Deposits Smeared With Layer of Silt, Rock, Covered With 400 Ft. Water

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STEEP ROCK LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Nature hoarded its iron riches beneath northwestern Ontario's Steep Rock lake by smearing the ore with a thick layer of silt and rock and topping it with water as deep as 400 feet.

As a safety deposit vault, it was a flop.

Man answered the challenge by diverting, draining and dredging. His success can be measured by the vast changes in the country's landscape and color scheme.

Drain much of a lake 10 miles long and the islands known back in the days of fur brigades become hills with high-water marks. Mine 9,000,000 tons of ore, as a start, and enough rust-red dust blows around to give the lakebed the tint of a fallen sunset.

CANYON-LIKE PIT

And with the mining the level of the lakebed drops. Open pit operations in the first area to be exploited have gouged out a canyon going down 500 feet at one end.

The company which takes its name from the site of its discovery, Steep Rock Iron Mines Ltd., started in by diverting the flow of the seine river around the lake. With the tap turned off, the next step was the pumping and dredging which started in 1943, continues to this day, and will go on for a long time yet.

Bailing out a lake obviously isn't mining business. But there were compensating advantages. The M-shaped body of water is in a good location.

The lake is four miles north of Atikokan, now a community of 4,500 which talks of a population of 16,000 in the 1960s. And Atikokan is on the Canadian National Railways line running to the shipping facilities at Port Arthur, at the head of the Great Lakes, just 140 miles distant. A short spur line built by the CNR gave the mine a way of getting the ore to market. All but a fraction goes to the United States.

1938 SWAMP AREA

Driving up to the mine over what was an old portage trail before the bulldozers moved in, steep rock pioneers S. G. (Sid) Hancock recalls: "This was a swamp when we came through in 1938 with horses and a wagon. Sometimes the horses were up to their middles in water."

That was the year mining men drilled through the ice and fished out results that backed up mineral signposts found near the shore as far back as 1862; that the lake held a body of ore worth going after.

Fifteen years after the drilling, the original open pit operation is being converted into an underground mine; they're down so deep that surface mining isn't economical. A new open pit went into operation this fall, and Inland Steel Company of Chicago is preparing to start dredging on property it has leased from Steep Rock.

First on the Steep Rock alphabet was the "B" ore body from which an initial 16,553 tons were mined in 1944. Nearly all of the tonnage produced to date has come from this soon-to-go-underground Errington mine, which like the new Hogarth operation, carries on the name of two dead mining men prominent in Steep Rock's development: Joseph Errington and Maj.-Gen. Donald M. Hogarth.

PRODUCTION GROWS

Employing more than 1,000 men, who work around the clock in eight-hour shifts, Steep Rock expects to send out 1,250,000 tons this year by the mid-November close of the shipping season and stockpile possibly another 200,000 tons.

Neil Edmonstone, secretary-treasurer, says the target for next year is 2,000,000 tons. Until 1958 production will be stepped up every year. In 1958 production will level off at 5,500,000 tons, the maximum under present plans.

The planned 1958 tonnage will come from two underground mines at the Errington, the Hogarth open pit, and an open pit at which is known as the "G" orebody, as yet undeveloped.

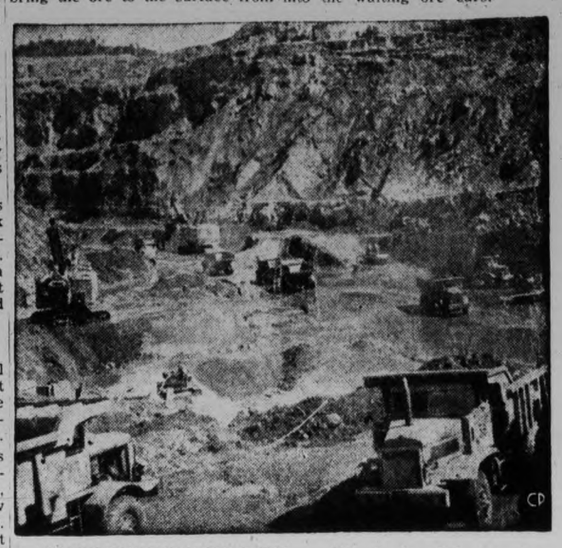
After a time the Hogarth, like the Errington, will go underground. Shaft mining is more expensive, but it is a year-round operation while winter cramps open-pit production.

The mine planned by Caland Ore Co. Ltd., Inland's Canadian subsidiary, will have an annual output of 3,000,000 tons or more when fully developed. It is scheduled to begin production in 1960 after dredging out an estimated 160,000,000 yards of overburden.

The $25,000,000 contract for the Caland dredging has been let to Construction Aggregates Corporation of Chicago, which is handling the same job for Steep Rock.

WORK ON HOGARTH

Mining started this fall on one corner of the Hogarth ore find with dredging still going on to clear the entire deposit. Two dredges are on the job, one of them a 900-ton monster dismantled and shipped from Boston harbor on 120 railway cars.



The silt-and some mighty husky boulders—are sucked through a pipe on pontoons. With the help of booster pumps, it is lifted up 400 feet and deposited thousands of feet away in the west arm of the lake.

There is supposed to be ore in the west arm too, which means that if and when mining moves into that part, twice the natural amount of silt will have to be carted away.

At the Hogarth the ore is being dynamited loose and carted away in 20-ton loads by giant ore trucks on which the cost of replacing a set of tires is $9,000.

A conveyor belt will be added and a belt system will be used to bring the ore to the surface from the Errington underground operation.

From the mine the ore goes to a crusher, and from there to the loading bin, where it is dumped from a kind of bomb bay door into the waiting ore cars.

ENGINEERING TRIUMPH — Hundreds of feet under water only a few years ago, iron ore is mined from the drained lake bed of Steep Rock Iron Mines near Atikokan, Ont., 140 miles from Port Arthur, Ont. Twenty-ton trucks carry the ore from the open-pit operation to a rail line for shipment to Port Arthur where it is carried by lake freighters to smelters.—(CP Photo).

Seasonal Upkeep Keeps Down Water Damage

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Water has been tamed for home use, but it's an enemy of home owners just the same, and a tough one to combat.

It seeps through our defenses, where even a slim-hipped ant couldn't crawl. It sabotages paint, inside and out, snips constantly at gutters and downspouts, roofs and foundation walls, in its relentless war on home and hearth.

The moral is, don't be caught with your water repellants down. A little money invested in day-to-day upkeep will spare expensive repairs as the home grows older.

Here are some danger spots to keep an eye on in fighting back at damaging moisture:

Low spots in ground around the foundation. Fill the spots with dirt and pack it down. Grade the yard so that it slopes away from the foundation, thus encouraging water to run off.

Cracks in foundation or around doors and windows. Fill cracks with specially made crack filler or with caulking compound. It is best to use the latter on a fairly warm day—or to warm the compound before using. Apply it with a caulking gun or putty knife.

Crumbling motar in foundations. Use a hammer and chisel to remove all loose concrete and to enlarge the cavity. Fill with mixture of three parts sand, one part cement and one part lime.

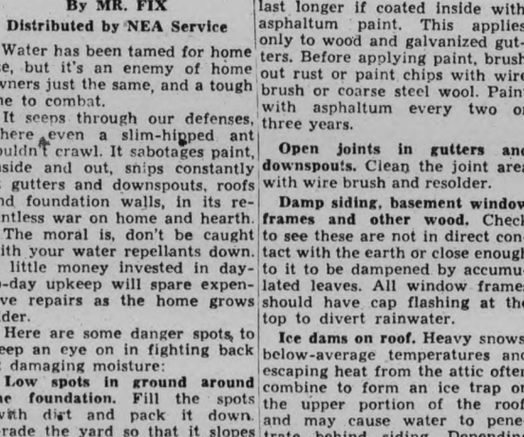
Clogged downspouts. In fall downspouts and gutters often become jammed with leaves and other debris that should be cleaned out regularly, and always before the winter season. Blocked rainwater backs up and leaks into walls of the home, causing extensive damage. Melted snow does the same.

Rusted gutters. Another reason to keep gutters clear of leaf-debris, which holds moisture and accelerates rusting. Gutters will last longer if coated inside with asphaltum paint. This applies only to wood and galvanized gutters. Before applying paint, brush out rust or paint chips with wire brush or coarse steel wool. Paint with asphaltum every two or three years.

Open joints in gutters and downspouts. Clean the joint area with wire brush and resolder.

Damp siding, basement window frames and other wood. Check to see these are not in direct contact with the earth or close enough to it to be dampened by accumulated leaves. All window frames should have cap flashing at the top to divert rainwater.

Ice dams on roof. Heavy snows, below-average temperatures and escaping heat from the attic often combine to form an ice trap on the upper portion of the roof, and may cause water to penetrate behind siding. Depending on the case, eave flashing, eave ventilation or insulation may be the answer.



Weak spots in siding. Rain driven by high winds drives into weak spots and blisters paint. Look for faulty clapboard corner miters, split shingles or clapboards and defective trim and window framing. These should be repaired or replaced.

Finally, remember that all moisture danger doesn't originate on the outside. In winter in particular dangerous amounts of moisture are generated within the home. If this moisture is vented off, you have nothing to worry about—for now.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—How thick should loose-fill insulation be poured? Does settling affect its efficiency?

A—Three-inch thickness is the amount recommended as standard. Yes, insulation becomes much less effective if it settles. For this reason, vermiculite is often recommended because it resists settling.

SEASONAL MAINTENANCE in moisture-damage-prone areas around the home will do away with expensive repair bills.

Carruthers Easily Outpoints Gault

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Jim Carruthers, the undefeated world bantamweight champion from Australia, easily outpointed Henry Gault of Spartanburg, S.C., in a 15-round title bout before 35,000 Friday night at the Sydney sports ground.

Making his first appearance as a world champion in Australia, Carruthers won every round.

The fans contributed to a gross gate of approximately $135,450 for Australia's first world title fight in 45 years. Gault, a mail clerk in a Spartanburg newspaper when he is not boxing, received a flat guarantee of $7,500. The 24-year-old Carruthers received $40,000.

2 Brothers Jailed After Dance Brawl

WINDSOR, N. S. (CP)—Ronald and Robert Murphy, convicted of wounding with intent to disable at a dance hall brawl, were sentenced Friday to five and three years respectively in penitentiary.

The brothers, from Halifax, had pleaded not guilty to charges that they wounded three youths with knives.

Judge B. W. Roscoe reprimanded town authorities for not providing adequate police supervision at the dance.

Consider Applications

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC board of governors today announced that it will consider two applications for a television station at Port Arthur, at its December meeting.

The new applications—by Ralph H. Parker Ltd., and Donald A. Clark—will be considered with two from Sherbrooke, Que., which the board said earlier this week will come before the meeting Dec. 3-5.

Feeling Of Speed Ceases So Does The Noise When Air-Bound In Jet

(Bill Boss has paid his second visit this year to Canada's NATO forces in Europe. In this story, last of a series of five, he describes the sensation of flight in a jet over one of the RCAF's German bases.)

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ZWEIBRUECKEN, Germany (CP)—Starting a jet aircraft is like starting a stove, only quicker.

You hear the engine warming up with an increasing whine. Then suddenly the heated air "takes" and begins roaring through the tubes.

A jet needs up to 70-per-cent power to taxi, 100-per-cent for take-off. It's the take-off that gives the sensation of speed. The seat comes forward, locking itself around your back.

The plane burns into the air. You feel it soar. Earth, airdrome and town dart into toytown proportions, then disappear behind the cotton of the clouds. The feeling of speed ceases. So does the noise. Only the pressurization machinery purrs. The scream of the engine is left behind.

FIGHTING GRAVITY

At this RCAF base I flew with Flt. Lt. Ken Lett of Carp, Ont., in a two-seat T-33 trainer, used to check pilots on instrument flying.

Slower and heavier than today's fighters, the T-33 still dishes up piles of "mach" and "G". "Mach" is the airman's word for the speed of sound and a T-33's top is about .82 mach—more than 600 miles-an-hour. "G" is the force of gravity. An airman pulling sharply out of a dive or doing a tight turn undergoes forces many times the strength of gravity which draws the blood from his brain and causes black-out. Black-out begins for most at about 4G, but fliers wearing special "G-suits" can withstand forces of 7G or more.

Group apt. Chester Hull of Ottawa, the station commander, made sure I knew how to lock myself into the seat for take-off, how to eject myself (seat and all) in emergency, how to drop the seat while falling free, and how to open the parachute.

Then we were airborne.

SMOOTH SPEED

Lett edged the stick over and smoothly the wings went through a full gyration. Again. Close your eyes and there's nothing to it. No sensation; not even of hanging upside-down when the plane is on its back.

The nose fell as Lett pushed the stick forward. The ship seemed to settle into a long glide, beautiful and effortless. No sensation, at first anyway; not even the robbing of your stomach that some elevators do.

I looked at the mach-meter—.6, .65, .7, .8, .81 (the T-33 began to vibrate), .82 (she shuddered like mad).

Lett brought the stick back, eased her out of the dive. We had dropped 9,000 feet.

Lett went into a sharp turn, his eyes glued on my face through the mirror as I counted off the "G" readings. At 5.5G I mustered everything I had in an attempt to raise my arms; no go.

Lett levelled the plane off and the gauge snapped back to G. Most pilots start blacking out at 4G, he said.

Lett found another jet to play with. A sharp bank (4G) and FO. Murray Kelly of Bobcaygeon, Ont., whizzed by us.

A few more passes revealed a jet fighter's eyes must be skinned all the time. He has only split seconds to see another jet and react.

TIGHT FORMATION

Lett invited Kelly to "form up." He tucked his wing snugly behind ours, keeping his eyes glued to our wing-tip. Lett did the instrument reading for both. Kelly's job was to fly his plane in perfect sympathy with our jet.

A few loops (4.5G) and Lett said "Time to go home." We'd been up 45 minutes. As I climbed out of the cockpit I felt as though my legs were carrying four times their normal load. It was a good half-hour later before the exhaustion eased. Lett said that was normal.

"You can imagine how tired a flier gets after two or three flights a day," he said.

Now I understand why air force messes are lively places at week-ends, when the flying is done and the pilots can blow off a week's head of steam.

HISTORIC CANAL

Dug in the early 1800s, the Gota canal crosses Sweden from Gothenburg to Stockholm.

JETS IN EUROPE—Canadian Press staff writer Bill Boss gets instruction on emergency procedure in a T-33 jet trainer before starting a passenger flight at Zweibrucken, Germany, base for one of the four wings in the RCAF's air division in Europe. Group Capt. Chester Hull, of Ottawa, is the instructor.—(CP from National Defence).

Government Announces Plans For TV Ads In Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—The Conservative government revealed Friday its plans for permitting private television with advertising in Britain for the frst time.

But the government "white paper" announcing the plan lists a number of safeguards against "undesirable" effects of uncontrolled commercialism. Advertisers will buy only the time for their "commercial," with program production kept in the hands of separate, privately-financed companies.

Persons in touch with the industry estimate that the plan will involve initial expenditure of £500,000 and will put the first commercial programs on the air before the end of next year.

The central proposal is for the formation of a new government-controlled corporation to own and operate commercial television facilities. This corporation will hire out its channels to private companies, which will provide the programs and in turn sell the time for "spot" commercials to advertisers.

Planning Drive Develop North

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has decided to launch a new drive to develop Canada's rich and vast northland.

The title of the resources department will be changed, the Northwest Territories given a bigger legislative council and Eskimos assisted by breaking big reindeer herds for distribution among the northern dwellers.

The resources department, headed by Hon. Jean Lesage, will be known as the department of northern affairs and national resources.

Prime Minister St. Laurent gave notice Friday that he will introduce a bill to change the name.

An official said the government wants everyone to know, especially the United States, that the north belongs to Canada and that the government intends to develop it for Canada's benefit.

Three Elect Trial By Higher Court

NORTH BAY (CP)—Three men who said they came here from Sarnia a week ago, elected trial by higher court Friday on joint charges of assaulting and attempting robbery of a nearby Sturgeon Falls taxi driver.

The men, Marcel St. Pierre, Tony Seguin and Gilbert Seguin, denied the charges.

Cab driver Florian LaBelle said that after he drove the trio to the outskirts of Sturgeon Falls, they beat him up, demanding money. He said when he leaned on the car's horn a nearby resident came out and the trio fled.

St. Pierre testified they came from Sarnia to buy revolvers from LaBelle and after giving him $120 to obtain eight guns and he failed to produce them, the three roughed LaBelle up to get their money back.

Survives Fall

TORONTO (CP)—A 28-year-old construction worker fell three floors Friday, bounced off a scaffold and then landed on his head on the ground 40 feet below. Douglas MacRae suffered only cuts over his eyes and a broken nose.

Locusts Hit Wheat

SYDNEY (CP)—A cloud of locusts 12 miles long by eight miles wide is threatening new South Wales wheat crops. The state government has issued an urgent appeal to the RAAF for aircraft for a spraying campaign.

More Veterans Suffer From Disabilities

OTTAWA (CP)—The department of veterans affairs reports that an increasing number of Canadian war veterans suffering disabilities are being treated by the department's casualty division.

"The rehabilitation and well-being of war disabled continues to be a growing function of the branch," the department said Friday in a report tabled in the Commons.

The work of the casualty division "appears to be more difficult and complex than in the past," the report said. "It is unlikely that there will be any material reduction in the total number of registrants for some years to come."

The department said casualty cases registered last March 31 totalled 38,085, an increase of 5,135 in the last five years.

Canadian Soldiers "Extremely Likeable"

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian soldiers serving with the 1st infantry brigade in Germany are "extremely likeable, intelligent and very direct," says a Canadian girl working at the Nuffield leave centre in London.

Miss Lena McLure of Charlottetown was quoted by army headquarters as saying:

"You can spot a Canadian soldier by his dress and bearing the moment he walks in the door. As the only Canadian woman in this leave centre, I can tell their wives, mothers and sweethearts that they can be very, very proud of their boys."

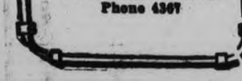
President, Wife Plant Two Saplings

OTTAWA (CP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower, displaying about an equal prowess with a spade, planted two maple saplings Friday in the grounds of Government House.

In a brief simple ceremony because of the damp, cold weather, the President shovelled earth around the base of a sugar maple some 50 yards from a similar tree planted several years ago by his predecessor, Harry Truman.

Moments later Mrs. Eisenhower grabbed an aluminum spade and tossed some earth around a red maple. Both trees were said to be about 10 years old.

MEASURE OF GROWTH



Canada's right to form her own legations in foreign capitals was established in 1920.

Anglican Church Pioneered Rural Training Schools

Theological students, especially those from large urban centres must be assisted in adjusting themselves to life in the small town or rural parish. This need has been realized and is being met in Canada through special training measures according to the Rev. Warren Turner in an article appearing in a late edition of Cross-Roads, the journal of the Rural Workers' Fellowship of the Episcopal Church in the United States.

Mr. Turner was born and educated in Peterborough. He began his ministry in Toronto and since then has had charge of parishes in the three western provinces and is now rector of Bowmanville.

The writer says that the Anglican Diocese of Toronto pioneered the Students Rural Training school which provides a short course in April and May of each year. For three years the school was held in the Mono Mills parish north of Toronto, but for the past two years it has been at Millbrook in the parish of Cavan, 12 miles from Peterborough. Attendance is compulsory for students from the Trinity and Wycliffe Colleges at the end of their term.

ATMOSPHERE OF RURAL LIFE

Billetted in farm homes where they get some of the atmosphere of rural life, the students days are filled with devotion as well as instruction. Some lectures are designed to help the city fellow, used to a large church school closely graded, to adapt himself and his religious pedagogy to the conditions of the small and diverse rural school. Students are also introduced to various rural enterprises which may assist them in their work, such as the farm co-operative movement, credit unions and the federation of agriculture.

Mr. Turner considers that the free time provided for the students to spend on the farms is one of the best features of the course. This aspect has been so valuable that the amount of time set aside for it has been doubled.

The testimony of the students themselves is encouraging, but Mr. Turner considers that no better testimonial to the value of the work is to be found than in the fact that other dioceses and denominations are adopting the plan.

7 Young Speakers Show Form In County Final

LAKEFIELD (STAFF)—Youthful public speakers who competed in a Women's Institute contest at Lakefield High School Friday night received praise and helpful criticism from adjudicator Dr. Eldon P. Ray, principal of Kenner Collegiate.

He told the seven entrants and a large audience that he had been favorably impressed with the standard of speaking. The enunciation had been excellent and speeches well formed and attractively presented. He suggested, however, that the children could convey their ideas better with a variety of tone and facial expression.

The contest, which is open to all public and separate school pupils, grade eight or under, is sponsored annually by the Peterborough Women's Institute. Those who placed first and second will compete in an inter-county contest at Brighton next Friday and finalists then speak before the Ontario Educational Association at Toronto during Easter week.

DONNA STEWART WINS

A pupil of the Keene Public School, Donna Stewart, was awarded highest honors with her speech "Queen Elizabeth." Jo-Anne Kennedy, of Havelock Public School, gained second place with "A Trip Through Algonquin Park Reserve." In third place Eileen Millett, of Norwood Public School, chose "Canada, Our Country," as her subject.

The other contestants and their subjects were: Shirley Raddon, of Selwyn, "Television, the Magic Mirror"; Gale Simpkin, of Buckhorn, "My Favourite Musician"; Graeme Sheward, of Selwyn, "Our Wild Animals"; and Fred McGregor, of Fairview, "The Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

Area chairman Mrs. F. E. Birdsall complimented the children on their effort, stating that the speeches were a vast improvement from last year.

REPRESENT COUNTY

She wished the winners good luck in forthcoming contests when they would be representing Peterborough county. Mrs. Birdsall, in conjunction with district president Mrs. J. Moore and rural school inspector Mr. K. O. Birkin, formed the committee which arranged the contest.

Prizes donated by Quaker Oats Ltd., Canada Packers, Campbell's Dairy, and Braund Stores were presented to the children by the Lakefield president, Mrs. H. Bullock, and Mesdames Birdsall and Moore.

The winner received a cup and trophy plus $10 in cash. Second and third place-getters were awarded pen and pencil sets and cash prizes. The remaniing contestants also received cash prizes.

During the evening musical items were rendered by Misses Fay Harding, piano solo; Louisa Anderson, piano accordion, and Donna Farrow, violin. Accompanist was Mrs. T. Payton.

Unit Will Teach Presbyterians Leadership

St. Paul's Presbyterian church will be the scene of a series of meetings next week, held by the Presbyterian Training Institute. The meetings begin on Monday and continue to Friday, November 20, with evening sessions from 8 to 10 p.m.

The purpose of the institute is to train leaders and officers for church work. The meetings, which are open to the public, are aimed at showing people just what is being accomplished along this line.

TRAINING TEAM

A training team from Toronto comprising team captain Miss Ruby Walker, regional secretary of the Women's Missionary Society; Miss Helen Bricker, National Girls' Work Secretary; Miss Margaret Webster, director of the organization of the WMS of the Presbyterian Church in Canada and Mrs. C. H. Bowman, children's worker and national secretary for Girls' Work, will conduct the meetings.

The Rev. J. S. Clarke, secretary of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, will also attend the sessions. Mr. Clark covers the entire Dominion in his work.

On Friday evening, a dedication service will be held with the Rev. A. E. Toombs of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church of Campbellford as the guest speaker.

During the sessions, special emphasis will be given to work of the WMS, Sunday School Mission Band, CGIT and Explorers' Group.

Five Youths Injured In Accidents

Five youths, including two from Peterborough, were injured in district accidents late Friday night and early today.

The more serious mishap occurred at 9:45 a.m. today when a 1936-model car crashed into the cement bridge over the Ouse river, two miles northeast of Norwood. All three of the occupants had to be helped out by a farmer, Arnold Baptie of RR 1, Norwood, who saw the accident from his nearby farmhome.

The three, all from Toronto, were taken to Civic Hospital:

Percy Moore, 21, of 225 Spadina Rd., a broken left leg, cuts on his right legs, and an injured right knee, right elbow, and nose;

Eugene Nickerson, 19, of 130 Albany Ave., scalp cuts and bruises;

John Carter, 18, Toronto address not known, a cut chin and bruises.

NOT SERIOUS

All are suffering from shock but are not in serious condition.

They were travelling west along the boundary road between Asphodel and Dummer townships when their car hit some ruts in the gravel and swerved out of control. It went across the road and hit the end pillar of the cement bridge over the Ouse, knocking the pillar, as well as a six-foot section of side railing, into the river.

The front of the car was smashed in and the steering wheel was bent up toward the dashboard. However, the vehicle did not follow the bridge section into the river.

After being helped out of the wrecked car by Mr. Baptie and another man, identified as a Mr. Reynolds, the youths were treated by Dr. A. R. Atkinson, of Norwood, and then taken to hospital.

The accident is being investigated by OPP Constable Ernest Lunn.

Two Peterborough youths were given medical treatment late Friday night after their panel truck rolled over twice in the ditch on Highway 7, a half mile northwest of the city limits.

David Chambo, 20, of 993 Ford St., was driving a half ton panel truck to Chemong at about 11 p.m. He was carrying a passenger, Morris McFadden, 16, of 759 Chamberlain St., a cousin of the owner. He intended to pick up another passenger when he got there.

Chambo apparently tried to pass another westbound vehicle when he noticed an oncoming car. He slipped back into the right lane of traffic and applied his brakes so he wouldn't run into the car ahead of him, but his truck went out of control.

It rolled over twice in the right ditch and was badly damaged.

Chambo was taken to Dr. Herbert Young's office by Nisbett ambulance where he was treated for a sore left hip and facial cuts and bruises.

McFadden was taken to Civic Hospital by OPP Constable Don Lacombe, the investigating officer. He also received an injured leg as well as body bruises. After treatment he was allowed to go home.

Car Crashes Porch, After Missing Curve

CHATHAM (CP) — A car crashed through the front porch of a house Friday night after missing a curve in Merlin, 14 miles from here.

Willie Barrows, 30, of Detroit, was taken to hospital with a possible fractured jaw. It took 15 minutes to release Barrow after his car was found jammed under the porch and into the basement wall.

Peterborough One Of Many Seeking Television Stations

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadians have embarked eagerly on the venture of private television broadcasting.

With 13 cities in prospect of receiving broadcasts from privately-owned stations before many months pass, broadcasters in another four seek licences from the government. Sudbury, Ont., is the first city to see and hear broadcasts from a privately-owned station—CKSO-TV. It has been on the air several weeks.

Broadcasters in Hamilton, London, Windsor, Kingston, Kitchener in Ontario, Quebec City and Rimouski in Quebec, Saint John, N.B., Sydney, N.S., and Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary and Edmonton have been authorized by the government to proceed with construction of stations.

APPLICATIONS

The CBC board of governors will consider applications from four other centres at a meeting next month. There are two applicants in both Sherbrooke, Que., and Port Arthur, Ont. Single applications have come from Charlottetown and Peterborough, Ont.

During its Dec. 3-5 meeting, the CBC board will consider two applications for use of channel two in Port Arthur. One is made by Ralph H. Parker, operator of radio station CFPA who proposes to operate a television station in co-operation with radio station CKPR, Fort William.

The second comes from Donald A. Clark, head of a Lakehead lumber company who proposes to form a company in which the Port Arthur News-Chronicle will have a one-half interest.

The application from Peterborough is a hold-over from the board's previous meeting. It comes from the Brookland Company Ltd., a group which includes Senator W. Rupert Davies and Roy Thomson who both have wide newspaper and radio broadcasting interests.

New Proposals Woud Halve Down Payments

Proposals to halve down payments on the first $8,000 of the lending value of a home will likely reduce total down payments by about $600 on a $10,000 home.

A city realtor offered those figures today as an example of what will come to pass if the federal government's plans are made into legislation. He said that another result would be a sharp increase in the volume of real estate purchased.

The government's proposals are these:

Cut the down payment on the first $8,000 lending value from 20 per cent to 10 per cent;

The down payment on the portion in excess of $8,000 will be 30 per cent;

Interest rates will be increased from 5¼ per cent to 5½ per cent.

Mortgages running to 25 and 30 years will become normal.

Using for example a $10,000 home with a 25-year mortgage, the realtor said the down payment under the new proposals would be about $1,400. At present, with a 20-year mortgage, the down payment was slightly more than $2,000.

Monthly payments under the proposed scheme would be $52.50, plus tax, which was estimated at about $25, making a total monthly payment of $77.50.

At present a person buying a home under the National Housing Act would pay $53.66 and taxes.

The saving effected is almost altogether in the down payment.

"What the payments on a 30-year mortgage would be, I don't know," said the realtor. "My tables go only as high as 25 years."

INCREASE PRICES?

There is the possibility that a reduction in down payment and the subsequent increased demand for homes might push up real estate prices. The rate of home construction during the next few years will, it is expected, fairly well govern the going price of homes.

When Prime Minister St. Laurent first outlined briefly the government proposals some time ago, real estate men felt the move was not altogether wise. A present, they are reluctant to lend money on anyhing beyond a 20-year mortgage.

The plan would allow banks to enter the mortgage-lending field for the first time. It would be accomplished through a mortgage insurance scheme to be handled by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, a crown corporation.

Committee To Modernize Garbage Collection In '54

Steps towards modernizing the city's garbage disposal facilities were taken by city council's sanitation committee in a 2½-hour session Friday afternoon. The committee plans to overhaul the bylaw governing garbage disposal, especially with reference to the use of garbage containers and the amount of garbage collected. They may also recommend to the 1954 council the purchase of a new fleet of modern garbage collection vehicles. For vigilantes, they're offering a reward for information leading to prosecution under the regulations governing the dumping of garbage at the landfill project on the site of the old city dump in North Monaghan township.

Suggest Bylaw Be Changed To Clean Lanes

The city bylaw governing garbage collections is going to be overhauled.

Sanitation Superintendent J. E. Pierce is to prepare a list of recommended changes for consideration by the council's sanitation committee. Meanwhile, store proprietors in the business district will be asked to co-operate in keeping the downtown area, particularly back lanes, free of refuse.

The present bylaw, unrevised since 1946, limits "lifts" to six a building— either twice or three times a week.

Restaurants, hotels, snack bars —all those establishments handling food—have their garbage taken away three times a week. Other downtown stores have their garbage taken away twice.

A container of garbage is what is meant by a "lift." It must not weigh more than 75 pounds. A charge of 10 cents is made for each additional lift which should be marked with tags obtainable at the city hall.

As a result of criticism in council of the condition of the downtown area, the sanitation department made a survey during September to discover the number of lifts required to keep it clean.

The superintendent explained that during September all lifts were collected and no charge was made for extras. Between five and six thousand lifts were made at 14 stores but the number of lifts varied greatly from day to day and place to place. Some stores were given as many as 39 lifts some days and none on others.

PROPER CONTAINERS

Mr. Pierce was of the opinion that a lot of lifts could be saved if the garbage was put out in proper containers. He said there were a couple of theatres that ought to install shoots to contain the garbage. As it was, they put the garbage out later than the sanitation department called for it and the department got blamed when the laneway was strewn with popcorn boxes.

Ald. W. J. Beggs, committee chairman, agreed with City Clerk E. A. Outram's suggestion that the bylaw be reviewed. Mayor Hugh Waddell and Ald. H. T. Rehill were of the opinion that some preliminary work should be undertaken first to enlist the people's co-operation.

His Worship supposed that possibly a third of the people in the city didn't know what the bylaw required of them and suggested to the superintendent that maybe he should do a job of public relations.

When it was drawn to his attention that the present bylaw was seven years old, Mayor Waddell agreed that it probably needed reviewing. He recalled that certain problems existed then which no longer faced the department and thought that the charge for extra lifts might be done away with.

Eventually it was the mayor's suggestion that the superintendent go over the bylaw and report his suggested changes to the next meeting of the committee. Ald. Rehill added a rider that the downtown store proprietors be sent a circular letter explaining what they could do to help.

Close Gates At 5 Forbid Dumping

The city is going to erect a gate at the entrance to the landfill garbage disposal project at the site of the old city dump in Monaghan township.

The gate will be locked at 5:00 p.m. five days a week and at noon on Saturdays. A reward will be offered to anyone giving information leading to a conviction for violation of the dumping regulations at the project.

Action was taken by the sanitation committee of city council Friday afternoon after the Sanitation Superintendent J. E. Pierce reported that loads of garbage were being dumped at the site as late as 10:00 p.m., dead animals were being left lying about the field and fires had been lit in piles of grabage left there after employees had quit work for the day.

Mr. Pierce said fencing of the property would be completed Wednesday.

Although the committee was unanimous in its decision, Ald. H. T. Rehill wondered if the limitation in hours wouldn't make it impossible for some people to take their own garbage out for dumping.

WILL DUMP IT

"Our experience has been that if we lock the gates people aren't just going to turn around and take their garbage home again," he said. "They're going to dump it in the North Monaghan ditches. Besides, there's not enough garbage taken out after 5:00 o'clock to cause a serious fire. Most of the bulk loads are taken in the day-time."

"There are dump trucks going out at night," Mr. Pierce countered. "They're under contract to commercial firms to haul garbage after they've finished hauling gravel and so on in the day-time."

Local industries were also dumping oil there, which seeped into the ground and created a fire hazard, particularly if the bullclaw shovel broke down and was unable to cover it.

Ald. W. J. Beggs, committee chairman, was inclined to agree with the superintendent but it was Ald. Rehill's experience that people just dumped their garbage over the fence at the incinerator when it was in use.

"They'll throw it over the fence now," said Ald. Beggs.

Modern Trucks Would Replace Larger Number

The city may be completely equipped with modern garbage disposal trucks next year.

The sanitation committee Friday afternoon instructed Superintendent J. E. Pierce to prepare a list of vehicle requirements with prices, to be presented at the next committee meeting for consideration. The committee will then probably recommend to next year's council how many new vehicles ought to be bought.

Mr. Pierce said the modern garbage collector now owned by the city and four new ones could do the work of the seven trucks now used. He recommended that three of the dump trucks and one half-ton truck be turned in now. He believed the savings in wages would pay for the new vehicles in five years, with some left over, although he admitted he didn't have specific figures to back it up.

Asked if the committee had enough money left to buy the vehicles this year, Ald. W. J. Beggs, committee chairman, implied it was very doubtful.

In reply to a question by Mayor Hugh Waddell, the superintendent said that, although the vehicles would carry a heavier load than ordinary trucks, the important advantage was the time and labor they saved in lifting and packing garbage mechanically.

SAFER FOR MEN

City Clerk E. A. Outram said use of the modern garbage collection vehicles would cut down the workmen's compensation rates and the superintendent added that they were safer than ordinary trucks. Only recently a departmental employee had a knife go right through his hand from a package of garbage.

"I think we've come to the stage where our present method of collecting garbage is outmoded," said Ald. H. T. Rehill.

The city clerk suggested that the money to buy a new fleet of vehicles could be borrowed on five-year debentures next year. If the superintendent's figures were correct, the debentures could be paid for with the money saved on wages.

3 Shot In Bed Hold Youth, 17

FLOODWOOD, Minn. (AP) — Three persons were shot to death in their beds in their home near here early today and a 17-year-old boy was taken into custody.

Slain were George Snyder, 61, his wife, 56, and Richard Demars, 18, a ward of the state who lived with the Snyders.

Village marshall Francis T. Hokkanen said the 17-year-old was dazed and did not appear to know what had happened. Hokkanen said he had been unable to learn what may have prompted the shooting.

Elderly Hunters Not Lost 'Turned Around'

LINDSAY (ENS)—Two elderly hunters, the objects of an intensive search by provincial police officers and other hunters in the Haliburton area on Thursday and Friday were found in the bush on Friday afternoon after spending Thursday night in a cabin near Drag Lake.

According to reports the two hunters, Harold Wessel of Haliburton and Frank Martin of Norland, both veteran woodsmen, went into the bush near East Lake, northeast of Haliburton on Thursday morning. By late Thursday afternoon they had not returned to their car, and a search was organized. Provincial police officers and local hunters assisted but gave up at nightfall, confident that the men would pass the night safely.

The search continued all day Friday, until the pair was finally found. Constable Gordon Langton of the Haliburton OPP, commented that the men "wouldn't admit they had been lost," only "turned around from their trail."

BBC Building $25,000,000 Television City

LONDON (Reuters)—The BBC is building a $25,000,000 "television city." It may take 10 years to complete.

British television has outgrown the facilities it has used since 1935. The plan for the new centre was made about seven years ago. It now is getting up steam under the direction of Sir George Barnes, BBC director of television.

"Television city" will have a main central building known as "the ring," housing rehearsal rooms, offices, dressing rooms and a glass-enclosed public gallery.

Jutting out from the central structure like spokes of a wheel will be seven long studio buildings, each overlooked by the sound-proof gallery. There also will be several smaller buildings, plus a helicopter landing-space for delivery of newsreels and other urgent film material.

The scenery and "props" department already has moved to its new quarters in the White City area of west London. But administrative and production departments will not be moved for some time.

Alexandra Palace, first home of BBC television, still houses much of the administration and is the transmitting centre.

Most of the production now is at Lime Grove, near White City, which Barnes has called "the world's finest television centre." The BBC has spent $3,500,000 on Lime Grove and its three studios.

AT WAR MEMORIAL—President Eisenhower places a wreath at Canada's National War Memorial shortly after his arrival in Ottawa. The War Memorial is piled high with wreaths from Remembrance Day services.

National Film

three were prize-winners, but two of them were films which were well off the beaten path of major studio mass appeal films. Distribution abroad of more conventional Canadian films may be much wider. Beyond The Frontier, a film on the development of Canada's North, is being distributed by MGM in the United Kingdom and by Columbia Pictures in most of the rest of the world, except for France, Belgium and the Netherlands. The Man in the Peace Tower, a film about the Dominion carilloneur is distributed by MGM in the United Kingdom, by Belgavox in Belguim and by Universal in the United States, Central and South America and many other film territories.

DISTRIBUTION SYSTEM

The distribution system which brings these Canadian films to people in other countries is a joint effort of the National Film Board and the Canadian diplomatic missions and consular and trade posts. The NFB handles theatrical and commercial distribution, including newsreels and most television contracts. In this it is assisted, in the United States, by the Canadian Co-operating Project of the Motion Picture Association of America. The CCP also works with Canadian commercial producers and has helped to arrange U.S. distribution for many of their films in recent years. Non-theatrical distribution abroad is handled by Canadian posts in co-operation with NFB officials in Ottawa, London, New York and Chicago.

The Government-operated distribution system is used to circulate films other than those produced by the NFB Packaged Power, produced for Aluminum Ltd., for instance, is being distributed by Canadian posts abroad.

Distribution methods abraod were described in some detail in the March 1952, issue of External Affairs but there have been some significant new developments which are worth reporting.

Commercial—Bookings of NFB films in commercial theatres abroad increased from 10,572 in the fiscal year 1950-51 to 16,159 in 1952-53. Thirty-eight commercial contracts for film distribution were completed last year.

Non-commercial— Non-theatrical audiences for NFB films abroad increased from 9,700,000 in 1950-51 to 11,070,000 in 1952-53. The increase was made despite the closing down of the Central Office of Information distributing system in the United Kingdom, through which NFB films were seen by more than 1,000,000 people yearly. This loss was more than offset by the increase film activity of Canadian posts which raised their audience figures 3,273,0000 in 1950-51 to 6,238,169 in 1952-53.

Newsreels—Until last year, foreign distribution of NFB newsreel material depended chiefly on its inclusion in newsreels produced in the United Kingdom and the United States. Now the Board also works directly with newsreel producers in many other countries. The results demonstrate the wisdom of this policy. In 1950-51 NFB newsreel material was included in 64 editions of foreign newsreels including television newsreels; in 1951-52, in 134 editions; and last year in 328 editions.

The foreign demand for Canadian films increases each year. The number of international awards won by Canadian films increases also. Apparently Canadian films are enjoyed by critics and audiences alike. In theatres and in 16mm community shows, in newsrels and on television, the face of Canada is exposed to foreign audiences. They seem to like it.

Mother Of 9 Minister Of Commerce

By GUY BRETTANY

COPENHAGEN (Reuters) — The biggest surprise in Denmark's new Socialist government was the appointment of Mrs. Anna Lisbeth Groes, a 43-year-old housewife and the mother of nine children, to the post of minister of commerce.

Mrs. Groes had never been in public office before and had never taken an active part in politics. She is not a member of the Folketing, Denmark's single - chamber Parliament.

Her only apparent qualifications for the post were that she received a degree in political economy at Copenhagen University and that for the last three years she had been chairman of the Danish Housewives' Association, which keeps a close watch on retail prices.

HUSBAND CHAIRMAN

Her husband is chairman of the Danish Wholesale Co - operative Society.

"I was really surprised at my appointment," Mrs. Groes told Teuters. "I think it was a rather bold step by the prime minister.

"But I hope all the same to be able to do something to help Danish industry and commerce to run smoothly.

FREE TRADE

"I believe in free trade as far as possible."

Asked how she would reconcile the duties as the mother of a large family with the responsibilities of a cabinet minister, Mrs. Groes replied:

"Well, I shall have to make arrangements for my home to run more or less without me as my main job now is at the ministry.

"The children were enthusiastic over my appointment."

The home baking table was very popular and completely sold out. It was in charge of Mrs. Walter Heard. Mrs. Robert Fowler and Mrs. Frank Trude.

Ladies pouring tea during the afternoon were: Mrs. Austin Poast, Mrs. T. E. Rath, Mrs. Wilbert Rosborough and Mrs. Ross Harrison. Mrs. Everett Cockburn and Mrs. Leo Allen.

These serving tea were: Mrs. Bruce Heard, Mrs. Bob Cockburn, Mrs. Nelson Trude, Mrs. Henry Sharpe, Mrs. Harold Heard, Mrs. Albert Bulmer, Mrs. Edison Kimball.

Mrs. Carman Bell was treasurer. Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. Wesley Bell and Mrs. Neil Jewell were in charge of the kitchen.

Miss Olive Bell and Mrs. Clayton Telford played piano music at intervals during the afternoon. Mrs. Ernest Mahood sold home made candy.

The flowers used on the tea table were sent to sick members.

A beautiful patch work quilt which was made by Mrs. Frank Trudi was offered for sale.

Sweden Going All Out For Force Of Jet Planes

By GODFREY ANDERSON

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden, with the world's fourth largest air force, is going all out for jets.

Semi - official sources say a major part of the fighter-defence force already is equipped with Swedish Saab-29 swept-wing jets with a speed of 650 miles an hour.

Best estimates place strength of the Swedish air force at around 1,500 first-line planes. Only the United States, Russia and Britain have larger air forces.

The Swedes have imported British-built Vampire and Venom jets. The number of these ships in service is a closely guarded secret.

The Saab (Svenska Aeroplan Aktiebolaget) factories at Linkoping in south central Sweden expect to continue large-scale production of the tubby planes that the Swedes call "flying barrels."

NEW ATTACK JET

Saab also is producing a new attack jet called the A-29 to serve as a striking plane in place of the few obsolete propeller-type bombers still in service.

Meanwhile, a new 700-mph jet, the Saab-32 Lancet, is being flight-tested at Linkoping. This all-weather craft, which recently had its first press showing after being developed in secrecy, will be the backbone of Sweden's four wings of specialized attack units.

A Swedish air force spokesman claims the Lancet, operating from a central base, could carry bombs and "other modern weapons" to any part of Sweden's 1,250-mile coastline in less than an hour under any weather conditions.

The Rolls-Royce Avon axial-flow turbojet engine first used is being replaced in later Lancet models by a more powerful afterburner-equipped version said to be the fastest ever flown in Sweden.

Officers responsible for training make sure almost all units work out in the Arctic. Sweden's air force has been flying jets north of the Arctic circle since 1946. It has proved jets are no more difficult to handle than piston - engined planes in arctic temperatures as cold as 70 below.

Labor Unions To Fight Racial Prejudice

MONTREAL (CP)—Labor unions in Montreal have launched a fight against racial prejudice and intolerance.

The fight will be carried on through a school in human relations, sponsored jointly by the Montreal Trades and Labor Council and the Montreal Labor Council.

Jacques V. Morin, director of the school, said one of the aims will be to provide scientific information on race and other questions in a manner easily understandable for the average worker. The latest adult education techniques will be used and lectures will be folloedw by forums and films.

Publications of the United Nations on race relations will be made available.

TAKE BIG STEP

Claude Jodoin, president of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council, said the opening of the school was a big step forward in the accomplishment of organized labor's undertaking "to improve intergroup relations not only among workers but in the community at large."

Gerard Rancourt, president of the Montreal Labor Council, said: "As the trade union movement becomes of age and is recognized more and more as a civic body, it is its duty to educate its members in order to enable them to play their full role of enlightened citizens."

CAUSES EXPLAINED

Causes of mutations and racial differences were explained during the opening lecture which dealt with the definition of a race. During the lecture certain common prejudices, such as the difference of blood between races, were outlined and it was explained that four types of blood exist in each race.

The lecturer, Anne Malone, psychologist at the Montreal General Hospital, said that with blood transfusion a Negro could save the life of a white man or a Chinese as well as the life of another Negro. She said there is no such thing as a superior race.

RCAF Safety Experts Do Valuable Job

By ART BRYDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—For experts of the RCAF directorate of flight safety a big question mark hangs over the scene of every aircraft accident.

The answer to the question may be found through a bit of metal twisted around a wirefence or even through the meal of a hungry cow.

The keynote of the DFS is safety. Its aim is to find the cause of every air crash and prevent a repetition. The tiny service has paid the full cost of its operation many times over in equipment and personnel saving.

The DFS maintains a staff of inspectors, each covering a section of Canada. They are specialists in the operation of almost every RCAF aircraft type.

Sqdn. Ldr. W. S. Johnson of Toronto and Belleville operates out of Winnipeg, but like all inspectors, is responsible to Ottawa. He covers the area from the Lakehead to the Alberta border. Married, with a three-year-old boy, this husky six-footer has a background typical of the directorate.

After becoming a pilot, he was an instructor and then flew operational fighter aircraft during the Second World War. He did a tour on transport aircraft, took an accident prevention course, spent some time at the Institute of Aviation Medicine at Toronto and also worked with the director of flying training in Ottawa.

As an inspector of accidents, Sqdn. Ldr. Johnson gets around—but fast. In a Manitoba crash that may mean travelling by plane, car, snowmobile, snowshoe or just walking.

Guards are posted at the scene of accidents to prevent the removal of anything that might aid investigators. Clues turn up in unlikely places. A piece of metal wrapped around a wire fence once proved valuable. By finding which part of the aircraft it came from Sqdn. Ldr. Johnson learned the angle at which the plane hit the ground.

On another occasion, a twin-engined Anson trainer was missing. A farmer's cow was also missing and a search for bossy produced the plane. The cow was found munching on the aircraft fabric—favored because of its dope coating.

The inspector works closely with technical as well as flying personnel. He takes a crew from the home field of the aircraft to the crash scene and under his supervision they meticulously dismantle every part of the aircraft, checking for structural or mechanical failures.

It is slow work. Often the men live in tents and have to contend with snow, rain, mud and wild animals.

"We stay until the evidence has been sucked dry and there is nothing more to be learned," said Sqdn. Ldr. Johnson.

Tiny model planes help witnesses unfamiliar with aircraft to identify the plane they saw and explain, with actions, how it crashed. The inspectors may canvass door-to-door for the information.

By plotting the trajectories of bits of wreckage, RCAF specialists can even determine the position in the air of a plane which exploded above the ground.

Determining the cause of an individual crash is only the first step for the directorate of flight safety. The inspector's report to Ottawa is analyzed by statistics experts and accident trends are determined for various types of aircraft.

Once a trend is determined, the aircraft involved may be grounded until the cause of accident is eliminated.

U.S. Collectors Getting Maps Of Canada

LONDON (CP) — A steady stream of early Canadian maps is flowing into the United States, says cartography expert Robert Wheaton.

Wheaton, partner in the 100-year-old London firm of Henry Stevens and Sons, says pictorial records of early Canadian history are being purchased in quantity by U.S. collectors.

"As a result, Canadian collections of maps of early Canada are lagging behind those of the U.S. Library of Congress and other U.S. libraries and museums," he said.

DROP EFFORTS

While some Canadian libraries, notably the provincial library of British Columbia, had built up good collections before the war, they had not kept up their efforts since. As a consequence, Wheaton said, Scholars doing research on early Canadian history may in future have to go to the U.S. for material.

The current interest in old maps is due largely to their decorative possibilities. Replicas of the historical maps, with cherubs and sailing ships roaming through uncharted regions, are part of modern decor.

Wheaton said Canada first appeared on world maps around 1560, some 70 years after its discovery. The first detailed Canadian maps appeared around 1595.

Extra Services Of Garbage Men No Longer Paid

Employees of the city's sanitation department are no longer receiving payment from citizens for extra services, according to Sanitation Superintendent T. E. Pierce.

Mr. Pierce told a meeting of the sanitation committee Friday afternoon, however, that employees were wondering whether or not it would be illegal to accept gratuities during the Christmas season.

It isn't—and they can.

The superintendent openly admitted that departmental employees had been paid for extra work. The bylaw governing garbage collections stipulates that citizens must put their garbage in front of their houses if it is to be collected.

For 10 years past, Mr. Pierce said, members of the department had received $2.00 a month from a local doctor for going around to the rear of his house and getting the containers.

But if they were forbidden to cept any gratuities at all "it's going to hit every city department," he warned.

Mayor Hugh Waddell said there had to be a distinction made between an unsolicited gift and payment expected regularly in return for extra services.

NO SIDE DEALS

Ald. W. J. Beggs, committee chairman, put it somewhat differently. He said he didn't want to see any "side deals."

Mr. Pierce, although he re-iterated that from now on side deals are out, argued that because his employees were working on a task system, the services were actually performed in their own time.

They were paid for a nine-hour day, but, if they finished early, they were free to go home. So, as long as they did what was required of them, any extra work was done in their own time.

Ald. Beggs didn't agree with this theory.

"If we're going to get into a problem of this kind, then we're going to have to stick to their stipulated hours of work," he said.

"Putting in a clock won't do any good," the superintendent said. "They can sit under a tree just as easily as anybody else."

Ald. H. T. Rehill pointed out that a city bylaw required garbage to be put out at a certain time and place.

"I think the men should be instructed to pick up garbage where it's stipulated and nowhere else," he said. "If they are offered a tip for doing something else, they shouldn't accept it."

"That's the system we're on now," Mr. Pierce said.

Charge Three Union Officials

TIMMINS (CP) — Three union officials were charged with intimidation today after an alleged threat against a gold miner in one of eight strike-bound mines in the Porcupine camp.

Released on bail were Fernand Lauriault, 32, president of Aunor local of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), Ernest Souliere, 42, and Roger Caron, 24, union stewards at Aunor.

They were accused of threatening to dynamite the car of Earl Snyder, worker at Broulan Reef, the first gold mine closed in a wave of strikes which started July 11 and left idle 5,000 men in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec.

The strikers demand higher wages, the union checkoff and other benefits. Broulan is operating despite picket lines.

Key talks between union officials and management of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, largest of those hit by the walkouts, were scheduled to resume today.

Kidnapping Falls Through

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The attempted kidnapping from Riverside Friday of the small daughter of a Parke Davis and Co. Ltd., executive fell through when the kidnapper apparently got afraid and abandoned the child near the vehicle entrance to the Detroit-Windsor tunnel.

The child was picked up by Windsor police nearly three hours after she disappeared from her home.

She is Catharine Shannon, three year and nine month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shannon.

Riverside police and the parents are convinced the chubby - faced little girl was picked up in a car by someone bound for Detroit.

The child was unharmed and apparently had not been molested.

Vietman Forces Roll Ahead In Battle For Indo-China

By FRED SPARKS

WITH FRENCH UNION FORCES, Phunoquan, Indo China — (NEA)—I have seen this primitive Oriental farm centre liberated by Western forces, an event unique in a divided, stalemated world.

Here indeed—as mortars crashed and rifles fired and wounded men screamed — the diplomatic word "containment" was forgotten and "rollback" substituted.

International Red flags, with the inevitable stars, have been burning in the streets of Phunoquan. Over the civic centre flies the flag of pro-Western Vietnam.

Fueling the huge bonfires, used by shivering troopers to dry clothes wet from days of constant rain and forded swamplands, are pictures of the Indo-Chinese Communist leader Ho Chi Minh, China's dictator Mao, and Russia's Molotov.

TIGHT COMMUNIST BONDAGE

This has been the high point of the allied offensive into this dreary, mountainous sweep of North Indo-China, held in tight Communist bondage since 1946.

The victory at Phunoquan, long a military and civic GHQ for crack Red regulars, is perhaps one reason why there are those in Paris who would now negotiate with China on an Indo-Chinese truce. They would be negotiating through added strength.

The attack on Phunoquan was a hard-learned lesson in jungle war. At four a.m. we emerged from our mosquito nets at Laicac. I had wrapped my net around my head, parka-style. Where it touched bare skin—nose, lips, ears—insect stingers had bitten through.

MUD PIES AND GOO

We shuffled forward in three columns, one to smash Phunoquan, two on our flanks. The earth was a shimmering mud pie and the heavens wept.

Shoes stuck in the goo like suction cups. I copied the others and shed my boots, laced them together and slung them over my shoulder. While scientific minded America worried about superweapons and radio-activating Kansas City, I went to war in bare feet.

Soon we were soaked from rain and wading paddies and with our muddy toes were miserably cold. The jungle without sun is like a body without blood.

With the gray, cloud-curtained day came a light observation plane scooting low ahead. It bumped and twisetd as a heavy Red machine gun sought its vitals.

MACHINE GUN MENACE

One trooper said: "They're trying to shoot our 'eyes' out."

Then another machine gun, from a lowland town dominated by a huge pagoda, sought our vitals. A French captain several yards ahead went down, his right arm torn and messy, his face twisted in silent pain.

Troops on our flank engaged the town with small arms and a Moroccan non-com shouted: "Achmed! Mohammed Mortars."

His squad moved with long-rehearsed efficiency to send mortar shells, little rocket-shaped, wicked things, clomping about the pagoda.

Four small, frightened coolies in umbrella shaped hats hoisted the wounded captain on a stretcher. As they crossed a waist-high paddy two slipped in an underwater hole and the captain splashed in the murk.

Retrieved, his bandages were blood and filth. Fortunately, he fainted and his head hung lifeless, bobbing loosely as the rough haul resumed.

SCURRYING COMMUNISTS

This was the nature of the fighting as we pushed near Phunoquan. On surrounding hills, our binoculars spotted Communists scurrying about. The clouds lifted and fighter planes rocked the hills.

The Moroccan shock unit that was to dash into Phunoquan shed all non-essentials, jabbered in Arabic, and checked and rechecked guns and matches. Then our "eyes"—the brave observation pilot—reported the town abandoned.

It was a reprieve, for many would have died in the assault. The Moroccans' faces didn't change, but little curved lines at the corners of their full red lips smiled happiness.

In a way, our entrance into Phunoquan, past blazing thatched huts ignited by shells, was historic. This was the first populated patch of Soviet earth freed since 1950 when General MacArthur swept North Korea.

Cautious Arab soldiers, poking through official houses, collected pamphlets showing how Sovietized was Phunoquan; pamphlets that screeched about germ warfare, mistreatment of U.S. minorities—all the ancient Kremlin wheezes.

SPECIAL TORTURES

The city itself was dead. Only sick and aged remained, the rest warned by poster that French forces had prepared special tortures.

We were clustered around burning buildings to dry when the counter-attack began.

A fierce firefight developed on the perimiter, but superior Moroccan machine guns and a sharp, knife-wielding, howling charge sent the ex-tenants back to their hills.

Our planes dropped leaflets in surrounding wilds, reassuring the locals, and by nightfall citizens started wandering back.

The bomb victims were issued fat rice rations and they spilled countless tales of Communist oppression, of a regimented life that took away their beloved rice paddies (family soil for centuries) and gave them to the control of a Peking-educated committee.

Phunoquan was liberated. Nobody ever heard of Phunoquan before, but who in years past ever heard of Guadalcanal?

New Zealander's Meeting With First Snow, Trying

(NOTE: Mr. Oliver is a recent arrival from New Zealand, and here describes his reaction to his first experience with snow.)

By JACK OLIVER

I guess it's fair to presume that at least half the Canadians are born at a time of the year when there is a decided chill in the air, whether it's the fall, winter or early spring. And therefore, it is more than possible that many come into life when the country is either buried in snow or is in the process of being buried.

Anyhow whatever month you choose to start out on the devious road of life, iti sn't long before you peratures and lots of snow.

However, I cannot help wondering just what your impressions would be if you were suddenly transferred from a sub-tropical climate to the other extreme.

STARTED ON PRAIRIES

That's just what has happened to me. I was travelling across the middle-west prairies last week, ehjoying the scenery from the comfortable sea of a well heated railway car, when to my innocent delight the first flakes of an impending snow-storm settled on the fields. Believe it or not this was the first time I had seen snow falling. Hitherto I'd thought it was confined to mountain peaks and Christmas postcards. But, I'm learning fast and to me, any form of education is a painful ex-experience.

I started right off by pressing my nose against the window in an effort to see more. Lesson 1: Snow makes the windows cold! My nose is still red, and in spite of other adverse opinions, the "Rudolf" effect is the result of arctic temperatures.

The temptation for more first-hand knowledge was still strong and at Capreol I ventured outside. Ah! It was great to stand as a tyrant to Nature's swirling mantle. I opened my mouth and took a deep breath. Now I've acquired a sore throat. Lesson 2: At all times keep mouth firmly shut!

NEED A HAT

Back in the comparative safety of the car I noticed that my jacket was covered with particles of snow. I though it was a pretty effect. I looked again and blinked. The snow had vanished as if into thin air. But I was wrong. It had vanished into thin jacket. Lesson 3: Keep your hat on!

Naturally the time had to come when I was forced to walk in snow. At my first try I found it hard and crisp. I had a lot of fun throwing snowballs until someone retaliated with a direct hit on the back of my neck. Lesson 4: Greenhorns in the snow business shouldn't throw snowballs.

However, I was favorably impressed, but wished the sun would come out to warm up the atmosphere. It did, and the snow began to melt. After changing two pairs of shoes I concluded that snow would not be experienced to the best advantage in temperate climates.

Lesson 5 and final: Follow the sun, or, if you don't like it, lump it!

OBITUARIES

WILLIAM HENRY LONG

The death occurred Friday, in Civic Hospital, of William H. Long, 168 River Rd., after a lengthy illness. He was in his 80th year.

He was the son of John Henry Long and Mary D. Scharfenburg. Although born in Kinmount, he lived in Peterborough most of his life, and was employed at the Auburn mills as a loom repair man, until retirement.

He is survived by sisters, Eva M. Long and Mrs. Ethyl V. McFadden, both of Peterborough, and brothers F. F. Long of Campbellford, A. E. Long of Toronto, and Herbert Long of Kingston.

Funeral services will be from the Comstock funeral home on Monday at 2:00 p.m., for burial in Little Lake cemetery. The Rev. M. W. Heaslip of Madoc will officiate.

MRS. EMILY COTTRELL

MARMORA (ENS)—William J. Cottrell of Marmora has been informed of the death earlier this week of his 91-year-old mother, the former Emily Sendall of Westbury-Sub-Mendip, Somerset, England. She had been ill for five months.

The funeral service was Thursday and she was burried in St. Andrew's parish churchyard, Cheddar.

She leaves two sons—William James of Marmora, John Hugh of Swansea, South Wales; a daughter, Mrs. Edward Northam (Kate Elizabeth) with whom she lived at Westbury-Sub-Mendip; a sister, Mrs. Clara Perry of Penygraig, South Wales; four grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Mrs. Cottrell was born at North Petherton, Somerset, the eldest daughter of the late Mr and Mrs. Robert Sendall. She was noted in the district as an expert cook. In 1887 she married the late William John Cottrell and moved to the village of Cheddar where her husband was a stone mason. He died in 1937.

After her husband's death Mrs. Cottrell continued to live for a number of years in Cheddar and then went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Northam.

MRS. RUSSEL LONG

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A resident of Campbellford for the past 33 years, Mrs. Russel Long, the former Mary Ellen Downey, of Campbellford was buried at St. Peter's Cemetery in Peterborough on Thursday. She was 59, and had been in failing health for several years.

Born in Peterborough, she was the daughter of Eugene Downey and Martha Foster. Her parents were pioneers who settled in Downeyville, and some of the original family still reside in that community. Both Mrs. Long and her husband were born and brought up in Peterborough. She is survived by her husband and two brothers, Ken Downey of Campbellford and Alex of Toronto. Another brother Earl, lost his life in World War I.

Mrs. Long was a member of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church in Campbellford and showed an active interest in church work and the C.W.L. She worked for the local C.N.I.B. organization, and during the war served on the ration board. Members of the C.W.L. formed a guard of honor following the celebration of Requiem Mass at St. Mary's on Thursday morning.

The funeral cortege moved from Campbellford to St. Peter's Cemetery, at Peterborough. Father J. C. Moloney of St. Mary's conducted services both at the church and graveside.

Pall bearers were W. J. Smith, Tony Yenta and James Garvey of Campbellford and Ray Clifford, Emmett Kylie and William Russell of Peterborough. Flower bearers included Sam Flint, Oscar Teal, Frank Colyer, Roy Loucks, Cecil Bedell and John Flett.

Variety Musical Program Pleases Large Audience

The Video-ettes, a musical entertainment group, presented everything from an operatic love duet to a musical bicycle-pump solo, to a packed house at Trinity Hall, Friday night. The program was sponsored by the Trinity United church choir, and was well received.

The program opened with vocal selections by Henry Bialuski and Selma Jetmundson. Bialuski's pianissimo effect in his singing of "Christopher Robin", indicated fine control, and was highly appreciated by the audience. The first section of the program closed with the singing of a love duet from "Don Giovanni", in which the couple not only sang but acted the part.

ORIGINAL HARMONICA

Art and Mabel Guiness appeared next and demonstrated a musical apparatus called the harmonica. It was explained that the original definition of the harmonica is not what it is commonly considered today. An invention of Benjamin Franklin, it was originally a revolving stand containing a number of various sized glasses. The glasses were tuned by partially filling them with water, and the vibrating sound was made by rubbing the rims of the glasses lightly with the fingertips. The tonal effect is similar to a number of musical saws being played in harmony.

The highlight of this performance was the rendition of Schubert's "Ave Maria." The stage lights were darkened and only colored lights contained within the harmonica itself illuminated the stage.

After intermission, a vaudeville memory act was presented which particularly delighted the children. Henry Bialuski correctly repeated 20 items, submitted by the audience, in the exact reverse order that they were given.

More songs were sung by the vocal couple, and Mr. Guiness performed on such lesser known instruments as the bicycle pump whistle, the cigar "boxaphone," and the common balloon.

The show ended with selections played on a set of Swiss bells. The dexterity of movement that is required to manipulate these bells properly, without allowing overtones to blur the melody, amazed the audience. The tonal effect is unique.

Hollywood Celebrates 50th Birthday

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Happy birthday to Hollywood. It's officially 50 years old today.

Fifty years ago the voters—all 165 of them—streamed to the polls to vote on whether the city of Hollywood, Calif., should be incorporated. On Nov. 16, 1903, the votes were counttd. Incorporation had won, 88 to 77.

This month Hollywood is celebrating its golden anniversary with a historical exhibit, banquets and special TV shows. Hollywood's only daily newspaper, the Citizen-News, put out a special edition for the event, filled with interesting notes about the town's history.

Hollywood's incorporation didn't last long. In 1910, citizens voted to annex Hollywood to Los Angeles. The principal reason was that Hollywood couldn't provide adequate sewers and water for itself.

The first movie studio was established in the Blondeau Tavern (now the site of CBS) in 1910. Within three months there were 15 other film companies in the area.

The first TV station in the United States was Don Lee's experimental WyXAO, which went on the air in Hollywood Dec. 23, 1931. Among the firsts recorded by the station: First reception of TV in an airplane, 1932; first full-length movie on TV, 1933; first coverage of a disaster—the Long Beach earthquake of 1933.

In September, 1903, 36 teenagers met in a store room which was the beginning of Hollywood High School. Among the school's distinguished alumni were Lana Turner, Joel McCrea, Judy Garland, John Wayne, Carole Lombard.

PORT ROWAN (CP) — Police said today they suspect foul play in the deaths of John Iles, 50, and an unidentified woman found in gutted Walsingham township cottage Wednesday.

Crowds Cheer Eisenhower At Parliament

OTTAWA (CP)—Crowds turned out to cheer President Eisenhower again today as he made his way to Parliament for his major address in the Commons chamber.

Under leaden skies, the president, ruddy and flashing his boyish smile, inspected a white-gloved, 100-man guard of honor in front of the Centre Block.

The crowds waited patiently on the green lawns for the official motorcade to arrive from Government House where the president had spent the night. The parliamentary bells played soft tunes.

GREETED ON STEPS

On the steps in front of the Centre Block to greet the president were Prime Minister St. Laurent and Senator Ross Macdonald, government leader in the Senate.

Massed army, navy and air force bands played while the president walked through the ranks to inspect the rugged-looking Canadian service men.

He then mounted the steps to Parliament, shook hands with Speaker L. Rene Beaudoin of the Commons in the parliamentary rotunda, and disappeared in one of the chambers before making his appearance in the Commons.

Fourth Child Born On Friday 13th

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Stinchcombe aren't the least bit concerned that their fourth child was born on Friday the 13th.

It's not a bad omen, they say, that the stork arrived with Dianne Elizabeth Friday. It's only coincidence.

After all, three of their children have been born on the 13th.

Paul, the eldest, was born July 13, 1948.

Jimmy was born Sept. 13, 1950. The third child, Linda Mary Anne, missed hitting the 13th. She arrived March 26, 1952.

U.S. Papers Discuss Canada Ties

NEW YORK (CP) — President Eisenhower's visit to Ottawa is the occasion for editorial comment by New York newspapers on Canadian-American relations, with the jointly facing the two countries.

The New York Times today says: "It would be wrong to feel in the slightest degree proprietary or complacent about Canadian-American relations."

"Our ties to Canada are now so close and so friendly that we can afford such luxuries as the quarrels that are taking place over American tariffs and import quotas on Canadian goods. At the same time we have to keep in mind that our links are too important to allow such disputes to go too far."

SOME ANTI- U.S. FEELING

The Times says that while "there is no such thing as "anti-Canadianism on this side of the border. . . . There is such a thing as anti-Americanism on the Canadian side—although fortunately little of it and that little unimportant."

The Herald Tribune said that to keep the traditional Canadian-American association intact "may be considered a primary duty of American statecraft — and one which no administration in Washington can ever take for granted."

The World-Telegram and Sun said Friday Eisenhower's visit comes "at a time when our mutual interests need the kind of re-emphasis such an occasion provides."

Uncounted millions of families have found the home of their desires in this manner. And buying a home is the biggest step most families ever take.

Other numberless millions have found the automobile of their choice in this manner. Buying an automobile is a big step too.

Still others have found building lots, jobs, appliances, furniture and hundreds of other needs by reading the Classified Ads.

THOSE HOLIDAY PARTIES are not too far off now to start your planning. Have you given thought to your complete grooming? If you know well in advance that you will have everything you will need to make a perfect costume, there will be less reason for pre-party jitters. Another good way of insuring your poise is to arrange with your best friend to dress together for the event. The teen-agers here are making a fun-session of their party grooming. The girl seated (left) has a hot towel wrapped around her pin curls for a quick setting, a method recommended by her friend. Then (centre), her setting completed, she introduces her chum to her party rouge. While our girls await the arrival of their escorts (right) one makes a final check. She is using a handy cream powder compact, a combination of foundation powder that's ideal for quick touch-ups such as this.

They Have Fun With Their Grooming

BY ALICIA HART
NEA BEAUTY EDITOR

Teen-agers find that they can get better results with more fun by sharing their beauty secrets. So when that all-important formal comes along, don't groom in seclusion. Plan to spend the preparatory hours with your best, friend; you will both benefit from it.

She's bound to be able to give you a helping hand. And you no doubt have some tricks that will interest her. Besides zipping clothes, setting hair and similar operations will be a push-over when each of you has a "personal Decide everything you will need well in advance. Of course you will know the gown and the shoes you will wear. But what about purses, cosmetics, jewelry, perfume, mitts, lingerie? Lack of any of these is what sends some girls into prom dithers.

Since you do not ordinarily wear rouge and eye make-up, you may have to purchase them. You may also need a strapless bra. Or a perfume a bit heavier than the light floral scents that are right for you at other times.

Now, armed with all the beauty ammunition and time you will need you can get together for a fun-filled grooming session. Neither will have a chance to develop stage-fright.

The first thing you should do is give your hair a final setting to insure its remaining perfect throughout the evening. (We presume you will have shampooed it the night before.)

The quickest method is to roll the curls without wetting the hair; then wet a towel with steaming hot water, wring it out and wrap it turban-wise around the head. Let it remain for five minutes. Put on a net and allow th ecurls to set for another 15 minutes.

Incidentally, organize your activity so that you do not get into each other's way. While one is taking a shower; for example, the other could lay out all the clothes to be worn.

Probably each of you has experimented with the various methods of applying cosmetics. If one of you is completely sold on one thing, then perhaps the other will try it.

But don't be tempted to try anything with which you are not familiar. This is not the time to experiment; it is the time to share the fruits of each other's successful experiments.

The general rule in applying all cosmetics, with the exception of lipstick, is to do so very sparingly. You can let a bright, clear red lipstick sound a gay note for you.

If a blemish threatens to spoil the pretty picture, use a medicated lotion that will conceal as it heals. Do not attempt to squeeze it; you know that will only add to your troubles.

If you do a careful job of applying your cosmetics, there is no reason to tote them around with you all evening. Evening bags just don't look pretty when they bulge.

All that you need to put in your purse is lipstick, comb, keys, handkerchief, facial tissues and a compact. Perfect for touch-ups is a combination of powder and base. One cosmetic house offers its cream powder in a dainty puff-decorated case that's quite party-minded.

Greer Garson Says Canada Land Of Opportunity

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Actress Greer Garson, here for the London premiere of the Hollywood film "Julius Caesar" handed out a piece of advice:

"If I were a young man," she told reporters at a penthouse press conference, "I'd settle in Canada. It's an exciting country with so many opportunities."

The red-haired actress recently made "Scandal at Scourie," a family story with a Canadian background. Her co-star was Walter Pidgeon, once of Saint John, N.B. Miss Garson said she was "very sorry" the Canadian scenes in the film were shot in Hollywood instead of on the spot.

"I'm always promising myself another trip to Canada," she said. "It would have been a chance to combine business with pleasure."

COUSINS IN CANADA

Miss Garson has Scots cousins she wants to visit in Penticton, B.C., and she's eager to meet a well-known Canadian relative with whom she has exchanged letters—Justice Minister Stuart Garson.

"He said in one letter he was glad to see I was keeping the Garson name in the news. . . with the right kind of publicity," she said. The justice minister is a cousin.

During the Second World War Miss Garson made three coast-to-coast trips across Canada to boost the sale of war bonds. One of her "nicest" memories is of a post-war "thank you" dinner given by the Canadian government for the stars who aided in wartime rallies. She still has pleasant memories of the Fraser river salmon that was part of the meal.

AT HUSBAND'S RANCH

The Irish-born actress now spends what little time she has away from Hollywood at her husband's ranch in New Mexico. In 1949 she married oil magnate Elijah (Buddy) Fogelson. She has a small herd of pure-white beef shorthorns raised from cattle bought in Scotland.

While in Britain, Miss Garson gave informal talks on Shakespeare as adapted to films. The first was at King's College, London where she took an honors degree as a bachelor of arts—"I'm not going to say when."

ST MARY'S and ST. PETER'S

St. Peter's and St. Mary's PTA met Tuesday evening at St. Peter's Boys' School. President M. H. Glover outlined plans for a Christmas Fair to be held at St. Peter's Boys' School Friday evening, December 4th. The admission will be twenty-five cents a family.

Mr. David Hatherley gave a short talk on what the Housing co-operative is doing in Peterborough.

Mr. M. H. Glover introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. E. A. Outram, city clerk, whose subject was "City Administration." The purpose of this talk was to sow members a little of the history and work of municipal organization in Peterborough.

Mr. Outram started by outlining the early history of municipal government in this city.

He said, "the purpose of municipal organization is to give people service at minimum cost. In early days, sheriffs or bailiffs were appointed by the government to levy taxes. In 1850, Peterborough became a town and the present system of municipal government established."

"At this time, a town plan was drawn up which provided for a business area around Simcoe, George and Water streets. In 1905, Ashburnham was annexed and Peterborough became a city. In 1947, a town plan was drawn up which provided for the next twenty-five years."

Mr. Outram compared the methods of dealing with rapid expansion in Peterborough with other centres such as Brantford, in which new sections instead of being annexed, were developed separately with their own municipal services. Kingston and Oshawa were faced with large grouth outside the city boundaries. These were annexed and increased two or three times in two years. Peterborough stands mid-way between two extremes. As areas were developed, they were invited to join.

Mr. Outram continued, "Municipal government has always been under the control of the provincial government. During the depression, a check was put on city councils, and this sometimes causes delay in getting by-laws passed."

Mr. George O'Brien thanked Mr. Outram. Lunch was served by the social committee.

See Little Change In Length Of Dresses For Spring

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—Girls with bowlegs can stop worrying. They won't have to show their knees next spring.

As store buyers poured into New York for the opening of spring market week in the wholesale garment district, it became apparent that the brief threat of knee-length skirts launched in Paris was a false alarm.

Perhaps the storm of protests from women had something to do with it. Perhaps New York manufacturers decided not to be pushed around any more by Paris "decrees." Whatever the reason, next spring's coats, suits and dresses shown by leading wholesalers are about the same length as those of this fall. In some cases skirts may be slightly shorter, but the difference is not perceptible.

Biggest news so far in the early showings is the return of the black or navy fitted dressy coat, in silk or wool-and-silk mixtures, for spring town wear. Many of these have wide white linen collars. Some are designed to be worn as coat dresses.

WHITE USED

Also important in the spring coat picture are little waist-length toppers in pastel fleece, some spattered with jewels, to wear day or night. White and off-white is used widely in the new fleece coats, most of which are in feather light fabrics.

Suits are slim, fitted and mostly understated. Fabrics provide the drama. There are many silk tweeds, alpacas and silk-and-wool mixtures in the spring suit line-up. Lightweight fabrics are the new order.

Suits are made with dressmaker touches, soft tailoring and rounded, feminine lines. Width at the top is achieved by rounded upper sleeve lines instead of shoulder padding.

Nursing Registry's First Dance Is Successful

The first Community Nursing Registry Life Saving Ball, on Friday evening at the Brock Ballroom, was very much enjoyed by those who attended.

It was a success financially, Although the attendance was low. Many people sympathetic to the work of the Registry did purchase dance tickets though they could not come on this particular evening.

Total proceeds were augmented by the sale of draw tickets on a mixmaster, which was donated for the purpose. These tickets had been sold prior to the dance as well as during the evening. The draw was made by Mayor Hugh Waddell, who was a patron of the dance, and the winner is Mrs. N. Neals of the Bank of Toronto staff at Feversham, Ontario.

Prizes for spot dances were also donated and were won by Mrs. Donald Craig, Mrs. F. Cavanagh and Mrs. Eddie Murphy.

President of the Registry board of directors, Mrs. Eva Brackenbridge was receiving the guests, assisted by Mayor and Mrs. Waddell, Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Young and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Stewart.

Co-conveners of the dance were Mrs R. R. Stewart, Mrs. Reg. McIntyre and Miss Anne Heffernan. The draw tickets were in charge of Miss Ruby Cunningham and Miss Marion Hall and assisting with sales during the evening were Mrs. J. Convey and Mrs. M. Pringle.

Read-Loshaw

BETHANY (ENS) A quiet wedding took place Saturday at the parsonage of Cambridge Street United Church in Lindsay, when Martha Pearl Loshaw, daughter of Mrs. Loshaw and the late Samuel Loshaw of Frankford, became the bride of Robert William Read of Bethany, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Read of Kent, England, with the Rev. Harold B. Neal officiating.

For her wedding the bride chose a ballerina length gown of white net over taffeta. Her shoulder length veil of tulle illusion trimmed with seed pearls was caught to a tiara of pearls and she carried a cascade of red roses. Harold Neal, Jr. and Mrs. Neal, wife of the minister, witnessed the ceremony in the unavoidable absence of the promised attendants because of road conditions.

A reception was held at the Dun-Rovin tea room in Oakwood with the bride's mother receiving, wearing a two piece dress of grey crepe with black accessories and corsage of red roses.

The expected bridesmaid and groomsman, Mr. and Mrs. George Loshaw of Stirling arrived in time for dinner. Mrs. Loshaw, sister-in-law of the bride, was wearing a ballerina length gown of blue net over taffeta with matching blue headband and coronet of flowers. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Leaving later on a trip through Eastern Ontario, the bride travelled in a powder blue suit and matching top coat, wearing a corsage of red roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid will live in Bethany.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Husband Dares Only Squeak But Turns Wife's Kin Out

DEAR MISS DIX: Twelve years ago I married a woman whom I dearly loved. I've done everything I could to make her happy, waiting on her hand and foot, catering to her every whim. Last year we needed extra money to catch up on some debts, and she went to work. Then she began staying out at night. Though I had supper ready for her at 5.30, she wouldn't return home until after midnight. She refused to tell me where she had been, saying only that it was none of my business. She won't do a thing around the house. My life has become unbearable. I want the peace and contentment of our early married life. Her daughter, by a previous marriage, lived with us for a while, but she ran around, too, and finally I ordered her out of the house. My brother-in-law also lived with us for a time, but he wouldn't work, so I ordered him out of the house, also. All these things my wife throws up to me when we have an argument. What can I do with her?

H. C.

◇ ◇ ◇

CONTRADICTIONS GALORE

ANSWER: Your letter is such a mess of contradictions, it's about impossible to get at the truth. You picture yourself as a downtrodden, martyred husband, working, oh, so hard, for his wife and getting nothing but neglect in return. Then you become a blustering tyrant thowing people out of the house right and left. What have you done to further your marital happiness other than taking over the household chores in an almost servile manner?

What you need now is an entirely new outlook on your obligations as a husband. Begin to earn your wife's respect (without which you will never have her true love). Do your share as a husband to keep the home fires burning, but let your wife know that finally you expect some co-operation from her. And stop tossing people out of the house just to prove that you can do a little bossing when necessary. See what you can do about earning more money so your wife won't have to work; turn the household tasks over to her, be companionable when she's home, and stop nagging. Under those conditions, she won't find it necessary to seek outside companionship.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: Our next-door neighbour, a widow, is being married to one of my husband's friends. A friend of the bride will be matron of honor. My husband has been asked to be best man. The wedding will be quiet with no guests, only the two witnesses. Afterward, the four are going to dinner and then to a few clubs to celebrate. Since both are friends of mine, I think I should have been asked to the celebration, too.

Rita D.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: Any case involving postmarital celebrations can be very touchy. If you were invited, relatives and other friends of the couple would feel that they should have been invited, also. I do believe, however, that the celebration should be restricted to dinner, omitting the fancy clubs later.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX: Harry, with whom I've been going for a year, recently dated a girl of questionable character, and we quarrelled. I still like him, but each time I see him I snub him. I won't run after him. What can I do?

F.B.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER: If you are both going to continue to be stubborn, you'll never be friends again. Be pleasant when you see him, but don't fall all over him making it obvious that you want him back.

Good Books Provide Best For Your Son and Daughter

By NANCY CLEAVER

"There are far too many special weeks and special days!" is that what you are protesting? "It is just a commercial scheme to make more money!" What about Young Canada's Book Week (November 15-22). Is this one special week which should not be ignored?

No one can complain that book publishers are making vast fortunes or that authors are becoming millionaires in Canada! Often it is difficult for either to make a good living.

Reading must struggle for a place among so many other fascinating leisure time activities in our modern world—radio, movies, TV—Canadian books must compete with books published in other countries particularly U.S. and Great Britain.

But the sentence which was once posted above the shelves in Boys' and Girls' House, the library building for juveniles, in one of our largest Canadian cities, is still true—"What you read, when you can read what you like determines what you will be, when you can't help it!" Good books build character. Young Canada's Book Week deserves the backing of every parent who wants the very best for his son or daughter.

This special week is celebrated in libraries and in public schools. Attractive posters announce its arrival. Handy book marks with short reading lists for different age groups are distributed. Librarians and teachers do their best to interest boys and girls in reading good books. But this task of giving children a liking for books belongs to parents too!

There are several things which mothers and fathers do to mark this special week. You can take a critical look at your child's collection of books. See if it is possible to add a new book at this time. If this is hard to do, budget for a Christmas book gift. The book lists published by the Canadian Library Association are a help in making a wise choice.

Mother should see that there is a comfortable place for reading where the light is good. Dad might make a new bookcase or book shelf in Junior's room. There should be provision for books to be kept in an orderly fashion in a convenient spot. One inexpensive plan is to paint two orange crates. Then place them upright side by side to form a double book case.

If a new book is being purchased, why not visit a book store with your son or daughter? Do plan to make a special trip to the Boys' and Girls' Section of the Public Library. Take time to speak an appreciative word to the librarian. See the wide selection of books and watch your child as he makes his own choice.

See if it is possible to add a new book at this time. If this is hard to do, budget for a Christmas book gift. The book lists published by the Canadian Library Association are a help in making a wise choice.

If mother and dad love reading and spend part of their salary and leisure on books, it is very likely that the children growing up in this kind of a home atmosphere will follow their example. A love of books is "caught not taught"!

The movies, comics, even T.V. will never completely replace the enjoyment of literature for youth in a civilized country. This is a taste which can be cultivated at any age. If as parents, you have been "too busy" to do much reading for a long time, why not make a fresh start at fitting books once again into your time schedule?

FOSSILIZED FISH

OSLO, Norway (CP)—A school of 40 fossilized fishes was discovered embedded in rock about 30 miles north of Oslo. The fishes, of a type previously unknown, are estimated to be millions of years old, but the fossils were intact with heads, eyes, tails and fins clearly outlined.

Says Kinsey Report Courageous Work

LONDON (Reuters)—The Lancet, a leading British medical journal, praises the second Kinsey report as "courageous" and "in a tradition of American liberalism."

The Lancet's strong praise is in sharp contrast to hostility expressed toward the report particularly in popular British newspapers.

The article said Dr. Alfred Kinsey's "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female"—now on sale in Britain—was a "serious well-conceived and courageous attempt to provide factual information about a branch of social psychology in which emotion still predominates over knowledge and sense."

Scriver-Shaw

A wedding of interest in Hastings and district took place last Saturday in St. Olave's Anglican Church, Toronto, of Ruth Madelene Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shaw, of Toronto, to Raymond Austin Scriver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Scriver, of Hastings.

Canon Sextus K. Stiles, rector, performed the ceremony. Music was by Stuart Roseveare, organist, and Mrs. Edwards was soloist.

The bride was gowned in candle white taffeta and heavy lace with strapless basque and she wore a matching long cutaway jacket over the dress, styled with soft shawl collar edged with matching lace and lily point sleeves. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was fully gathered to a braided coronet of the taffeta and she was carrying a cascade of white roses, gardenias and shredded carnations. She was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of honor was Janet Walter, the bridesmaids Marguerite Dettman and Marie Land, and the junior bridesmaid Judith Grant. They were gowned alike in shot green taffeta and carried crescents of bronze and yellow 'mums.

Mr. Bert Bonneau attended the groom and ushers were Dr. Stanley Davison, of Kitchener, and Ronald Mason.

Following a reception at Club Lyndhurst, the couple left by plane to honeymoon in the United States. They will live in Toronto.

Apsley News

Miss Winifred Robinson, teacher in Grade 9 at Apsley Central School, is in Ottawa attending the opening of Parliament. Her father, A. W. Robinson, of Kincardine, is Progressive Conservative member for Huron County.

Mrs. N. Drope has returned from a visit with relatives in Chandos.

Mr. and Mrs. Brechin and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tanner, all of Waynesburg, Ohio, are visiting relatives and friends here while enjoying deer hunting as well.

A progressive euchre party was held in the public library on Wednesday evening, sponsored by the Women's Institute. Eight tables were played and prize winners were: ladies' first, Mary Jean Wilson; gent's first, Frank Tanner; ladies' consolation, Mrs. Charles Alphey; gent's consolation, Murray McCormack. At conclusion of the game, lunch was served and a social hour was enjoyed.

RESCUE HONEYMOONERS

ST. IVES, England (Reuters)—Coastguardsmen hauled a young honeymooning couple up a rugged 80-foot seacliff to safety here Friday after the pair had been stranded for 19 hours on the shore below. Wilfred Simpson, 20, and his wife Christine, 19, were marooned by a rising tide and spent Thursday night huddled against the foot of the cliff in driving rain.

Readers' Saturday Column

BY MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Enjoy your column. Could you tell me something about freezing pies. I want ot get on a diet and won't be eating pies. I would like to know if I could bake a pie and then freeze half of it. Am mostly interested in apple pie, mince, blueberry, raisin, banana, pumpkin and lemon pies.

LUCY W.

ANSWER: Two-crust pies may be baked, cooled, wrapped and frozen; this applies to half of a baked pie too. But one-crust pies should be baked, cooled, frozen then wrapped and stored in freeze-area. This is elementary because you could not wrap a one-crust pie effectively because it is too soft on top—that is why it should be frozen on the shelf in freezer and then wrapped when it is hard. You could experiment with banana and lemon pies—I never have. I do not know how the meringue would turn out when it has been frozen and then thawed by baking. You might make banana and lemon pies without meringue and serve them with whipped cream.

To thaw and rebaked frozen two-crust pies: pumpkin—put frozen pumpkin pie in oven of 375 deg. for 1 hour. Then serve warm or cold. Other two-crust pies such as apple, raisin, mince, blueberry: bake and serve. All of these suggestions apply to half-pies—but last baking time would be a little shorter.

QUESTION: . . re your recipe for whole wheat bread (15 cups flour, 3 packages yeast it suits my routine better to set my bread at night-approximately 10 hours before first punching down. Would one package be right for that length of time—or do you recommend the shorter time? Also what about using corn oil instead of margarine?

Have you tried: 1 whole wheat flakes (uncooked for porridge) as a thickener in stews and soups? 2. A clove of garlic skewered to a pork roast during cooking?

Have you any recipes for Drop Cookies calling for wheat flakes and for light molasses that are not heavily spiced? . . . thank you for your column. It appears to be written for people who are willing to substitute effort or intellingence as well as imagination in place of money. . .

A. McD.

ANSWER: This is the rule: For overnight raising of bread use 1 package granular or dry yeast to seac 4 cups liquid. Does that answer that question? Corn oil may be used in place of margarine.

No, I have not used wheat flakes as a thickener for stews or soups. I have used rolled oats though and think it is very good. I will try your ideas. It is wonderful to be understood. Thanks.

DROP COOKIES

Two-thirds cup shortening, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup molasses, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1½ cups all-purpose flour, 1¼ cups (or a little less) wheat flakes (uncooked) or rolled oast, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups chopped nuts mixed with chopped dates or cocoanut and, if desired, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon or nutmeg. Cream shortening, gradually beating in the sugar, then molasses then eggs. Sift flour and other dry ingredients together, except wheat flakes or rolled oats. Add sifted dry ingredients, then wheat flakes and vanilla and fruit and nuts. Drop dough from tip of spoon onto buttered baking sheet, spacing them to allow spreading. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 or 12 minutes.

QUESTION: Christmas is not too far away. . . I would like to make fruit cake and real Scotch shortbread. . . I have not been married long and am just catching on to the tricks of the trade. . . I would certainly cherish a Mary Moore's Cookbook. . . perhaps some day you might find time to compile one. Wouldn't that be swell! . . would you know where I could find a booklet on stain removers?

MRS. H. A.

ANSWER: I am nearly ready to give you the fruit cake recipes I am working on. Watch for them very shortly. I will give you recipe for Scotch shortbread in plenty of time for Christmas baking too. Thanks for your enthusiasm. I have written re strain removal bulletin.

CHINA High-lights by

TOM O'CONNOR

The Chinese discovered Kaolin and became adept at using it as a mixture or blending medium in their common clay. They brought this to such perfection that you could see the shadow of your hand behind a piece of their porcelain, though it is not usually looked upon with favour by other countries outside England. Today when speaking of China one usually thinks of English China and Porcelain as Continental and Oriental Tableware or Bric-a-brac. The English really got the jump on we poor foreigners (Irish, Chinese, etc. etc.) when some smart lad tried to roast one of those English Oxes on the village green, occasions when a king dies and is crowned again. You know, they say "the king is dead, long live the king" only an Englishman knows what they mean. Anyways they got the bones of this ox mixed up with the dishes and lo the famous Bone China was created. Of course, a lot of things are mixed with clay to make such lovely translucient Bone China. If I told you all about it now, even kissing the blarney stone won't keep me going.

European Tour Topic For Tillicum Class

KEENE (ENS) — Thirty-eight members and guests of the Tillicum class met at the home of Mrs. Ross McIntyre Thursday evening for their November meeting. The program opened with each person introducing herself.

The worship service, prepared by Isobel McIntyre, was conducted by the president, Marybelle Elmhirst. Following a call to worship, hymn "Bless Be the Tie that Binds" was sung, and Olga Gall read the 27th psalm. Bertha Wilson led in prayer. A reading, "Greater than the H. Bomb," was given by Isobel Wismer. Hymn "O Master let me Walk with Thee" was sung.

The topic for the evening was a review of a ten months tour of Europe, England, Ireland. Culminating with a visit to the Coronation and Royal Garden Party in London. The travelogue climaxed with the showing of picture slides.

The main business of the evening was arrangements for the bazaar to be held in the basement of the church on Friday evening, November 27, at 8 p.m. The nominating committee for the election of officers at the December meeting, which will be held at the home of Grace Hawkes, is to be the 1953 executive. "Greek Wheel" Turns Agricultural Revolution

Simple to build, low in cost, "Greek Wheel" performs four labor operations.

Nicknamed the "Gadget" by its inventors, agricultural experts of the American Foreign Operations Administration to Greece, this machine is helping to update primitive methods of Greek farming by several centuries. Called the "Greek Wheel" by Yugoslav officials who also plan to build the device, it can prepare soil for seed after a field has been plowed, then can be used to plant small-grain seeds and corn, cut young weeds, cultivate row-grown crops. Simple enough to be made by village blacksmiths, first pilot model in each community will be paid for by the Greek government, lent to farmers by the blacksmith. The machine will sell for 500,000 drachmas ($15), and is expected to save farmers $2,000,000 in seed; 2,500,000 man-days of labor each year.

Driver Convicted After Striking Man On Road

LINDSAY (ENS)—A 22-year-old Peterborough youth paid a fine of $25 and costs of $23.80 in Lindsay police court Friday when he was convicted of driving "without due care and attention" by Magistrate E. A. Gee. Lawrence Fontaine of Aylmer St., Peterborough, was charged following an accident on September 27 when his car struck the rear of a light truck parked on Highway 7 just east of Omemee. The owner of the truck, Daniel Young, of Toronto, suffered a broken ankle, knee injuries and other cuts and bruises. His nephew, Tom Young, 14, was uninjured.

Young told the court from a chair, provided because he could not stand in the witness box, that he had stopped on the highway early on the morning of the 27th to enquire directions to Peterborough. His nephew had gone to a nearby farmhouse, but could raise no answer to his knock. Then Young saw Fontaine's car approaching from the rear.

He said the car was on the wrong side of the road for some time then just before it reached him, swung in toward his truck, then back toward the centre of the road, striking him as he stood by the truck waving a flashlight.

Fontaine testified that he had come down the road, seen the truck and swung to the left to pass it, when Young appeared in the middle of the road, weaving back and forth. The accused said he turned back to his own side to avoid hitting the man and then had to make a sharp turn to the left to avoid the truck. Damage to Fontaine's car was set by PC Clive Naismith, who investigated, at about $400. The old model truck was damaged to the extent of about $75.

Fontaine's counsel, W. D. Bark, of Peterborough, argued that according to a recent judgment separating the two sections of the "careless driving charge," the first part of the charge, driving "without due care and attention" applied to drivers involved in charges where no other persons were involved.

Magistrate Gee, however, contended that there was enough evidence under the section to put Fontaine on his defence.

Fonaine denied ownership also of a case of beer, which Tom Young claimed he had thrown from his car immediately after the accident. Constable Naismith found the case, containing four full bottles in the ditch where the Young boy pointed it out, but when asked whether Fontaine had been drinking, he replied, "as far as I was concerned he was normal when I saw him. I had a cold that night."

Magistrate Gee told counsel Bark that he could appeal if he wished since he thought the careless driving charges should be cleared up by either a higher court or the legislature.

Radio-Active Gold Being Used To Treat Certain Types Of Cancer

MONTREAL (CP)—Radio-active gold, obtained from the Institute of Nuclear Research, at Oak Ridge, Tenn., now is being used by a Montreal hospital to treat certain types of cancer.

First shipment of the treated gold was used to treat cancer patients who accumulated excess amounts of fluids on the chest and abdomen.

Owing to precision required, and limited space in the hospital's radiology department, the number of patients treated to date with the radio-active gold has been small.

Patients must be exposed to radiations a few hours after arrival of the substance.

The speedy treatment is necessary because the radio-active power of the gold diminishes by one-half every 2.7 days. Coupled with this, physical changes in the metal tends to change its molecular structure, transforming the gold into mercury.

Construction of a new hospital wing, now in progress, will provide one floor for the radiology department, in charge of Dr. I. Sedlezky.

Dr. Sedlezky was the only representative of a Canadian hospital to attend an advanced course in the use of radio-active isotopes held by the Institute of Nuclear Studies.

British Foreign Service Costs Public $63,784,000

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—How much does it cost to be a world power, diplomatically speaking?

Well, for the British taxpayer, it means footing a bill of £32,250,000 ($90,300,000) each year. That's how much it costs the British government, about .75 per cent of the total budget, to maintain one of the world's oldest and most respected foreign service departments.

Not all that money goes to keep the top-hatted and stripe-trousered crew from looking shabby. A sizable chunk, £22,780,000 ($63,784,000), is drained off in various grants and services.

The grants range from £4,000 for the Red Cross to £2,080,000 for the United Nations. Other grants go to the support of the organization for European economic co-operation, the North Atlantic Treaty Oorganization and the British (Arts) Council and in foreign aid.

SALARIES TAKE MOST

The foreign service department itself operates on a budget of £21,180,000 ($61,304,000). Salaries take the biggest slice. They go to employees in communications, passports, administrative and political departments.

The 70 members in the ministerial section draw £70,760 a year, ranging from the £5,000 for Anthony Eden, secretary of state, to £360 for clerks.

Abroad there are 813 officers serving in diplomatic, consular, commercial and information branches. In addition there are swarms of advisers, typists, chaplains, doctors and wireless operators. The salary bill for these persons amounts to £8,300,000.

In Canada alone Britain keeps, in addition to the high commissioner and his staff, seven trade commissioners, navy, army and air force liaison staffs, an information office, payments office, food mission and ministry of pensions staff.

Ancient Taxis Embarass City Officials

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP)—Ever long for those good old touring cars with running boards and hand throttles and canvas tops you could roll down on moonlit nights? Monterrey is your dish.

The city crawls with quarter-century - old Ford touring cars which comrisep Mexico's most unusual taxi fleet, a fleet that is fighting a losing battle against time and several embasrassed city officials.

Some owners of these 1928-29-30 model cars estimate there are at least 500 being used as taxis. Several garages stock necessary parts to keep them running.

The cars still sell for from 3,000 to 5,000 pesos ($346 to $578) and find ready buyers.

No one seems to know exactly how the situation developed. One taxi owner said he thought it was because Monterrey's torrid climate demanded open cars and these models were about the last built.

The cars are generally well kept, brightly painted and in some cases gaudy with gadgets. All are equipped with those old curtains with celluloid panes to snap on in case of rain.

Recently a city official decided modern Monterrey, Mexico's industrial pride, was being belittled. A regulation banned the cars. Most of the 500 cars congregated in front of his office, horns blaring, banners waving, with drivers demanding the ban be repealed. It was.

TANKS ADD PUNCH TO BRITISH FORCES — The "Caernarvon," which the British War Ministry describes as "probably the most powerful tank in the world," rolls by in London, with two crewmen observing from the top turret. Farmers Store Wheat In Schoolhouses

By JACK ENEFER

EDMONTON (CP) — Western farmers, caught with their third bumper wheat crop in a row and faced with plugged grain elevators, are taking every means possible to protect their grain from the prairie winter.

A long, warm harvest season enabled some farmers to put up temporary storage bins. Others were caught short and grain may be seen today—particularly in southern Alberta—piled in fields and in farm yards.

STORED IN SCHOOLS

With an estimated 500,000,000 bushels of wheat still on the farms, grain has found its way into abandoned schools, churches and farm buildings and old gasoline storage tanks.

Some farmers have laid waterproof paper on the ground, ringed it with chicken wire and poured the grain into this temporary space. Others have used snow-fences to hold the grain. Waterproof paper and sheaves of straw are used for cover.

Snow already has hit the northern Prairies—as much as three inches in some regions—but not enough has fallen yet to cause damage to the exposed grain.

The backlog has brought serious financial worries to the west and demands from farm leaders and opposition members of Parliament that some form of financial aid be made available to farmers.

CREDIT TIGHTENED

Farmers have little cash on hand and business men have started to be chary of additional credit.

M. J. Coldwell, national CCF leader, has asked that the federal government allow farmers an advance of $1 a bushel on their farm-stores grain.

When the new crop came in, much old grain, held over from the record 1952 crop, still was on the farms. Farmers are trying to move this to elevators first.

Canada's 1953 wheat crop was estimated at more than $594,000,000 bushels in 1951.

That combination, plus weather conditions, created the storage problem.

Back in the fall of 1951, much of that year's crop was left on the ground due to wet weather. It wasn't harvested until the spring of the following year.

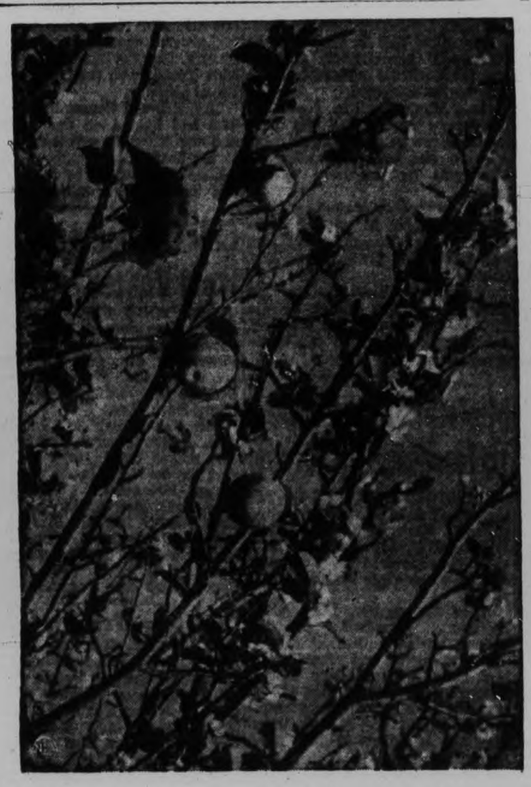
Alberta seems the most seriously affected.

HUGE OVERFLOW

George McIvor, chief commissioner of the Canadian wheat board, has given this view of the problem:

Since Aug. 1, 1951, Canada has harvested 3,500,000,000 bushels of wheat, and prairie producers have marketed 1,722,000,000. This leaves 1,778,000,000 bushels still to be marketed.

Total storage capacity from coast to coast is estimated at 941,000,000 bushels, leaving an overflow of about 837,000,000 bushels.



Mr. McIvor said the wheat board would continue to do its best to move the grain, and he hoped for good results.

Big Ship Finished

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Duplessis said Friday Davie Shipbuilding Company has completed construction of the largest vessel ever built in Canada. Mr. Duplessis said the 28,000-ton SS. Andros Venture of Andros Line has a capacity of 240,400 barrels of oil or gasoline. Its length is 624 feet and width 84 feet.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" If you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53

CRAZY, MIXED-UP TREE—An utterly confused pear tree on the B. W. Baker farm, near Ardmore, Okla., can't decide whether it is now spring or autumn. It recently busted out with ripe fruit and blossoms on the branches at the same time, as seen above. The pears were harvested for use in the Baker home. Mrs. Baker says that this tree got all mixed up once before, about three years ago, and put out a full crop of blossoms along with the ripe pears.

House Settles Down To Business

OTTAWA (CP) — The House Commons settles down in earnest monday to the first major business of the new session—a general debate on government legislative policy.

Two freshman members started the debate Friday on the traditional motion for an address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Progressive Conservative leader Drew will be the first of the four party leaders to speak. It is expected he will criticize government policy and, following the usual practice, move a motion of non-confidence in the Liberal government.

WILL DEFEND POLITICS

Prime Minister St. Laurent will follow with a defence of the administration and, in particular, its legislative polices for the sesson as outlined in the Throne Speech read at Thursday's opening by Governor-General Vincent Massey.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, will then enter the debate.

After that, the debate will become a general discussion—traditionally a forum in which members can deal with almost any topic they choose.

ADDRESS IN REPLY

Friday's two speakers were A. H. Hollingworth (L—York Centre), who moved the motion for an address in reply to the throne speech, and Georges Villeneuve (L—Roberval), who seconded it.

Mr. Hollingworth expressed the hope of a "golden era" for the British Commonwealth under the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Mr. Villeneuve, speaking in French, said that when Prime Minister St. Laurent visits Asia next year he will be able to see what Canada can do to relieve the misery of Asia's millions of people.

Rare Visitor

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—An owl about a foot high perched in a tree in a resident's front yard here, attracting attention of Dr. A. E. Allin, president of the Thunder Bay Field Naturalist's Club. He said it was rare for an owl to come into the city.

Msgr. Panico Named Apostolic Delegate

OTTAWA (CP)—Appointment of Msgr. Giovanni Panico, titular archbishop of Guistiniana, as apostolic delegate to Canada was announced here today by the apostolic delegate's office.

The office said it had been advised of the appointment in a cable from Rome.

The new apostolic delegate to Canada succeeds Archbishop Ildebrando Antoniutti, recently appointed apostolic nuncio to Madrid.

Archbishop Panico has been apostolic nuncio to Peru since September, 1948.

MOSSADEGH AT TRIAL—Former Premier Mohammed Mossadegh is pictured during his trial before a military tribunal at Tehran, Iran. His various facial expressions characterize his assaults against the group trying him for treason. At one stage of the proceedings, the ageing, frail Mossadegh shouted at his accusers: "This is the first time in history a legal premier has been tried in this disgraceful condition."

N.S. Man 79, Anxious To Get Another Chance At Moose Hunt

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP)—W. S. Sarty is 79 and has bagged his deer limit every year since he started hunting. He still has one ambition: "To get another crack at a moose before I'm too old to travel."

Mr. Sarty kept his deer-hunting record intact this year by getting his limit of two with one shot each on the same day.

"That was nothing at all. I like deer hunting but you take moose hunting. . . that's the sport." Unfortunately for Mr. Sarty moose hunting has been banned in Nova Scotia for some years.

REQUIRES NERVE

"To still-hunt and kill a moose you require nerve and skill," he says. "I do hope the herd of moose will increase so as to justify an open season. I want another crack at the big fellows before I get too old to travel."

He had praise, too, for the drive this year to teach gun safety. "Coming from a farm I've handled guns since I was 12. City folk don't have that heritage. Any instruction that can be given them in the proper handling of guns makes for better and safer hunting."

Find Baby's Body In Creek

Police Report Murdered Child's Body Mutilated

AURORA, Ont., —(CP) — The mutilated body of an eight-month-old baby, its skull crushed, the torso chopped in two, was found Sunday in a creek here.

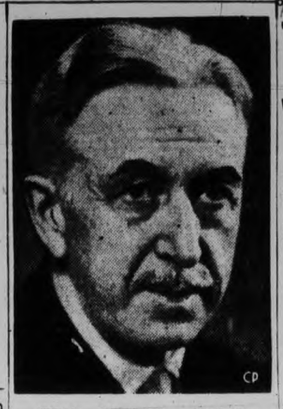
A young couple from nearby Toronto found the body while out for a Sunday walk.

Part of the body was missing and the sex could not be determined, police said.

Police said the body might have been thrown over a bridge into the creek from an automobile. A "blood-soaked" wax - paper bag was found about 50 yards from the bridge.

SEARCH UNSUCCESSFUL

A search of the area for other parts of the child's body was unsuccessful.



Chief constable Fisher Dunham of Aurora, about 15 miles north of Toronto, said he believed the body had been in the water only a short time when it was found by Shirley Starkey, 22, and Don Lamb, 22. He said the child might have been killed in some other district.

The child had blond hair. Dr. J. A. Ritchie of Newmarket, who performed an autopsy, said the child appeared to have been in excellent health.

BURIED TODAY

Chief Dunham said the child, which also had its right arm severed, was buried today. He said there was little chance of anyone identifying a baby so young.

Chief Dunham said the child had been dead "not very long" before it was thrown into the creek.

WILL RETIRE — Maj.-Gen. George P. Vanier, 65, Canadian ambassador to France since 1944,, will retire at the end of the year, the department of external affairs announced today. The department said General Vanier's successor in the Paris post will be announced soon.

Ships Collide In Channel, Six Rescued

DUNGENESS, Eng. (Reuters)—Rescue craft pulled six survivors and five bodies from debris-strewn waters of the English channel early today, but 14 other crew members of a sunken Italian ore carrier were unaccounted for and feared lost.

The 2,745-ton Vittoria Claudia sank within five minutes of being struck by the French freighter Perou. Many of the crew were hurled into the sea by the impact. Others were believed helplessly trapped below decks.

One of the rescued men died shortly after being picked up. The five others were treated in a hospital at Folkestone for shock and the effects of three hours in the cold water.

WENT DOWN QUICKLY

Farina Alessanor, cook of the sunken ship, said it went down so quickly there was no time to get a lifeboat away.

He said the other ship approached fast in clear weather, and hit so hard that "everyone on deck was thrown into the water."

By noon today hope for the rescue of the 14 missing men had waned, though a large rescue force still combed the collision scene in the Straits of Dover. The Perou, reporting "some damage," headed for Le Havre after a fruitless search for survivors.

ANSWER SOS

S O S signals from the 7,264-ton French freighter brought three lifeboats from the nearby British coast within a few minutes, while channel shipping changed course to race to the scene.

The accident occurred in a flat, calm sea.

"It's a mystery at present how the collision occurred for the weather was clear as far as we could see," reported David Oiller, a veteran sea rescue worker.

NO WIND

"The sea was dead calm with no wind," he continued, "but picking up survivors was made more difficult because the water was covered with a large amount of wreckage and a lot of oil."

Two Others Wounded Near Apsley

Shot As Companion Slips, Knocks Rifle, Dies Soon After

BANCROFT (ENS)—Robert James Robertson, 24, of Newtonbrook, near Toronto, was fatally wounded Saturday afternoon in a hunting accident 18 miles southwest of here.

During the same afternoon a single .30-30 rifle shot, fired accidentally by another member of a deer hunting party, injured two Toronto men south of Apsley.

Both men were rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough where one of them is in critical condition.

Hunting with two companions, Robertson was shot in the lower abdomen about 2 p.m. and died on the way to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital.

Robertson, with Thomas Ferguson, also of Newtonbrook, and Richard Tinney, RR 3, Coe Hill, was walking along a sharp ridge in the 13th concession of Wollaston township.

SLIPPED ON RIDGE

Tinney was in the lead, with Ferguson and Robertson following. Ferguson, going down the side of the ridge, slipped, and skidded. He grabbed at a tree to hold himself, and his rifle somehow discharged.

The bullet hit Robertson in the abdomen.

Tinney walked a mile and a half to the nearest telephone to tell the Provincial Police of the accident.

Dr. Volker Lehinant of Bancroft came to the scene and gave Robertson, who was still conscious, first aid. The injured man was carried two miles through difficult bush country to an ambulance. He died about six miles from hospital.

1 Killed, 1 Missing As Fire Sweeps St. Thomas YMCA

ST. THOMAS (CP)—An elderly man lost his life and several others were injured in an early Sunday fire which partially destroyed the top two floors of the 39-year-old YMCA building here. The main floor and gymnasium of the three-storey building were saved. One of two men reported missing after the blaze was brought under control turned up in Toronto. Thomas Dunn, 73-year-old First World War pensioner from London, Ont., lost his life when he was overcome in an attempt to get from his top floor room to a fire escape.

W. A. Attaman of St. Thomas and G. Russell Grimmon, 58, of Port Stanley, were reported missing but later it was learned that Attaman wasn't in the 40-room building during the fire. He was in Toronto on a week-end visit.

NOT ACCOUNTED FOR

Grimmon, a restaurant worker here, failed to appear for work Sunday and still is unaccounted for. His sister, Mrs. H. Sandborn of Port Stanley told police she had been speaking to him on the telephone late Saturday night and he said he was talking from the YMCA building. After the fire his third-floor room was found intact but the hall outside had been burned away.

CARELESS SMOKER

The fire, believed started by a careless smoker in the second floor sleeping section, is estimated to have caused between $150,000 to $200,000 damage.

More than 30 persons escaped. Some were carried down aerial fire ladders. Several were injured but only two seriously, Percy Woods, 48, and Oliver H. C. Webb, 63. Woods suffered burns on his face, neck, chest and arms and Webb was burned on the hands, in addition to suffering smoke affects.

The blaze was discovered shortly after 5 a. m. by Lawrence Marshall who said he was awakened by the crackling flames and then warned other occupants.

FOUR-HOUR BLAZE

The 28-man St. Thomas brigade, assisted by five men and a pumper from London, fought the blaze for four hours before bringing it under control.

Reg. Walters, one of the men brought down from their rooms by firemen on ladders, said he was sitting in a chair when he saw smoke curling up through the floor. The flames and smoke drove him back into the room when he opened the hallway door.

Yugoslavia Raises Price For Settlement

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia's price for a peaceful settlement of its dispute with Italy over Trieste was raised substantially today on the basis of a responsible interpretation of the Yugoslav position.

In a front - page editorial, the newspaper Borba, voice of the ruling Communist party, emphatically declared Yugoslavia would regard any immediate move by Italy to take over the port city of Trieste itself as "an act of aggression" unless and until a final settlement has been reached.

Further, Borba insisted, with such a final settlemement the strategic Adriatic port city, even if handed over to Italian sovereignty must be given autonomous rights with guarantees for the protection of "economic and other interests of countries, including Yugoslavia."

In a major speech here Sunday, President Tito did not mention his previous proposal for an autonomous Trieste port, although recording Yugoslavia's readiness to surrender its claims upon the city provided his country is allowed to annex the rest of zone A.

UNUSUAL CONFERENCE

Yugoslav foreign secretary Koca Popovic and Ales Bebler, his top aide, called in the diplomatic envoys of Britain, France and the United States for a late and unusual Sunday night conference. There has been no official disclosure on what took place at this meeting beyond the general statement that it deal with the talks of arranging a conference beween the three Western powers and the two Adriatic neighbors on the Trieste problem.

Toronto Jews To Get $2,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — Jewish immigrants in Toronto will get about $2,000,000 from the German government in the next few months as reparations for years of suffering under Hitler, an official of the Toronto Hebrew Free Loan Association said today.

Leon Neuschul, executive director of the association who is looking after claims for the Canadian Jewish Congress, said a law passed more than three years ago by the German Bundestag provides payment of about $30 for every month a Jew was imprisoned in a Nazi concentration camp.

ALSO GROUNDS

Physical disability and loss of family were also grounds for claiming reparations.

Hearings on claims now are going on in Germany, he said. Only persons who lived in the United States zone of postwar Germany were eligible. However it is expected new categories will be opened shortly by the Adenauer government, Mr. Neuschul said.

Pilot's Quick Action Averts Air Accident

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Quick action by Capt. William O'Connor, a Capital Airlines pilot, averted a possible accident Saturday on a Constellation plane carrying 61 persons, including the National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers.

Fifteen minutes after the four-engine plane left here for New York where the Steelers played New York giants Sunday the odor of ether fumes began filling the ship.

O'Connor turned the ship around and 15 minutes later landed at Greater Pittsburgh airport. No one was affected by the highly inflammable fumes.

4 Dairy Robbers Take $10,000 In Mimico Holdup

TORONTO (CP)—Four men, two of them armed, held up a branch of Silverwood Dairies in suburban Mimico Saturday and escaped with $10,000. The men took less than four minutes to complete the robbery.

They forced their way into the main office through a side door, bound four employees, ordered four others to lie face down on the floor and scooped up the day's receipts from the cashier's cage.

They escaped in a late model car last seen travelling north on Station Rd.

Three employees, Douglas Best, Manse Haley and George Upshall, were just leaving by the side door when they were pushed back into the office by two men waving black automatics.

"This is a holdup. Get back inside," said the leader. Two other men joined the gunmen.

LIE ON FLOOR

Best, Upshall, Haley and another employee, Al Casey, were ordered to lie on the floor, where one of the thugs bound their hands behind them.

Branch manager Leonard Taylor and chief superintendent Albert Farthing were herded from the manager's office and ordered to the floor. They were joined by cashier Mrs. Joan Davis and her assistant, Betty Ross, 18.

Mr. Taylor said the man who appeared to be the leader walked over to the cashier's cage, scooped the money from a metal container and stuffed it in a briefcase, then took $100 from Mrs. Davis' purse lying on a shelf in the cage.

He then walked over to the desk and ripped the three telephones from their connections.

THOUGHT IT JOKE

Mr. Farthing said he and Mrs. Davis were getting ready to take the cash to the safe downstairs when Upshaw and Best appeared in the doorway of his office with their hands above their heads.

"I thought at first it was a joke," said Mr. Farthing. "Then I saw a man with a gun. He ordered us to lie on the floor and told us would get it if we made a move.

"He seemed to know the layout, because he walked right to a shelf where the petty cash box was kept out of sight."

It was farthing who called police from a downstairs phone after the robbers had made their getaway.

Casey quoted one of the men standing over him as saying: "One move, and you'll get a bullet between the ears."

He said the gang appeared to have everything worked out to the minutest detail. He described the leader as tapping 10 times with his foot while holding the door open for the others to leave. "He seemed to be counting the seconds in accordance with a prearranged plan," said Casey.

"They knew exactly where to go to find everything. I couldn't have done a better job of robbing the place myself, and I've worked here eight years."

Warning Sounded

Believes President's Visit Stresses Defence Needs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aides to President Eisenhower today sized up his Ottawa visit as a step toward alerting both the United States and Canada to a need for bolstering continental defences against possible Soviet attack.

These aides, who asked not to be named, were quick to note that actual strengthening of the defences remains to be achieved. But they voiced optimism it will be done.

The president returned to the White House late Sunday after an overnight train trop from Ottawa where he and Mrs. Eisenhower were guests of the Canadian government for two days.

A few hours before Eisenhower left the Canadian capital Saturday, he and Louis St. Laurent, the Canadian prime minister, announced in a communique they were in complete agreement on: "The vital importance of effective methods of joint defence, especially in the light of evidence of increasing ability for direct attack on both countries by weapons of great destructive power." shortly after Eisenhower, in an address to Canada's parliament, deplored Russia's "arrogant" attitude and declared Canadian-U.S. defences now must be built to recognize "Soviet ability to employ atomic attack on North America."

Members of Parliament thumped their desks in approval when Eisenhower said the United States and Canada "can and will" devise methods to protect the continent against surprise enemy attack by air.

The president added the threat is a present one and "now is the time for action on agreed measures."

Three Youths Leave Jail

HAMILTON (CP)—Three Hamilton youths who had been charged with criminal negligence in connection with the death of 18-year-old Shirley Telfer, hit by a train Friday night, were allowed to leave the Dundas jail at noon today, after crown attorney Harvey McCulloch, QC, told Magistrate John Robinson he was not offering any evidence on the criminal charges.

Only requirement for the trio was a cash bail bond of $1,000 each or two sureties of $1,000 each. The crown attorney said he would not offer the evidence if he was assured the three men would make their appearance at the inquest to be held in the township hall at Greensville, at noon on Nov. 23.

Inspector Needham of the Ontario provincial police had laid the criminal negligence charges. He said the youths did not take proper steps to prevent the girl's death after she rushed from their car, screaming she was going to kill herself.

The trio, Rocco Papalia, 19, Joseph Fazzari, 22, and his cousin Giuseppe Fazzari, 20, had been held as material witnesses and then on charges of criminal negligence.

Two Of Quads Die In Georgia

SYLVESTER, Ga. (AP)—Quadruplets were born to a south Georgia farmer's wife Saturday night, but two of them died Sunday.

The Negro babies—two boys and two girls—were placed in incubators immediately after birth and attendants reported them in "fair" condition. The two boys became weaker during the day. One died at 4:20 p.m., and the other at 6:10 p.m.

Mrs. Robert Dollson of Poulan, Ga., was the mother. She and her farmer husband have eight other living children ranging in age from four to 17. One child died shortly after birth last year. The Dollsons have been married 18 years.

Hospital officials said both the girls born Saturday night were in "fair" condition 24 hours after birth. They were the first and last born.

Say Robinette May Not Accept

TORONTO (CP) A Toronto paper says in a newspage story today that John J. Robinette for "personal reasons" will not accept appointment as a justice of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

The story says Mr. Robinette is expected to announce soon that he has changed his mind and will stay with his law busiess.

It adds:

"Involved in the dcision is Mr. Robinette's family. He has three daughters, all of school or university age, and it is believed the Toronto lawyer felt the financial sacrifice for his family, if he accepted the appointment, was too great."

(Mr. Robinette was not available for comment on the story.)

Justice Minister Garson declined to comment on the report.

Queen, Duke Study Final Tour Plans

LONDON (Reuters)—The ueen returned from her country home at Sandringham Sunday where she spent her last week-end before setting off on a round-the-world trip next week.

At Sandringham she went over plans for the tour with the Duke of Edinburgh who will return here in the next few days.

This last week will be full of audiences and informal farewells for the Queen.

Arrange Queen's Yule Broadcast

LONDON (Reuters) — The Queen's Christmas Day broadcast, to be made from New Zealand, will be preceded by a special version of the traditional round-the-world program on the theme, "The Queen's Journey."

The BBC Saturday announced details of this year's broadcast, the 21st anniversary of the traditional Christmas message, and the first time it will be made outside Britain.

The preceding program will try as much as possible to follow the route of the royal tour which the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh begin later this month.

Arranged jointly by the New Zealand Broadcasting Corporation, the Australian Broadcasting Commission and the BBC, it will be produced in Sydney.

The Queen will make her broadcast from Government House, Auckland, at 9 p. m. New Zealand time (4 a. m. EST). It will be recorded in London at that time and rebroadcast in Britain and throughout the world at the traditional 3 p. m. (10 a. m. EST).

New Approach To Tariffs

Canadian Offers Way To Solve Problem

NEW YORK (CP)—A selective approach to the tarriff problem, by breaking it down into smaller components, was suggested today by R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

This method of dealing with Canadian-U.S. trade, "the largest single segment of international trade in the world today, was outlined by Mr. Fowler in an address prepared for delivery before the 40th foreign trade convention of the National Foreign Trade Council.

"It should be possible to build up Canadian exports to the United States to provide goods that American consumers will need and to do so without damage to existing American industries," he said.

"We do not ask to take markets away from your producers, but instead of attempting to provide for incerasing demands of your people by developing new and costly methods of expanding your capacity, could you not let those industries for which Canada has a natural advantage provide for your growth in demand?

SUGGESTS BASIS

"Perhaps we could make some products you need from our ample supplies of aluminum and base metals. Perhaps the many new chemicals that are obtainable from our Alberta oil and gass could, if tariffs are changed, find and make new markets in this country."

There are flaws to be found in a theory of independence and self-sufficiency, Mr. Fowler said, devices which can become expensive and uneconomic.

Neither Canada nor the United States had a domestic supply of bauxite, the raw material for aluminum, but Canada had the essential low-cost electric power and had built a great aluminum industry.

Negotiations for a new contract by which a Canadian manufacturer would supply aluminum to the United States failed, he said, because of an outcry against dependence upon a foreign source of supply for this strategic material." Local sources of manufacture were developed with U. S. government financial assistance and tax concessions because "a vital defence material should be produced at home."

ON SAME SIDE

But Mr. Fowler questioned if U.S. defence strategy is seriously weakened by the fact the U.S. depends on Canada for most of its nickel, another strategic metal. Further, "in any emergency your country and mine will be on the same side and will be involved together from the very beginning."

Also, Canada supplied 80 per cent of newsprint used in U.S. newspapers and could not only look after increases but could still provide substantial exports to other countries.

Yet since 1945 "there have been nine different investigations by various committees of Congress." Legislators, arguing independence and self-sufficiency in newsprint, advocated use of government funds and special tax concessions to build new domestic mills.

Mr. Fowler viewed this as "economic isolation" and said that "of the dollars we use to buy your goods, one out of every four comes from our newsprint exports to you."

In approaching that "immensely complicated subject" of world trade in general, Mr. Fowler suggested it is "common sense to start with the largest single segment of your international trade, which happens to be with your closest neighbors and best friends in the world and which should be easiest to deal with . . ."

"Perhaps we should adopt the classical military technique of "divide and conquer." Perhaps the defeat of world trade problems, like the defeat of armies, can be accomplished by breaking them down into separate parts of manageable proportions."

Find Soviet Price Totally Unacceptable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Western powers told Russia today that the Soviet price for entering into negotiations on German unification and Austrian independence is "totally unacceptable."

Notes were delivered by British, American and French envoys in Moscow to the Soviet foreign office.

They replied to Russian demands put forward in a note of Nov. 3.

In their reply, the Western powers said the Russian demands in effect placed non-European problems ahead of even a study of urgent European issues and made "a defenceless Western Europe" part of the price for Soviet participation in a conference.

The Western powers said "the Soviet government must be well aware" that such demands are totally unacceptable.

RCAF Jet Makes Longest Single Hop

OTTAWA (CP)—An RCAF CF-100 all-weather jet fighter flew nonstop from Vancouver to North Bay Sunday in what may have been the longest single hop yet made by a CF-100.

The sleek jet covered the 2,000 miles in about four hours at an average speed of 550 miles an hour. Had conditions been favorable, it was intended to try to reach Halifax or at least Montreal without setting down.

The pilot was Flt.-Lt. Mike Cobierski, 33, of Campbell River, B.C. His navigator was Flt.-Lt. Doug Turner, 24, of Toronto

The plane, from 445 All-Weather Fighter Squadron stationed in Ottawa, was flown on to Ottawa after refuelling at North Bay. It was on a routine long - distance training flight.

TAIL WINDS LACKING

One air force official pointed out that to make the long flight from Vancouver to Halifax would have required favorable tail winds. Tail winds and other weather conditions were not what they should have been, however, and one motor of the plane was not operating quite up to par. As a result its fuel consumption was greater than expected, cutting the flight short at North Bay.

The plane left Vancouver at 6:30 a.m. PST (9:30 a.m. EST). When it was decided to land at North Bay, the CF-100 was some 200 miles north of North Bay. This was because of its original flight plan. The straight-line air distance from Vanouver to North Bay is about 1,800 miles.

Angry Koreans Reject Reds

PANMUNJOM (AP) — Angry, howling Koreans today turned down, 221 to 6, Communist pleas to come home in another stinging boomerang for the Reds, who asked to interview them after 10 days of stalling.

The Communists dragged through the noisy interviews, meeting only 227 of the 471 Korean prisoners called to the explanation area.

One of the six PoWs who chose communism sat through five hours of talk. United Nations observers protested he was worn out and confused and unable to make a rational decision.

The Communist batting average was close to their over-all three per cent for some 2,400 prisoners interviewed. The figure has been a jolt to Red propaganda that all the 22,600 balky PoWs wanted to come home.

Civilians Assist Test Of Aircraft Detection

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Aircraft detection units of the Royal Canadian Air Force, assisted by hundreds of western Ontario civilians, indicated Sunday they can spot and forecast flight of any aircraft coming into the area.

The radar unit of No. 420, City of London Auxiliary Squadron, the London filter centre and 140 spotting posts, in the first major test of western Ontario's radar and ground observer network, plotted 39 separate flights in a two-hour period.

RCAF officers said an estimated 95 per cent of aircraft in the area were spotted.

Rule Tribunal Can Try Case

TEHRAN (AP) — The military court trying ex-premier Mohammed Mossadegh for treason got down to the main issues today after ruling against his contention that the tribunal was not competent to hear the case.

The court-martial's five judges declared themselves competent Sunday after a week of preliminary hearings, during which the 73-year-old Mossadegh held the floor for many hours with bitter, emotional arguments in his own defence.

Following the court decision, chief prosecutor Brig. Hossein Azemodeh read the indictment charging Mossadegh with plotting against the shah and illegally dissolving the lower house of Parliament. The death penalty was asked.

Presentation of evidence in support of the charges was due to begin later today.

Mossadegh contended the shah had no authority to dismiss him. He also demanded a jury trial on grounds that the army court could not try him because he had abolished it before his ouster as premier Aug. 17.

Yugoslavia

Apparently, however, it was designed in part to advise the Western powers that Tito's moderately toned Sunday address should not be interpreted as meaning any substantial change in Yugoslavia's terms for a final settlement.

A spokesmen for Borba said today's editorial represents an accurate picture of Yugoslavia's present position. It called for these conditions in general:

1. No turning over of the port of Trieste unless approved by the proposed international conference.
2. No attempt by Italy to take over the port until an approval has been granted by such a conference.
3. Autonomy for the port city itself, under Italian sovereignty.
4. Annexation of the rest of zone A by Yugoslavia.
5. Protection of minority groups.
6. Sub-divide the city itself to provide that suburbs of Trieste predominantly populated by Slovenes remain a part of Yugoslavia.

Expect Weather To Set Record

TORONTO (CP)—Spring - like weather spread across most of western Canada and Ontario today. The weatherman said it will probably hit 65 and break a temperature record here Tuesday.

The warm air, expected to continue for the next few days and head into Quebec and the Maritimes Tuesday, has already broken a temperature record in Saskatchewan. It was 63 in Regina Sunday, the highest ever recorded for the date.

The 65 expected in Toronto would be two degrees warmer than the previous high set Nov. 17, 1865.

The warm winds, which came from the southern United States, are strong enough to push back cold winds from the north for a few days, the weather bureau here said.

Week-end temperatures on the Prairies and in Ontario were at least 15 degrees higher than normal for mid-November.

Fight Liquor Interests, Speaker Urges

OMEMEE (ENS) In connection with the district conclave arranged by the Ontario Temperance Federation in Lindsay on Saturday and Sunday, the Sunday morning speaker assigned to Omemee United Church was Dr. Henry of the Toronto secondary schools.

Speaking from the text, "We made our prayer unto our God and set a watch against them day and night," he implied the urgency of building character with weapons ever ready to fight the enemy intemperance. As the Christian conscience had, in earlier days, been awakened against slavery, so now it was aroused, he said by the results of the liquor traffic. The magnitude of the alcoholic menace was being revealed by findings at conferences on 'alcohol and road traffic', and by people in charge of penal institutions, grand jury cases and juvenile courts.

Concerning our individual responsibility, he stated, "Many have come to the conclusion that Christian principles can best be exemplified by total abstinence". But group work was also important. Clubs and citizens committees, he said, are appealing to the Federation for help, and representatives are being sent to assist in organizing campaigns and in giving temperance education. Educative programs sometimes had to be curtailed for lack of funds for equipment.

Mr. Henry closed with this challenging quotation: "How can I go up to my Father and the lad be not with me?"

550 Young People Attend Teen-Age Temperance Rally

LINDSAY (ENS) The Ontario Temperance Federation for Victoria, Northumberland, Durham, Haliburton and parts of Ontario and Peterborough counties met here over the weekend.

The visitors included more than 550 young people who attended the "Teen Age Turnout" in the armouries with Jack McNie, of Hamilton, guest speaker.

Chuches in Lindsay were closed Sunday night when the Cambridge street United Church was filled to overflowing to hear Dr. William Seath, for 21 years in redemption service on Skid Row, Chicago. "Just as sobriety is news, so is drunkness news" said W. H. Cranston, editor of the Midland Free Press. "Liquor provides more news today than any other commodity." continued Mr. Cranston. "Public relations should be foremost in the OTF programme and officials of the association and temperance workers generally should talk with editors, with parliamentary representatives and radio officials as a means of informing the public as to the ills of intemperance and the need for the existence of the OTF.

"Our province is in the liquor business, but the government is also doing good work in regard to research matters. The federation should realize that the press and the radio are just as necessary in the matter of educating the people regarding temperance matters as are the laymen, ministers and the churches.

"Brewery representatives call on newspaper editors regularly, why not the advocates of temperance? Temperance matters are looked on as hot potatoes in the political campaigns, but should not be forgotten in church discussions, home and school, the press or service clubs," Mr. Cranston said.

One member in the audience thought that children in the homes were being set a bad example by parents who partook of social drinks. "School children come home from school, go to the refrigerator for a glass of milk and find the milk crowded out by beer bottles." Another in the audience asked what could be done about children finding empty liquor bottles in recreation centres and was told by Mr. Cranston that the police should be informed, as well as those in charge of such centres.

Another speaker said that a service club invited a brewery representative to talk to the club and show a film. It emphasized the fact that the distillers are endeavoring to sweeten the product to make it more palatable. "They are now going to lollypop the stuff."

Jack McNie said young people have many problems and one of them is parents. The influence of parents and the examples parents set for their children in the home are sometimes not good. No one ever gets offended when a person says no when asked to take a drink of liquor. More money is spent on liquor than on education in this country.

Stan Wardlo, recreational director of East York in speaking on "delinquency defeated" told of the accomplishments obtained since 1946 when wasteland was turned into profitable playgrounds, when a large stadium was erected having one of the finest tracks and athletic fields in the province, how a $200,000 arena was built which accommodated at times 1,000 boys playing hockey, how the centre has the largest tap and ballet school in the world and how many other departments are thriving, including a winter golf school for adults and all types of leather and woodcraft classes. There are no delinquents because boys are looked after.

Two Kidnappers May Enter Insanity Plea

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The possibility was raised today that the kidnap-killers of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease would seek to escape the gas chamber through an insanity plea.

This surprise development came at the opening of the federal trial being held for the sole purpose of determining whether they should die for the crime they have fully confessed.

Both Carl Austin Hall, the 34-year-old playboy wastrel, and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41, the housewife turned alcoholic, listened attentively as their lawyers reserved the right to bring up the insanity question at any time during the proceedings.

RESERVING RIGHTS

Their counsel told the court they were not raising the question now but they wished to protect the constitutional rights of the two defendants and if evidence warranted an insanity plea they would make one even after conviction.

The defence lawyers said neither Hall nor Mrs. Heady wanted to change their pleas of guilty, entered at their formal arraignment.

Judge Albert Reeves told the panel of 125 men and women that the sole job of the jury—to be chosen from among them—would be to decide whether a death penalty should be assessed. Under provisions of the Lindbergh kidnap law under which Hall and Mrs. Heady are being tried, only a jury has the authority to recommend the death penalty.

U. S. district attorney Edward L. Scheufler has said he will request the death penalty.

200 WITNESSES AVAILABLE

Twenty subpoenas have been served and up to 200 persons are available to testify for the government.

Roy K. Dietrich, Hall's counsel, has said he does not know yet whether the defendants will testify.

Mrs. Heady admitted luring Bobby from a private school in Kansas City, Mo. She and Hall took him across the state line into Kansas where he was shot to death in a field Sept. 28. The body was buried in a grave already dug behind Mrs. Heady's house in St. Joseph, Mo.

Six days later the couple obtained a record $600,000 ransom from the boy's father. Within two days the pair was caught in St. Louis after a drunken spree. About half the ransom was recovered.

General On Carpet With Danish Govt.

COPENHAGEN (AP)—U. S. Air Force Gen. Charles T. Myers, chief of American bases in Canada and Greenland, left Copenhagen today after getting a dressing down from Danish officials.

Informed sources said that the general had been "called on the carpet" because "certain scientific investigations" had been carried out by the U. S. bases in Greenland without Danish permission.

All scientific work in Greenland must be approved by a special Danish commission. Nature of the scientific activity was not indicated.

The sources said that Gen. Myers promised to see that no such thing happened in the future. This satisfied the Danes.

Husband And Wife Face Assault Charge

KITCHENER (CP)—The trial of Henry William Paepcke and his wife, Sheila, of Elmira on charges arising out of the death of their small daughter entered another stage today.

A grand jury returned a true bill on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. The couple will be tried Tuesday on the charge.

They previously were acquitted on charges of murder and manslaughter. Their daughter, Glenise, died last January.

Say 374,000 Italians Live In Caves

By PATRICK CROSSE

ROME (Reuters)—Eight years after the Second World War, 374,000 Italians still live in caves or illegal shanties without water, light or sanitation and 942,000 live in cellars, attics or warehouses never intended for human beings and officially condemned by the health authorities. More than 4,500,000 live more than three to a room.

If every family in Italy were to have a kitchen, a bedroom for the parents and a room for every two children, some 7,000,000 more rooms would be needed at once. The present rate of building, with heavy government subsidies, is somewhat more than 700,000 rooms a year. But the population is increasing by nearly 300,000 a year.

Italy never recovered from the damage and slow-down in building caused by the First World War. In 1934 rent control was introduced and it has been continued ever since, depriving the small man of one of continental Europe's traditional investments: To buy a house, live in part of it and rent the rest.

The blocked rents now in force in Italy are recognized as a flagrant injustice. A man who died in 1938, believing that he had left his widow comfortably off with the rents from three apartments, could not foresee that in the next 15 years rents would be allowed to multiply only seven times while the cost of living multiplied 80 times.

The result has been no private building of low-rent dwellings since the war and a spectacular wave of luxury building.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS in honor of the work and years of service by the late Martin B. Chenhall, organist and choirmaster at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, were unveiled Sunday at the morning service. The windows, depicting three angels playing instruments and singing, were erected in Mr. Chenhall's memory by the choir. The Rev. Charles Boyd said Mr. Chenhall had made a life-long and authentic Christian ministry out of his music. Former church minister the Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr also spoke of Mr. Chenhall's work. The windows were unveiled on behalf of the choir by John Anderson (left, above), with Mr. Boyd.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Sixth Cobourg Break-In

COBOURG (ENS) — Break-ins are still occurring at Cobourg, the sixth one taking place over the weekend when somebody broke into the office of the Harnden Construction Company where a surveyor's level and tripod were stolen. Loot has not amounted to much, although it includes the theft of a revolver from the boarding house of Provincial Constable Ralph Tremill.

Old Battleship Conway To Be Beached

By EMERSON CHAPIN

BANGOR, Wales (Reuters)—The proud old Conway, leader of the fleet that rode to battle against the Russians 99 years ago, is being prepared for slow destruction at the hands of her oldest enemy—the sea.

The 114-year-old heart-of-oak warship, on whose decks poet laureate John Masefield first felt sea fever stir, lies crippled and helpless on the rocky shore of the nearby Menai straits, where she went aground while under tow last April.

There is no hope that she can be saved. The primary concern now is to make her fast in her present position so she cannot heel over in the coming winter gales and menace other shipping in the narrow and tricky channel.

One of the world's last surviving wooden battleships, she was launched in 1839 as the Nile, a 92-gun ship of the line. Years later she was the pride of a British flotilla that kept the Russian Baltic fleet at bay off St. Petersburg in the Crimean war.

Later converted to steam, the 245-foot warship sailed the world's seas until 1875, when she was moved to the river Mersey to become the base of the British merchant marine's training-ship school.

During the Second World War air raids the Conway was towed away from the target city of Liverpool to safer moorings off the Welsh coast. The aged vessel was still a training centre for 250 youths when her death blow struck unexpectedly last spring.

12 Of 18 Weekend Fatalities Due To Traffic Accidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Twelve persons lost their lives in traffic accidents in eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press compilation showed today that traffic deaths, nine of which occurred in Ontario, accounted for the big majority of the total of 18 fatalities in the east.

Ontario and Quebec were the scene of all the deaths, with a total of 14 in Ontario.

Fred Besito and Loretto Henry, teen-aged Indians from the Saugeen Indian reserve in Ontario, were killed when the stolen car in which they were riding went out of control, hit ditches on both sides of the road and rolled over seven times.

Anthony Kocher, 73, was killed when the car he had started for a friend shot over an embankment at Hesson, Ont. Leo Kari, 22, one of the survivors of the 1949 Noronic fire disaster, died when his car crashed into a garage near Middle Falls. Herbert F. Pribilla, 23, was killed by a car near Newmarket after falling from his motorcycle.

Mrs. George Pearson, 61, was fatally injured when her car crashed into another vehicle near Comber, 20 miles east of Windsor. John Wilk, 33, was killed when a car struck his bicycle in Brantford. Herbert Hueston, 27, was killed by a car at London. Mrs. William Burack was killed when her car crashed into a pole seven miles north of Sudbury.

Thomas Dunn, 73, a First World War pensioner from London, Ont., lost his life when he tried to get from his top floor room to a fire escape during a blaze that nearly gutted the three-storey YMCA building in St. Thomas, Ont.

Shirley Telfer, 18, was killed by a train three miles northwest of Hamilton. Terry Rees, 2½, was drowned in a creek near her Milton farm home. Keith Frask, 11, was killed by an accidental shotgun discharge while hunting near Markdale, and Robert James Robertson, 24, was fatally injured when a friend's rifle went off at Bancroft.

M. B. Chenhall's Playing Gave Inspiration To Many

"I am convinced that multitudes faced life more valiantly because of inspiration derived from the music of Martin B. Chenhall. People have told me that through his selfless interpretations they were given to see into unsuspected depths of well-known hymns and psalms".

These were the opening remarks of Rev. Charles Gordon Boyd when he delivered a glowing tribute to the memory of the late Peterborough organist, Martin B. Chenhall, at the morning worship service in St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Sunday. Incorporated in the service was a special ceremony in which two newly-installed windows were dedicated to the memory of the late organist. The windows, which were donated by members of St. Paul's choir, both depict three angels playing instruments and singing. They are particularly attractive in stained glass of light golden shades.

CHRISTIAN MINISTRY

Later in his dedication speech Rev. Boyd said that Martin Chenhall had made a life-long and authentic Christian ministry out of his music.

"We live in the comfort that he has at last found the lost chord for which he sought here on earth and now participates in the celestial harmonies of the host of the redeemed," he said. "We pay tribute to the memory of a man who shall long be remembered in this church with affection and gratitude".

A former minister of St. Paul's, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, also spoke to the congregation of the exemplary life and work of the late organist.

"I've heard a great many organists, but there are few I have listened to whose sole was in his music", he said. "Of his inspired playing and of the man himself I will always have living memories."

John Anderson, on behalf of the choir, unveiled the windows. In the memory of Martin Chenhall he asked the church to receive the memorial and to dedicate it to the glory and praise of God.

Moated House Preserved For British Public

IGHTHAM, England (Reuters)—An American industrialist has bought Ightham Mote, a moated house dating back nearly 800 years, to preserve it for the British public.

Henry R. Robinson Jr., president of the C. H. Robinson Paper-Manufacturing Company of Portland, Me., will not disclose how much he paid for the house, one of the oldest in Britain.

The National Trust, which preserves ancient buildings and natural beauty spots, said the stone and timbered grange is "a rare masterpiece, impossible to price."

Robinson signed a covenant with the National Trust declaring he will not alter Ightham Mote. He will pay for repairs to the 15-bedroom house, surrounded by a fast-flowing moat in Kent, and open it to the public.

Robinson said he fell in love with Ightham Mote when he first saw it and wanted to buy it. He achieved his wish 30 years later.

His name will be added to a list of owners dating back to the de Haut family of squires in 1180. During the Wars of the Roses, in which the rival royal houses of York and Lancaster struggled for supremacy, the house was taken away from the de Hauts and a member of the family was beheaded in 1484 for following the cause of Lancaster.

King Henry VII returned Ightham Mote to the family when he gained power and for the next 400 years it stayed in the hands of only two families. The remote grange, standing in a wooded valley in west Kent, then passed to Sir Thomas Colyer, who lived there until his death two years ago.

Since then, the house has stood derelict, its 16th century tudor gables and great tower fighting a losing battle against the elements.

Masive oak panelling inside the building is intact. A female skeleton was found behind the panelling during restoration work 80 years ago.

Student Prank Week Goes Too Far In U.K.

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP)—Nottingham University students' annual prank week has gone too far this time, say authorities, who were let in on all the stunts coming up with the exception of a holdup.

That little episode started outside a jeweller's when a student fired blanks and a cohort staggered away ozzing tomato ketchup. The "gangster" ran to an automobile while girl students screamed and pretended to faint.

Police came up just as a bystander felled the culprit with his briefcase.

Quick Unloading

COBOURG (ENS)—Part of a large boat of cement was unloaded in rapid-fire order Saturday by a combined fleet of 20 trucks. The ship load arrived at 2.30 in the afternoon, hours later than expected but the trucks, standing by since eight in the morning, got into action and by 10 p.m. were finished. What was left on the ship was taken on to Toronto while the transports delivered their part of the cargo to Cobourg, Marmora, Oshawa and other points.

Dairy Stock Suit Arouses Broad Interest In Cobourg

COBOURG (ENS) — Considerable local interest is centred in a case scheduled for the fall non-jury sittings of Supreme Court which started today with Mr. Justice King presiding. The action in question is being brought by Mrs. May Staples, administratrix of the estate of Harold Staples, and by her daughter, Blanche Staples, against the Cobourg City Dairy, W. C. Brown and Dr. R. S. Robertson. It arises out of the announced sale of the dairy to Dr. Robertson, Cobourg dentist and raiser of pedigreed Guernsey cattle.

Before his death, Mr. Staples was connected with the Cobourg City Dairy.

Plaintiffs, in the statement of claim, state that in June of 1953, the general manager of the dairy, entered into an agreement to sell 55 per cent of the company to Dr. Robertson, at a price of $87 a share.

Plaintiffs are asking for a declaration that any agreement redistributing the said shares is null and void or that there is no such agreement; a declaration that the plaintiffs are the owners of the majority of the shares of the defendant company and entitled to 400 preferred and 400 common shares; a declaration that the defendant, Brown, holds no shares of stock in the defendant company or in the alternative, only 37 preferred shares; an injunction restraining Mr. Brown or Dr. Robertson from selling or purchasing any purported shares in the company, allegedly held by Mr. Brown; that any shares held but not owned by Mr. Brown be delivered to the company for cancellation.

In the alternative, plaintiffs claim damages against Mr. Brown in the sum of $30,000.

Claiming breach of contract, Albert Fanelli of St. Catharines is suing Richard and A. B. Ryan, contractors at the ordnance depot here for $19,492. Plaintiff company said it was engaged to do certain work for the defendant at the depot construction job.

Fred and Vedah Earle of Cobourg are plaintiffs in an action against Gordon Webster of Montreal, Mr. Earle claiming damanges of $12,000 and his wife, $5,000. Mr. Earle was a passenger in a truck driven by John Field on No. 7, east of Peterborough, last year when he got out of the truck he was struck by the defendant's car, it is alleged by plaintiffs.

Claiming $25,000 damages, arising out of a motor fatality, Dorothy Sarah Smith of Newcastle is suing Raymond Shane and W. F. Rickard of Newcastle. The accident occurred last January near Newcastle. Three cars were involved.

Can This Marriage Be Saved?

She: "Fred talks incessantly about the duties of wives and the privileges of husbands, and insists on being absolute master in our lives. I almost hate him."

He: "It is my right to make all family decisions. I cannot grant my love to Ivy unless she acknowledges my full authority as her husband."

Cheap Pork, But Not For Us

Foreigners are getting a bargain in Canadian pork. The householder here can buy bacon at prices ranging from 70 cents to $1.00 a pound, spare ribs at 50 cents a pound, pork butts at 50 cents —and these pork prices are lower than they have been for many weeks. But foreigners can buy Canadian pork, already cooked and tinned, for fifteen cents a pound. There are about thirty-five million pounds of this Canadian canned pork still for sale to other countries at that price. Why the bargain, why so much available? During last year's foot-and-mouth disease epidemic the Federal Government piled up 98,000,000 pounds of pork, bought at the floor price of 26 cents. By the time the Government (through intermediaries like packing houses) had transported, canned and stored the meat it cost 60 cents a pound. This is the stuff that is now selling—to foreigners—for 15 cents a pound.

* * *

Europeans who know a good bargain, are buying the Canadian canned pork. Several thousand pounds are leaving Montreal early next week for Hamburg, Germany—bought by a Toronto firm for resale in Europe. Canadians cannot buy this bargain for their own use here in Canada because "this would injure other domestic industries", the Minister of Agriculture, Mr. Gardiner, said on Wednesday. And the United States would not like it, either. Mr. Gardiner felt it would be unwise for the Government to rid itself of the surplus pork at "a price lower than would be charged to American buyers. Such a move would not permit Canada to maintain her market in the United States." We do not understand this delicacy for American opinion, considering that the chief reason Canada has the large surplus was that the U.S. put an embargo on all meat and animal shipments from this country to the States. Part of the cause was the foot-and-mouth disease, part the American farm and packinghouse clamour for protection from Canadian competition.

* * *

So it is that Germans are getting our pork at fifteen cents a pound, all tinned, and we, as Canadian taxpayers, are paying forty-five cents a tin to let them have it for the fifteen cents. That is the net loss on each tin sold. Under such marketing conditions we do not doubt that Mr. Gardiner, as a politician, is eager to dispose of the stock of pork "as quickly as possible". The quicker the sale the less time for ructions from taxpayers. Mr. Gardiner says that the 45-cents-a-pound loss is looked on as part of the country's forfeit for the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak. Perhaps, but it seems a little hard that Canadians cannot cut their own losses by being allowed to buy the stuff for fifteen cents, as the Germans are able to do.

Greatest Real Estate Deal In History

This year marks the 150th anniversary of the greatest, largest, strangest and most advantageous real estate deal in history. The land area sold was larger than all Western Europe. The man who signed the agreement to purchase had no authority to do so, and the man who offered it for sale had no authority to do so. Under previous owners, the territory had been a financial loss; it brought its new owner fabulous wealth, and is still doing so. Its boundaries were not all defined at the time of the sale, and the land sold for four cents an acre. The deal was the Louisiana Purchase.

The Louisiana Territory included all land west of the Mississippi River to the borders of the Spanish possessions, and no one quite knew where those borders were. It reached from the Gulf of Mexico north to the British possessions, beyond the present Canadian border. All or part of seventeen of the United States have been carved from that territory—900,000 square miles of some of the richest territory in the world.

Richard L. Livingston had been sent to Paris by President Jefferson with orders to do what he could to block the retrocession of Louisiana to France from Spain and, if possible, to arrange for outright purchase of the city of New Orleans, which was the key to the Mississippi. Mr. Livingston laboured fruitlessly at this task for eighteen months—and was suddenly offered the entire territory by Count Francois Barbe-Marbois, Napoleon's emissary.

Mr. Livingston knew very well he had no authority to purchase. He knew that Napoleon really had no authority to sell. But Mr. Livingston was a wise and far-sighted man, and shrewd enough to realize that Napoleon could make the sale "stick." He made the bold decision to buy, and although President Jefferson said the action was unconstitutional when he first heard the news, he soon approved. Within a few years, the bitterest skeptics were ready to admit that Mr. Livingston had made the greatest real estate bargain in all history.

The Louisiana Purchase, next to the negotiation that secured the independence of the United States, was unquestionably the most important the United States ever entered into. Its anniversary this year was observed by a two-week celebration at New Orleans, during which honour was paid the four men who were the architects of the purchase —Livingston, Jefferson, Monroe and Madison. Of the four, only Richardson failed to realize the ambition to become President, but his courageous decision in Paris won him high place in the history of his country.

This Punishment Does Not Fit The Crime

Widespread interest has been shown in the sentence of one year's imprisonment which was recently pronounced upon Max Roodman, who was responsible for the deaths of twenty people in a highway acident which took place in Cornwall on July 21. Many readers will recall the circumstances: a truck which Roodman had been driving was parked across a highway at night, without any lights showing, and a loaded bus ran into it. Roodman was charged with manslaughter, which brought his case within the Criminal Code. Within the terms of that Code Mr. Justice Barlow showed a considerable measure of mercy toward Roodman.

We find no fault with Mr. Justice Barlow's action. It was shown in evidence that Roodman was of less than normal intelligence. To give him a long sentence would not make any difference in that respect. The judge did what he thought best, but the law does not make it possible for him to do anything better for Roodman than to show him mercy, and to bar him from the roads, as a driver, for the rest of his life.

We think that the law needs amendment in two respects, if such people as Roodman are not to be a danger to the public. First, the regulations about granting driving licenses need to be tightened and enforced more stringently. Roodman had applied for a license five or six times before he got one, so it is plain that he was not a safe driver, and that the men who tested him knew it. They probably knew that he was not normally intelligent. Why, then, have they not the power to deny him a license altogether?

Second, our law offers little hope to subnormal people who get into trouble. We seem to have no way of dealing with them which fits their offences and their needs. The Guelph Reformatory cannot do much for Roodman, and it may do him harm. Society and the law must face the fact that subnormal people need special reformatory treatment, and see what can be done to provide it. The case of Roodman, and the twenty victims of his incapacity, brings this to the public notice with tragic force.

The Bill Is Doubled

People in this sixty-cycle district have more than a remote interest in the cost of switching Toronto and other centres served by Niagara power from 25-cycle frequency. People in this area—and in other 60-cycle districts throughout the Province—are helping to pay for it. The size of the bill is alarming. In 1947 and 1948 when the project was begun, the estimated cost was $191,000,000. Now the final cost is said to be in excess of $400,000,000—more than twice as much. It may even go as high as $477,500,000 and on top of this must be added interest charges, a large amount on so great a sum.

Why so big a disparity between the estimate and the actual cost? The population of the region undergoing the frequency conversion has grown since 1947, but not excessively. The number of electrical appliances they use—and which have to be converted (at no direct cost to them)—has not doubled. The cost of materials has not doubled, nor have wages increased to that extent. Were the people of Ontario deliberately misled by the original estimate? Or were the accountants and experts who arrived at the $191,000,000 figure incompetent to make an accurate estimate? Or has money been flowing too freely, with no regard for cost?

This bad news comes from the chairman of the Hydro Commission after little more than a third of the customers of 25-cycle districts have been attended to. Will the new guess of $400,000,000 be revised again a year or so hence, making it half a billion? Mr. Saunders has said that the present rates are sufficient to take care of the increased cost of frequency change for the remainder of the year and through 1954. The consolation is not great. The rates have already gone up; there is not a doubt in the world that they will be increased again as soon as it is politically expedient. And why? Because a big job for the sake of Toronto, Hamilton and other centres is going to cost more than twice the estimate; and every hydro user in the Province is required to pay for it.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

LAST MONDAY I attended the sessions of a one-day Convention organized by the Ontario Registered Music Teachers Association in Peterborough. A good many technical matters were discussed in detail, but there was also a fair amount of matter of vital interest to the average musical layman. I intend, therefore, to dwell on some of the latter points and to skip the detailed application of the principles enunciated by the different speakers.

I have often noticed at a gathering where several different speakers are heard that a thread can sometimes be discerned throughout. On Monday it seemed to be this: are teachers concerned with turning out all-round musicians, or are they engaged in the somewhat futile attempt of making concert artists of them all? Too much emphasis is being placed, according to most of the speakers, on learning two or three "prepared pieces" for examination or festival purposes each year, and not enough on sight-reading, ear training and theory.

✧ ✧ ✧

OF COURSE the main trouble is time. The average Canadian child simply has not the time for a thorough musical training. Quite apart from the demands of school and home-work, which grow steadily more onerous as the student advances, many other calls are made on his time by various organizations. There are comparatively few children who are able and willing to make the necessary sacrifice to forward their musical education, and one cannot entirely blame them. Such spare time as children possess is being increasingly organized. The reaction comes in the summer, when books are put aside and loafing elevated to high moral principle. September comes round again, and several weeks must pass in order to get back to the point which the pupil reached the end of the previous term.

Under these circumstances either a slow rate of progress must be accepted or else something must be skimped. It is regrettable that the latter course is more often taken. Teachers are apt to concentrate on those aspects of musical education that yield quick and tangible results.

✧ ✧ ✧

DR. OSBORNE, who is not only a musician of solid attainment but also in the happy position of being able to put into practice some of his ideals in musical education as Principal of Whitby Ladies' College, threw out some helpful ideas on the subject of the teachings of theory. This all-important aspect is too often put into a water-tight compartment of its own, and sometimes glossed over altogether. A solid background of theory is indispensable to real musicianship, though its advantages are perhaps less tangible and spectacular than technical dexterity, and for that reason less stress is placed on it. The best arrangement, as Dr. Osborne pointed out, is for theory to go hand in hand with practice. Theory alone, devoid of practice, can degenerate into mere word-spinning, just as practice alone can easily become shallow empiricism. A child should be taught to write as much as he can play, Dr. Osborne contended. He should at the earliest possible stage know the reasons for the scales he plays—how they are constructed, and why key signatures and other devices are necessary.

✧ ✧ ✧

A PLEA for a greater use of contemporary music as teaching material was made by Mr. Bell, a young musician now living in Lindsay. There is a good deal of music illustrative of present-day trends that is not too difficult, and the ears of the young are usually somewhat less prejudiced than those of their seniors. This appeal was backed up by implication in a short concert by musicians from Toronto, who presented a programme of pieces, mostly easy, by Canadian composers, all of them living. This programme was not without interest, but it confirmed the impression that I have that there is a dearth of easy pieces by Canadian composers in a modern idiom. We have our fair share of "modernists." John Weinzweig and Harry Somers yield to none in the remorseless application of Schoenberg's theories, but all their work is quite out of the reach of the average child. If these gentlemen could be persuaded to write easy pieces for beginners in their own idioms the gap might be partially closed. After all, Stravinsky and Bartok have not thought it beneath their dignity to write quite elementary pieces, and many of Bach's works which he wrote for instructional purposes in his large family circle are still used and cherished. But the besetting sin of the present day seems to be megolamania. Composers with real lyric gift strain to be symphonists instead of being what they are. It is as though sprinters yearned to be cross-country runners without possessing the necessary staying power.

✧ ✧ ✧

MY ADVICE is often sought on the purchase of a piano. Before I can be of any use I have to find out the purpose for which it is intended. This may sound a rather unnecessary precaution on my part; people do not buy pianos for firewood or to use them as aquariums. Nevertheless I can assure my readers that it is necessary to bear closely in mind the purpose of the instrument, or else I may find myself talking at cross-purposes. Speaking generally a piano can be regarded as an article of funiture or as a musical instrument. In the former case (the word "case" seems appropriate here) there is very little that I can contribute to the discussion unless it is to urge the prospective purchaser to buy something intrinsically more goodly to look upon than a piano, for considered quite impartially the piano is rather a hideous thing at the best of times, and when it is tricked up in inlaid woods or painted in some improbable shade it emphasises the more unfortunate aspects of its proportions.

✧ ✧ ✧

PERHAPS the safest thing to do is to buy your piano from a reputable dealer. You may get a better bargain at a sale if you are lucky, but you may quite easily pay through the nose for a completely worthless instrument. A reputable dealer simply cannot afford to risk his good name by selling junk at an exorbitant price. All the same, it is as well to get the opinion of some unbiased person. The main thing, however, is as I mentioned at first, to make up one's own mind concerning the purpose of your purchase. If it is to be used primarily as a stand for photographs and potted plants any discussion of the inside workings is irrelevant: if it is for playing purposes the external appearance should be of subsidiary significance.

Use for Ha'pennies

It's hard to keep a good coin down. The English half penny, though now almost valueless in Britain is greatly prized in Denmark, where it can be used to extract 60 cents worth of cigarettes from vending machines.

City Of The Prophet

By PHILIP DEANE

ON August 20 this year the Sultan of Morocco, Sidi Mohamed Ben Youssef, was deposed by the French for his nationalist tendencies and replaced by the docile Sid Mohamed Ben Arafa. Moroccan patriots have not taken too kindly to the new Sultan; and nowhere is feeling against him more strong than in Fez, the thousand-year-old inland city which is the centre of restless Moroccan nationalism today. Although Ben Arafa is a "Fassi"—a man from Fez—the French believe that the citizens of this city will be the last Moroccans to take their new Sultan to their hearts.

Fez seems to have a collective mind: a mind, working inside a closed barrier of high, crenellated walls, which has always hated outsiders and nurtured opposition to invaders. It is not only the home of the Sultan: the present leader of Moroccan nationalism is Allal-el-Fassi—"Allal the man from Fez."

Fez was founded in the ninth century by Idris the Second, an Arab from Mecca. His father, Idris the First, was a descendant of the Prophet Mohamed, and a pretender to the throne of the usurping Abassids, the family of the great Caliph of Baghdad, Harun-Al-Rashid.

Harun-Al-Rashid, the Caliph of the Thousand and One Nights, disliked pretenders; and killers had followed Idris the First wherever he went. He had to leave town after town as the Caliph's emissaries arrived; and finally he resolved to go as far west as he could, and live, away from his enemy, in Morocco.

The simple nomads of the Atlas Valleys were impressed by someone who carried the Prophet's blood in his veins. They worshipped Idris the First, and begged him to be their King. He accepted, and ruled, it is said, in a saintly fashion until the day two men arrived from the east, along the road he had followed.

With poison given them by Harun-Al-Rashid they took the life of Idris the First; and then died at the hands of the dead ruler's followers.

The son of the victim was hailed Sultan, and he is reputed to have been a great one. Around the fresh waters of a spring he built his new capital, Fez, and in the hills nearby he founded a sanctuary town in memory of his saintly father. Today this town, Moulay Irdis, stands white in the brown hills, high on a peak, like an eagle's nest. It has a sanctuary area where you can claim immunity from the police, and it has inevitably, a tourist industry, with photographs of its simple, dazzling mosques, its staircase streets and its nude prostitutes.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT for all its holiness, Moulay Idris is not as holy as Fez. Inside the walls of Fez beats the heart of Morocco. In the famous Routoubiya Mosque, young students in flowing djellabas sit at the feet of religious teachers and hear the sonorous verses of the Koran. In their colleges and tea houses they talk of the past glories of Islam and dream of new glories.

Untrained by their teachers for a Western world, they burn,—these students—to learn from the West, as the West learned from Islam in the Middle Ages at the famous Arab universities, Corboda, Granada and Seville. And as the West learned from the Arabs and used this knowledge to build the Renaissance and defeat Islam, so the students of Fez want to learn from the West to make Islam victorious again. They feel they are born to do it; for they are born in Fez the Imperial City, which has always absorbed its conquerors and made them Fassis, Men of Fez.

These students lounge around the covered market streets, seemingly confident that Fez will succeed again, and make the conqueror's personality its own. And the man of the West cannot linger long in those streets without feeling that the city is pushing itself, irresistibly, into his world.

Hawk-eyed Britain journalists recently rocked the world with startling news about Princess Margaret. She uses a spade the wrong way around.

Yes sir, she planted a tree at Henley the other day and immediately word flashed around the world that she digs left-handed.

If seems a pity that the Nobel prize for literature has already been wasted on Sir Winston Churchill. It should have gone, beyond a doubt, to reward the vigilance of those who keep us up-to-date on Her Majesty's younger sister.

It is indeed, a magnificant job of reporting.

Every time the Princess goes dancing and dining with a young man we not only hear about it in a matter of minutes but we get a news bonus of speculation about the probable date she will marry him.

Where Margaret is concerned, the eager press sees all, hears all, knows all. This time ace reports were even rushed forthwith to Buckingham Palace for further enquiries.

No, Margaret isn't left-handed. She just hasn't done much digging.

Condemnation Not Enough

(Montreal Star)

The Big Three case against Israel in connection with the Kibya raids has been put before the Security Council, but Britain, France and the United States have agreed to postpone their demand for condemnation until Israel has been heard. This undertaking may have some significance. It indicates that some of the heat has gone out of the controversy since it began to be replaced by the sober realization that condemnation of one or other of the Middle East belligerents will not of itself aid the cause of peace in that troubled area.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Now a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha . . . Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick . . .

Then when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already . . .

Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. But I know, that even now, whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it thee.

Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again.

Martha saith unto him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day.

Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live . . .

Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

And when he thus had spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth. And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with graveclothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go. (John 11: 1, 3, 17, 21-25, 41-44).

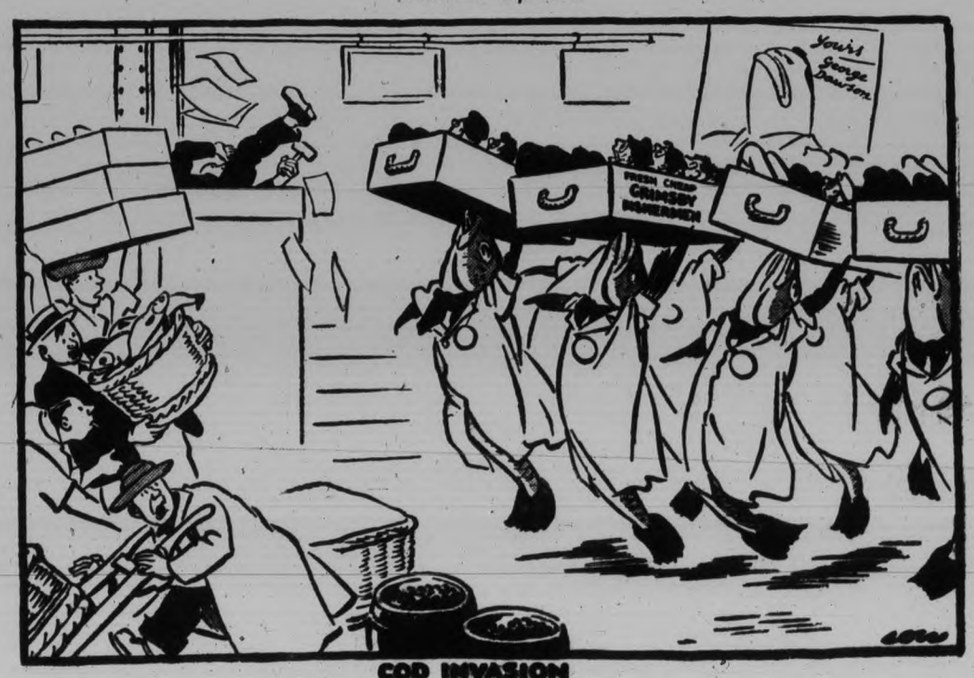
Far Eastern Trade



(Windsor Star)

It is going to be very difficult, except on a temporary basis, to prevent large-scale trade with Communist China. So many nations are dependent upon that trade for domestic prosperity. Thus we have a group of members of the Japanese diet returning from China with a $168,000,000 barter trade agreement, and the Indonesian Government announcing the sending of a trade mission to China and plans to export rubber to that Communist country.

People of such countries as Japan and Indonesia must find markets for what they have for sale, else they starve. The only alternative is subsidization from this continent. The United States won't let down its tariff to allow entry of Japanese goods and our own Canadian Government is in a predicament what to do about such goods. Indonesia can't find a sufficient market in western countries for her rubber her principal export.

Sooner or later a practical approach must be taken to trade with Communist countries. Free nations are amply justified in refusing to ship them strategic goods. But the economy of too many nations, in Europe and Asia, is involved not to consider the wisdom of freer trade in other commodities.

A British Opinion

THESE ARE THE FACES of a "lost generation" fighting with the French Foreign Legion in Indo-China, dirty and tired, but still able to grin as they sample dinner cooked in a tin helmet, left, or dig in for the night, right, atop a Red hill.

Patrols Fight Grim Battle To Survive In Indo-China

By FRED SPARKS

WITH THE FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION in North Indo-China—(NEA)—At night the infantry in enemy country doesn't look for a hotel. They look for a place to dig in. A place where they may still be alive in the morning.

Our company commander picked a small hill shaped like a camel's hump. We weren't in the front line. We were ahead of it. The nearest French position was five miles back.

The enemy, in some numbers, was all around. We had zig-zagged forward those five miles, taking all day, sniffing for Communist installations.

We were part of the French offensive into the highlands south of the Red River Delta, the greatest operation in two years.

The enemy avoided battle. He satisfied himself with defending, briefly, a small town and pegging shots from jungle and hill.

20 PRISONERS

We had taken 20 prisoners and suspects. They were put to labor, including hauling my pack.

Everyone bent to, using the infantryman's short-handled shovel. Scraping the rocky hill was like denting an ice cube with a spoon.

The rear was radioed for barbed wire. Wire prevents surprise.

Two nights before this company of French Foreign Legionnaires had lodged in similar heights without wire. Communists, sneaking through a brushy fringe, were on them with bayonets poking, grenades blasting, before proper alert.

Fortunately, the attackers were short-handed. Fourteen Legionnaires died, an equal number shot and slashed. The Legion is perhaps the best infantry in the world, and the spilled blood was not all Legion—by three to one.

In 30 minutes a Dakota circled overhead and parachuted rolls of wire at the foot of the hill. The PoWs lugged the wire uphill, balancing bamboo poles on their shoulders in the timeless freight of the Orient.

After a wire crown girdled the nob, mortars were adjusted, foxholes completed, and little fires blinked. Soup and coffee warmed in steel helmets. There was tinned meat and bread and a few sips each of Pernod and a good glassfull of red wine.

Death in war is a gamble of statistics. We gambled. If the Communists cared to pay they could sweep us from this hill, like you sweep an insect off the tablecloth.

LOST GENERATION

There are no human secrets during such a gamble. Men want to talk. I heard one Legionnaire's story—the story of a lost generation—typical of most of the Legionnaires:

He was 16, a mobilized Hitler Youth, at the Nazi collapse. His boots and trousers too large, he slopped around like a cartoon kid. In British prison he lingered months behind barbed wire. Barbed wire is the trade mark of this century.

Released, he tramped home. His old house was black ruins. His family? Neighbors shrugged.

With others of his lost generation he picked at the garbage of bare survival. Escape came in the form of a Legion recruiting poster.

Now he was again behind barbed wire, a mercenary soldier who is fighting for three meals and companionship, his life expressed by the favorite Legion song: "My regiment is my only home . . . a family I have never known . . ."

We chatted under a fat moon. While it glared we relaxed. Around four, the moon was curtained. Then it came. A Legionnaire nearest the wire saw movement. His tommy gun fired at the shadows. And movement was seen on the other sides.

In crises the Legion moves with the precision of a ballet. As a Communist machine gun fired our mortars ringed possible approaches.

The prisoners talked loud in fear from their tightly guarded rows. One started to shout in a sing-song monologue. He earned a quieting blow.

CONFUSED AT NIGHT

Night war is total confusion. The next 25 minutes were so. Maybe the Communists planned a blitz. Maybe they were merely harassing. I saw nothing.

There were many shots, many explosions. A few Legionnaires were slightly wounded.

Then it was still, and it remained still. In the morning there were torn bits of people on the wire. Any bodies had been removed.

Dawn, after such a night, is new life. The coffee might be made from rice paddy water and the bread stale as a long forgotten crust. They were delicious.

I left the Legionnaires as they began their day's zig-zag, their Red hunt. Tonight they're sleeping on another hill, taking another gamble, as the French offensive continues.

The lost generation is fighting for the next generation.

RCMP Report Shows Increase In Crime

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCMP reports a "substantial increase" in crime in Canada.

The force's annual report blames the rising crime rate on greater activity by narcotic peddlers and safecrackers, and on a sharp increase in the number of motorists charged with impaired or drunken driving, both criminal charges.

The report, issued today, also says:

1. There is little hope that British Columbia's Doukhobor problem will be solved by emigration of the fanatical Sons of Freedom.

2. A danger exists that "more conservative Doukhobors" may take part in outbreaks of violence in B. C.'s Nelson-Grand Forks area.

3. Canadian smugglers have started to use counterfeit United States currency to pay for contriband brought in from the United States.

SMUGGLING DECLINES

4. Smuggling of United States cigarets has declined following the cut in price of the Canadian product early this year.

5. There is no indication of any trend toward narcotic addiction among teen-agers in Canada.

6. The force is making plans for the construction of a permanent headquarters in Ottawa.

The report says criminal investigations by the force in the 1952-53 fiscal year ended last March 31 totalled 167,354, an increase of 20,450 or 13.9 per cent over the previous year. Of the cases investigated, 113,423 or 67.8 per cent resulted in convictions; 3,161 cases ended in dismissals, 1,205 awaited trial and 8,031 were still being investigated.

INVESTIGATE INFRACTIONS

During the year, the force investigated 46,909 infractions of the Criminal Code, an increase of 5.07 per cent over the previous year. The number of murder cases totalled 34, a decrease of six, but attempted murders rose to 22 from 17, manslaughters to 105 from 104 and assaults to 3,459 from 3,347.

The report says there has been "no indication of any lessening of the illicit traffic in narcotics drugs." It says 405 Canadians were arrested during the year for violation of the opium and narcotic drug act compared with 444 the previous year. The total is the highest in several years.

PRICES SPREAD

Heroin continues with few exceptions to be the only narcotic encountered in illicit traffic, the report says. The price to the addict ranges from $3 to $3.50 a capsule in eastern Canada to $5 on the West Coast and $15 in Edmonton.

A sharp increase in the number of safe-crackings is noted in the report. The total increased during the year to 190 from 122.

The report says 67 safe-crackings occurred in Alberta, 51, in British Columbia and 37 in Saskatchewan. Only 35 crimes of this type were committed elsewhere in Canada.

The report says 4,253 motorists were charged during the year with driving while intoxicated or while their ability to drive was impaired by alcohol. This was an increase of 2,111 over the last nine months of the fiscal year ended March 31, 1952. The impaired driving charge did not become law until June 30, 1951.

ORFUNS OUSTED IN EASTERN FOOTBALL FINAL

Bow To Montreal Flyers In 11-0 Grid Playoff As Fumbles Prove Costly

By CEC. PERDUE

Peterborough Orfuns, 1953 ORFU intermediate "A" champions, met their Waterloo in Montreal on Saturday when the Lakeshore Flyers of the French-Canadian metropolis (as ORFU victors) knocked the Kotowski crew out 11-0 in the sudden-death Eastern Canada final. About 3,000 noisy fans saw a shaky first-half Ontario squad spot the homesters 11 points by half-time and then outplay the Montrealers the last half but not score on them. The Flyers will be at home next Saturday to Fort William in the Canadian final. Lakeshores and Orfuns met in a similar eastern playoff last year here with Orfuns yanking out a 2-0 win.

BOBBLES HURT

Fumbles hurt the Peterborough cause on three different occasions. The first one set up Montreal for a touchdown early in the game, and the other two later on halted strong marches by Orfuns. The victors' line charged harder than the visitors, they clicked better on passing—though it was essentially a ground grid game—and kicker Joe Stracina lofted longer ones than Don Bark, who kicked his usual steady game. Orfuns had 12 first downs to Montreal's 10, and the latter club got but one during the last half, while Peterborough moved the sticks six times. However, Montreal cashed in on fumbles and several times intercepted passes. Each team drew but one penalty in a clean fray.

Wilf O'Hagen got both touchdowns for the victors, the second one being converted in the second quarter by Kevin O'Neill. Orfuns grumbled at several fast whistles which worked against them, but these didn't make any noticeable difference in the outcome.

A STRONG WALL

Flyers' line was exceptionally strong, particularly through centre. They charged hard and hungrily and their blocking stopped rival drives cold except for the odd off-tackle smash and the end sweeps. They held Orfuns twice on third down stabs when the visitors were deep in Montreal territory. Ron Lamb completed two passes in six tries to gain less than 40 yards.

O'Hagen starred for the Easterners, and O'Neill, Don McDonald, Harry Shrugrue and Stracina were other good ground-gainers for them. Bill Huntley came up with another terrific effort for Orfuns, while Roy Armstrong reeled off some fine gains, and Bus Jensen was another Petes' ace. The whole squad battled bitterly and made it a real championship playoff, though showing their best form in the last half. The Quebec champs got the jump on them early and that made the over-all difference.

EVEN AT FIRST

Armstrong ran back the kick-off 15 yards but a reverse lost five, a pass missed and Bark booted it to Flyers' 35. McDonald and O'Hagen bucked for a first down, and O'Hagen and Lamb moved the sticks again before Orfuns' line held and forced a kick. Army and Jensen got a first down and then a backfield fumble by Orfuns was snatched by Baillie on Petes' 22-yard strip. McDonald promptly skirted end for nine and O'Hagen got two for a first. Melvin on a reverse gained five and O'Hagen ploughed over for a major, O'Neill missing the convert. Orfuns then drove right up after Jensen's good runback for three first downs, Huntley, Army and Jensen lugging the pigskin, but just 10 yards out Huntley was stopped cold trying to buck the centre and they lost on downs. After a kicking exchange, Bartlett intercepted a Huntley pass and Gilletely grabbed a Lamb pass to go 15 at quarter's end.

BATTLED BACK

Stracina got away a long kick in the second and Huntley bulldozed for 10. Later Armstrong ripped through for 15 but passes missed and they lost on downs after a good march. O'Hagen, Shugrue and McDonald carried the Montreal mail for three first downs before Stracina had to hoof it to Jerry McGillis on the Petes' five. Following a Bark boot, Flyers drove up again with Shugrue starting it on a good runback, Birmingham taking a pass, Lamb pulling a sneak, and solid bucks by O'Hagen, Stracina and McDonald. O'Hagen shook loose to pound around end eight yards for another try, and O'Neill kicked the convert to end the scoring.

Just when Orfuns were rolling nicely in the third, McDonald snared a fumble to set them back. Trim got through to block an attempted placement by O'Neill and Ouellette grabbed the ball. Army, Jensen and Huntley were going again when a pass was fumbled and Montreal recovered. Later a fine end run by Army was called back for illegal interference to once more stop an Orfun parade up the field. Shortly after, Montreal was penalized for no yards, and Shugrue limped off hurt. Jerry McGillis had a good runback on a kick as the flag went down.

BIG BILL ROLLS

Early in the fourth, Berry took a kick and dashed 10 ere being grounded. Huntley smashed through for 20 and was still moving when the whistle stopped him. They tried passes but kept missing on long heaves as Montreal showed a good pass defence. Birmingham ran a kick back 12 before a good tackle by Ouellette. Milling got away a short pass to Huntley but they missed on two more desperation throws and lost possession. Saracini booted a hefty one and then Hope got a 12-yard Milligan pass. Huntley twice got first downs and Groves took a short Huntley pass, but Olsen intercepted one after by Langhorne and time ran out on Orfuns.

Orfuns: Hope, Jensen, Beatty, Armstrong, Berry, Bark, Fitzgerald Holman, Kirkwood, Ouellette, Brioux, McIntyre, Howe, Newark, Milligan, Nickle, Trim, Forrester, Langhorne, J. McGillis, D. McGillis, Groves, Berthelot, Huntley.

COSSA CHAMPS — WELLAND — The senior "A" COSSA football championship was swept away from Bev Goulding's PCVS Garnet and Greys Saturday in nine minutes by Welland High Tigers. A strong running attack in the final minutes by Tigers' quarter, Learn (3, top right), and by half Boom-Boom Katch (6, lower right) in the final minutes produced two touchdowns for a 17-7 victory. PCVS' lone touchdown was scored by Terry Roberts (his white helmet just showing in top left photo) on a quarterback sneak. Learn scored the winning touchdown on the same play (lower left photo) even though he was caught by veteran Larry Forbes. —(Examiner Staff Photos).

Welland Captures COSSA Senior Crown With Fourth Quarter Rally Over PCVS

Welland High School Tigers are 1953 Central Ontario Secondary School Association senior "A" football champions. The favored Niagara Falls district representatives trailed Bev Goulding's PCVS Garnet and Greys 7-6 until midway through the fourth quarter of the sudden-death championship game at Riverside Park Saturday. A blocked kick, a short kick and two pass interceptions enabled the Tigers to score twice in the final nine minutes to defeat the defending champions 17-7. It was a heart-breaking finish for Coach Goulding and his team, most of whom were playing their first season of football. On the strength of territorial play, the Garnet and Grey had more than their share and should have successfully defended their championship.

But Welland had too many experienced players, giving the Tigers good depth, something which the Garnet and Grey didn't have. The collegians, especially the line, tired early in the fourth and the Tigers were quick to take advantage.

A GREAT JOB

Larry Forbes, veteran lineman for PCVS, played the best game of his football career. Playing snap and centre secondary, Forbes sparked the collegians' line on both the offence and defence.

For three-quarters, Forbes, Walker, Whitnell, Lynch, McGrath and other PCVS linemen opened wide holes in the Welland line for plunges by Barry Hollingsworth, Bob McKinney and Terry Roberts. They also gave fair protection to Roberts on passes and to Chuck Geale on punting.

On the defence Forbes called the defensive patterns and played a large role in most of the tackles. They managed to hold Welland stars, Boom-Boom Katch and Soup Campbell, to short gains.

But in the fourth, the line's blocking and tackling faltered as the collegians tired quickly. The holes for plunges weren't opening. The blocking for Roberts' passes was faltering and what was most important Welland was allowed to break through on Geale's punt attempts.

Twice within minutes Welland linemen broke through, blocking the kick the first time and hurrying the second which was short. Both times the Garnet and Grey pass defence staved off Welland attacks as two Tiger passes were intercepted.

But the pressure was too great for the collegians for on the third attack Welland didn't miss. They were stopped temporarily and quarter Learn attempted a field goal from the 30-yard line. It was poor but the ball bounced over the line.

Then came the break which gave Welland the championship. As Geale attempted to run the ball out, several PCVS players illegally "screened," preventing Welland tacklers getting too near Geale who was tackled for the tying point.

But the play was called back for the violation and PCVS penalized yards, giving Welland a first down 15 yards out.

Katch and Campbell plunged to the PCVS one-yard line where Learn bruised his way through for the touchdown. That gave Welland the lead, 11-7.

PCVS rallied after the kickoff. Hollingsworth, McKinney and Roberts carried the ball to the Welland 35. Suddenly Roberts switched to the air. The pass was intercepted by Welland's Ellsworth. Just as fast Welland went back up the field and finally Katch broke into the open along the sideline to score the final major. Learn converted for the 17th point.

There was another turning point in the game which also favored Welland. At the same time it showed excellent sportsmanship on the part of Coach Goulding.

It came in the second quarter wtih Welland out in front 6-1. The collegians recovered a Tiger fumble on the Welland 45. Hollingsworth and Roberts took the ball to the 25-yard line where Geale kicked.

The ball sailed high up and appeared to be headed over the deadline for a point. Suddenly it hit wires stretching from one baseball light pole to another. The ball dropped, Welland touched it and fumbled. Gord McGrath and John Eastwood dropped on the ball just over the line.

At first, since there were no rules covering this incident, Referee Bob Mumford, of Toronto, ruled a touchdown for PCVS. Marshall Weir converted, giving PCVS the lead 7-6.

But before the kickoff the coaches and Mumford discussed the referee's call: Since the wires were in the field of play, Mumford said he would have to rule a touchdown unless the coaches agreed otherwise.

Since the ball was headed over the deadline for a sure point before hitting wires, Coach Goulding agreed to waive the touchdown and accept the point which still gave Welland the lead 6-2.

But early in the third quarter the Garnet and Grey made up for that decision. Taking over on their own 35-yard line, PCVS moved the ball on plunges by Hollingsworth and McKinney. Then two penalties for holding and roughnig, both against Welland, put PCVS in scoring position, Roberts sneaking over to make the score 7-6 for PCVS.

That one-point lead held until the fourth when Welland took the lead to win.

PCVS scored first in the early minutes of the game when they recovered a Welland fumble at the 45-yard line. They worked the ball to the Welland 25 where Geale kicked over the deadline for a point.

Welland's Russell, Katch, Reilly and Ellsworth plunged back after the kickoff to the PCVS one where they were stopped. But PCVS were forced to kick and Welland took over on the 45-yard line. Learn immmediately passed 25 yards to Kormos in the clear for the touchdown. Learn converted for a 6-1 score.

U Of T, Western Play Off For Crown

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Western Ontario Mustangs and University of Toronto Blues, who have kept he senior intercollegiate football union title to themselves since 1939, are at it again. They meet in the sudden-death final for the 1953 title next Saturday.

Practically considered shoo-ins since the six-game college season opened Sept. 26, they clinched the playoff berths Saturday, although Mustangs got into them through the back door. The Blues defeated Queen's Golden Gaels 6-1 at Kingston and Mustangs dropped their second game of the year, 16-13, at Montreal to McGill Redmen.

The week-end games left Varsity at the top with 10 points and a choice of venue for the final, and the defending Mustangs with eight points. Queen's finished third, another two points back.

SCORING CHAMPION

Western's Gino Fracas hopped from third place to first to take the scoring championship with an 11-point day and a season's total of 44. He scored two touchdowns and kicked a convert.

Steve Oneschuk, who kicked the convert on Bill McFarlane's fourth-quarter Varsity touchdown, ended in a second-place tie with Ron Stewart of Queen's, who was sidelined early in Saturday's game. Each scored 40 points during the season.

The Varsity victory was scored when the Blues took possession on their 49 after an exchange of kicks. They rolled to the Queen's one-yard line on ground plays by Phil Muntz, Bob Pinkney and McFarlane and McFarlane took a pitch-out to go around end for the major.

Frank Geard kicked Queen's single late in the game.

An inspired McGill team battled from behind in the final quarter to take the points.

It was the final game of college football for 12 of the Redmen, and it probably was Vic Obeck's last as coach. It is expected he will resign shortly but will continue as athletic director of the Montreal college.

A brilliant 80-yard touchdown by Herb English early in the third quarter turned the tide. The gallop came after a safety touch had sent Mustangs into an 8-6 lead.

Len Shaw scored the other McGill touchdown and Fred Wilmot kicked two converts and a field goal. A single by Len Wright completed the scoring late in the game.

A week from this coming Wednesday we begin the Neill Trophy bonspiel. Its for rinks of scheduled calibre. Give your entry to Norm Hamley.

And on Wednesday, Dec. 2 it's the first open bonspiel—mixed rinks—an all day affair—Fred Stenston is chairman of this bonspiel.

With the installing of a PA system the club is falling in line with other clubs that found this system a big time-saver and of great convenience to the curlers, especially so at bonspiel time. Outlets are placed throughout the rink at advantageous points and can be heard by all. O. Price and A. Lister superintended installation.

Another improvement was the redecorating of the club's parlors and of "No. 8", also the addition of several pieces of furniture.

These improvements are greatly appreciated by the curlers. Mrs. R. Morgan and her house committee and Thos. Doughty and his property committee were responsible for this work.

It takes a lot of time to do these things and we want to add our little say with—"A good job—well done."

Winning skips Saturday afternoon L. Moore, G. Green and M. Metheral.

At night, H. Dulmage and Dr. R. Morgan were the winners.

Carol Howe Wins

Competing last Friday in Toronto against other YW swimmers Carol Howe of Peterborough won the annual competition for the Powell Shield Trophy by 19½ points. Last year she took a cup as runner-up to the winner, trailing by just two points. Winner of the main trophy for three years retains it. The events were staged in the Willard Hall swimming pool, 10 girls from various centres taking part. Miss Howe was the only contestant from Peterborough.

The four-year reign of Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom as light-heavyweight champion of the world came to an end 19 years ago tonight when he was outpointed by Bob Olin in 15 dull rounds at New York. Rosenbloom later built a new career in Hollywood motion pictures and restaurant ownership.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Late Saturday afternoon, following Orfuns 11-0 loss in the Eastern Canada grid final, we were rolling down Montreal's St. Catherine St. in Dick Ouimet's car when Stan McBride said: "Why don't you dig up that poem you wrote once on the football fumble—I'll make that a special request." We can't ignore our public on a special request, especially a husky hunk of public like genial Stan, so we got busy with the files on returning to Peterborough, and here's the gem:

* * * * * *

What makes the coach's language hot,
What makes home fans perspire,
When the grid machine stops rollin'
And commences to backfire?

It isn't just the rival squad
Which local players blame;
It's that everlastin' fumble
That undopes a football game.

(Chorus)
Oh, the unexpected fumble,
That butter-fingered shame;
It's the everlastin' fumble
That undopes a football game!

Those Blinkin' Bobbles

'Tis true, mes amis, those fumbles have ruined more rosy dreams than oysters after midnight. If they didn't beat Orfuns in Mo'real the past weekend they contributed heavily. Gave Flyers one touchdown and stopped Orfuns twice on dangerous drives. Of course, a very solid Lakeshore line played a big part in the Quebec win, too, and they edged us on passing and kicking. Orfuns outplayed the easterners all through the last half, but couldn't score. Bashing Bill Huntley turned in another terrific chore for the locals, and Army Armstrong and Bus Jensen tore through for a lot of yards. Don Bark kicked a good steady game again, and our line labored mightily all the way. They were beaten by a good team but not disgraced.

* * * * * * *

Orfuns congratulated the victors at the finish and shuffled sadly to their dressing-room where the post-mortems set in. They certainly felt badly about the defeat, but you can't win 'em all. They're still Ontario Intermediate "A" football champions for this year and a good gang. Quite a few fans went down by train or car, and a number of former Peterborough people showed up at the game to lend vocal assistance. Bill Osborne of Molson's threw a party for the Orfuns after the joust, and the boys broke training (after a grind from mid-August) and took in some of the night spots in that lively centre. Fort William gridders will be doing it next week after the Canadian final there.

End of Trail for PCVS

Tough luck also attended the efforts of PCVS senior "A" footballers in Riverside Park on Saturday. A strong Welland team came from behind in the fourth quarter to capture a 17-7 verdict in the sudden deather and win the COSSA senior "A" crown from the defending champions. A blocked kick, a short boot, and two pass interceptions set up two touchdowns for Welland in the late stages of a fine fray. A real rough break for Coach Bev Goulding and his good PCI-ers, a team which came a long way after a discouraging start and came close to getting the COSSA crown once more. Grimsby beat Albert College of Belleville 4-0 for the COSSA senior "B" title while Burlington took Oshawa 12-6 to grab the COSSA junior "A" championship in Saturday scraps.

* * * * * * *

Along the local hockey front, Lindsay and Peterborough open the OHA junior "B" season here tonight, an 8:30 touch in Civic Arena. Red Creighton's crew travel to Port Perry on Saturday to play the Oshawa outfit. Our senior Petes, after dropping a 6-3 number here Friday to Kingston, meander up to Orillia on the morrow. Saturday tilts saw Belleville yank out at 6-5 decision o'er Oshawa Truckmen while Kingston clouted the Pontiacs down 11-7. Oshawa leads with 10 points, Kingston is next with six, Petes have five, Belleville four and Orillia one. Lindsay intermediates meet Lakefield here Wednesday. There's a PMHA bantam tussle at six tonight, Police vs. Bell.

Louis Says Rumors Of Marriage Ruse

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis says all that talk about him being married was just talk.

It was part of a ruse, Joe said Sunday, to help him and a lady friend get two choice seats for the Kid Gavilin-Johnny Bratton welterweight title bout in Chicago Friday night.

Louis said he telephoned Truman Gibson, the Chicago store manager of the International Boxing Club, and asked for two fight tickets—one of them for "my wife."

The gag worked. Louis and Greta Starks of Detroit watched the fight from the third row.

Louis was in Buffalo visiting friends.

Leafs Blank, Tie Bruins At Weekend; Injuries Heavy

By WALTER GRAY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Is there a doctor in the house? There was and he was much in demand after a rugged weekend in the National Hockey League. Two fractured legs in Toronto Saturday night. Hypertension running rampant in Montreal. The six clubs engaged in a half-dozen skirmishes. Detroit Red Wings emerged with two wins over New York Rangers: 3-2 in New York Saturday and 4-1 in Detroit Sunday. Chicago Black Hawks defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-2 in Montreal Saturday and gained a 2-2 deadlock with the Habs in Chicago on Sunday.

Toronto Maple Leafs blanked Boston Bruins 2-0 in Toronto Saturday and tied the Bruins 1-1 in Boston Sunday.

DISASTER FOR BRUINS

The Toronto-Boston series was a manpower disaster for Bruins' coach Lynn Patrick. Veteran defenceman Bill Quackenbush suffered a fracture above the right ankle when he slammed into the boards after being checked by Toronto's Sid Smith in the second period. In the third, leftwinger Real Chevrefils broke his right leg just below the knee when he skated into Toronto defenceman Fern Flaman.

Hospital officials say both players are in good condition but will be laid up for at least two months.

STEWART TIES GAME

Sunday night, Ron Stewart gave the Leafs their tying goal eight minutes after veteran Porky Dumart put the Bruins ahead early in the third period.

The Leafs remained in second place along with Detroit. They are two points behind the leading Canadiens. The Bruins are in fourth spot, three points behind Toronto and Detroit.

In New York 13,782 fans, the largest crowd of the season, packed Madison Square Garden to see the Red Wings score three goals in the third period to defeat New York 3-2. The scorers were Glen Skov, Vic Stasiuk and Metro Prystai. Wally Hergesheimer and rookie Camile Henry scored for the Broadway Blues.

SIXTH OF SEASON

Sunday, Gordie Howe and Red Kelly scored their sixth goal of the season to lead the second Detroit week-end victory. Johnny Wilson and rookie Bill Dineen scored the others.

The two losses left the Rangers in fifth place, six points behind the Bruins.

The 14,412 fans in Montreal's Forum weren't happy with their Canadiens Saturday night. They clapped for action several times and were rewarded only with a fight between Chicago's Larry Zeidel and Doug Harvey of Canadiens and a verbal battle between referee Jack Mehlenbacher and Hawk captain Bill Gadsby who was given a misconduct penalty.

Gadsby, George Gee and Larry Wilson scored for the Hawks. John McCormack and Dick Gamble, both just up from minor leagues, counted for the Canadiens.

Windsor Meets Saskatoon For Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Windsor AKO and Saskatoon Hilltops will carry the banners of the East and West when they clash Saturday for the Canadian junior football championship.

They'll tangle in Saskatoon and Windsor will be fighting to defend the title they won from Edmonton last season.

The AKO won the Eastern crown at Windsor Saturday by whipping Verdun Sham-cats 26-11 on a great running and passing offensive. At Saskatoon the same day, quarterback Bob Adam spearheaded the Hilltops to the Western title with a brilliant individual performance as they drubbtd Vancouver Blue Bombers 50-6.

A crowd of 4,000 saw Windsor take a 12-0 lead in the first quarter over the Sham-cats and then go on to score their 10th straight win without defeat, nine of them coming in their regular Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule.

Halfback Bob Fletcher scored two touchdowns, one of them on a 98-yard runback of a kick-off, and three singles. Flying Wing Jack Forrest and end Pete Murphy tallied one TD each and Zeno Karcz booted converts on three of the four majors.

End Dermot Murphy and half Eddie Simms went over for Majors for the Sham-cats and Harry Haukkala converted one of them.

Ball League Unable Solve Problem

MONTREAL (CP) — The International Baseball League, unable to iron out difficulties involving admission of new teams to the triple A loop at a meeting here Sunday, has scheduled another session for Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 2.

It was continued uncertainty over acquisition of the Richmond, Va., franchise that prevented the league from accepting both Richmond and Havana, Cuba, into the circuit.

The league voted to continue on an eight-club basis, if at all possible.

The International now officially has seven clubs, the eighth, Baltimore Orioles, stepped up to the American League, but it is known that Springfield, Mass., interests would like to dispose of their holdings.

The franchise of Richmond, which has been operating in the class B Piedmont league, is owned by Eddie Mooers who also owns the ball club's park which has a seating capacity of around 6,500.

It was reported there was no difficulty as far as Havana was concerned but it was understood the price asked for the Richmond franchise was too high.

Shaughnessy indicated further approaches would be made to Mooers before the Atlanta meeting.

The International president said an alternative would be acquisition of the Richmond franchise by draft but IL heads were non-committal on this aspect.

Canada-U.S. Tied For First Place

TORONTO (CP) — Canada and the United States tied for first place in the international team puissance event at the Royal Winter Fair horse show Saturday night.

Shirley Thomas, riding White Sable as one of the Canadian entries, and Mrs. Carol Durand, up on Reno Kirk for the United States, ended in a tie after two jump offs.

Two British entries and Canada's Starcliff, ridden by Lt.-Col. Charles Baker, tied for second place.

Kitchener Downs Barrie 8-3; Hawks Victorious

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Against the tail-enders of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Toronto Marlboros play like bums. Against the league-leaders they look like champions.

Marlboros, who lost two successive games to their inter-city rivals, St. Michael's College Majors, to help the Collegians out of eighth place, turned the tide in Toronto Sunday and bounced the first-place St. Catharines Teepees 8-1.

In the second game of the Toronto doubleheader St. Michael's continued their uphill climb with their fourth consecutive victory—a 4-2 decision over Quebec Citadelles.

Galt Black Hawks took a 7-5 home-ice victory over Guelph Biltmores Saturday night. Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts downed Barrie Flyers 8-3 in Barrie in the other Saturday clash.

Davie Reid fired three goals for Marlboros against the TeePees as he kept up his blistering scoring pace. Dave Jackson notched a pair with singles going to Wally Maxwell, Charlie Burns and Mike Nykoluk. Jack Armstrong notched the sole counter for the TeePees.

Bill Colvin, Jim Logan, Marc Reaume and Ken Gribbons shared the scoring for the Irish against the Citadelles. Mike Ratchford and Gilles Thibault replied for Quebec.

Rick Collins sparked the Hawks with three goals against Guelph Saturday. Minnie Menard added a pair. Eddie Switzer and Ron Halstead got the other Galt goals. Bob Attersley, Bill Pirie, Al Forham, Al Shack and Chuck Chalmers shared goals for Guelph.

Grieg Hicks bagged three for Kitchener as the Shirts downed the Flyers. Gary Collins, Paul McPherson, Bruce Jones, Ivan Tennant and George Onotsky scored singles for the Greenshirts. Barrie marksmen were Terry Chattington, George Raneiri and Cleland Mortson.

Reds Wallop Warriors 5-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League race tightened up during the weekend although Buffalo Bisons continue to show the way.

The Bisons picked up two points, downing the last-place Syracuse Warriors 3-2 Saturday night.

Providence Reds defeated the Warriors 5-2 Sunday to move into a four-way tie for second place with Cleveland Barons, Hershey Bears and Pittsburgh Hornets.

At Providence Sunday, with the score tied 2-2, the Reds scored two goals within 14 seconds late in the second period and added another in the finale.

Pete Kapusta, Chuck Scherza, Zellio Toppazzini, Alf Baccari and Paul Larivee scored for the winners and Leo Curick and Rocky Hogg scored for the Warriors.

At Cleveland Saturday, the Barons scored three times in the third period to defeat pittsburgh -3 while at Hershey Toppazzini scored twice in slightly more than a minute to give Providence a 2-1 decision over Hershey.

Athletic Union Sets Dates For Games Trials

MONTREAL (CP) — The Amateur Athletic Union of Canada ended its four-day, 60th jubilee annual meeting Saturday, clearing the slate of the major portion of business pertaining to the 1954 British Empire and Commonwealth Games.

Setting places and dates for trials to determine the make-up of Canada's AAU teams for the big sports spectacle was the most important issue.

Five sports—track and field, boxing, wrestling, weight-lifting and fencing—will be under AAU jurisdiction at the games in Vancouver July 30-Aug. 7. The marathon event comes under track and field.

Trials for the men's and women's track and field team, which will have the biggest AAU representation at the games, were awarded British Columbia and will be held July 9-10. The team named will remain on the coast for the games.

BOXING TRIALS TO ONT.

The 1954 Canadian open track and field championships were given to central Ontario, also awarded the boxing trials on condition AAU requirements are met by Dec. 15. In the event Toronto fails to meet the requirements, Montreal will get the trials.

Montreal will play host for the fencing trials to be held between May 10 and May 24. The Canadian fencing champions will be held in Vancouver following the games.

The meeting voted the wrestling trials to Montreal. They will be held between May 10 and May 25. Saskatchewan was given the 1955 Canadian wrestling championships.

British Columbia also was on the receiving end of the gymnastic trials and Canadian gymnastic championships.

Southwestern Ontario was voted the marathon trials.

Morrie Bruker of Montreal was elected AAU president for 1954, succeeding Jim Worrall of Toronto.

Varsity Regains Championship

TORONTO (CP)—University of Toronto regained the intercollegiate senior harrier championship for the five-mile run from Royal Military College of Kingston here Saturday. Varsity has won the title every year since the Second World War except last year.

Fred McDougall of Queen's University won the race and the individual crown but his win didn't count for Queen's because he was a member of last year's RMC team and was therefore ineligible. McDougall finished the race in 27:37.6.

Toronto collected second, fourth, seventh and ninth places to take the championship. RMC was second, eight points behind. Ontario Agricultural College was 31 points behind the leaders, McMaster university 36 behind, and McGill 38 points off the pace.

University of Western Ontario, not entered in the senior competition, took the intermediate title with a perfect score of 10. Varsity was second and OAC third.

Fisher Of Beaches Wins Keith Trophy

TORONTO (CP)—Gattem Fisher, six-foot-three-inch import tackle with Toronto Balmy Beach, has been awarded the Jimmy Keith Memorial Trophy as the most outstanding player in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Fisher, a native of Salisbury, N.C., was voted the honor by players from the four ORFU clubs. He received the award at a half-time ceremony Saturday and shortly after helped Beaches defeat Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 24-12 for a 30-21 win in the ORFU two-game total-point final.

Galt, London Rinks Take Bonspiel Prizes

GALT (CP)—Rinks skipped by Syd Smithers of Galt, Don Campbell of London, Ont., and E. H Pooler of Toronto took prizes at the Early Bird bonspiel here Saturday.

Smithers' rink won the G. J. Little Trophy by defeating H. Howard's Toronto Granite team 11-5. Campbell's crew downed the Hamilton Victoria team skipped by Brian Timmis 13-5 to take the Gore Trophy.

Pooler's Rink edged J. W. Currie's quartet from Paris, 12-11 for the Galt Curling Club Trophy.

Merritton Priest Rev. W. J. Kelly Dies

MERRITTON (CP) — Rev. William Joseph Kelly, pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church here for 18 years, has died, it was learned Sunday. He was 66.

Born in Guelph, he was ordained in 1912, and then served at Orillia, Toronto, Mimico, Midland and Weston. He was a chaplain with the armed forces overseas during the First World War.

COVERING UP doesn't have too much effect when you're facing a foe of Kid Gavilan's prowess, but challenger Johnny Bratton (left) tries it anyway. Note that nasty left, cocked for action. Gavilan retained his welter crown by a 15-round decision in Chicago.

Hamilton Whips Ottawa 18-8

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In the 1950 Grey Cup final deadpanned Indian Jack Jacobs was tagged the "goat" when Winnipeg Blue Bombers lost the now-famous mud-bowl 13-0 to Toronto Argonauts. Unless the unpredictable happens, he will have a chance to toss the epithet into the teeth of his critics at this year's classic.

The cagey old pro set the stage for a return visit to Toronto's Varsity Stadium Nov. 28 with a 25-minute performance that swept Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a thrilling 30-24 victory over the Eskimos at Edmonton Saturday night in the deciding game of the best-of-three Western Conference final. It probably was one of the greatest games of his colorful career.

The only obstacle to Bombers' late-November journey to Varsity Stadium is Toronto Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, but that should be only a tough scrimmage for the red-hot Bombers. They meet in the Grey Cup semi-final at Winnipeg Saturday.

Bombers' triumph before a sell-out 16,000-crowd at Clarke Stadium was the highlight of a week-end that decided the fate of the favored Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen in the ORFU and Queen's Golden Gaels in the Intercollegiate Union. All were shunted to the sidelines for another year.

The wake for the Riders was held at Hamilton where the underdog Tiger-cats whipped them 18-8 and advanced into the Big Four final for the fourth straight year. Ottawa's loss, coupled with an easy 27-8 Montreal victory over Argonauts at Toronto, scuttled Riders' playoff hopes and sent Tiger-Cats and Als into the best-of-three final.

The Dutchmen carried a three-point lead into Toronto Sunday for the second game of the home-and-home total-point ORFU final and lost 24-12 before a 7,000 crowd, the largest of the season in the league. On the round, it was Beaches 30 Kitchener 21.

BLUES ON TOP

The Gaels, fighting for a college playoff spot, dropped a 6-1 decision to University of Toronto Blues at Kingston while University of Western Ontario Mustangs were upset 16-13 by McGill Redmen at London. The games closed out the regular college schedule and left Varsity on top with 10 points, two up on Mustangs and four ahead of the Gaels.

Rough Riders couldn't get untracked at Hamilton and trailed 12-8 going into the final quarter. It may have been a different story but flying wing Bobby Simpson of Riders gave Tiger-Cats a second-quarter touchdown when he fumbled a punt behind his line and Don Beatty of the Cats picked it up on the first bounce.

KROL FETED

They celebrated "Joe Krol Day" at Toronto to honor the veteran Argonaut player's retirement after a 15-year senior career, and the half-time gift-giving ceremony was the only thing Argonaut fans had to cheer about. The Als pushed the Scullers around and built up a 15-5 lead at the half.

Toronto's last-place finish on a 7-6 won-lost record was the worst since coach Frank Clair took over in 1952. The 1952 Grey Cup champions now have a big rebuilding job for 1954.

The ORFU title was Beaches' 10th since 1924.

Quarter Bob Schneidenbach and halfback Dick Gregory, both imports, paced the Beach offensive. Schneidenbach scored a touchdown and passed to Harvey Singleton for another. Gregory kicked two field goals and three converts. Al Chard got the other Beach major.

Playing coach Jerry Tuttle, let loose by Beaches this year, scored one Kitchener touchdown and Jack Mancos went over for the other. Stu Crouse kicked a convert and scored a touchdown.

Dutchmen Lash Indians 6-2 To Take Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen have finally lodged themselves on top of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings.

The Dutchmen pasted the Indians 6-2 in Stratford Saturday for their eighth victory of the season against one defeat.

The Dutchies have the edge in games played. The rest of the loop has played from two to six games more than Kitchener.

Closest rivals to the Dutchmen are the second-place Chatham Maroons who were defeated 5-1 by the Tigers in Hamilton Saturday. Sarnia Sailors downed Owen Sound Mercurys 8-5 in the other Saturday game.

The Mercurys suffered their fourth consecutive setback when they lost 5-1 to the Bulldogs in Windsor Sunday.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A circuit Sudbury Wolves took a double victory during the week-end to move into first place. The Wolves dropped Sault Ste. marie (Ont.) Greyhounds 4-2 in the Sault Saturday and shut out the Indians in Sault, Mich., Sunday. North Bay Trappers defeated the Lumber Kings 3-1 in Pembroke.

Ken Laufman with two goals and Gerry Theberge, Charlie Brooker, Don Rope and Jack McKenzie with singles hoisted Kitchener into the top rung Saturday. Lloyd Finkbeiner and Don Oberholtzer scored for Stratford.

SAVAGE SCORES THREE

Don Savage scored three goals for Sarnia. Harry O'Connor, John McKennel, Rollie Beauchamp, Pat O'Leary and Jerry Horton rounded out the total for the Sailors.

Elmer Norris fired two for the Mercurys, Ray Leckie, Jerry Reid and Tom Burlington getting the others.

Jack Taylor scored two for Hamilton against Chatham. Lloyd Ferguson, Al Buchanan and Ab Conick added singles. Bill Lee was the marksman for the Maroons.

Frank Bathgate, Fred Hildebrand, Gary Gordon, Lyle Wiseman and Jack Power shared scoring for the Bulldogs Sunday. Tom Burlington counted for Owen Sound.

Kitchener is at Windsor and Chatham is at Niagara Falls Tuesday. Pembroke is at North Bay tonight in the NOHA.

Jacobs Fills Breach To Give Bombers 30-24 Victory

By GRAHAM TROTTER

EDMONTON (CP)—Poker-faced Indian Jack Jacobs, a defensive standout whose passing magic was supposed to have left him after with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has silenced his critics.

The tall Oklahoman did it Saturday night in a 25-minute second-half performance that gave Bombers an uphill 30-24 victory over Edmonton Eskimos and their first Western interproviniial Football Union title since 1950. It was a tremendous one-man show that will rank as one of the most dazzling in WIFU history.

16,000 FANS STUNNED

Called into the breach in the third quarter, Bombers railing 12-6, the 34-year-old pro stunned the 16,000 fans with a piece of wizardry that ranked him as the best passer in the Western Conference.

He sprang 22 plays between the time he took over and the breath-taking dying minutes which assured victory on a pass interception and 100-yard touchdown run. All but two of those plays were passes.

In that brief period Jacobs threw 20 of Winnipeg's 28 passes, made 14 of their 16 completions and accounted for 228 of their 286 yards gained through the air. All this produced three converted touchdowns on passes alone, for half of Bombers' point total.

While the 195-pound Jacobs revelled in his often full-time defensive role, many thought the crowning blow to his prestige was dealt in the opener of the final series when coach George Trafton had him handle the ball at quarter to run off plays called by Joe Zaleski.

Zaleski did all the signal calling through the first two games of the series and most of Saturday's deciding contest. But when Bombers got desperate early in the third quarter. Jacobs was turned loose.

The turning point of the game arrived with two minutes to go and the score tied 24-24 after Bombers had closed a 12-point gap in the last quarter. Quarter Claude Arnold passed Eskimos downfield from their 30 to the Winnipeg 21.

Dave Skrien intercepted an Arnold pass on the Winnipeg 10. At the Edmonton 50 he lateralled to veteran Negro Tom Casey and the 170-pound half romped for the game-winning major.

All-star half Rollie Miles, an offensive star all night, took an Arnold pass for one touchdown and passed to end Tom Stolhandske for another, besides helping to account for almost two-thirds of Edmonton's 469 yards rushing and passing. Halfback Billy Vessels from Oklahoma, 13 pounds underweight after a serious back injury, and fullback Normie Kwong scored Edmonton's other two majors on running plays.

Tackle Wilbur Snyder of Eskimos and Bud Korchak of Bombers onverted all the game's touchdowns.

Bombers now meet Toronto Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions, in a sudden-death Grey Cup semi-final game in Winnipeg Saturday.

LONDON (AP) — Sir Gordon Richards, 49-year-old king of the saddle, became England's champion jockey for the 26th year Saturday.

He booted home 191 winners during the flat racing season which ended Saturday at the Manchester track, and raised his total of winning mounts to 4,816, most of any jockey in the world.

Richards missed the 200 mark for the first time since the war, but 1953 was one of his most memorable in 32 years of riding.

Queen Elizabeth made him a knight, with Pinza he won the Derby for the first time in 28 attempts, and also took the valuable King George VI and Queen Elizabeth stakes at Ascot with the same three-year-old colt.

Sir Victor Sassoon, owner of Pinza, topped the owners list as his horses earned $164,018.

RETIRE TROTTER

ROCHESTER, N.H. (AP)—Permanent retirement of Yankee Hanover, 1952 champion four-year-old trotter, was announced Saturday.

Mrs. John L. Wehle, owner of the stallion, said he would be leased to the Two-Gaits Farms at Carmel, Ind., for stud purposes.

Yankee Hanover has suffered from a foreleg splint since early in his racing career. Despite this handicap he won more than $76,000. He was rated the fastest three-year-old in 1951.

WATERVILLE, Me. (AP)—Canadian bantamweight champion Fernando Gagnon of Quebec floored Yogi O'Berra of Brooklyn, N.Y., three times in the third round Saturday night and was awarded an automatic technical knockout as the round ended. Both weighed 122.

A left to the jaw by Gagnon dropped O'Berra to the canvas for the mandatory eight-count. A minute later, Gagnon landed a right to the jaw and O'Berra rose at the count of nine. Then, one second before the bell, Gagnon knocked down O'Berra for the third time with a right and the referee halted the scheduled eight-round bout.

PLAYING POSSUM—It's a favorite trick of the Mau Mau terrorists in Kenya to play dead when captured. Organized as a fighting force to drive the white man out of the territory, the Mau Mau have killed some 600 men, women and children. Few Hardships In Korea For Canadian Soldiers

IN KOREA (CP)—About the only hardship Canadian soldiers will undergo here this winter will be their absence from home.

The forthcoming months will see the Canadians' fourth—and snuggest—winter in Korea. Brig. Jean V. Allard's force will be almost as well accommodated as troops stationed in Canada, will have more amenities and will get better training.

Units have all but completed work on their campsites, more like landscaped parks. The Royal 22nd Regiment's boast even rockwork terraces and stone fences.

WELL-EQUIPPED TENTS

Floorboards and wooden walls for the platoons' squad tents have begun to arrive and are expected to be installed throughout before really cold weather sets in. Every tent has one stove now, and ultimately will have two. Most will have electric light.

Steel quonset huts with concrete floors house unit headquarters, quartermaster stores, messes and canteens.

Besides completing their own camps and keeping up their training, units also provide details for work on defensive positions.

Everyone is busy and morale is high. This is reflected in discipline. Two minor offences in the Royal Canadian Regiment recently were the first requiring the CO's attention in more than three weeks—unusual in any army anywhere.

One reason given is the troops' interest in their work. They see the pay-off in their own smartness, comfort and amenities.

RECREATIONAL CENTRE

An example is the brigade recreational centre, Allard's personal conception and his pet project.

The units take turns in providing work details. When completed the centre will embrace a 3,000-seat open-air amphitheatre (already used for the brigade boxing championships) a 700-seat "jumbo" quonset theatre, with added stage and dressing-rooms and a projection booth built on at the other end; an ice-rink bull-dozed out of the paddies and watered from a near-by stream; a library-hobby shop-dry canteen likely to be staffed by Canadian Red Cross girls; a snack bar; a wet canteen uninhibited by military policemen.

In the area will be the brigade's own radio station, soon to be set up with equipment purchased in Japan, and permanent quarters for the army bands Ottawa will be sending on six-month tours.

ONE-WEEK RUN

First-run movies will have one-week runs at the recreation centre, while units will have different feature pictures every day in their own lines.

A bus service will operate in the brigade area between 4 p.m. and 11 p.m., furthering the community atmosphere in "Canada north of the Imjin."

Apart from routine tactical training, with both day and night exercises, one day a week is set aside for ceremonial drills. The RCR is even doing march pasts in column of companies and the advance of the entire battalion in review order—routine here but special events back home.

No force, however high its morale, is wholly without "beefs."

NOT TO FORE

Unless the subject is raised by the visitor, the cabinet's abolition of special gratuities for Korea, announced last month, perhaps surprisingly is not the one that comes to the fore.

On that one the soldiers express the opinions to be expected of anyone experiencing a drop in pay.

The RCR (and, one is told, the Patricias) are hot about their impending disbandment, consequent upon the reorganization of the army and the reduction of their regiments to two battalions.

"All we infantrymen have are our regimental traditions and when we're robbed of those what have we left?" said one officer.

No Progress Reported In Mine Strike Conference

TIMMINS (CP)—Further talks between union and Hollinger mine officials were held Saturday but no progress was reported towards settlement of the seven-week strike of the mine's 2,000 workers.

The session broke up with the negotiators agreeing to meet again today. Negotiations to break the deadlock first resumed last Tuesday.

The Hollinger mine is one of several in northern Ontario and northwestern Quebec closed by strikes. The wave of strikes has left 5,000 miners idle. They walked out to back up demands for higher wages, checkoff of union dues and other benefits.

C. H. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) speaking Sunday night to a meeting of 1,300 persons in a Timmins theatre, said that bread and butter issues are the real stumbling blocks in Hollinger negotiations.

CHECKOFF A SMOKE SCREEN

Mr. Millard said the checkoff had been built up by the mining companies as a "smoke screen" to hide resistance to higher wages, shorter hours and other working conditions enjoyed by most Canadian workers.

He said the mine management here had been stripped of their bargaining power by the mine's officials in Toronto.

Mr. Millard told the meeting that negotiations with Hollinger to date "appear far from promising."

"We must be prepared for a long strike," he added. "We must make it clear to the mine operators that we will not be starved into submission.

He said he is going to ask the labor movement in Canada to increase by 50 per cent its contributions to aid the striking miners.

Smash Spy Ring In Indo-China

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—Viet Namese secret police announced Sunday they have smashed a spy ring operating for Communist China, arresting 60 persons, including the president of the Chinese Communist party in North Viet Nam.

Police said they also seized a radio transmitting set and raided three reception centres located in this war capital of French Union forces fighting the Communist-led Vietminh.

The announcement said Red Chinese agents were operating among the 100,000 Chinese living in North Viet Nam, gathering information on the military situation and maintaining contacts with a "central Communist organization established in Hong Kong."

Hollywood Tightens Belt Times Changing Greatly

Editor's Note: Is Hollywood dying, mourned only slightly by a fed-up public Is TV going to bury it These are questions as hot in the movie capital as burning celluloid Here, a veteran of almost 25 years on the Hollywood scene for The Associated Press looks at the old days, at today, and tomorrow.

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cary Grant once put it this way:

Hollywood is like a crowded street-car. You catch onto the back step and ride a little way. Then as someone up front gets off, you move forward a little. As more get off, you move up to a good seat."

The street-car named Hollywood has shrunk to a one-man trolley, which is another way of saying that fewer pictures are being made. This means fewer stars and fewer fortunes.

In their early days movies attracted a roisterous bunch of clowns who made Hollywood the screwball capital of the world. What would be regarded as bad behavior elsewhere became the expected in Hollywood.

I haven't made up my mind whether Hollywood makes sin attractive or if it is just that such attractive people are sinners. Take your pick.

STARS INDIVIDUALISTS

Most stars, being individualists, always have lived in a way that seems to make life here a dream-like existence.

Marion Davies set the party pace, when she was the social leader, with her startling costume parties in her startling beach house — a sort of American Versailles with 24 bedrooms and an equal number of baths.

Charlie Ray of the long-ago silents had gold-plated bathroom fixtures and took a childish delight in showing them off. And speaking of bathrooms, it was in Jean Harlow's house that I saw my first (and probably last) ermine-covered toilet seat. Ah, what a furbelow!

One needs much rest in movie work, so sleeping chambers are the decorators' delight. Frederic March had his bed upholstered in pigskin, probably because he was fond of football. Or ham.

What these demigods do off the screen is news to their fans—and seems to be of immense help in selling their wares.

MANY DEFEATS

No one cares to hear about failure. But for every success, there are a thousand who meet frustration and defeat in Hollywood.

This brings us to the subject of acting, of which there is not very much in the movies although the illusion is wonderful. Many great stage stars—Lunt and Fontaine, Helen Hayes, Gertrude Lawrence, Maurice Evans, to name a few—have failed in pictures. They enact roles.

The stars who have been on top of the movie heap play themselves. Bogart, Davis, Colbert, the Barrymores, Cagney, Crawford, Gable, Grable, Turner, Tracy, Peck and scores more can be depended on for mannerisms and speech which are peculiarly their own. We'd be disappointed if they stepped out of character.

Much in Hollywood, both off the screen and on it, is not what it appears. But don't get the idea that the town is populated entirely by characters. There are many substantial citizens who live quietly in the same houses with the same wives year after year.

No such story as this would be complete unless a fairly obvious question is answered: is Hollywood growing up? Technically, it is near perfection, although still better ways will be found to project films.

BACK TO KNUCKLES?

Artistically, it is better than ever. Fewer pictures will mean better pictures (with the accent on stories) because second-rate stuff has no market. Morally, it is not so bad as it once was. Economically, the industry generally will suffer because there will be fewer jobs.

All in all, a remarkable change has come over Hollywood. Nunally Johnson, writer and director, noting the transition—and that many of his fellows are out of work—wondered about this wise:

"We've been eating awfully high off the hog. I wonder what pigs' knuckles taste like?"

Find No Clues In Kidnapping

WINDSOR (CP) — Police said Sunday they have found no clues in the kidnapping Friday of a three-year-old girl who was found abandoned near the vehicle entrance to the Detroit-Windsor tunnel three hours after she disappeared.

The child, Catherine Shannon, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shannon, was unharmed. Mr. Shannon is an executive of Parke Davis and Co., Ltd., Windsor.

Police said they believed the kidnapper intended to take the girl to Detroit but became nervous and abandoned the child.

At home, Catherine told her parents and police she was "picked up by a dirty man."

Nothing Stands Still...

A very long time ago a wise old philosopher observed that the only thing in the world that doesn't change is change itself.

This was just his way of saying that nothing in this world of ours is permanent . . . that all things are affected by change. Of course, with many things like rocks or oceans even slight change often takes centuries, but with other things change can, and often does, occur almost overnight.

Take business conditions for example.

In business, nothing stands still. Changes occur almost daily . . . and security values and investment opportunities change with them. Sometimes these changes are minor; at other times they are of widespread significance; occasionally they take place quickly, but more often they occur gradually over an extended period.

Keeping abreast of change . . . gathering, analyzing and interpreting information which affects security values . . . and helping clients plan and follow a sound investment course, is a big part of our business.

If you think you should be planning an investment program . . . if you are considering changes in your present program . . . or if you would just like information on which to base an investment decision, we invite you to consult us. You will be welcome in any of our offices . . . just write, telephone or drop in.

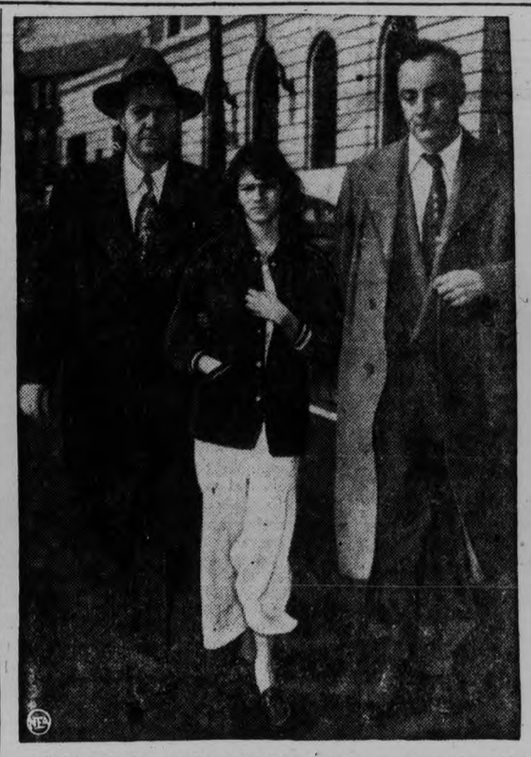
Village Marks Remembrance

WESTWOOD (ENS)—Remembrance Day was observed in Westwood Community Hall Sunday afternoon with the Rev. N. Cole in charge.

Mr. MacDonald lay reader of St. Michael's Anglican church, read from Revelations and led in prayer.

Mr. Cole addressed the gathering. In his remarks he said Thanksgiving and Remembrance are closely akin to each other. We should be thankful to Almighty God that peace has been established, however, precarious it may be. We should remember the enormous sacrifices made for us. It is also a time of resolutions when we should try for the same loyalty, courage and determination that led our soldiers to victory.



The procession moved to the cenotaph where the names of the war heroes and also those who had paid the supreme sacrifice were read.

The Province of Ontario wreath was placed by Mrs. Fred Neilson and the Women's Institute wreath by Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

Exercising While You Loaf

How You May Build Tiger-Trim Figure

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Well, I was just sitting there with my feet on the desk, contentedly watching a spider spin a cobweb between my two shoes, when the phone rang.

"Are you one of those lazy men who hate exercise" demanded a voice.

"No," I said honestly, "I'm just one of those lazy men who hate people who exercise—and brag about it."

"How would you like to exercise while you loaf" asked the voice. "How would you like to build a tiger-trim figure without even moving a muscle yourself?"

"Can I do this lying down?" I asked cautiously.

"Sure," said the voice. "You can even read, eat, watch a TV program, or fall asleep, and all the time you are getting to look more like Hercules. We do it with a machine. Come over and see."

So I climbed out of my lethargy and into a taxi and trundled over to a Fifth avenue salon that said on the door: Relax-A-Cisor.

A brunette named Louise Simonet led me into a small room where a pretty blonde, Charlotte Rakay, lay stretched on a table. Miss Rakay wore a bathing suit and a series of damp felt pads that looked like an old-fashioned truss ad. Wires led from the pads to a small radio-like machine with knobs at her side.

"This machine takes the place of your nerve centres and electrically flexes your muscles for you," said Miss Simonet, "at the rate of 20 contractions a minute or 1,200 an hour. It does all the work for you. All you have to do is plug it in and turn the dials. It can tone up any muscle in your body while you relax."

NICE TWITCH

"How about that old serratus anterior muscle?" I asked cynically.

She adjusted a pad on the blonde girl's left rib section, and tuned it in. Immediately Charlotte's splendid serratus anterior began a rhythmic twitch.

"How does it feel?"

"Tingly . . . just tingly," replied Charlotte reservedly.

"Now, we'll test it on the muscle we sit on, the gluteus maximus," said Miss Simonet. She put a pad under each of Charlotte's hips, and a moment later the blonde lady was giving a completely relaxed imitation of Gypsy Rose Lee at her best.

"Wonderful thing, electricity," I murmured. "How does that feel?"

"Tingly . . . just tingly," said Charlotte coolly. "There is no feeling of shock at all."

Well, maybe not from her viewpoint. We went on from there, testing muscle after muscle, and Charlotte's pectoralis major responded as gamely as her vastus externus.

"Now, would you like to try the machine?" asked Miss Simonet.

Bashfully, I agreed to test the only muscles I had on display at the moment, those in my triple-threat chin. She held a pad under my chin like a buttercup, and immediately the muscles began automatically twitching.

"How does it feel?" asked Charlotte.

"Tingly . . . just tingly," I told her.

Normal Military Methods Useless In Indo-China

By CORLEY SMITH

HANOI, Indo-China (Reuters)—Normal military methods are as useless against the Vietminh rebels in Indo-China as a cannon ball against a horde of mosquitoes.

In the jungles and rice paddies of Indo-China, the Communist-led Vietminh attack in swamrs, suddenly and usually by night.

As soon as the modern French military machine rumbles into action against them, they just disappear to strike another day. Soldiers here get aggravated and frustrated.

General Henri Navarre, French commander-in-chief, realizes that if the Vietminh are to be defeated, they must be dealt with like swarms of gnats. They must be prevented from breeding. They must be kept away from food and other supplies. Whenever possible, they must also be cornered and scientifically swatted.

The coming months will show whether the rebels can be controlled, or whether they will spread and multiply to dominate the entire country.

The campaign will soon begin in earnest and will probably reach its peak by the second half of next year.

POLITICIANS TO HELP

More regiments of French and North African troops have begun to arrive here, and a big training program, aimed at expanding the Viet Namese army by the middle of 1954, from 200,000 to 350,000 men, has begun.

The coming "anti - mosquito" campaign needs clever and sincere politicians as well as good generals.

The first step is to prevent communism from breeding in the villages and stop the flow of recruits into the Vietminh army. The best potential tool for this job is the promise of complete independence within the French Union made to all three associated states by French Prime Minister Joseph Laniel in July. If sincerely carried out, it would offset the Communist' main propaganda line that they alone are fightinf for independence.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE CLIMAX: ROOSEVELT'S DEATH

President Roosevelt died suddenly on Thursday, April 12 (1945), at Warm Springs, Georgia. He was sixty-three. In the afternoon, while he was having his portrait painted, he suddenly collapsed, and died a few hours later without regaining consciouness.

Preceding chapters have shown how the problems of impending victory rivalled in their perplexity the worst perils of war. Indeed, it may be said that Roosevelt died at the supreme climax of the war, and at the moment when his authority was most needed to guide the policy of the United States. When I received these tidings early in the morning of Friday, the 13th, I felt as if I had been struck a physical blow. My relations with this shining personality which had played so large a part in the long terrible years we had worked together, had come to an end, and I was overpowered by a sense of deep and irreparable loss. I went down to the House of Commons, which met at eleven o'clock, and in a few sentences proposed that we should pay our respects to the memory of our great friend by immediately adjourning. This unprecedented step on the occasion of the death of the head of a Foreign State was in accordance with the unanimous wish of the Members, who filed slowly out of the chamber after a sitting which had lasted only eight minutes.

All the nations paid their tributes in one form or another to Roosevelt's memory. Black-bordered flags were hung in Moscow, and the Supreme Soviet, when it met, stood in silence. The Japanese Premier expressed "profound sympathy" to the Americans in the loss of their leader, to whom he assigned the responsibility for "the Americans' advantageous position today". The German radio said, in contrast, "Roosevelt will go down in history as the man at whose instigation the present war spread into a Second World War, and as the President who finally succeeded in bringing his greatest opponent, the Bolshevik Soviet Union, to power."

When Parliament met on Tuesday, April 17, I moved an address to the King conveying to His Majesty the deep sorrow of the House and their profound sympathy with Mrs. Roosevelt and with the Government and people of the United States. It is customary for the leaders of all parties to speak in support of such a motion, but there developed a spontaneous feeling that it should be left to me alone to speak for the Commons. I cannot find today words which I prefer to those I uttered in the emotion of this melancholy event.

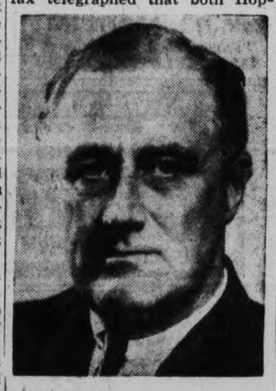
My friendship with the great man to whose work and fame we pay our tribute today began and ripened during this war.

✧ ✧ ✧

I conceived an admiration for him as a statesman, a man of affairs, and a war leader. I felt the utmost confidence in his upright, inspiring character and outlook, and a personal regard—affection, I must say—for him beyond my power to express today. His love of his own country, his respect for its constitution, his power of gauging the tides and currents of its mobile public opinion, were always evident, but added to these were the beatings of that generous heart which was always stirred to anger and to action by spectacles of aggression and oppression by the strong against the weak. It is indeed a loss, a bitter loss to humanity, that those heart-beats are stilled for ever.

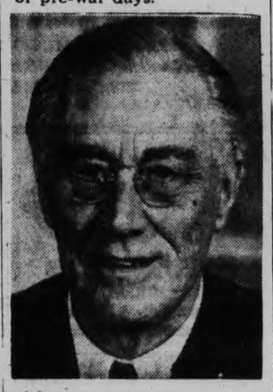
President Roosevelt's physical affliction lay heavily upon him. It was a marvel that he bore up against it through all the many years of tumult and storm. Not one man in ten millions, stricken and crippled as he was, would have attempted to plunge into a life of physical and mental exertion and of hard, ceaseless political controversy. Not one in ten millions would have tried, not one in a generation would have succeeded, not only in entering this sphere, not only in acting vehemently in it, but in becoming indisputable master of the scene.

✧ ✧ ✧



At Yalta I noticed that the President was ailing. His captivating smile, his gay and charming manner, had not deserted him, but his face had a transparency, an air of purification, and often there was a far-away look in his eyes. When I took my leave of him in Alexandria harbour I must confess that I had an indefinable sense of fear that his health and his strength were on the ebb. But nothing altered his inflexible sense to duty. To the end he faced his innumerable tasks unflinching . . .

✧ ✧ ✧



. . . for us it remains only to say that in Franklin Roosevelt there died the greatest American friend we have ever known, and the greatest champion of freedom who has ever brought help and comfort from the New World to the Old.

✧ ✧ ✧

My first impulse was to fly over to the funeral, and I had already ordered an aeroplane. Lord Halifax telegraphed that both Hopkins and Stettinius, were much moved by my thought of possible coming over and both warmly agreed with my judgment of the immense effect for good that would be produced. And later that Truman had asked him to say how greatly he would personally value the opportunity of meeting me as early as possible, and that he thought a visit for the funeral, if I had had this in mind, would have been a natural and easy occasion. Mr. Truman's idea was that after the funeral I might have had two or three days' talk with him.

BEFORE . . . . . .
This is the familiar F.D.R. of pre-war days.

After . . . . . .
Roosevelt's tired appearance in Yalta days.

Much pressure was however put on me not to leave the country at this most critical and difficult moment, and I yielded to the wishes of my friends.

In the after-light I regret that I did not adopt the new President's suggestion. I had never met him, and I feel that there were many points on which personal talks would have been of the greatest value, especially if they had been spread over several days and not hurried or formalised. It seemed to me extraordinary, especially during the last few months, that Roosevelt had not made his deputy and potential successor thoroughly acquainted with the whole story and brought him into the decisions which were being taken. This proved of grave disadvantage to our affairs. There is no comparison between reading about events afterward and living through them from hour to hour. In Mr. Eden I had a colleague who knew everything and could at any moment take over the entire direction, although I was myself in good health and full activity. But the Vice-President of the United States steps at a bound from a position where he has little information and less power into supreme authority. How could Mr. Truman know and feel the issues at stake at this climax of the war? Everything that we have learnt about him since shows him to be a resolute and fearless man, capable of taking the greatest decisions. In these early months his position was one of extreme difficulty, and did not enable him to bring his outstanding qualities fully into action.

To my first and formal telegram of condolence and salutation the new President sent a most friendly reply.

I wrote:

13 April 45

Pray accept from me the expression of my personal sympathy in the loss which you and the American nation have sustained in the death of our illustrious friend. I hope that I may be privileged to renew with you the intimate comradeship in the great cause we all serve that I enjoyed through these terrible years with him. I offer you my respectful good wishes as you step into the breach in the victorious lines of the United Nations.

Mr. Truman assured me he would do everything in his power to forward the cause for which President Roosevelt gave his life, and to guard and promote the intimate solid relations between our countries which he and I had forged.

A very informative telegram from our Ambassador reached me a few days later.

LORD HALIFAX TO PRIME MINISTER

16 Apr. 45

Anthony and I saw Harry Hopkins this morning. We both thought that he looked rather frail and fine-drawn. • • • He had not been greatly surprised by the President's death, and was thankful that he had not had a stroke and had lost power like Wilson. For some time he had noticed how much the President had failed. He had been able to do only very little work.

He judged President's death to have created a completely new situation in which we should be starting from scratch. One thing we could be certain of would be that the policy would be very much more the concerted action of the Senate. How this would work it was quite impossible to predict. Much would depend on his personal judgments of the people with whom he would be dealing.

Harry thought, on the whole, it had worked out for the best that you had decided not to come over now. To give Truman a few weeks to find his feet was very much to the good. Meanwhile you could be exchanging personal messages, which would make him begin to feel he knew you. Anthony suggested that it would be better, especially if events went the way that looked likely, and if Truman came over to see the United States troops, for him to stop in London en route, which we should like also on general grounds, and which F.D.R. had promised to do. Harry liked that idea. • • •

As regards hmself, Truman had asked Harry to give him notes on foreign and international policy, which Harry was doing, but he could certainly not carry on in his present job. Truman probably would not want him, and Harry anyhow would not do it. Truman's methods would be quite different to those of F.D.R.; he would conduct his own business, and there would be no room for Harry's particular line of usefulness. They had mentioned the future in a talk they had yesterday, but not much more than to say that they must talk again when Harry was well. • • •

It may be of interest that Truman's hobby is history of military strategy of which he is reported to have read widely. He certainly betrayed surprising knowledge of Hannibal's campaigns one night here. He venerates Marshall.

✧ ✧ ✧

To Stalin I said:

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

14 Apr. 45

• • • I have been greatly distressed by the death of President Roosevelt, with whom I had in the last five and a half years established very close personal ties of friendship. This sad event makes it all the more valuable that you and I are linked together by many pleasant courtesies and memories, even in the midst of all the perils and difficulties that we have surmounted. • • •

MARSHAL STALIN TO PRIME MINISTER

15 Apr. 45

I have received your message on the occasion of the death of President Roosevelt.

In President Franklin Roosevelt the Soviet people saw a distinguished statesman and a rigid champion of close cooperation between the three States.

The friendly attitude of President Franklin Roosevelt to the U.S.S.R. will always be most highly valued and remembered by the Soviet people. So far as I personally am concerned I feel exceptionally deeply the burden of the loss of this great man, who was our mutual friend.

Eden, who was now in Washington, wrote:

FOREIGN SECRETARY (WASHINGTON) TO PRIME MINISTER

15 Apr. 45

The Ambassador and I had a talk with Stettinius shortly after my arrival this morning. Stettinius said that both Stalin and Molotov has shown signs of being deeply moved by the President's death. Stalin had asked Harriman whether there was any contrbution he could make at a moment like this to assist to promote the unity of the great Allies. Stettinius said that fortunately Harriman had not at once replied "Poland," but instead had suggested that it would be a good thing if Molotov could come to San Francisco for the Conference. Stettinius had seized on this, and telegraphed urging not only that Molotov should come to San Francisco, but also that he should come to Washington first for conversations., An hour ago Stettinius rang me up to say that the Russians had agreed to this course and that Molotov was coming by an American aircraft which had been sent to bring him. I suppose therefore that he will be here by Tuesday, when I plan that we should embark upon the Polish issue.

This is all good news, but we ought not to build too much on it, for it yet remains to be seen what attitude Molotov adopts when he gets here. At any rate, it is stimulating to have a chance to get to grips. • • •

✧ ✧ ✧

And the next day:

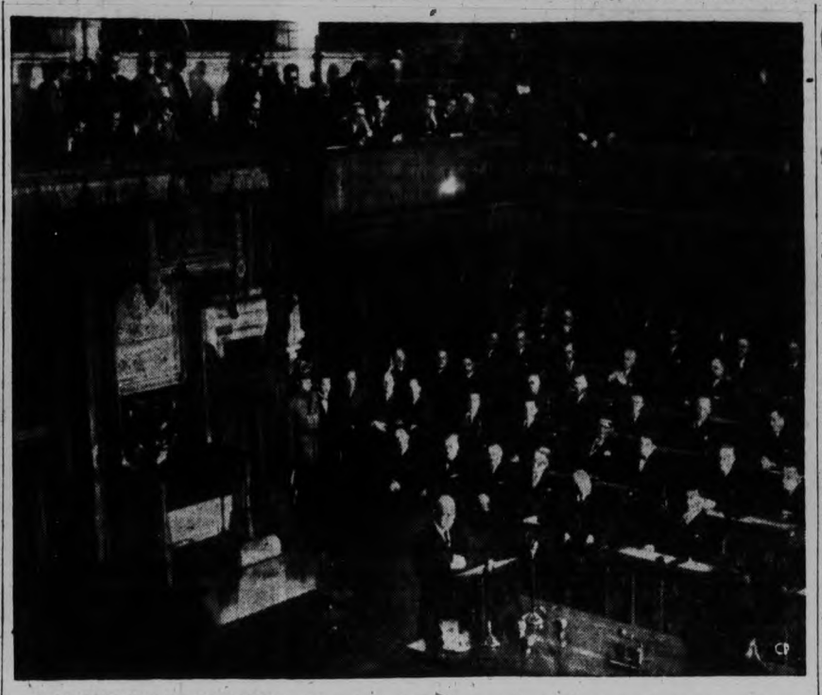
FOREIGN SECRETARY (WASHINGTON) TO PRIME MINSTEIR

16 Apr. 45

Edward and I paid our first call on the President this morning. He made a good impression. • • •

I • • • reverted to the subject of a meeting between you and the President, and said that the President would probably recall that President Roosevelt had planned to make an early visit to Europe, making London his first port of call. I knew that His Majesty and you and all His Majesty's Government would be much gratified if President Truman felt able to carry through this programme. The President said that he would like this very much, but we should understand for the moment that he had a number of immediate duties to carry through here. He must deal with a number of urgent domestic issues, and he must also familiarise himself with the late President's policies, on a wide range of subjects. It was not therefore possible for him to give a definite answer now. I got the impression however that he would like to come, though it may be that the date will have to be later than Presiden Roosevelt contemplated. • • •

My impresson from the interview is that the new President is honest and friendly. He is conscious of but not overwhelmed by his new responsibilities. His references to you could not have been warmer. I believe we shall have in him a loyal collaborator, and I am much heartened by this first conversation.



I replied:

PRIME MINISTER TO MR. EDEN (WASHINGTON)

24 Apr. 45

Much though I should like to see the President personally, I am reluctant to go to the United States in the next sixty days. It is very probable that the election will be on foot here before then. This we cannot tell until we can see more clearly the military results which lie before us. The most cordial invitaton will, I am sure, be sent to the President by the King and by His Majesty's Government. I should think that ninety days hence would not be an inconvenient date, as the General Election will either have taken place or be relegated to October. This has not yet been settled.

Opinions Vary On Godfrey Character

Editor's note: Not since Truman fired MacArthur has there been such a public furore in the United States over anybody getting the sack. When Arthur Godfrey fired Julius LaRose, 50,000,000 fans took up the cudgels pro and con. The hulabaloo raised the question. What goes on behind the homespun facade of Godfrey's radio and TV shows?

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK (AP)—The question before the house is: What kind of man is Arthur Godfrey?

Is the "lovable redhead" only a myth now coming apart at the seams? What's it like to work for him? What does it mean to be a "Little Godfrey?"

With his seven TV and seven radio shows a week, Godfrey is said to bring into the Columbia Broadcasting System every year an estimated $17,000,000, of which he reputedly keeps 10 per cent, before taxes.

At one of Godfrey's morning shows, I sat with the studio audience. The star and some of his performers seemed less relaxed than usual. But the women around me had a good time. They laughed uproariously at every joke. When Godfrey was serious, they hung on every word with a loving, motherly light in their eyes.

When the show ended, Godfrey left quickly, on crutches. I caught up with the McGuire sisters, the singing trio, and soprano Marion Marlowe.

MUST BE 'CLEARED'

None of them would talk to me unless the interview was first "cleared" with CBS. That seemed to me impractical.

In the Godfrey headquarters at CBS, one of several network press agents said: "The kids in the cast won't talk. They're too scared."

As a matter of fact, the publicity men weren't feeling too well themselves. They thought, for example, it was "ill-advised" to have held the press conference at which Godfrey first breathed new life into the word "humility."

At an advertising agency which represents one of Godfrey's sponsors and presumably has a big stake in his continued popularity, a man said we had better talk outside the office.

"Of course, you can't use my name," the man said. "Godfrey is an utter dictator. Disagreement is verboten. When he walks into a rehearsal studio, he demands absolute silence. You don't say hello to him unless he says it first. Otherwise, you get a big silence."

WRITER DEFENDS HIM

The man said I should be sure to talk to Sylvia Dowling and Walter Murphy, both of whom, he said, were abused by Godfrey.

But when I found Miss Dowling, who used to write commercials for Godfrey, she had nothing but praise for her former boss.

"Oh, sure, he made fun of my commercials," she said. "But it was all part of the script. That's a lot of nonsense about silence when he entered or not saying hello to him first."

Under conditions of strict secrecy, I then talked with a man who used to be associated with Godfrey. This source was bitter:

"Until a minute before air time, Godfrey is a ruthless tyrant. A minute later, on the air, he becomes a charming Huck Finn. A minute after the show ends, he sheds his stage personality like a cloak and rushes off in a rented limousine, without a word. . . ."

GUY WITH SOME FAULTS

Another man, a performer, told me:

"Don't picture Godfrey as a monster. He's just another guy with some faults. Maybe he acted up lately because of the physical and mental pain of the hip operation."

A couple of nights later I caught up with the "abused" Walter Murphy, who used to be Godfrey's publicity man at CBS.

"Sure, Godfrey fired me," he said, "for reasons I won't go into. But I still think he's a great guy. I can't honestly think of a thing bad about him."

"Arthur Godfrey," said a woman who used to have dealings with him, "is the kind of guy who cuts you dead on Monday and on Tuesday hugs and says, 'Long time no see.'"

I finally sought out Godfrey himself. Though he seemed under great strain, he limped all the way around his desk to shake my hand, firmly.

"I've been sick in my soul since the papers started kicking this thing around," he said. "Why are they kicking me around for that word 'humility'?

". . . To me, it's a kind of a sacred word. I wasn't being hypocritical . . . as long as people have it, to me it's greater than talent."

Has Arthur Godfrey that humility? His answer:

"As Walter Winchell says, when you think you have it, you have lost it. Have I humility? I doubt it. I doubt it . . . but all I ever wanted was that these kids should not lose that certain something they had when they first came in here. . . .

"Sure, I wouldn't fire the boy that way again. I know that was wrong. But at the time I thought it was the right thing. . . ."

Give Diamond Diggers Claim Chances

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — South Africa's hard-living, weather-beaten professional diamond diggers will have another chance to get rich quick next month, when the government opens a new 13-square-mile area for staking claims.

The ground near Bloemhof, about 200 miles southwest of here, is in the heart of alluvial diamond country of the western Transvaal, and is officially considered "payable."

All the 3,000 registered diggers who can make it will be on hand Dec. 3 to draw lots for choice claims, each hoping to find another Jonker diamond, the giant egg-shaped stone which sold for $725,000 in 1934.

The old days of mad dashes across the veldt to the best claims, often accompanied by shooting and murder, are gone. Gone too are the days when all comers lined up for the starting signal, older or wealthier diggers employing swift runners to represent them.

Nowadays lots always are drawn for the order of "pegging" claims in the new grounds which are opened periodically by the government. Only professional, registered diggers are allowed.

Lady Lions Hold Amateur Night In Millbrook Hall

MILLBROOK (ENS)—The Lady Lions sponsored an amateur night in the town hall Friday. Proceeds are to go to assist the men's club in their swimming pool and park project. Percy Hamilton acted as master of ceremonies. Judges of the piano and vocal classes were Miss Mary Lackey and Walter Morrow of Peterborough. Mr. Morrow, who acted as spokesman, complimented the children and their teachers on their standard of performance, but regretted that there was not more competition. Some of the classes were uncontested and others had only one entry. Piano classes were judged by grade, elocution by age; there was one vocal solo class, and one for duets and trios.

Piano class results were: Grade I, Ashton McMaster, Ronald Hickey; Grade III Bernard Ingham, Jane Ouellette; Grade IV, Janet Larmer; Grade V, Laureen Guthrie; Grade VII, Helen Wright; Grade VIII, Lenore Ouellette; piano duet, Ethel and Ross Perrin. Elocution: seven years, Susan Hickey; 11 years, Elinore Crowley; 12 years, Marlene Cruse, South Monaghan; 13 years, Helen Ingham. Elocution was judged by George A. Young, high school principal.

Vocal solos: Wayne Howson, Bailieboro, Barbara Aiken. Vocal duets (open) 1st, Misses Margaret and Barbara Aiken; Joan Packman and Marlene Adams. Unaccompanied Trio: Joyce Atchison, Marguerite Wood and Janet Armstrong. Between the classes in competition Miss Yvonne Richards gave two vocal solos.

Mrs. W. W. Kennedy, Lady Lions' past president made the presentation of the new wine velour stage curtains to the people of Cavan township, Millbrook and surrounding district who use the town hall for entertainments. The new curtains, hung just the day before, were in use for the first time that evening.

Mrs. Charles Brackenridge, Lady Lions' president, announced the winners and presented them with money awards.

Book Describes Etiquette Rules

TORONTO (CP)—Rules of etiquette come alphabetically arranged in Claire Wallace's "Mind Your Manners" (Harlequin Books).

Described as a complete dictionary of etiquette for Canadians, the book appears in its first edition as a pocket book.

A well-known radio personality, Miss Wallace in her search for stories on Canadian subjects found that up-to-the-minute reference books on Canadian manners did not exist.

The book, edited by Joy Brown, covers entertainment, business behaviours, weddings, letter-writing clothes, travel, tipping and other aspects of daily life. Special attention is given to proper forms of address for Canadian officials, both provincial and Dominion.

The book is brightly and compactly written. Here one can find when a woman is properly referred to as a lady and when ankle bracelets are worn, as well as how to handle the flag and how to write to the Queen.

Launch Drive To Aid Abbey

LONDON (Reuters) — City officials, church dignitaries and choir boys walked in stately procession to Westminster Abbey Sunday to launch a new campaign to raise money for the repair of the ancient shrine.

During a special service, Dr. Alan Don, Dean of Westminster, read an appeal by Sir Winston Churchill opening "Save the Abbey Week."

The prime minister urged Britons to contribute £1,000,000 this year towards the cost of repairing the Abbey.

The money is desperately needed because inspection has revealed death-watch beetle and atmospheric pollution have reduced the Abbey to a serious state of decay.

Boy 11, Saves Money For Santa's Parade

LISTOWEL (CP)—Robert Gilkinson, 11, saved the pennies he earned selling papers to take younger brother, Douglas, 5, to the Santa Claus parade in Toronto.

Unknown to their parents, they boarded a train Friday. Station agent P. N. Curry recalled selling tickets to a boy answering Robert's description and the pair was later picked up by Toronto police.

They were taken from the Station Saturday by an uncle.

SARNIA (CP)—An RCAF Pilot, who lost his bearings on a training flight from Oshawa to Windsor Saturday night crash-landed his light plane in a grazing field south of Courtwright.

Bevan Blames British Papers

COVENTRY, England (AP) — Aneurin Bevan — 56 Sunday—charged the British press is a reason why the British people are "among the most ignorant in the world" and "practically insane."

Bevan, leader of the Labor party's left wing, told a political rally here the British people are living "in a sort of intellectual twilight."

"One of the causes," he said, "is to be found in British newspapers." He named no other causes.

"They are no longer newspapers. They are power papers, used not for the purpose of communicating news to people, but for indoctrinating ideas and concealing from people things they ought to know."

"As a result," he charged, "British people are no longer capable of a right assessment of the international scene."

People Of Peaceful Swat Solve Problem Of Prosperity

WASHINGTON—One of troubled Asia's nearest approaches to Utopia is the peaceful little picture-postcard land of Swat, which has a surplus of food, 100 per cent employment, a balanced budget, and virtually no crime—except jaywalking.

Swat State is 1,800 square miles of hills, mountains and fertile valleys between the Indus and Swat Rivers, adjoining Pakistan's Northwest Frontier Province, says the National Geographic Society. Its sovereign, known as the "Wali of Swat", governs half a million people, members of the Yuzuf Zia tribe.

HORN-OF-PLENTY

Almost all Swatis are farmers. Tribesmen till the fields only three hours a day, from 8 until 11 a.m., to allow all citizens an opportunity to work. On 160,000 acres of irrigated and terraced land they raise wheat, maize, fruit, watermelons and vegetables. Crop production has increased fivefold in the last 20 years. Excess wheat is shipped to Pakistan.

Taxes are low and are collected in produce. With an annual national income of almost $2 million, Swat's government has built 400 miles of new roads leading to every part of the state.

Other federal enterprises include establishment and operation of a modern hospital and hotel. Free education is provided for 16,000 students in 56 schools. A college is nearing completion.

Swat is an independent realm, with only its foreign affairs, defense and communications controlled by Pakistan. The Wali and his five-man cabinet govern by age-old tribal laws. One modern touch is provided by a recently installed telephone system: each morning the Wali confers by phone with tribal chiefs in major villages.

Family feuds occur in Swat but robbery and other major crimes are unknown. Although it is a Muslim country, Swat also has about 4,000 Hindus and Sikhs, largely of the merchant class. No communal trouble has ever developed.

Jaywalking appears to be Swat's most serious problem. Unlike other parts of the East, Swat compels pedestrians to walk to the side of the road. Offenders are sternly punished: they are forced to run by the roadside at top speed until they drop from exhaustion.

Swat is so isolated that only a handful of vacationers have discovered it. Encircled by 20,000-foot-high peaks, the little land has an average altitude and climate similar to that of Colorado. Its cold, turbulent rivers fed by glaciers abound in mahseer, a tasty, firm-fleshed fish. A wide variety of animal life provides excellent hunting.

Saidu, a settlement of less than 3,000 people, is the nation's capital. The valley surrounding it is a fertile field for acheologists with dozens of unexcavated Buddhist ruins awaiting exploration.

Hunger Artist Claims Record

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Willy Schmitz, a professional hunger artist, claims a world record for fasting—80 days and five hours. He claims he had only mineral water and cigarets and that his weight dropped from 158 pounds to 92. He climbed out of a glass cage completely exhausted Sunday and was taken to hospital.

He told reporters the previous world record was 80 days and one hour, held by Indian fakir Reykan, whom he will meet next spring in Venezuela in a fasting duel.

Germans paid a mark (23.8 cents) to see Schmitz during the fast—his 10th in 27 years.

200 Veterans Hold Reunion

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—More than 200 veterans of two world wars Saturday night recounted moments of history and renewed friendships at annual reunions of the 63rd Battalion Association and the Western Ontario Signals Associations.

The 63rd which has a membership of 1,500, welcomed its first commanding officer, Maj. N. K. Cameron of Welland, who formed the unit in Guelph in 1916 and later brought it to London.

Veterans of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals chose James Turk, of Ingersoll president succeeding Cam Burrows of Chatham.

Area reprsentatives include Bruce McDiarmid, Ingersoll; Don Passien, Chatham; A. E. Slater, Woodstock; Frank Rowles, St. Thomas and George Harris, Stratford.

SNOW FENCE TRAMPLED

About 50 yards of snow fencing at the east end of Nicholls Oval has been trampled flat by vandals. Parks department workers believe children are responsible for the damage. Police are investigating.

PULL ALARM BOXES

Two fire alarm boxes were pulled by pranksters over the weekend. One was at 3:13 a.m. Sunday when Box 87 was set off at Monaghan Rd. and Rose Ave. The other was at 5:55 p.m., Box 7, at George and Dalhousie Sts.

SHE SAW SNAKES

Current mild weather has garden snakes fooled that perhaps a false spring has arrived. Mrs. Dan Menzies of Havelock sidestepped a garter snake on Union St., Saturday, on her way to do her weekend shopping. It was still in the same spot on her return home, although it had managed to move about two feet.

DEER ON VIEW

Returning hunters in the Marmora area, and south, stopped in the village Saturday to display game tied to their cars and trucks. There were several large animals shot, one observer noted, and some of the best luck was had by short-term hunters, during the second week.

NO CLASSES HERE

The first prospecting classes conducted by the Ontario Department of Mines were held at Marmora in 1894 and in each year since then in various mining centres throughout the province. There was one this spring in Peterborough. According to a schedule received for this winter season there will be none held in the city this year, but will be in Pembroke Nov. 23-28, Blind River, Dec. 7-12, and in Fort Frances, Port Arthur and Sudbury, during the early winter of 1954.

ATTENDED SERVICE

Mrs. Martin Chenhall her three sons and daughter were all present on Sunday at the dedication and unveiling of the memorial window in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church to the late Mr. Chenhall. For more than 25 years Mr. Chenhall was organist and choir director of St. Paul's Church and the window in his memory was presented by the choir. The three sons are Harry Chenhall of Detroit who was presented with his wife and two daughters; Martin Chenhall of Toronto along with Mrs. Chenhall and their four sons and Fred Chenhall of Halifax. The daughter is Mrs. Adam Sands of Gilmour St. In the afternoon the Chenhall family were at home to members of the choir at the Gilmour St. residence.

Tire Blows Out Car Rolls Over

ROSENEATH (ENS) — An Alnwick township farmer luckily escaped injury Saturday night when a rear tire blew out on his car, causing it to leave the road, somersault into the ditch and snap off a telephone pole.

Bruce Timlin, 48, crawled out of the overturned car with nothing more than a severe shaking-up.

The accident occurred on Highway 45, three miles northeast of Roseneath. Timlin, alone in the car, wasn't sure how many times the car rolled after the right rear tire blew.

The body of the 1947 car was damaged almost beyond repair. Provincial police investigated.

Car Strikes Wall 3 People Injured

KINGSTON (CP) — Three persons injured Saturday when their car hit a cement wall here were in satisfactory condition today, hospital attendants said.

Injured were William Oliver, 23, of St. Thomas, Gordon Fleming, 22, of Toronto, and Frances Blake, 22, of Pembroke. Donna Wall, 22, John Vareeo, 23, both of Ottawa, and Henry Sandlas, 23, of Galt, escaped with a shaking-up. All are Queen's students.

Overflow

The prisoner's box overflowed into the spectator's seats, the spectators' seats overflowed around the walls of the room and the overflow from the walls spread out into the doorway and hall of the Civic Building's magistrate's courtroom this morning. In spite of the record turnout, however, all charges were dealt with before noon, when court adjourned prior to a decision delivered by Magistrate R. I. Moore on the ladies' wear store opening hours bylaw charge against Zimel Levine.

Woman Hurt In One Of 3 Accidents

Damage in three accidents on Lansdowne St. Sunday totalled over $1,600. Only one person, Mrs. Etta Hillston, 63, of Madoc, required medical attention and she was released after treatment at Civic Hospital.

Mrs. Hillston was a passenger in a car driven by Peter Fast, 20, of 43 Manning St., St. Catharines, when it collided with a second car driven by Alwyn Jackson, 17, of 684 Park St. at Park and Lansdowne Sts.

Fast was driving north on Park St. and Jackson, west on Lansdowne St. when the accident occurred. Damage estimates of $400 to Fast's car and $250 to Jackson's, were made.

Police say charges will be laid against the St. Catharines' driver. PC Ted Stephen investigated.

HEAVY DAMAGE

Heavy damage also resulted when cars driven by John Peel, 38, of 986 High St., and Frank Allen, 18, of 721 Bethune St., collided at the corner of Monaghan Rd. and Lansdowne St. early Sunday morning.

Peel was northbound on Monaghan Rd. and Allen, eastbound on Lansdowne St. when their cars crashed in the intersection.

Peel's car sustained damages of $300 while Allen's vehicle was damaged to the extent of $450. PC Edward Patterson investigated.

Two vehicles turning right off Lansdowne St. onto George St. at the same time Sunday afternoon collided and damage to them was set at $240.

T. Barry, 24, of Kettlely, driving a truck, and Gerald Nurse, 26, of 2 Lansdowne Ave., had both been westbound on Lansdowne St. Barry was turning the corner closest to the curb when their vehicles struck.

PC Robert Muldoon investigated.

Leaving Hospital Nearly Gets Wrong Clothes

Clothing lists at hospitals baffle the nurses sometimes.

Take the case of Hugh Hunter, 272 Euclid Ave., who went to hospital after he fell Oct. 29 and broke his hip on the new post office construction job on Charlotte St.

If the nurse had followed the instructions on the clothing list when she handed the belongings back, here is what Hunter would have received:

One brassiere, a corset, a pair of bloomers, plus his own clothing.

On the clothing list appear two columns listing items of clothing and personal property. Most of the left-hand items are women's, the right-hand items are men's for the most part.

Instead of entering the articles to the right of the right-hand column, the nurse entered them just to the left, crediting Hunter with a few unexpected items he would find little use for. Luckily, he got his own clothes back.

Blame Blinding Fog For 3-Vehicle Crash

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Blinding fog covering the area was blamed for a three-vehicle crash on Highway 3, three miles east of Delhi, at 8 a. m. today, in which a Newark, New Jersey man was killed.

Paul Paskevicius, 33, of Newark crashed head-on into a semi-trailer, owned by Wallace Transport of Port Colborne and driven by Vincent Zimmerman, Sherkston. Immediately afterward another semi-trailer smashed into the side of the car. James Wilson, Erie, Mich., was the driver of this vehicle owned by the Thumb Hay Company.

TWO THOUSAND YARDS OF TOPSOIL and fill are being moved daily on the site of new Simpson-Sears store, Lansdowne St. and Monaghan Rd. Pipe Lines Bring Fire Hydrants To Lansdowne St.

Fire protection hydrants along the north side of east Lansdowne St. provide a conclusive answer to the hopes and petitions of the residents and other property owners in that outlying section of the city.

Councils of other years took into "serious consideration" proposals from that quarter which were mainly confined to the building of at least one reservoir near Downer's Corners. It was to provide water storage for emergency use in the event of fire breaking out in the neighborhood.

The probability of further expansion of that area, with the ultimate prospect of the necessity of laying a line of water mains tended to stall the undertaking during that stage of discussion. Delay and expectations have finally proved the better course as shown today by the approach of the new pipe line to the vicinity of the new plant of McGinnis Trailers.

CONNECTION

Connection was made to the water system at Armour Rd. and Sophia St., crossed the canal and turned south, continuing along Armour Rd., east of Little Lake to Lansdowne St. Cornish Construction Co. are completing the work between the C.N.R. and Lansdowne St.

A lateral line westerly on Lansdowne carries the water supply past the Wood Lumber Mill. Present end is at the top of the slope where the road leads down toward the river.

The enterprise of H. B. McGinnis Ltd. was the deciding factor in expanding the service of the Utilities Commission to that developing section of the city. When the work is done it is expected that advantages will be forthcoming in the neighborhood by revision of insurance policies and premiums resulting from the provision of fire protection in a locality where there has been virtually none.

Man Fined $10 For Imitation

OSHAWA (CP) — Magistrate F. S. Ebbs today convicted Godfrey Schilling of nearby Whitby on a charge of selling an edible oils product manufacture in such a way that it "is an imitation of or resembles . . . ice cream." The penalty was a fine of $10 and costs or 10 days.

The magistrate reserved judgment earlier in the month when he heard evidence on the charge, laid under an Ontario law, passed in 1952 and amended last spring, banning sale of edible oils products, except oleomargarine, manufactured so as to resembly dairy products.

The product involved in the case, a frozen dessert, was not described by the manufacturer as ice cream.

Magistrate Ebbs said the fine was nominal because "it is a test case." Mr. Schilling said he will appeal.

Big Ships To Winter At Sarnia Dock

SARNIA (CP)—Some of the largest freighters on the Great Lakes will spend the winter at the government dock here in company with five barges, harbormaster David Ross said today.

Seven ships are slated to winter here. They are the Scott Misener, John O. McKellar, James Norris, Victorious and Judge Kennecick. Not all the ships have tied up yet.

Wins Ewe Ribbons

TORONTO (CP)—P. E. Dearing of Exeter, Ont., won both the ewe and ram ribbons today in Dorset horn sheep judging at the Royal Winter Fair. Howard Hill of Albion, N. Y., took both reserve ribbons.

Started Slowly, Deer Hunt Produces More Than '52

The two-week deer hunting season finished on Saturday night. According to personnel of the Department of Lands and Forests who manned road-checking stations, its was generally a good hunt. The greatest number of hunters came south on Saturday and by Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. the woods and highways had been cleared.

At the Burleigh-Oregon Trail station more hunters with game left their camps and were checked through on Saturday than on any other period of the hunt. It kept a group of four department personnel busy weighing deer carcasses, collecting data, and examining the jaw bones of specimens.

Officials were surprised at the heavy weights of fawns that were shot this season; one of them was reported to weigh about 87 pounds and all of them were generally larger than usual. This indicated, officers said, a very early calving season in 1953. There were also many old deer brought down, some going seven and eight years of age. This was determined by the condition of their teeth in the lower jaws.

SOME PARTRIDGE

Some hunters spent the last day partridge hunting and a few birds were shot. There were no bears shot during the past week, no more elk than the first four reported during the week ending Nov. 7 and no more moose "shot by mistake" other than the three killed, also during the first week.

Endeavouring to determine the general overall hunting picture, department officials said that this was impossible at present.

Data cards from all over southern Ontario will have to be collected and plotted before a true picture can be arrived at and this will take several weeks. In any case, officials say, it cannot be accurate because of the snow storm a week ago Saturday that forced officers to close the checking stations. Great numbers of hunters went through the "screen" but could not be stopped for questioning due to poor driving conditions.

Deer hunting successes are not consistent, officials point out. They tell of some parties of 10 and 15 hunters that shot their quotas in areas where they always hunted. Others, all experts, got nothing in areas familiar to them and, as usual, many first-time shooters had fast successes.

FIRST WEEK POOR

The first week of the hunting season had warm unfavorable weather together with unprecedented bush fires started by careless hunters, ending with a heavy wet snowfall. The second week was much better—dogs could trace game scent, the weather was cooler for keeping game and game was moving about in greater numbers. Many hunters reported getting their party quotas during the second half of the second week.

Deer hunting in the enlarged Kawartha area was accompanied by one shooting fatality—Robert James Robertson of Newtonbrook, York township, killed by a companion's accidentally discharged rifle near Coe Hill. Two Toronto companions, Alexander Alexander and Harvey Sinclair, are in a Peterborough hospital receiving treatment for stomach and leg wounds. Three Newcastle hunters were lost in the Peterborough Crown Game Preserve but managed to find their way out.

"If a guess will do," said one department biologist, "we think that 30 per cent of hunters got their deer this current hunting season. That is a little better than the fall of 1952."

Swimmers Aid Fund Drive

Synchronized swimming teams Saturday night presented a program at the John Innis Memorial Centre in Toronto. The proceeds will be used to send solos, duets and teams to the British Empire Games in Vancouver next summer.

The Peterborough Ornamental Swimming Club which holds the United States' senior women's team championship, was featured along with swimmers from St. Catharines, Hamilton, University of Toronto, Toronto Granite Club, Toronto Lakeshore, Thornhill and the Toronto Ornamental Club.

Recognized as Canada's leading club, the Mrs. Pansy Forbes-coached girls will compete next summer at the Empire games if sufficient money is raised to send a 12-girl team. Other swimmers are going from Toronto.

On Friday night, Peterborough teams performed a request performance at the Willard Hall annual swimming competitions. Between swimming events, the girls were seen in four acts.

The only out-of-Toronto swimmer competing, Carol Howe of the Peterborough club, won the Willard Hall shield for girls up to 17 years of age. She placed high in the all-round swimming class, receiving high marks for her strokes, figures, diving and speed.

Farmers To Discuss Implement Lay-offs

A brief from the United Automobile Workers of Canada will be discussed at the meeting of the Federation of Agriculture Thursday night.

The Union has prepared a brief which is being presented to the federal government seeking for some form of assistance that will restore activity in the manufacture of farm implements.

Centres of that industry in both the United States and Canada, Brantford and Hamilton are mentioned as two in this country, have been hit by the slump in farm buying of machines. Lay-offs set in last year, and the industry has been severely affected by reducing buying from the farm, front.

A copy of the brief has been received by Peterborough Federation of which Henry Sharpe of Smith is president. It will likely be pointed out Thursday night that agriculture is primarily interested in a balanced national economy, that farmers are sympathetic to urban workers, but that farm prices have been under attack from consumer sources, and that with reduced income farmers have had to curtail their spending.

Man 65, Knocked Off Bicycle By Passing Truck

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Three cars were damaged and an elderly man thrown from his bicycle in three minor accidents in this district over the weekend. No one was hurt.

Half a mile west of Norwood Saturday afternoon, John Rogers, 62, of Norwood, was driving from his lane onto Highway 7 to go east. He swung wide on the highway and his car was in a sideswipe collision with another driven by George K. Kathere, 34, of Garrettsville, Ohio.

Damage to the Kathere car was about $500 and to Rogers' car, $200. OPP Constable George Rose investigated.

Archibald H. Morton, 65, of R. R. 3, Havelock, was riding his bicycle west on Highway 7 half a mile east of Havelock when a truck passed him, and knocked him to the road. Police believe the truck's rack caught Morton's handlebars. He was unhurt. Driver of the truck was Duncan C. Bissonette, 38, of Rosseau. They truck was undamaged.

OPP Contstable Archie Eady investigated.

Early Sunday morning, a car driven by 19-year-old Jack MarDonald of Campbellford left Highway 30, went over a slight embankment, and struck a fence post. MacDonald was not hurt, but about $150 damage was done to the car.

He told police he must have fallen asleep at the wheel. OPP Constable Rose investigated.

Brian Takes Top Shropshire Ribbons

TORONTO (CP)—George Brian and Son of Ridgetown, Ont., cleaned up the shropshire sheep ewe judging at the Royal Winter Fair today, taking both the top and reserve ribbons.

Raymond Comfort of St. Ann's, Ont., won the ram championship and F. W. Gurney of Paris, Ont., the reserve.

Court Of Sessions Opens With List Of Criminal Cases

The grand jury will have one criminal case to consider when the general sessions of the peace for Peterborough county open today. Charles Harrington, an Ennismore township farmer, has been charged with the theft of a $45 heifer calf from John Sullivan's ranch. He elected trial by jury.

Should a "true bill" be returned, Harrington will go before a petit jury for his trial. Only one other case, a civil action over a motor vehicle accident, will be tried by the petit jury.

Three other men accused of criminal offences had elected speedy trial before Judge de N. Kennedy, presiding at the general sessions of the peace.

PLEADS GUILTY

Charles Viner, 21, charged with stealing a quarter of beef from Canada Packers valued at more than $25, today appeared in the judge's chambers. He elected trial by Judge Kennedy and then pleaded guilty to the charge. He was remanded for sentence till Thursday.

John Randolph Brown, formerly of Peterborough, also appeared before Judge Kennedy today, and elected speedy trial on a charge of having the carnal knowledge of a 15-year-old girl. His trial has been tentatively set for Friday.

Fred Blaby of Romaine St. is also scheduled to stand trial before Judge Kennedy, alone, on on Friday. He is charged with abducting a child without the knowledge of the parents.

CIVIL SUIT

The only civil case for the petit jury is one in which Ross Irwin, who lives near Lakefield, is suing G. A. and Cecil Cameron of RR 1, White lake, for $1,079. Irwin's motor vehicle was in collision with the truck, owned by G. A. Cameron and driven by Cecil Cameron, on Sept. 17, 1951.

A counterclaim for $79 has been filed by the Camerons.

In addition there are two actions entered for trial without jury and one appeal from the Magistrate's decision.

Opening of the sessions is scheduled for 2 p.m. Probably the only matters to be dealt with today are five petitions for citizenship and four oaths of allegiance. The grand jury will also hear the Crown's case against Harrington.

Petitioning for citizenship are Velta Rokis, Albert Rokis, Mary Di Carlo, Wei Sien Chow, and Aleksander Bloszczynski. Taking their oaths of allegiance are Jan P. Moes and his wife, Arendina, of Pearl Ave.; Jacob Beckerman, of 629 Charlotte St., and Robert Desbarbieux, also of Peterborough.

Council Seeks Alternative Garbage Dump

The city council's sanitation committee today inspected garbage disposal facilities at its North Monaghan property to view and discuss future development of the area.

At present the trench and landfill operation is being carried out on the field south of the railway tracks. But the committee would like an alternative area to work in case freezing should hinder bull-dozer trenching during the winter months.

Several acres of land were purchased recently from A. Patterson, north of the tracks, and an inspection was made of several alternative right-of-ways.

Mayor Hugh F. Waddell thought it would be wise to obtain the opinion of an engineering expert before making any definite plans. Whatever happened the council would not be held up with its garbage disposal during the winter as there were several pits and trenches around the city that could be filled.

The committee will meet again to discuss the matter and attempt some final decision. In the meantime work can go on as usual and with the possibility of a mild winter the need for an alternative may not arise.

U.S. Recognized Russia 20 Years Ago

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recognized Russia 20 years ago today with official hopes for friendly co-existence.

Now, after two decades of formally correct diplomatic relations, Washington and Moscow are probably as antagonistic, suspicious, distrustful and bitter toward each other as two capitals can be and still remain on speaking terms.

The beginning of recognition Nov. 16, 1933, under the foreign policy direction of the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt and his secretary of state, Cordell Hull, was regarded by many persons favoring the move as the start of a new and happier era in world affairs.

Today President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles still are working for such an era with a minimum hope that at least a way can be found to prevent the intense power rivalry between the United States with its Allies and Russia with its group of nations from flaming into an atomic war.

STAKES NOT AS HIGH

The stakes were not nearly as high when the Roosevelt administration decided to recognize the Soviet regime and end the 16-year hiatus that began with the Russian revolution. In fact, Democrats had been highly critical of the non-recognition policy of the previous Republican administrations.

After United States recognized Russia and the Russians made a number of commitments which reflected the American government's hopes for friendly relations.

NO INTERVENTION

Russia promised to avoid intervention in U. S. domestic affairs, to prevent organizations under its control (this was taken to mean the Communist international) from propagandizing in the United States, and not to tolerate in Russia organizations dedicated to revolution in the U. S.

Within two years these commitments began to fall apart. In 1935, a group of Americans attended a Communist congress in Moscow and when the United States protested the Soviet government replied that it had no responsibility "with regard to the Communist international."

Salvage Tugs Find It Hard Make Living

By DAL WARRINGTON

HALIFAX (CP)—Fewer salvage tugs are operating on Canada's East coast. Local shipping men say the number may be fewer still if the federal government doesn't give financial help.

A salvage tug to a seafarer is like a tow-truck to a stranded motorist. It's the trouble-shooter of the sea lanes.

Since the post-war shipping boom ended there are fewer ships, fewer calls and fewer rescue jobs.

Two of the five salvage tugs formerly based here are gone. Those remaining are smaller and less powerful. Canada's largest, the 3,200-horsepower Foundation Josephine, returned to the British Admiralty in 1952. Next most powerful, the 1,900-horsepower Foundation Lillian, was sold last month for service in Venezuela.

The owners say there wasn't enough business to keep them in service.

NOTABLE FEATS

Halifax salvage crews have some feats to their credit. One is the salvage of the British freighter Leicester, caught in an Atlantic hurricane in 1948.

As a salvage job they rank it with the Flying Enterprise saga. Better than that, they saved the ship.

The 7,219-ton Leicester, bound from London to New York, rolled to beam ends when her ballast shifted 450 miles southeast of Halifax. The 38-man crew, fearing she would sink, abandoned ship. Six were drowned, but the others were picked up by passing freighters. The stricken ship was left to drift.

Foundation Lillian found the Leicester after a 10-day search. She had a 70-degree list and seemed likely to capsize. Joined by the powerful Josephine, a crew boarded the freighter, risked lives to get a line on her, and towed her 850 miles to Bermuda. The trip took a week.

The Lillian made her longest continuous tow two months later. She pulled a derrick boat 3,400 miles across the Atlantic from Halifax to French Guinea on Africa's west coast.

15,000-MILE TRIP

Her longest round trip was last year's 15,000-mile voyage from Halifax to Valparaiso, Chile, and back with stops at Texas and Venezuela ports. She towed the French freighter Rouen, which had stranded in Valparaiso harbor, to Galveston, Tex., for repairs and picked up other tow jobs along the way.

Though the two most powerful tugs are gone, East coast salvage men are still in business. Queen of the fleet now is Foundation Josephine II, based at Quebec City during the St. Lawrence shipping season, at Halifax or St. John's, Nfld., the rest of the year. She has 1,800 horsepower, a cruising range of 7,500 miles, can stay at sea without refuelling for 25 days.

THERE ALL YEAR

Three smaller tugs, Foundation Vera, Foundation Frances and Banscot, are based at Halifax all year.

Salvage crews are ready to go when the call comes day or night, calm or storm. Their tugs carry divers' suits, portable pumps, underwater electric lights, electric-oxygen cutting and welding gear and thousands of feet of heavy towing wire.

Local salvage men feel their job of saving life and property at sea is important enough to justify some attention from the national treasury. If it isn't they say lack of business makes the future not too hopeful.

2,500 Men In Montreal Annually Desert Their Wives

MONTREAL (CP) — Detective-Lieutenant Bill Phillips of the missing persons bureau at Montreal police headquarters has a big job chasing errant husbands and fathers.

Annually an average of 2,500 Montreal men desert their wives.

The 45-year-old detective said in an interview "the figures are staggering, but it doesn't do the husbands any good to run away because we find almost all of them."

To illustrate his success the detective said: "Recently I made a trip to Sudbury, Ont., and taking the long way round brought back one husband from there, two from Toronto, one from Brockville, Ont., and one from L'Assomption, Que."

His longest trip was made to Edmonton, but he makes frequent trips through Ontario and Quebec.

A notable case was that of a man who left his wife and two children 30 years ago. His wife wanted to find him to qualify for a welfare grant. To get the grant she had to prove he was alive and had deserted her.

The man was quickly found in another town where he had raised a new family and owned property.

"It was a strange case because I had to introduce them all over again. They just did not recognize each other," he said.

The law is specific regarding non-support. Any woman who has children can sue for non-support after her husband has deserted her for one month without showing any signs of intending to send her money regularly.

Courts are giving severe sentences to runaway husbands and, of seven cases tried recently, the husbands received jail terms from two months to one year.

Fear Of Smog Trouble Causes Uproar In London

By COLIN FROST

LONDON (AP) — Winter, the time of death-dealing smog, is coming.

Worried Londoners, who remember last December's doubled death rate, are flooding newspaper offices and Parliament members with letters. They demand quick action to end pollution of the air before winter's fog turns it into throat-catching yellow smog.

Last week the government announced that Britons with heart or lung diseases would be supplied with free smog masks through the national health service.

Medical men say last winter's smogs killed around 12,000 persons, most of them infants or old people.

The government is probing these deaths with "gravest urgency."

SLOW MOVING

But some criticis, however, say the government, after announcing it would set up an inquiry commission, took six months to name its members.

Up to Sept. 30, they charge, the smog inquiry commission had held only one meeting.

Any attack on smog must be a slow, and costly, business.

Atmospheric pollution in a big city comes from these main sources: Factories, homes and vehicles.

GO AFTER SMOKE

London is trying to cut down chimney smoke in two ways.

1. It is encouraging factories and householders to install efficient heating systems using smokeless fuel. That's not easy in Britain where a blazing coal fire is part of the household tradition.

2. "Smokeless zones" are being set up in industrial and commercial areas. Inside these zones, no factory or office block is permitted to belch smoke.

The vehicle problem is much trickier. A vas upsurge in road traffic followed the end of gasoline rationing in 1950 nd it hasn't stopped yet. Exhaust fumes hang in narrow city streets and no one has yet thought of a way to shift them.

Lakefield WA Holds Afternoon Tea, Sale

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — The Women's Association of the United Church held an afternoon tea and sale of home baking in the Sunday school rooms Friday afternoon. Receiving the guests was the president, Mrs. P. H. Darling.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Ivan Madill, Mrs. C. Warren Payne, Mrs. T. E. Rath, Mrs. S. Millage, Mrs. J. R. Hall and Mrs. H. Wannmaker. Replenishing plates were Mrs. Stanley Burger, Mrs. A. Weevers, Mrs. William Gray and Mrs. A. C. Carveth. The home baking table was in charge of Mrs. W. James Charleton, Mrs. Clare Chittick and Mrs. H. McIlmoyle. Proceeds of the afternoon exceeded $200.

Sacred Heart Celebrates 44th Anniversary

The 44th anniversary of the dedication of the Church of the Sacred Heart at Romaine and Aylmer streets was celebrated on Sunday.

The original site at the corner was bought for $2,300. Additional ground in 1911 cost $4,000. At present day values the parish property is estimated at $600,000. It comprises the church, parish house, club house and Lake Street School. The pipe organ was a gift of a parishoner, the late Martin McManus. It cost $4,000 when it was installed, and is now estimated at $35,000 in replacement value.

In recent years three new parishes have been formed with the area that used to center around the church of the Sacred Heart. They are the Church of the Assumption in Otonabee, St. John the Baptist in the south end and St. Alphonsus Church on the west side of the city.

PARISH PRIEST

The first parish priest was Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., and his assistant was the present Monsignor J. V. McAuley of Lindsay. Rev. Dr. O'Brien was made bishop of Peterborough in 1913, and later became Archbishop of Kingston. He was succeeded in the local parish by Mons. J. J. O'Brien who died two years ago.

The present parish priest is Monsignor P. J. Butler.

Eisenhower Sees Great Things Ahead For People Of Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The wonders of Canada's industrial advance in the last generations have been extolled in many quarters. But in the eyes of President Eisenhower there are visions of far greater things ahead for Canadians.

His words, spoken in Ottawa, have special significance to the thousands of investors who have hitched their financial stars to Canada's future.

"To strive, even dimly, to foresee the wonders of Canada's next generation," he said Saturday, "is to summon the utmost powers of the imagination."

"This land is a mighty reservoir of resources," he said. "Across it, at this moment, there moves an extraordinary drama of enterprise and endeavor—Canadians, rapidly building basic industries, converting waters into hydro-electric energy, scrutinizing your soil for new wealth, pushing into the barrens of the north for minerals and oil."

MORE TO DO

This prediction of Canada's future coming from the leader of the Free World's greatest power undoubtedly will encourage those who may believe Canada's big developments have run their course.

The development stages of two of the most spectacular industrial projects, Quebec-Labrador iron ore and Kitimat, B. C., aluminum, are expected to be completed in 1954.

There will be other big tasks for Canadian achievement, say Ottawa officials. These may include expansion of air services, completion of the trans-Canada highway, catching up with the housing shortage and sweeping back the northern frontiers to establish new industrial sites in the northwest territories and the Yukon.

MOST SPECTACULAR

And perhaps the most spectacular of them all, one that may change the face of Canada, the long-awaited St. Lawrence seaway and power project, may get under way.

Mr. Eisenhower touched on this subject, too.

"Joint development and use of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway is inevitable—is sure and certain," he predicted. "With you, I consider this measure a vital addition to our economic and national security."

Calgary Man Invented Story To Show Religious Faith

NEW YORK (CP)—A Calgary man invented a parable as an example of religious faith. And the story mushroomed into what a rueful publisher described as "the greatest hoax in the history of journalism."

George Dupre, a Second World War veteran whose story of wartime intelligence experiences led Quentin Reynolds to write The Man Who Wouldn't Talk, admitted in a week-end interview that he had invented his tale of fortitude under Nazi torture to prove the value of faith in God.

"I felt that a story of tremendous self-sacrifice was a means of leading youth, and grown-ups too, to a new insight into what men can be capable of."

The story, told and retold at church group meetings and service club gatherings, gained circulation in Canada and attracted the attention of the publishers of Reader's Digest, who assigned Reynolds to write the story for the magazine's November issue. An expanded version subsequently appeared in book form.

REFUNDING MONEY

Random House, publishers of the book, offered Sunday to refund the $2.75 purchase price to its 10,000 purchasers and said they are reclassifying it as fiction. The magazine will carry a detailed explanation of the hoax in the January issue.

Doug Collins, a 33-year-old reporter for the Calgary Herald who spent eight years with British army intelligence, uncovered the hoax when he spotted technical flaws in the story, confronted Dupre with them and got him to admit the falsehood.

HAS A MESSAGE

"I honestly felt I had a message," Dupre said in his week-end interview. "I guess the story just got bigger than I was. I told it and then told it again, always adding a little, always making it a little better."

Dupre, shaken by the effects of his deception, is under a doctor's care in Calgary.

Reynolds said he was shocked and saddened to discover that the story was "a fantastic hoax."

DeWitt Wallace, publisher of Reader's Digest, said he met Dupre only once and was struck by him as "a man of integrity." He felt the story would have been accepted by "any reporter in the land."

Bennett Cerf, president of Random House, said the printing of the book now on the presses will be revised to include an explanation of the incident.

Both Reynolds and Wallace said Dupre seemed to have no desire for money, was surprised when told he would get part of the returns and said he would turn the money over to the Boy Scouts.

"don't talk to me about money . . ."

GUEST EXHIBITOR with the Brush and Palette Club of Peterborough is Mr. Sidney Watson, of Toronto, a regular lecturer in art who has exhibited in Canada, Great Britain, United States, Australia and New Zealand under auspices of the National Gallery of Canada. He is seen (above) as he inspected the local club's work at the Public Library Saturday, with the president of the club, Mrs. J. Ralph Clark. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

16 Women Painters Exhibit At Library

Sixteen women painters of the Brush and Palette Club of Peterborough opened their fourth annual exhibit in the Public Library hall on Saturday evening.

Friends invited to the opening were highly appreciative of the work displayed. Critics mentioned certain improvements in the work of annual exhibitors and saw promise in that of several newcomers.

The Club has one guest exhibitor this year, Sidney H. Watson, of Toronto, who was guest speaker for the opening. Mr. Watson is a painter of water-color, gouache, oil and tempera landscape and architectural subjects. He feels his best painting has been done in Quebec, and so he is showing here his "Quebec Pattern".

His design of the altarpiece of St. Alban's Anglican Church in the south end of Peterborough was submitted to the Royal Canadian Academy of which he became an associate in 1951. He is familiar with this part of the country as he was the artist in residence at the Lakefield Preparatory School in 1942, 1943, and 1944.

Mr. Watson said about modern art: "It is here to stay—and for some time. Its fundamental aspect is variety." He admitted he does not like all of it himself. He says modern painters are "puritans", in that they pursue only one aspect of the truth.

He remarked that "the public is hardly touched by the 1953 painter," because he paints to please no one but himself. "And he may even find buyers for a select few," he added.

At the Ontario College of Art, of which he is vice-principal and teacher of design and lettering, he says they spend little time on landscapes and portrait painting is a limited study. They dwell on still life painting where they have physical control of color, line and form. Mr. Watson said "Only God can mix up colors as they are in a landscape and get away with it. I'm still wedded to subject matter," he said. "I want to wear the pants in this husband and wife combination of creating a new life.

"Keep your eyes open," he advised the painters. "Look at reproductions of the modern masters. Get books and visit the art galleries. Attempt to understand the language of the modern artist." He added that books give important opinions, and material, and suggested that local painters insist that a good collection of books and prints be in their library. He also suggested having here more travelling exhibitions from the National Gallery.

He spoke of new techniques and methods and mentioned, too, the growing awareness of the arts with an enthusiastic are group springing up in almost every community now. "This movement is contributing greatly to the cultural life of Canada. By the tools of the artist a host of people are achieving the experience of art—one no sensitive human should miss," he said.

Mr. Watson concluded with comment on the exhibition which he viewed thoroughly during the afternoon, discussing the work with each painter. "I am really impressed and I admire your work" he said. "I hope it will not stand still."

He was introduced to the audience by president Mrs. J. Ralph Clark and was thanked by Mrs. Jack Dobbin.

The exhibitors this year are Vivien Graff, Olive Langley, Marjorie Durant, Rosamond Blaiklock, Jessie Colling, Jean Leach, Una Bullock, Mary Cherney M. Maude Moore, Mabel Irwin, Gladys Elliott, Sue Dobbin, Ruby Petrie, Dolly E. Brown, Eva Copp, and Doris Clark.

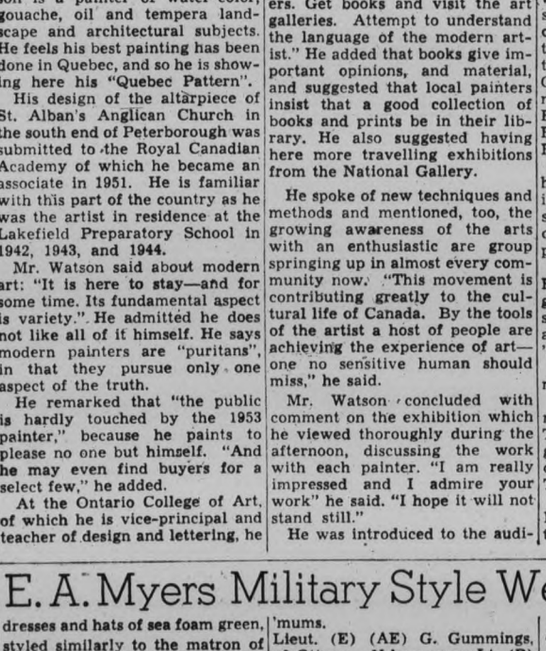
Betty Barry, Lt. E. A. Myers Military Style Wedding

A military wedding took place in Peterborough Saturday, at the Trinity United Church, when Miss Betty Dorine Barry became the bride of Lieutenant Edgar Alexander Myers, of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Officres of the Navy and the Air Force formed a guard of honor, and as the couple left the church after the ceremony, held their swords high for them to pass underneath.



The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor F. Barry, of Peterborough, and she was given in marriage by her father. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Myers, of Toronto and St. Catharines.

The marriage was performed by the Rev. Gordon S. Maxwell, minister of the church, and organist Mr. Donald Kennedy played the wedding march and during the signing of the register played "Because."

White tulle over satin was used in the bride's lovely gown which had a strapless bodice and full skirt. She wore over it a brocaded satin redingote, satin and net panels in the skirt, and was buttoned in front with tiny covered buttons. The coat was finished with a high pointed collar and long lily point sleeves. A cap of tulle encircled with rhinestones held her fingertip veil of French illusion with scalloped silk embroidery, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Sweetheart red roses.

Her matron of honor was Mrs. Mona Rendall, who wore a gown in sandalwood shade of net over taffeta with the full bouffant skirt tiered from waist to floor. The bodice was strapless and she wore a taffeta jacket with stand-up collar and a matching hat and had long white gloves.

Bridesmaids Miss Doreen Myers, of Toronto, sister of the groom, and Miss Dorothy Brown, of Peterborough, were in identical dresses and hats of sea foam green, styled similarly to the matron of honor's, and also wore long white gloves. Junior bridesmaid Miss Judith Ann Barry, a cousin of the bride, wore a bouffant gown of pastel yellow nylon net over taffeta which featured a bertha collar, and she wore a white feathered bandeau and wrist length white gloves. Each attendant carried a cascade of white 'mums.

Guests from Dartmouth, N.S., Trenton, Centralia, Hamilton, St. Catharines, Toronto and Ottawa were at the wedding.

The reception was held in the Kawartha Room in the Empress Hotel. Mrs. Barry received, wearing a two-piece dress of Orient peacock silk shantung, a white feathered hat dotted with rhinestones, white gloves and a corsage of Briarcliffe pink roses. The groom's mother chose navy crepe with lace inserts in the skirt and wore a navy hat and navy and pink accessories and had a corsage of similar pink roses.

For the wedding trip to the United States, the bride chose a two-piece dress of poodle cloth in gold color and black accessories and a muskrat coat. When going away her corsage was an orchid.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Myers will live at Dartmouth, Nova Scotia, following their honeymoon.

Soup Time Arrives With The Snow

If I know my Canada, by the time this reaches print all of this borrowed summertime will be a memory and soup time will have arrived with snow in the air and more to come.

I was fairly itching to make a big pot of soup, but had to hold myself in check until enough of the family would be home for the weekend to make it worth while. You know who "enough" is by now—another name for Pete.

Although our women do not have bird-like appetites one bouillion cup of soup is plenty. We—and you—need trenchermen for this

OX-TAIL SOUP

Cut the oxtail into sections between each joint or ask the butcher to do this for you. Wash 1½ cups large dry lima beans. Put them both in the soup kettle with 8 cups cold water and 2 teaspoons salt and—if you have some on hand—1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate. Cover, bring to boiling, reduce heat and simmer until meat is tender and will easily fall from bones. Dice 2 medium-sized carrots and 1 small onion and very thinly slice 2 stalks celery and their leaves and add them and simmer ½ hour longer. You have to remove the bones and any excess pieces of fat before serving this. Serve in large soup bowls sprinkled with parsley OR do as the French do—float pieces of toasted French bread on top and sprinkle it with grated old cheese.

This makes 6 large servings and is sufficient for the main course. Serve a large finely shredded Savoy cabbage and tomato salad with it and some rib-sticking dessert such as mince pie or apple dumplings.

I have so many letters from you that I am going to have to use space wherever I can find it to answer you, so will append a letter and an answer to each column this week when I have room.

QUESTION: I've just come from the bakeshop and now I'm wondering if you might help me. I bought some of the most delicious little cakes. They were little chocolate balls rolled in cocoanut. The girl at the store said they were like uncooked brownies. I had never eaten them before. I'm keeping my fingers crossed . . . I love your column. Mrs. Glenn W.

ANSWER: What you describe are

COCOA QUICKIES

(This recipe was sent to me by Mrs. C. W. and is delicious.)

Put in a heavy saucepan the following: ½ cup each milk and margarine, 6 tablespoons cocoa and 2 cups white sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil stirring. Remove from fire at once and add 3 cups rolled oats and 1 cup coarse cocoanut and mix well. Now these may be dropped from teaspoon on to waxed paper immediately and cooled when they will set OR they may be pushed from tip of spoon, formed into balls, and dropped into fine cocoanut, rolled around until it covers them, then carefully placed on waxed paper to harden.

QUESTION: This is my first letter although I am an avid reader of your column . . . please forward your recipe for colored taffy apples and popcorn balls . . . keep all your wonderful recipes coming. Mrs. W.S.L.

ANSWER: I hope you saw the recipe for taffy apples on Nov. 5. In the event you have not I will send it along.

POPCORN BALLS

Have ready 20 cups popped corn from which you have discarded all hard unpopped kernels. Put 2 cups sugar, 2-3 cup water, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar in saucepan, bring to boiling point, boil without stirring to 280 deg. Fahr. (or until syrup will crack when tried in cold water). Remove thermometer and add ½ cup molasses, 2 tablespoons butter and shake of salt and boil, stirring, until candy will become very brittle when tried in cold water, being careful not to burn it. Drizzle this syrup over the popped corn, mixing it in as you pour. With buttered palms shape into balls, and let harden on wax paper. You must work quickly.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Cures Drunk Husband, Now Wants Separation

DEAR MISS DIX: Thirty-four years ago, at the age of 18, I married a drunkard. I was then unaware of it, since he lived in another town and was always on his good behavior when with me. During our married life he has never entered a church—not even to see his five children baptised, or to attend my parents' funerals. He has never brought home a week's pay, and due to privation at the beginning of our marriage, the last child was born with a deformity that cost me a small fortune. In time, I opened a small business, which was successful. Now I have bought a home and car. Five years ago my husband began leading a better life. But by that time I had lost all love and respect for him, and now feel I'd be much happier if he felt us. The only emotion he arouses in me is pity. I'm sure he has no love for us.

Virginia P.

ANSWER: You have succeeded where many women in your circumstances have failed—redeeming a human soul. To let your husband go now would certainly undo the work of 29 years. After going through this long period of privation, heartache and humiliation, it's difficult to understand why now, when the family situation has so much improved, you should contemplate this drastic step.

While your present bitterness is certainly understandable, in view of the man's unfortunate past, I honestly don't think your own mind would be at ease after a separation. It's almost certain that, being left alone, your husband would sink into the morass from which you rescued him. You'll be more satisfied, I'm sure, if he remains with you, and you continue to work for his further betterment. You probably never will be completely happy with or without him, but you will have an easier mind if you don't separate.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: when I was 16 I had a very nice boy friend, but my parents wanted me to date others, with the result that Jed and I drifted apart. I'm 19 now, have never met anyone as nice as Jed and I'd like to be friends with him again. He goes with other girls, but has no steady.

Gwen

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The coming holidays offer a perfect opportunity to renew old friendships. Why not have a gathering of mutual friends for the avowed purpose of renewing old ties? Invite Jed and let your pleasure at meeting him again be evident. That doesn't come under the head of "chasing a man," but just doing a bit of pursuing. It's all in the tatics.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm a high-school sophomore and I am pregnant. The boy involved is an honorable boy with a good future. My parents don't know who he is and I don't want to tell them. I don't think his life should be ruined for my mistake.

Doris

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are being very heroic, but this is not exactly the time for self-sacrifice. After all, the mistake isn't all yours. Your parents definitely should be told who is your baby's father. They, too, are having heartaches over the affair and the least you can do for them is to give them the information they want.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

Mayor Hugh F. Waddell was the speaker at the meeting of Queen Mary Home and School Association last week and gave his personal impressions of the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II which he attended as representative of Peterborough.

Two of his most definite impressions were made by the absolute precision of the arrangements for this great ceremony, and the high degree of efficiency with which they were carried out.

His most outstanding impression was of "complete lack of confusion and rush" which he compared with the high tension living on this continent.

Mayor Waddell showed photographs and also his official admission card to Westminster Abbey.

He also made a comparison between civic government in the British Isles and in Canada, the most outstanding point being that federal politics is brought into municipal government there with voting on all important issues along party lines.

The mayor was introduced by Dr. R. C. Honey and was thanked by Mrs. J. A. Miner.

Mrs. W. Brown was the soloist on this occasion. Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me" and Brahms' "Lullaby" were delightfully rendered in her lilting high soprano.

President Mrs. R. S. Hutton presided for business. Mrs. W. Wright read an Armistice poem in memory of war dead.

Attendance was taken by Mrs. R. Shaw and reports from committee conveners were heard. A meeting of the parent education group is to be held at the home of Mrs. J. Comstock on November 23rd.

Attention of parents was drawn to the candidates' meeting at the City Hall on November 27 and the civic election on December 7.

✧ ✧ ✧

ARMOUR HEIGHTS SCHOOL

First regular meeting of the Armour Heights Home and School Association was held last Thursday evening with more than 100 parents attending. President Mrs. Fred Shaw presided and opening devotions were conducted by teacher Miss Spence. Principal Mr. W. L. McNeill spoke briefly.

The president thanked members for their generous response to an appeal for cups and saucers for the school kitchen.

Guest speaker was Miss Phyllis Moore, primary supervisor of city schools, her topic being "Some phases of the reading program." Her talk inspired parents. She said "reading is not merely speaking words—it is understanding them."

She explained that a child begins to interpret at an early age and that parents should observe what the pre-school and kindergarten child will get from a picture." The child needs an experience of the thing he reads before he can understand it," she said. "They love verses and making things rhyme."

Particularly she mentioned that children are encouraged by seeing parents reading in the home.

She feels the kindergarten should be a happy adjustment between the home and grade one, and she showed pictures of kindergarten work and how the child is taught to read. Miss Moore appealed to parents to find something that a child can do well and to be generous in praise when it is done.

She was thanked by Mr. Jack Reynard.

Elderly Farmer Confesses Triple Slaying

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN

DIGNE, France (AP) — Gaston Dominici, gnarled old mountain farmer who has confessed the triple slaying of an English family 15 months ago, tried to throw himself over a railroad bridge today during a re-enactment of the crime.

Police grabbed the bearded, 76-year-old farmer before he could carry out his apparent attempt at suicide.

Accused by two of his own sons, the old man was charged formally today with hte slaying on Aug. 5, 1952, of British nutrition expert Sir Jack Drummond, 61, Lady Drummond and their 11-year-old daughter.

The Drummonds, holidaying in France, were slain at their roadside camp site 200 yards from Dominici's stone farm home near here in southeastern France.

FINALLY CONFESSES

Police said the old man broke down and confessed the killings after his sons' accusations and 48 hours of police grilling.

Agence France-Press, in a new version of the farmer's alleged confession said he killed the Drummonds after Sir Jack surprised him in an attempt to rape Lady Drummond.

Earlier detective George Harzig had told a press conference Drummond caught the old man watching Lady Drummond undress.

Harzig gave this version:

The old man, out hunting, walked near the Drummond car and saw Lady Drummond undressing. He went closer to spy on her. The woman saw or heard him and screamed, arousing her husband. The two men quarreled, traded blows, and Dominici fired, first at Sir Jack, then at his wife, killing them both.

CLUBS CHILD

Then the old man fired at the child, Elizabeth. The bullet only creased her and she ran screaming toward the nearby Durance river. Dominici chased her and she fell. As she begged for mercy, he clubbed her fatally with his rifle stock.

Dominici was returned to the scene of the crime today for a check on his confession. His unsuccessful dash for the bridge came just before the re-enactment of the crime reached the death of the child.

No charges have been filed against Dominici's sons, though police said they were "moral accomplices," having helped their father to clear away evidence of his guilt.

Postpone Talks On Union Finances

HAMILTON (CP)—A mass meeting of members of Local 879, General Truckdrivers Union, decided Sunday to postpone talks on the financial situation of the local until their appointed auditor has had a chance to examine the books and receipts and make a report.

For three hours the unionists discussed the financial position during the strike, strike payments, and loans said to have been made to the union to bail out truckmen arrested during picket duty, or for payment of fines.

President James Groat gave an explanation of various payments made, and treasurer Wilfred Wilson replied to queries, giving details of the $100,000 paid out during the strike.

Treasurer Wilson said when the auditor had shown the accounts were in order he would hand in his resignation.

Fighting Mohawks Demand Justice

OTTAWA (CP) — Fighting Mohawks of the Iroquois tribe today demanded that the government honor and ancient treaty giving them the right to bring in goods from the United States duty-free.

Dressed in native plumage, a group of them paraded to the Exchequer Court of Canada where their Ottawa lawyer, Gordon Henderson, appealed against customs duties imposed on personal articles brought in by Louis Francis, an Indian welder at St. Regis, Que.

The hearing, which opened today, is a test case. On it will depend whether Canada's 136,000 Indians will have to pay duties on the goods they buy in the U. S. or whether they will be able to bring them in duty-free, a right they say was given to them under the Jay treaty of 1794.

Take Care Of Eyebrows

REGINA (CP)—Hair stylist Peter Mays has this advice for women: "Watch those eyebrows."

Mays, who arrived recently from Toronto, says many a carefully-groomed effect is ruined by lack of attention to the most important focal point of a girl's face—her eyebrows.

All it needs is a flick of the wrist with an eyebrow pencil, to highlight the eyes and transform mediocrity to personality.

Mays, an expert in make-up who has worked for professional and amateur fashion shows, says "personality" is the most important of all when it comes to style.

Moscow Has New Balled On Robin Hood

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio said a splendid new poem entitled "A New Ballad on Robin Hood" was published today by the Communist newspaper Pravda, and the news made the autumn leaves quiver in Sherwood forest.

The Moscow report came amid charges made lately in Indianapolis that the legendary Robin Hood was a kind of Communist prototype and that American children shouldn't read about him.

Mrs. Thomas White, member of an Indiana commission which advises on text books, said the story of the Sherwood forest outlaw who robbed the rich to give to the poor smears the idea of law and order, and follows the Communist line.

SHERIFF DEFENDS MEMORY

Today, Russian poems notwithstanding, Nottingham sheriff William Cox defended the memory of the amiable bandit. Nottingham likes him, "and so do good children in every land," the sheriff said.

If the Russian ballad tries to make a commissar out of Robin, or rings in something about the Volga, it perverts an honest and lovely legend, Cox said.

The sheriff said he has had to answer numerous inquiries from America since Mrs. White made her charges.

"I have told all inquiries that the Communists will never be able to steal Robin Hood," the sheriff said. "There is no record in my files hinting that any member of his band was a Communist. We think it would be a great pity to deprive children of the Robin Hood legends."

Richard Cole, 27, of R.R. 3, Havelock, pleaded guilty to a charge of being intoxicated on Otonabee St., and having liquor in a place other than his residence. He was fined a total of $25 and $5 costs.

His younger brother, Carl, 20, also pleaded guilty to a charge of obtaining liquor while under 21, and a second charge of careless driving, arising out of a minor accident on Otonabee St. He was fined $10 and $2.50 on each count.

Orval Taylor, 27, of 133 Princess St., pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving and fined $75 and $2.50 costs. Although no evidence was submitted, Crown Attorney Bradshaw described Taylor as having smelled of liquor, speaking thickly and walking unsteadily. The accused admitted the offence.

Try Stabbing To End Triangle

NEW YORK (AP)—Two young Puerto Ricans were accused Sunday night of attempting to resolve a love triangle by stabbing the girl they both loved, because she could not choose between them.

The victim, Yolande Rivera, 17, was reported in satisfactory condition early today at a hospital.

Armando Rojas, 20, and Angel Correra, 21, were held on charges of felonious assault.

Police quoted the youths as saying:

They both loved the girl. She professed affection for both but would not consent to marry either. They talked it over then decided to kill her.

Second Newspaper Criticizes Duke

LONDON (Reuters)—The left-wing newspaper Reynolds News Sunday criticized the Duke of Edinburgh for speaking publicly on the controversial subject of conscription.

The paper supports criticism voiced last week by the Scottish Socialist weekly Forward which called the duke "the royal meddler."

Both papers referred to the Duke's recent speech when he was installed as chancellor of Edinburgh University in which he said army service is or can be "very important character-building experience."

Reynolds News says that "whether or not the royal consort advocates conscription he should not express his views in public on a subject so full of political dynamite."

The boos came when the mayor made a speech during ceremonies honoring Joe Krol at the Toronto-Montreal Big Four game here.

The mayor later brushed off the incident, saying: "Take the Santa Claus parade; it must have contributed to a lot of ill-humor as the fans tried to drive to the stadium. Sports crowds are funny that way, particularly when the home team is losing."

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS —By Merrill Blosser

Missionary Tells Of Life In China As Reds Took Over

Leslie Millin, English-born missionary who spent nearly 17 years in China, four-and-a-half of them in Japanese captivity and a further two years under the Red Chinese regime, levelled heavy criticism at Dr. James Endicott, of Toronto, and Tim Buck, leader of the Labor Progressive Party, when he addressed a large gathering of Peterborough Christian businessmen in the College auditorium Sunday night.

"While men like these defend the cause of communism and are cognizant with the real condition of fear and reign of terror which is prevalent benind the iron curtains of the world, and yet still advocate the institution of such conditions for the free world, then they are the greatest impostors and traitors that the world has ever known," said Mr. Millin. "I am, however, forced to conclude that men of known moral integrity, and in this I include the 'Red Dean' in England, are simply obsessed with ideals of Marxist philosophy and really believe that such conditions exist in Bolshevic communism."

Millin gave Canadians a dire warning of impending communist aggression. In this country, as in all the free world, everyone must face up to this, a real, live issue. Red infiltration and indoctrinization of the minds of Canadians had already begun. He had been astonished by the number of people who were unconsciously indoctrinated and gave evidence of the fact in speech. All around the western hemisphere it was possible to see in the newspapers and radio programs every sign of the communist infiltration that was in China in 1947. Worse was the complacent "it couldn't happen here" attitude adopted by the majority of people.

"This thing which is spreading its tentacles across the face of the earth is enslaving the minds, bodies and souls of all," continued Mr. Millin. "When I left China there were already six million men-in-arms along the coast ready to invade southeastern Asia. The soldiers talked about it and were being prepared for the day. They consider 'it's in the bag'."

The speaker, who twice impressed the fact that he was not in any way connected with a political organization, said that communism had such a wonderful suave way of entering men's minds, that it was almost imperceptible. It was only when people belatedly realized the aggressor and tried to rise up that the invisible fetters, the seeds of distrust and fear, became material. Then, when it was too late, did the full terrifying force of communism become known. The free peoples had to strike now.

Mr. Millin told of his personal experiences and observations during the prelude to, and the occupation by Reds. The spirit of communism was abroad, especially among the young people, long before Red domination became a material fact. In the schools agents put communist literature alongside ordinary textbooks. The children were told that it did not matter if they could not answer questions from the text-books. As long as they could give the answers to the Red riddles they would get full marks.

In the cities and towns collaborators were promised rewards when the Nationalists had been ousted. Everywhere agents spread anti-Nationalist propaganda, defaming the government, its leaders and workers, so that by the time the Reds took over, nearly everyone looked upon them as saviours.

"The first three months under the communists were wonderful, full of the promised reforms and new legislation," said Mr. Millin. "It was easy to think that there really was something in communism."

But that had only lasted three months, he continued. In that time the real communist army—the army of agents trained in the arts and vices of psychiatry had drawn out the community, learned its secrets and gained its confidence. People were told that there was no need for fear. They were encouraged to tell their life stories to the agents, giving details of hidden crimes and even thoughts. In many cases children were used to extract information from their parents. All the time the communists assured the people that no harm was meant. By complete confessions they could receive forgiveness and be ready for indoctrination.

The system had been so cunning that everyone had willingly written out his confession and been indoctrinated. It became known as the "Birth of A Nation."

Then overnight it all changed. The iron curtain fell. Travelling was curtailed. Law courts and lawyers were abolished. Then the books of self confessions were opened and the bloody purges began.

Mr. Millin said that an execution platform was erected outside his front door and nearby a large grandstand built for officials to watch the grizzly proceedings. Everyone was vulnerable on their own or their children's confessions. Then on a show of hands by the people the victims were disposed of.

Every school child was forced to watch the executions. In the first days many tiny children vomited themselves into convulsions and unconsciousness from which many never recovered.

To illustrate the depths to which communism had entered the minds of children, the speaker told the story of a girl who had appealed for her mother's life because of the fact that she (the girl) was a good communist. Both mother and daughter had disappeared for two months to appear again on the execution platform. On this occasion the girl had not only led the crowd to condemn her mother, but had taken the knife and carried out the execution herself.

On another occasion the missionary had been forced to stand and watch a boy execute his uncle by forcing sharpened chop sticks up the nostrils and into the brain. Such was the new era of Red China. Hundreds of Chinese, among them former collaborators, committed suicide when they realized what they had assisted to power.

During the purge Mr. Millin had been arrested and taken for a three months' course of indoctrinization on "brain washing." As far as he could make out the first month the communists had attempted to draw out and destroy all former habits beliefs and ideas. He was made to sit on the floor with his back to the wall for 16 hours a day and undergo intense interrogation. He was only allowed to answer yes or no to the continuous questions.

The second month the indoctrination began. For hours he and others would be forced to chant slogans like "I hate America." The missionary refused to say this even in the face of coaxing and force.

The communists told him he was no good for anything and that they would break his mind. The system they used was continuous questioning with no sleep. The Reds' suggestions became confused with his natural beliefs until his mind could not similate any facts. Black-outs were a merciful relief. No one had ever been known to survive more than six days and nights of that treatment, he said.

With his wife, Mr. Millin had been allowed to travel to Shanghai, although he did not remember the journey. Upon his recovery he had again returned to the Red dominated area and continued his ministry. Chinese were forbidden to attend his meetings, but many still came to him secretly for gospel teaching.

The missionary said that eventually the communists decided to oust him. He was charged with "having given candies to children at Christmas time, thereby attempting to buy their minds over to capitalism and corruption." He was therefore "not fit to enjoy the privileges of the paradise of Communist China."

Mr. Millin, in again stressing the urgent need for free people to realize the imminent danger of communist infiltration, said that the only way to conquer the threat was through an alive and active Christian force working determinedly for the liberation of communist captives.

Mr. Millin is now in Toronto as secretary of the Scripture Gift Mission. He was invited to speak at the auditorium by the Christian Business Men's Committee.

Eisenhowers Would Like To Return To Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—"We would like to come back some day. We've had the most wonderful treatment; everyone has been so kind."

In those words, President Eisenhower bid farewell to Ottawa Saturday night, and he and his wife, went back to Washington in their special train. They arrived there Sunday afternoon.

Some called their two days here a "state visit." But to most who saw the Eisenhowers waving and smiling as they drove from function to function, it seemed more like a friendly neighbor coming over for dinner.

The president solemnly laid a wreath at the foot of the National War Memorial a few minutes after his arrival Friday. That afternoon at Government House, where they were the guests of Governor-General Vincent Massey, the Eisenowers planted a maple tree near two others, planted by previous United States presidents, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman, during visits here.

Saturday Mr. Eisenhower spoke to a joint meeting of the Commons and the Senate. Then he met the cabinet. He dealt with joint U. S.-Canadian defence of North America, free world trade and the St. Lawrence seaway.

The Eisenhowers had dinner with the governor-general. They lunched with Prime Minister St. Laurent. They had the governor-general, the prime minister and other governmental dignitaries to dinner at the home of U. S. ambassador Douglas Stuart.

Protocol was observed at all times, but beneath its formal surface, there was always a warm undercurrent of friendship.

The president set the tone before he even entered Canada. At Rouse's Point, N. Y., where Canadian reporters and photographers met his train, Mr. Eisenhower greeted them in pyjamas and dressing gown.

He found time to give his wife a gold pendant Saturday on her 57th birthday. She sat with Mrs. Jeanne St. Laurent, the prime minister's wife, in the gallery above the opposition benches to hear him speak in the House of Commons.

The president told the Senators and Commons members "there are no insoluble problems" and urged Canadians to keep faith that lasting peace can be achieved.

He warned that "the basic threat of Communist purpose still exists," but he added that Canada and the United States "can and will" devise ways to protect North America from any surprise air attack.

Britain Recalls Robertson From Egypt

CAIRO (Reuters) — Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, chief British negotiator in the talks with Egypt on evacuation of the Suez canal zone, will return to London in a few days to take up a new post, it was announced here today.

A statement released here and in London also disclosed that British ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson will return to Cairo next month after six months' absence to resume his part in the talks. Stevenson, who initiated the delicate negotiations earlier this year, has been on sick leave in Britain suffering from sciatica.

25 TORIES REVOLT

(Diplomatic quarters in London interpreted Robertson's recall as the first clear indication from the British government that it has given up hope of an early agreement on the Suez problem.

(The informal talks have been adjourned in deadlock since Oct. 21. The British government's manoeuvring space has been drastically sliced by a reported revolt of 25 Conservative party members, who have threatened to oppose any agreement providing for withdrawal of British troops from the Middle East bastion. Defection of the 25 on this issue would deprive the government of its parliamentary majority.)

Sarnia Paper Observes Its 100th Anniversary

SARNIA (CP)—The Sarnia Canadian Observer today celebrated 100 years of newspaper publication, 60 as a daily. It scheduled a 120-page special edition in eight sections to commemorate the event.

The centennial edition, the outside pages of each section printed on golden yellow newsprint, outlines the paper's life under six publishers and tells the story of Sarnia's growth from a swampy village to the bustling centre of Canada's petroleum and chemical industries.

The newspaper, known as the Canadian Observer since 1917, traces its beginning to the establishment in 1853 of the Lambton Observer and Western Advertiser, a weekly born and nurtured in the fiery politics which marked the pioneering days of Canada West before Confederation.

REFORM MOVEMENT

It was founded by John Raeside Gemmill, who previously published the Lanark, Ont., Observer. He moved to this community, then known as Port Sarnia, with his printing press, his type and his family and set up shop. He identified his paper, which had an initial circulation of 700, with the reform movement and was an unflagging champion of that political cause. After two years, he changed the paper's name to the Sarnia observer.

During his 15 years as publisher the other forerunner of the present-day paper, the British Canadian, was established by P. T. Pusette in 1859 with a circulation of 500. George Eyvel of the old Toronto Globe and Henry Gorman of the old London Advertiser bought the Observer in 1879 and continued the vigorous editorial rivalry with the Canadian.

In 1917, the Observer and the Canadian were amalgamated by a syndicate headed by W. M. Lowrey of nearby Petrolia and became a charter member of the Canadian Press, Canada's news co-operative.

BUY PAPERS

Four years later, Harry M. Hueston and Allan Holmes came from Prince Albert, Sask., and bought the newspaper, later adding the Galt Reporter, the Welland Tribune and the Woodstock Sentinel-Review to their interests. They were joined in their partnership by A. D. McKenzie who came from St. Thomas to be business manager under the Lowrey syndicate.

In 1944, the Canadian Observer, along with the Galt, Welland and Woodstock papers, was purchased by Roy H. Thomson, president of the Thomson Company Limited.

In 1917, at amalgamation, circulation was 1,700. Today the paper scheduled a press run of 18,000.

Modern Sarnia's giant oil refineries and chemical plants are a reminder of Lambton county's exciting oil boom days. Some three years after the observer was launched, crude oil drilling was started in the district. Not long after, came the great Oil Springs and Petrolia strikes. Although these once busy fields now yield little oil or natural gas, they gave the industry its start.

Teacher Students Visit Toronto

Students and staff of the Ontario Teachers' College made their annual trip to Toronto Friday and Saturday.

Every year the excursion is made in order to train the teachers in methods of conducting tours and to discover the opportunities a visit to the parliament buildings, the museum and educational centres can offer.

The students had a full day Friday beginning with a stop at the British-American Oil Company building where they studied Canadian motifs in decoration. They then went to the parliament buildings where they heard the Hon. Dr. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education.

Later, the teachers-to-be went to the Royal Ontario Museum where five lecture tours had been arranged. Each student had to attend at least two tours.

After the museum tours the students were on their own. Some attended the Royal Winter Fair and others various musical programs. A few stayed over until Saturday to see the Santa Claus parade, the Montreal-Toronto football game and the Boston-Toronto NHL hockey game.

Timber Wolf Shot In Dummer Township

NORWOOD (ENS) — A deer-hunting expedition last Thursday morning yielded a 50-pound timber wolf for Jack Andrews, of Dummer township.

Mr. Andrews was on his way to his watch when he saw an animal leap out of the bush about 25 yards ahead of him. Thinking it was a deer, he fired. The 38.55 calibre bullet caught the wolf in the chest, killing it instantly.

Gunman Strikes Woman On Lawn

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Police are continuing the search for a gunman who struck a woman after she made a grab for his gun and struggled with him on the front lawn of her home.

Mrs. Evelyn Harding, 23, the mother of two boys, told police she answered the door early Saturday and was confronted by a masked gunman.

He ordered her to leave the house and go with him, she said. Mrs. Harding stepped from the doorway, she said, and grabbed hold of the gun.

The battle continued on the lawn until the assailant struck the woman on the head with the gun and fled. Five stitches were applied to close the head wound.

Bee Expert

VERNON, B.C. (CP) — Among Canadians receiving the Queen's coronation medal is W. H. Turnbull of Okanagan Landing, retired provincial apiarist and president of the Canadian Beekeepers' Council. It was awarded Mr. Turnbull as a leader of the bee industry in Canada.

TWO OF THE MOST POWERFUL jet engines yet developed for the United States Air Force near the end of the production line at the Pratt and Whitney plant in East Hartford, Conn. Known as the J57, the big engine was announced by air force officials as the first to have an official rating, in the 10,000-pound thrust class. The open circular areas are the front ends of the engines through which air enters. At 20,000 feet and a speed of 375 miles an hour, one pound of thrust is the equivalent of one horsepower.

Pakistan Student Fights To Raise Barber Status

By PETER JACKSON

KARACHI (Reuters) — A keen-eyed young Pakistani named Islam Salmani will devote his life to raising the status of barbers in Pakistan and achieving for them "a respected place in society."

Islamd Salmani, 21, is at present studying political science and history. But he says: "I would rather be a successful barber than an unsuccessful lawyer.

"I come from a family of barbers, for in India and Pakistan it is a profession handed down from father to son, and barbers form a highly - organized community. The trouble is that when a barber becomes educated he looks down on his own community. I shall not do that."

In 1950, Salmani set about organizing an All-Pakistan Barbers' Association. Since then, he has put Pakistan's barbers on the world tonsorial map with a series of well-drafted memoranda which have included calls for an international federation of barbers; a world conference of Moslem barbers to precede setting up a barbers' Islamic university for which Egyptian barbers have expressed strong support; technical training for barbers under the United Nations and United States assistance programs; and for a history of the barber's art.

INTIMATE CONNECTION

On the proposed history, Salmani says: "more than anyone else, barbers have been intimately connected with the rulers of the Indo-Pakistan sub-continent.

"Did you know that Liaquat Ali Khan, our first prime minister used to consult his barber about the feeling among the ordinary people on political issues such as Kashmir? When he visited the United States, he brought back a special gift of a razor for his barber.

"In ways like this barbers must have influenced the history of our land. Perhaps some used their privileged positions to act as spies or to enrich themselves. As artists, they have developed hair styles, invented perfumes and soaps and special instruments for their craft. One would like to know more of the relations between our holy prophet Mohammed and his barber."

Prisoner Relies On God Not Lawyer

STRATFORD (CP) — Sheriff Lorne Morgan Saturday quoted Reuben Norman, 26 - year - old former paratrooper charged with murder, as saying he did not want a lawyer because "God would look after him."

The sheriff was describing an interview he had with Norman in September, after the defendant returned here from the Ontario hospital at Penetanguishene.

Norman spent three months in the institution after being judged unfit to stand trial in the death of 17-year-old Jean Satchell of nearby Gadshill, shot on a downtown street within 50 yards of the police station here Feb. 2.

CROWN FINISHES

At the conclusion of a second sanity hearing Wednesday, Norman was declared fit to stand trial. The crown finished its case Friday and counsel began the defence Saturday.

Sheriff Morgan said Norman told him: "He was not interested in having counsel because, in effect, God would look after his case for him."

The sheriff had also spoken to Norman in March after the preliminary hearing. The defendant then told him: "If what they tell me was done on that day, that wasn't me, because I wouldn't do anything like that."

Handsome Jury

SYDNEY MINES, N.S. (CP)—Twelve members of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire occupied the courtroom jurors' benches for a ceremony at which five new Canadians were granted citizenship. "It's the best-looking jury we have ever had," said county court judge George Morrison.

Singing For Queen Exciting

LONDON (CP) — Chatting with the Queen is exciting but singing to her is even better. So says Edmund Hockridge—and he's had a taste of both.

"Yes, I think the most thrilling part was to step out and sing directly to the royal box," said the Vancouver-born baritone, recalling his appearance early in November in the royal variety program at London's Coliseum.

It was the first appearance in a command show for the tall, 34-year-old Canadian, who has been touring Britain for the last three years in the American musical "Carousel."

And there was no mistaking his identity as the lone Canadian among the 450 artists on the royal program. He appeared in the first act, set in busy Trafalgar Square with a corner of Canada House peeking from the wings, dressed in the uniform of the RCMP.

SINGS ALONE

On cue, he stepped to the footlights in his scarlet tunic and sang "The Song of Dawn." In the finale, Hockridge was awarded the honor of singing the national anthem alone.

Later he was among 10 members of the cast presented to the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and Princess Margaret and he chatted with all three.

With the Queen he spoke of his brother, Sgt. Ralph Hockridge of Victoria, who was a member of the RCMP party which escorted the royal couple during part of their 1952 Canadian tour. To Princess Margaret he chatted about "Carousel." The princess saw the show, with Hockridge in the lead, during its run at Drury Lane Theatre Royal in 1951.

FIRST SAW LONDON

It was with the Canadian Army that Hockridge first saw London in 1940. He had roles with the BBC before he returned to Canada for discharge in 1946. He sang in Canadian radio and was called back to Britain in the autumn of 1951 with his English wife, Eileen, and son, Ian, now nine years old.

To date Hockridge has played in 1,300 performances in the musical about carnival life. Squeezed in between there have been radio, television and recording dates.

But the close acquaintance with the character of the barker, Billy Bigelow, is due to end. In four weeks Hockridge moves back to London to take the lead in another big musical.

MONKEY BUSINESS—Former President Harry Truman signs a baseball as "J. Fred Muggs," a chimpanzee that appears on television, watches him on a New York City street. Asked whether his refusal to answer a House Un-American Activities Committee supoena meant he would remain silent on the Harry Dexter White spy case, Mr. Truman said: "It does not necessarily mean I will not speak out at some time." At right is noted entertainer George Jessel.

Reuther Warns Battle Pending With Congress

CLEVELAND (AP)—CIO president Walter Reuther said Sunday the Eisenhower administration has settled down "into a rigid pattern of service to big business" and the CIO is girding to combat the trend.

Reuther, in a report to the annual CIO convention which opens week-long sessions here today, expressed fears over what the 1954 session of Congress may do.

"It is an open secret in Washington," he said, "that major drives will be under way to undermine much that remains of the New Deal and the Fair Deal."

Reuther said, however, that the CIO is in its strongest membership and financial position in history and added: "The present political action task of the CIO is two-fold. It is the defensive one of preserving the gains of the last 20 years.

"Silk Hat" Socialism Says Drew

No Such Headgear, Says St. Laurent In Air Cargo Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew says Liberal government policy is "socialism in a silk hat." Prime Minister St. Laurent says the government isn't wearing any such headgear.

The reference to the hat highlighted an argument between the two leaders in the Commons Monday as the throne speech debate moved off for a weeks-long run.

Mr. Drew said last week's cabinet decision denying Canadian Pacific Airlines' application for a Vancouver-Montreal cargo service indicated a policy "which means the end of free competition where the government has entered any business."

Mr. St. Laurent replied that the government believes in competition "when competition is apt to provide what it normally provides —a stimulus to better service."

The cabinet had decided, he said, that the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines was carrying efficiently all air cargo available and would be able to handle any increase in the foreseeable future.

SOCIALISTIC TOPPER

Mr. Drew said: "The policies being followed by this government and now enunciated so clearly do constitute socialist doctrine. This is socialism in a silk hat."

Mr. St. Laurent replied: "I suppose I should tip my socialistic hat to him (Mr. Drew) on this occasion. . . I think we are all believers in competition." But this did not mean unlimited competition.

The subject of competition came up in a want-of-confidence motion moved by Mr. Drew.

The Progressive Conservative motion said Canadian welfare depends on free competition and added: "The prosperity and security of all Canadians will be advanced by government policies which will

Say 4 Planned Reign Of Terror

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—A prosecution witness at the trial of four young Scots accused of plotting against the government today alleged they planned a reign of terror in their campaign for Scottish independence.

John Cullen, 48, said Raymond Glen Forbes, 23, one of the accused quartet, invited him to join the Scottish Republican Army and described its aims as follows:

"This organization intends to draw a separate border between England and Scotland, to blow up all communication, railroad bridges and pylons, from Scotland to England, and to terrorize the nation to such an extent that martial law will be declared."

Forbes and his three companions, Robert Duncan Watt, 22, Malcolm Johnson MacAlister, 24, and Owen Gillan, 27, are charged with plotting to overthrow the rightful government and with illegally obtaining arms and ammunition, destroying or damaging government property, and endangering the lives of the public.

Bandits Fire Two Shots Get Toronto Bank's $1,900

TORONTO (CP)—Two shots were fired at manager Alfred Battler today when a lone gunman held up the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch at mid-central Bay and Wellesley streets and escaped with $1,900. Both shots missed. One went through the wall into a coffee shop next door.

The bandit escaped in a waiting car.

CLOSE CALL

Sam Schneider, sitting in the coffee shop, said: "The bullet whizzed past my head." Ernie McLellen, also sitting in the shop, said the bullet buried itself somewhere near his feet.

"I got out of there in a hurry," he said.

The bank teller, Mrs. Audrey Stock, 25, handed the money to the bandit after he produced a gun. The getaway car was later found abandoned in mid-Toronto. Police learned the gunman got into another auto after leaving the first.

"WENT FOR" ALARM

Police said the shots were fired at the manager because he "went for the alarm." He was ordered back to a teller's cage.

By the time Schneider and other customers in the coffee shop ran outside the bandit was running to his escape car.

It was the second single-handed holdup here in three weeks.

10 Escape Fire

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Awakened by the shouts of two passers-by at 4 a.m. 10 residents in night attire escaped from flames which almost gutted a two-family frame building here. Cause of the fire, which started in a back stairway and spread rapidly, is being investigated by fire department officials.

EDC Opponents Claim Plan France's 'Death'

PARIS (Reuters) — Opponents of French participation in the European army charged today in the Chamber of Deputies that it would mean "death" for France.

The assembly opened a four-day debate on foreign affairs which is expected to culminate in a vote on a motion outlining its attitude toward the European army.

Its decision will determine the attitude to be adopted at the pending Bermuda conference by Prime Minister Joseph Laniel and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. They are expected to be pressed by the United States and Britain for early ratification of the treaty setting up the European force.

STILL FEARS GERMANS

Gen. Adolph Aumeran, Moderate Conservative who was first speaker in today's debate, said European integration would mean that 'France was marching toward death." He urged that France retain her national individuality instead of submerging herself in a unified Europe.

Don't rearm Germany, he said. Rely instead on "a radioactive barrage along the Iron Curtain in case of war."

"Germany is not our complement, but our opposite. Her political conceptions are deeply different than ours," he said, adding:

"The Germans seem to have learned nothing. But if they have learned nothing it is because the United States, frightened by the Soviet Union, has decided to rebuild the German power."

Five Blasts Rock Secret U.S. Plant

MAYWOOD, N.J. (AP) — Five explosions today rocked a building of the Maywood chemical works where secret United States navy production was under way. A two-mile area of Bergen county was shaken by the blasts.

No casualties were reported.

A blaze which followed was extinguished by firemen of four municipalities after a two-hour battle.

A tight censorship has been put into effect by navy and Federal Bureau of Investigation representatives.

Cause and extent of the explosion and fire damage was not given.

UK's Exclusision From Talks Irks Newspaper

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Express reacted angrily today to Britain's alleged "exclusion" from last week's defence talks between Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada and President Eisenhower of the United States.

The right-wing newspaper, a constant booster of Commonwealth causes, said editorially:

"What would be the response of Britain if Canada were suddenly threatened with war? No one in this country can have any doubt . . . all the resources of the land would be at once thrown into the conflict.

"In those circumstances you would imagine that the defence of Canada would automatically be a matter for consultation with Britain.

"But no! President Eisenhower and Prime Minister St. Laurent meet in Ottawa to discuss defence plans. And there is no seat for Britain round the conference table."

The Express, published by Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook, said Britain should insist on being told about any new defence arrangements agreed between Eisenhower and St. Laurent.

Earlier, the independent Liberal Manchester Guardian complimented Canada on her North American defence set-up. In an editorial coinciding with Eisenhower's visit to Canada, the newspaper said what forces Canada has available are employed with skill and ingenuity.

Start New Talks In Mine Strike

TIMMINS (CP)—Talks will resume again Wednesday between officials of the strikebound Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines and of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO).

The talks, aimed at settlement of the strike over union demands for the dues checkoff and pay increases, started last week-end.

Two hours of discussion ended late Monday with the announcement that further talks will be held. There was no indication of the progress or direction of the talks.

Upwards of 5,000 men are on strike in this northern Ontario district and eight of the 11 mines are idle.

Bridge Returns

BUDAPEST (AP) — Bridge, unpopular for a long time under hungary's Communist regime, appears to be back in favor now. A major tournament for the Leonardo Da Vinci cup is being played in the luxurious hall of the building workers' trade union in Budapest. Competing are 64 teams of four players each.

UN Delays Ballot On Disarming

Marks Second Delay In Reaching Decision On U. S. Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The 60-member United Nations political committee today postponed a vote on American-backed disarmament proposals for 24 hours.

It was the second delay in reaching a decision on the plan which includes a suggestion for big power arms talks.

The balloting had been held over from Monday when Russia, faced with certain defeat on her own proposals, asked a 24-hour postponement so she could study the Western resolution. The Russians seek an immediate ban on atomic and hydrogen weapons followed by the establishment of controls. The West wants controls arranged first and then the ban imposed.

The Russian-requested delay gave rise to speculation that the Soviet Union might not oppose the Western resolution. Deliberately worded in a non-controversial manner, this simply asks the UN disarmament commission to continue its work, and suggests that the big powers might hold private arms talks.

The Russians refrained from opposing a similar resolution last spring. Although this move was hailed at the time as a Soviet contribution to lessening of international tensions, it had no practical effect, since the commission still was unable to make much progress.

Meanwhile, a Big Three call for UN censure of Israel for the massacre of 53 Arabs in Kibya, Jordan, sparked angry reaction from both sides in the dispute. The Arabs complained the rebuke should be stronger; the Jews labelled it unfair.

The resolution, framed by Britain, France and the United States, was slated to go to the Security Council today or Wednesday. It rebukes Israel for the raid and demands strengthening of the UN truce team that watches over the Palestine armistice.

Find 2nd Body In YMCA Ruins

ST. THOMAS (CP)—A second body was found today in the ruins of the YMCA building, mainly destroyed in a Sunday fire.

The $200,000 blaze thus cost two lives and injured nine men. The body found today is believed to be that of G. Russell Grimmond, 65, Port Stanley. One other lodger, Thomas Dunn, 73, lost his life in the fire.

The lives of many of the 30 residents of the three-storey, 39-year-old building were saved by a policeman, Jack Bingeman, who directed them through the smoke and out of the door. Firemen helped some down ladders to safety while others jumped from windows.

Mr. Grimmond took a room at the YMCA Saturday night, preparatory to starting a new job Sunday in a local restaurant. Because of deafness, he may not have heard the alarm spread through the building by city police who discovered the fire and by the night watchman. The body was found in the debris of the roof and third floor hallway outside his room.

The board of directors has met and prepared tentative plans for rebuilding the structure. Insurance of $200,000 is expected to go a long way toward covering the loss.

Hold Choir Festival

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—An international boys' choir festival was held Monday night at St. Thomas Anglican church. More than 100 boy choristers from seven different churches in Ontario and the United States took part.

BULLETIN

A collective bargaining agreement has been reached between CGE management and 775 salaried workers in the Peterborough and Toronto-Davenport Works. The two-year contract will run to April 2, 1955, and will effect 550 workers in this city. Among other provisions, a press statement from Local 599, IUE-CIO, says, are a "six per cent wage increase, plus wage adjustments in various labor grades, plus a minimum of $3.50 a week increase". Details of the settlement will appear in Wednesday's Examiner.

Raps Solemn Clerics

KITCHENER (CP) — Long-faced, dead-pan clergymen were taken to task here Monday night by a former member of the ministry in an address to the Kitchener-Waterloo Sales and Advertising Club. Rapping the knuckles of ministers who never crack a smile or display a sense of humor, was Orlo M. Brees of Endicott, N. Y., a Baptist minister for 10 years before becoming a New York state legislature member.

Edmonton Keeps Close Watch Polio Epidemic

EDMONTON (CP)—Health authorities kept close watch today on a fresh polio outbreak that has shattered records set by last year's major epidemic.

Officials said they believe the outbreak, which brought Edmonton a total of 231 cases, 136 more than last year, has reached its peak. The disease has claimed 10 lives in the city, compared with seven during 1952.

The new outbreak became noticeable two weeks ago, long after the seasonal summer decline of polio was reported. The provincial total now stands at 1,164 cases against 774 for 1952. Alberta's death rate is at a high of 80, two more than last year.

Dr. G. M. Little, Edmonton medical health officer, said Monday the trend of infection indicates the peak has been reached. More adults than children are catching the disease, which is "usual at the tail-end of an epidemic," he said.

The fresh outbreak put a strain on city hospitals. There is still an urgent need for nurses and trained physiotherapists.

IMPORT IRON LUNGS

Hospitals, caught without enough iron lungs, had the RCAF fly in eight from Winnipeg and Calgary and 12 from Boston.

Health authorities said they believe a new virus, stronger than the one which caused last year's epidemic, is responsible for the unseasonably high rate. Dr. Little said cases this year are more severe than those of 1952.

Dr. A. Somerville, deputy provincial minister of health, said it was unusual to see two epidemics in consecutive years but he said a polio outbreak in winter is not unusual in northern climates. He pointed out that the epidemic which hit Eskimos at Chesterfield inlet in the Arctic a few years ago started in January.

Inter-Province Trade Dept. Urged By MP

OTTAWA (CP)—A proposal that the government create a new department to deal with interprovincial trade was made in the Commons Monday night by J. L. MacDougall (L-Vancouver Burrard).

Mr. MacDougall suggested that Secretary of State Pickersgill might take on the additional portfolio.

The Vancouver member, speaking in the throne speech debate, said the country faces the problem of a "terrific" amount of surplus products. A "minister of internal trade" could act as a clearing house for an exchange of products among provinces.

Former President Blasts Brownell Charges As Phony

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Harry S. Truman's reply to the now-famed Harry Dexter White case was summed up today as: He knew the high United States government official had been accused of disloyalty, but decided to retain him in order not to endanger an intensive investigation of subversives both in and out of the government service. It was the former president's answer before a nation-wide radio and TV audience Monday night to the charges stemming from a speech 11 days ago by Attorney-General Herbert Brownell who said the late Harry Dexter White had been retained in an important post "though he was known to be a Communist spy by the very people who appointed him."

Truman, jaunty and confident, made a step-by-step summary of the White case, and prefaced and followed it by blasting Brownell's charges as "phony," "false" and "shameful demagoguery."

Crisply and scornfully, Truman said that when Brownell declared White was known to be a Communist by those who appointed him, the attorney-general "lied to the American people."

"In backing away from his charge with the mealy-mouthed statement that he had no intention of impugning the loyalty of any high official of the prior administration, he lied to the American people again."

POLITICAL PROSTITUTION

"The manner and timing of what has been done makes it clear that the powers of the attorney-general have been prostituted for hopes of political gain. No election is worth so much."

Truman's first answer to Brownell's charges was that the Republicans were "desperate" because of their recent election reverses in New York and New Jersey.

At one point in his speech, he lashed out with this:

"It is now evident that the present administration has fully embraced, for political purposes, McCarthyism. I am not referring to the Senator for Wisconsin, he is only important in that his name

Brownell Ready With Reply To HST's Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an atmosphere charged with political thunderheads, Attorney - General Herbert Brownell prepared to reply today to former president Truman's assertion that Brownell "lied to the American people" in the Harry Dexter White case.

Truman said in a coast-to-coast radio-television broadcast Monday night that he permitted White's appointment as United States director of the International Monetary Fund to go through in 1946 to keep from exposing an FBI investigation of an alleged espionage ring.

Brownell was to go before the Senate internal security sub-committee this afternoon (2 p.m. EST) with what aides called a "comprehensive statement" in support of his charges that White was kept in a sensitive government job despite FBI reports to the White House describing the appointee's "espionage activities."

Half an hour later (2:30 p.m.), the hearing was scheduled to be thrown open to the public, press and radio-TV coverage.

Truman's fighting response split political reaction squarely. Democrats, including some who have been critical of him in the past, rallied around the former president. Republicans scoffed at his defence, promised more disclosures to come.

Leonard W. Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee, termed false Truman's assertion that the organization had worked "hand in glove" with Brownell on the White case. He said the committee learned of Brownell's original Chicago speech on the subject only 10 minutes before it was made Nov. 6.

Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the Senate Republican policy committee, followed Truman on the air Monday night to declare that if the former president was aiding FBI investigations in the White case there remained unanswered questions as to why he had labelled congressional probes "red herrings."

Chairman William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind.) of the internal security sub-committee said that group is "interested only in fact and is not concerned with political by-play."

"We intend to make a complete record in the White case . . . and let Congress and the American people be the judge of what the true facts are."

Unafraid, Guard Delays Escape

NELSON, B. C. (CP)—Delayed by a guard who didn't scare, four men who broke out of the provincial jail here Monday night enjoyed approximately two hours of freedom before being recaptured, RCMP officers said. They were intercepted at a roadblock.

One of the escapees was Carwin Laverne Sutherland, 21, charged with murder.

RCMP said Delore Gallant, 28, serving two weeks for vagrancy and John Hugh Mitchell, 20, rushed the unidentified guard with a knife while they were being taken to a recreation room.

The guard, knife at his throat, resisted, refused to give up his keys and was beaten to the floor, police said. The keys were taken from his uniform and Sutherland and Kenneth Martin, 19, were freed.

Another guard, hearing the struggle, turned in the alarm.

Mitchell and Martin were each serving a year for car theft.

Bad Example?

MANCHESTER (Reuters)— Dr. Donald Soper, president of the British Methodist Conference, said today he wishes the Queen would stay away from the races. "I believe she can do more harm than good by encouraging other people to follow her example in this," he said.

Eartha's Earthy Lyrics Get Los Angeles Mayor Upset

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Was the entertainment for the king and queen of Greece at a civic banquet here Saturday too risque for royalty?

The mayor, some city council members and several society leaders think so, and the corridors of city hall echoed their complaints today.

Mayor Norris Poulson said he was shocked, particularly by some of the songs of sexy Eartha Kitt. Other politician-critics found fault with some of the patter of actor Dick Powell, master of ceremonies at the black-tie, $15-a-plate affair.

MAYOR BLASTS LYRICS

"I was extremely disappointed," said the mayor. "I personally found some of the lyrics offensive. I feel the Hollywood co-ordinating committee owes an apology to the king and queen."

The co-ordinating committee arranged the entertainment, in which Frankie Laine and comedian Danny Thomas also took part. Miss Kitt sang such ditties as "I Want To Be Evil" and "Santa Baby."

Poulson added that "generally speaking, it was far from the high-type program that the occasion demanded."

MISS KITT PUZZLED

Said Miss Kitt: "I can't understand it. I'm just an innocent little girl. I didn't think it was possible to shock politicians."

And said Powell: "What did they expect, church hymns? It was only a little bit sophisticated."

Councilman Don Allen also found fault with the Andrews Sisters.

Preston Hotchkiss, the city's official greeter, observed:

"I didn't think it was top quality, but I didn't see anything especially bad about it. You can't please everybody. After all, the entertainment was free, and when it's free you have to take what you can get, don't you?"

Canadian-Made Polio Vaccine Slated For Widespread Use In U.S. School Test

NEW YORK (AP) — A hope-laden polio vaccine will be given to probably 1,000,000 American school children beginning Feb. 8 in an effort to learn whether polio has been conquered.

Official details of a unique country-wide medical test were announced Monday by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

The children will have three successive shots of a vaccine made of killed polio virus, triple tested for safety. Most of the virus will be grown by the University of Toronto's Connaught laboratories.

Connaught laboratories will produce the virus while working under a grant from the American National Foundation.

The vaccine was developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of the University of Pittsburgh. It will be given to second-graders in some 200 counties—none officially named as yet—across the United States.

What happens to these youngsters during next summer's natural exposure to polio is expected to tell whether the vaccine is a success. The children will be compared with unvaccinated children of the first through third grades in those same counties.

KNOW RESULTS IN '55

The answer won't be known until some time in 1955 when careful scientific check-ups have been completed, says Basil O'Connor, foundation president.

If the vaccine does really protect, then large amounts can be made available for children of all ages in 1955.

Those selected for the test will be areas which have had high polio rates for the last five years, especially among young children, and which give a good cross-section of the U. S. geographically, economically and socially.

Vaccinations will be confined to children in the second grade because youngsters of that age—6½ to eight—have the second highest incidence of polio among all age groups.

County health officers will direct the vaccinations, given at school clinics. Parents must give written consent.

All vaccinations must be completed by June 1, before the new polio season starts. The first two doses will be given a week apart, with a third booster dose injected four weeks later.

USE MONKEY KIDNEYS

Experiments on growth of polio virus in quantity—a necessary step in production of vaccine—were begun at the Connaught laboratories of the University of Toronto three years ago.

A group of polio research workers under Dr. A. J. Rhodes successfully grew the virus in containers of about two-quart capacity using a special nutrient fluid developed at the university. Previously the virus had been grown in flasks or test tubes little larger than a man's thumb.

The virus was grown on monkey kidney tissue, chopped up while still "alive" and immersed in the nutrient fluid.

The work at Toronto was conducted as part of the program of studies planned and supported by the March of Dimes.

U.S. Rejects Panmunjom Parley Site

Willing To Invite Neutral Powers To Peace Conference

PANMUNJOM (AP)—United States envoy Arthur Dean today told the Communists that the United States would be willing to invite neutral powers to the Korean peace conference under certain conditions, a sharp reversal of his earlier stand.

At the same time, Dean rejected as "totally unacceptable" a Communist proposal to hold the conference at Panmunjom, with Russia, India, Burma, Indonesia and Pakistan attending as non-voting observers.

The United Nations delegate to preliminary peace talks told the Reds the U. S. would ask its allies to consider asking neutrals to the full-dress conference if:

1. The belligerent nations reach agreement on the Korean question and want to move on to broad Asian questions.

2. The conference bogs down and it appears that progress on Korean problems is impossible.

Both Allied and Communist proposals were complicated, and negotiators said they would study them overnight. Answers are expected when the talks resume Wednesday.

Meanwhile, Communist interviews with Chinese and Korean war prisoners who refused to go home were called off again today when the Reds called for PoWs skipped by persuaders Monday.

And the neutral nations repatriation commission called off interviews for Wednesday when the Reds did not file a request for prisoners from a new compound by the 10 a. m. deadline.

PEACE PROPOSALS

UN and Communist proposals for setting up the Korean peace conference came after three weeks of manoeuvring, and Dean told correspondents afterward: "This is going to be a long horse trade."

The Red proposal closely followed previous Communist plans, but Dean's move departed sharply from his stand that he had authority only to exchange views on composition of the peace talks.

The Red proposal to hold the peace talks at Panmunjom was rejected by Dean minutes after it was advanced.

Dean already has suggested that the conference be held in Honolulu, San Francisco or Geneva.

U.S. Presses Death Penalty Demand For Kidnap Slayers

By AL DOPKING

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The United States government today pressed its demand for the death penalty for the kidnap-slayers of Bobby Greenlease as their trial went into its second day. Monday. 41-year-old Bonnie Heady, once a respectable housewife who turned drunkard, told of how Carl Austin Hall, dope addict and ex-convict, shot the six-year-old boy soon after his abduction.

The boy's multi - millionaire father, Robert C. Greenlease, heard them from a front seat in the crowded courtroom.

Only a short time before, he had been on the witness stand to identify Bobby's photograph and some of the belongings he had with him the day of the kidnapping. He swallowed hard. Sometimes it was hard to hear him.

It was the first time the public had heard the full 26-page confession.

Federal district attorney Edward Scheufler, in his opening statement for the government, had asked the death penalty for both Hall and the woman "because of the nature of the crime."

PLEADED GUILTY

Hall and Mrs. Heady pleaded guilty at their arraignment and Scheufler told the jury of 12, all business men, that their sole job is to determine whether the couple should pay the supreme penalty. Under the federal Lindbergh kidnap law a jury must recommend the death sentence before it can be imposed.

Counsel for Hall and Mrs. Heady said they reserved the right to make insanity pleas.

Roy Dietrich, court - appointed lawyer for Hall, and Harold Hull, appearing for Mrs. Heady, said the defendants would not be placed on the stand.

Mrs. Heady's confession told how Hall shot the boy when he found a cord he had planned to use to strangle him was too short and how the couple earlier had been frustrated in an attempt to abduct the boy's 11-year-old sister, Virginia Sue.

Mrs. Heady appeared almost bored as Scheufler read the confession. Only once in the 44 minutes it took to read it did she appera affected. That was when Scheufler reached the point where she told how she drank herself almost into insensibility following the kidnap-slaying Sept. 28.

"I wanted to stay drunk so that my conscience wouldn't bother me," the confession read.

ABDUCTS BOY

The confession related how Bobby, abducted by Mrs. Heady from a private school on the ruse that she was his aunt, accompanied her and Hall willingly to a wheat field across the state line into Kansas where Hall and Mrs. Heady chose to kill the boy.

Bobby had noticed some hedge balls—something like horse-chestnut burrs—and had mentioned them to Mrs. Heady.

After Hall stopped Mrs. Heady's station wagon he spread a plastic sheet in the rear in preparation for Bobby's slaying.

Mrs. Heady's confession said she had walked about 75 or 100 feet when she heard two shots.

"KILLED THE VICTIM"

"I then realized Carl had actually killed the victim by shooting him, although it originally was planned that he would strangle him with a small piece of rope he had in the station wagon.

"As I approached the station wagon, Carl was wrapping Bobby in a piece of blue plastic on the ground behind the station wagon.

"I noticed that Carl had blood on his face, coat, hands and arms. I helped him take off his coat which we folded inside out and placed it in the back of the station wagon and then Carl rolled up the sleeves of his shirt because they also were covered with blood.

"I recall asking Carl at that point why he shot the victim and he told me he tried to strangle him but the cord was too short . . . and since the boy started to struggle and fight he had to dispose of him by shooting."

The confession went on to tell how the couple stopped at a tavern for some drinks on the way to Mrs. Heady's St. Joseph, Mo., home where a grave had been dug for the body the day before.

Mrs. Heady said the couple finally decided the day before the kidnapping that little Bobby had to be killed to shield them from possible identification.

Britain Recalls Suez Negotiator

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain has recalled Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, her top negotiator in the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over the Suez canal base, indicating there is no sign of an early agreement on the issue.

Robertson was asked to lead the negotiations last May, when Ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson fell ill. He will fly back to England this week to take up his job as chairman of the British transport commission.

At the same time, the foreign office announced that Stevenson will return to Cairo next month "in better health than he has been for many years."

has taken on a dictionary meaning in the world."

As to his action he took in the White case, he said, he wanted the "American people to understand that the course we took protected the public interest and security and, at the same time, permitted the intensive FBI investigation then in progress to go forward. No other course could have served both purposes."

WHITE REPORT

As best he could determine, an FBI report "specifically discussing activities of Harry Dexter White was brought to my attention" early in February, 1946. It was delivered to him by Brigadier-General Harry Vaughan, his military aide, and also "brought to my personal attention by Secretary of State Byrnes."

Truman said he sent a copy of the report to White's immediate superior, the late Fred Vinson, then secretary of the treasury. He said he also discussed the matter with Vinson and Byrnes.

But that discussion, he said, was not until after the Senate had confirmed White as the U.S. member on the board of directors of the International Monetary Fund.

"Secretary of the Treasury Vinson consulted with Attorney-General Tom Clark and other government officials," Truman said. "When the results of these consultations were reported to me, the conclusion was reached that the appointment should be allowed to take its normal course. The final responsibility for this decision, of course, was mine. The reason for the decision was that the charges which had been made to the FBI against Mr. White also involved many other persons. . . . It was of great importance to the nation that this investigation be continued in order to prove or disprove these charges and to determine if still other persons were implicated."

Truman made no mention by name of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, a fact noted by Senator Homer Ferguson (Rep. Mich). Ferguson accused the former president of letting it "leak out" before the speech that the FBI director had been in on the agreement to keep White in the government while the investigation continued.

But in the speech, the Michigan senator said, "he doesn't combine Hoover with any of the people he consulted. . . . He leaves that to the imagination."

No Second US Request For Gouzenko: PM

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday the United States has not requested a second time that Igor Gouzenko be allowed to testify before a U.S. congressional security committee.

Senator William E. Jenner, Indiana Republican who heads the U.S. Senate internal security subcommittee, said Saturday in Washington he has renewed efforts to question Gouzenko, Soviet embassy clerk who fingered a Russian spy ring in Canada in 1945.

OSHAWA (CP)—City council has decided not to build a $700,000 civic arena to replace the one destroyed by fire last September.

Mayor John Naylor said service clubs, industries and others interested in replacing the arena should do it. He said the city's commitments are already too great.

The $500,000 arena was destroyed Sept. 15. Council had decided earlier a public vote on rebuilding the arena should be taken.

restore markets for primary products and generally promote a high volume of international trade."

A sub-amendment to this motion by CCF leader Coldwell deleted the reference to competition and said the House "regrets" the government has "failed" to recommend a national health insurance plan.

END COMPETITION

In his lead-off speech of the session, Mr. Drew said government policy in the CPA case "could mean the end of free competition generally, if the government decided at any time to carry this policy a stage farther under the over-riding powers of the Emergency Powers Act."

The government's action had disclosed its determination to possess peacetime emergency powers to exercise full control over any industry by order-in-council without reference to Parliament.

Mr. St. Laurent said in reply: "If competition is apt to achieve better service, greater efficiency and lower costs and charges, all to the good. But if it is apt to achieve over-expansion with a division of the market, resulting in heavier burdens on carriers, shippers and taxpayers alike, I do not think it is in the public interest."

CCF AGREES

Mr. Coldwell sided with the government in the argument. There were certain phases in Canada's economic life, particularly transportation, which were suitable for public control, development and operation.

The CCF leader said that two years ago the Progressive Conservatives had attempted to block amendments to the combines act.

On the CCF's proposed national health insurance scheme, he said it should provide for full hospital, mental, dental and other health care to every Canadian "regardless of individual income."

Mutilated Child May Have Been Born Dead

AURORA, Ont. (CP)—Coroner G. W. Williams said today an autopsy on the mutilated body of a baby found here showed that there was no evidence that the child had ever breathed.

He said the lungs of the premature baby, born at eight months, were collapsed. He added there was no way of knowing whether the infant was born dead, although indications were it was perfectly developed at birth.

HACKED TO PIECES

The body, so hacked to pieces that its sex could not be determined, was found Sunday by a Toronto couple out for a stroll. Police believed the body was cut in two, the skull shattered and right arm severed to conceal identification.

Chances of identifying the body are slim, said chief constable Fisher Dunham of Aurora. Dr. Williams said there were no signs of decomposition on the body and it could not have been in the creek where it was found more than a few hours.

Aurora town council agreed Monday night to pay the expense of the baby's funeral.

Sues Publisher For $5,604,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The publisher of the Los Angeles Daily News has been sued for $5,604,000 damages on the allegation that he broke a contract for sale of the controlling interest in the newspaper.

Sheldon F. Sackett, Cailfornia and Oregon newspaper publisher and radio station operator, brought the action against Robert L. Smith, charging that Smith repudiated an agreement made with Sackett last Oct. 24.

Sackett placed a value of $5,000,000 on the assets he expected to acquire from Smith. A copy of the alleged agreement between Sackett and Smith provided that Smith was to be employed by the News in an advisory capacity for seven years at $25,000 a year.

Smith said he had no comment on the suit beyond a statement he made last Thursday in announcing cancellation of the proposed deal. At that time he said Sackett's proposal to purchase an interest in The News was conditional upon financial and collateral considerations "which were not complied with by Sackett."

Magistrate Accuses Witness Of Lying

BANCROFT (ENS)—"I have previously called this witness stupid and I now call him a liar" commented Magistrate R. C. Jackson, dismissing a charge of bootlegging against Adam Tomchick of Maynooth Station.

The witness, Raymond Kissick stated that he met a man at Tomchick's home about 1:00 a.m. on October 18, who sold him two bottles of wine for $4.

Apprehended later by OPP Constables Milton Perry and Ray Hooker, Kissick was taken back to the house where he identified Tomchick as the man from whom he had purchased the wine.

In court, however, Kissick said he could not then identify the accused as the man who sold him the bottles.

For having liquor, Ken Sullivan of, Latchford Bridge and Tony Golka of Whitney were each fined $15 and costs. Lloyd Fleguel of Palmer Rapids paid $10 for a similar offence. Keith Carnacham of Peterborough was fined $15 and costs for causing a disturbance at Maynooth and Lloyd Maxwell of Bancroft paid a similar amount for speeding.

"Sorry I Did It," Man Says After Slaying Son

DETROIT (AP)—A weeping 230-pound riveter was accused today of stabbing his five-year-old son to death Monday night because the boy would not go to sleep.

Homer Harrison, 22, was held for investigation of murdering his son, Eugene. "I'm sorry I did it," the father told police.

The mother, Helen, 22, was working as a waitress at the time of the slaying. She told police that when she returned home she found her husband lying on a couch watching television.

Mrs. Harrison said her husband told her, "Come into the bedroom. I want to show you something."

The mother fainted when she discovered her son's body, with a single stab wound in the abdomen.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

'DOZER FALL OFF TRUCK

A hole in the road was all that marked the spot where a bulldozer fell off a truck on Highway 28 today at noon, one hour after the incident occurred. The truck, coming from Toronto and driven by Ross Curry of Haliburton, was just coming to Kendry crossing when the insecure front-end loader fell of its trailer. Traffic was held up while the driver and volunteers struggled to reload the slightly-damaged machine with a winch on the truck.

A DAY TO REMEMBER

For all its day to day registering of the change of weather, the thermometer must have felt a strange sense of transport at the level of 61 deg. F. on this 17th of November. The warm sun seemed to have been displaced from early October, inviting people out of doors, and prompting others to delay further their buying of furnace pipes, glass for the broken pane of the storm window, and such reinforcements against traditional November.

Jews Won't Get $1,000 Each In Reparations

TORONTO (CP) — J. Irving Oelbaum, president of the Canadian Jewish Congress, said Monday night reparations Jewish immigrants in Toronto will receive from the German government will be smaller amounts than reports published earlier suggested.

The first report was that about 2,000 Jews here would receive as much as $1,000 each during the next few months as compensation for their sufferings at the hands of the German government of Adolf Hitler.

Payment has been set at the rate of $30 for every month the Jews were deprived of their freedom.

FEW GET MAXIMUM

Mr. Oelbaum said in a statement the maximum payment to any one claimant will be $1,000, but not nearly all the 2,000 persons here will receive the maximum.

"Many of them were in prison for nine or 10 months and hence could not possibly receive $1,000 at payments of $30 a month. The number of claimants will be below 2,000. Not all of them will receive the maximum of $1,000 and much of the money is in a frozen account in Germany anyway. I can't imagine many of them going back to that country to collect."

All Prices Down In Light Trading

TORONTO (CP) — All price groups were lower in light early afternoon stock market trading today.

Base metals were down with seniors losses ranging to Waite Amulet's and Falconbridge's 25 cents. East Sullivan, up five cents, made the only senior gain.

Uraniums and Bathurst-area base metals had losses mostly in pennies. Gunnar and Nesbitt-Labine, down 20 and 10 cents respectively, were the only exceptions.

Western oils slipped with losses, ranging to Canada Southern's 20 cents, outnumbering gains by a two-to-one margin.

School Bomb Shelters Board's Suggestion

KITCHENER (CP) — The construction of bomb shelters in Waterloo schools was suggested at a Waterloo school board meeting Monday night.

"I have seen where bomb shelters are being incorporated in new schools in other areas, and I think we should give it some thought," said H. W. Wagner.

Board members decided to distribute department of national defence booklets on civil defence to teachers. Pupils will also be taught to lie on the floor and shelter face and head from any flash from a bomb, the board decided.

Hopes Bomb Keeps Cold War Cold

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent expressed hope Monday that the dreadfulness of nuclear warfare might keep the cold war cold.

Speaking in the throne speech debate in the Commons, the prime minister said he believes neither East nor West could gain a "permanent advantage" in a nuclear-weapon war.

Opposition Leader Drew spoke along similar lines and quoted British Prime Minister Churchill: "I have sometimes the odd thought that the annihilating character of these agencies may bring an utterly unforeseeable security to mankind."

Mr. St. Laurent said that since nuclear weapons are available to both Western and Communist nations, there was some hope that neither would use them.

Mr. St. Laurent, Mr. Drew and CCF Leader Coldwell praised the collective action of the United Nations in halting aggression in Korea. All said they hoped the armistice could lead to a permanent peace in Korea.

Charged With Stealing $15 Brandishing Paper Knife

COBOURG (ENS)—A charge of robbery with violence was heard against George Hutching of Toronto, Monday and was adjourned to check some defence evidence.

Hutching, who is 23 years of age, has been living in Cobourg for the past month and is alleged to have robbed Frank Eberts of $15, using violence, on November 7.

Eberts told the court that he had never seen the accused before until he was on a drinking party at the home of Ralph Lees on the afternoon of November 7. Eberts, who is about 50 years of age, said that Hutching suggested that they leave Lees' and go over to his place for a drink.

"Hutching seemed friendly and I accepted his invitation so we went over to the house where he was boarding. Nobody was home. I had three five dollar bills in my vest pocket. We went in the house and I was going to step over to a couch to sit down when I heard Hutching say behind me: 'Now I've got you where I want you' and with that he slugged me over the head with a coal oil lamp.

PRODUCED KNIFE

"The lamp was in his right hand and the shade in the left. I stumbled down on my hands and knee and then, as I started to get up, he produced a knife in his left hand and ordered me to take off my coat. It was a paper knife, like you open letters with.

"He went through my pockets and then he asked me where my money was. I gave him the $15 and then he asked me if that was all I had and I said yes it was. He then hit me with his right hand.

"I started to struggle with him then and he said: 'Okay, get out but don't go near the police.' He watched me from the door and when he went in I went down to the police station," said Eberts.

Ralph Lees testified that Ebert and Hutching, Chuck Henderson and George Bowen were at his place on the afternoon of November 7 and they had several bottles of wine. They started to kick up a row so he told them to keep quiet or get out .

"Hutching and Ebert went down the stairs together," Lees recalled. Lees identified the paper knife as belonging to his mother and said it was in their apartment before Hutching came on November 7.

SHOWN MONEY

Mrs. Jeanne Horsfield of Cobourg told the court that she knew the accused and that she was aware that he was without funds from time to time. On the night of November 7 she was in a cafe with him and he showed her $15. in bills.

PCC Cunningham testified that after Eberts complained that he was robbed, he arrested Hutching and locked him up. He went with PC Gene Butler to where Hutching was staying and found the lamp, with the shade off, and the paper knife. When arrested, Hutching had in his possession two $5. bills, some other bills and change totalling $16.27.

The accused related that he and the others had been drinking heavily on the day in question. He recalled being in Lees' apartment but that he left alone around 5 p.m. and met Mrs. Horsfield at 5.45 in the cafe. He denied being back at the place where he stayed at any time since he left in the morning until next day. On the night of November 7 he went to Toronto to see a friend, Walter Van Luven, and borrowed $4.

Asked about the money found on him when arrested, he said it was sent by Van Luven and he got it by mail on the morning of November 7.

Crown Attorney Harry Deyman said he would want the matter adjourned to check on Hutching's story about getting the money from Toronto.

"It may be that he went to Toronto that night to establish an alibi," commented Magistrate R. B. Baxter in remanding the accused until Friday.

One Shot Fired Police Arrest 3 Youths

LINDSAY (ENS) — Three Lindsay and district youths will appear in police court here on Wednesday, charged with being in a dwelling house by night with intent to commit an indictable offense. One shot was fired by a police officer in a chase in which two of the youths were arrested.

The trio, Alvin McGee, and Kenneth Black, of Lindsay, and William Hore, of Dunsford, were arrested after Mr. and Mrs. Fred Traynor, of Lindsay, reported that intruders were in their home.

Constable John Henley of the Lindsay police answered the call. The youths are said to have fled to the vicinity of the main street, where they were finally cornered by the constable. One shot was fired during the chase.

Later, the third youth was arrested and the same charge laid. The two Lindsay boys appeared in court Monday and were remanded, since police investigation is not complete.

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of the Red-tinged Canadian Peace Congress came to Parliament Hill Monday with a brief asking support for a meeting of "the leading powers" to stave off war.

The cabinet turned down a request for a meeting with a congress delegation and, instead, the congress will present its brief today to one of the cabinet secretaries.

Meanwhile, groups from the national council of the congress, about 20 members of which held a week-end meeting here, went through the centre block submitting the brief to individual members of Parliament.

One of the points in the brief was that there had been a 98-percent "yes" vote among 34,121 Canadians in a congress-sponsored "national peace referendum" on the question of a meeting of leading powers with a view to settling, by negotiation, world problems threatening peace.

Month-Long Search Yields Bodies Of Welsh Couple

CARMARTHEN, Wales (Reuters)—Ronald Harries, 25, was charged Monday night with the murder of his uncle and aunt a few hours after police dug their bodies from crude graves on their farm near here.

The discovery of the bodies of John Harries, 63, and his wife Phoebe, 54, ended one of the biggest searches Britain has ever known. The two have been missing from their lonely 11-acre farm in the Welsh hills for a month.

Hundreds of local residents organized by police combed every inch of the territory for miles around in a hunt for the couple. But for weeks their search was fruitless.

Monday, police apparently acting on a tip went straight to a plowed field on John Harries' farm and began digging. They unearthed the bodies and soon afterwards announced the arrest of Ronald Harries.

Ronald had told police he drove Mr. and Mrs. Harries to the Carmarthen station Oct. 17, the last day they were seen alive. He said they were going to London to take their first vacation in 30 years.

Local gossip said the farmer had as much as £10,000 salted away on his small farm.

Muscovites March To See Stalin's Body

MOSCOW (AP)—Thousands of people marched across snowy Red square today to file through the Lenin-Stalin tomb and get their first look at the embalmed body of Joseph Stalin. It was the first public opening of the tomb since the Soviet leader died in March.

Red square was blocked off to all except those holding passes for the first day's three-hour showing. Western diplomats and correspondents have been promised admittance Wednesday evening.

The first delegations allowed in included some Koreans and Chinese, and numerous women.

It has been announced that "Moscow working people" will have the first chance for admission cards.

Mayor Asks For Limits On Proclamations

Where should a line be drawn in the use of civic proclamations?

Mayor Waddell remarked to the finance committee of the council Monday night that his experience in issuing these public notices had prompted the idea of placing some restrtiction on the purpose which they may serve.

"Plainly, a proclamation is something that concerns all our citizens," His Worship said. "For example, an announcement relating to the coronation of the Queen related to everybody. When we have to call attention to the daylight saving time change that is done by a similar notice. It applies to everybody.

"It seems to me that the issuing of proclamtions for various other matters tends to lessen its significance."

For example, he said, Fire Prevention Week, which he mentioned as coming to mind, a proper and useful occasion for reminding the public of ways and means of preventing fires and their losses. Should it be by proclamation?

ADVERTISEMENT

In that use the proclamation became virtually an advertisement. There were similar uses of secondary importance, and yet requests were received for announcement by civic authority.

Mayor Waddell said he was leaving the idea to the thought of council, and there might be an agreement in some restricting policy to exclude the appearance of a mere advertisement or in more serious matters pertaining to the citizens.

Unanimity Goal, Says Horse Show President

TORONTO (CP) — J. Lance Rumble, retiring president of the Canadian Horse Shows Association said Monday that the goal of the association is to achieve unanimity.

Rumble, speaking to the association's annual luncheon, said: "We've got to get unanimous about the rules we're going to have in our association—the rules that judges can abide by from one end of the country to the other."

The retiring president said some of the methods of the American Horse Shows Association, relating to judges, have been under study. The compiling and maintenance of proper records is also being considered, he said.

Paratrooper's Murder Trial Goes Into Final Round

STRATFORD (CP)—The courtroom fight to save a former army paratrooper, charged with murder, went into the final round Monday with the main attack by defence and crown aimed primarily at the accused's mental condition.

Since the murder hearing opened here last Wednesday afternoon six eyewitnesses told of seeing Ruben Henry Norman pump at least six small-calibre bullets from a semi-automatic pistol into the body of 17-year-old Jean Marie Satchell.

The shooting took place at noon Feb. 2 in Stratford's business section.

Since then Norman's mental condition has been a bone of contention. Last May a jury found Norman mentally unfit for trial.

Dr. Charles S. Tenant, Ontario department of health forensic psychiatrist, a crown witness, called in reply to defence contention that Norman's mental condition was not normal, said Norman had told him defence psychiatrists had misquoted him when they reported he had heard the voice of God.

Norman was confined to an Ontario hospital at Penetang after he was found mentally ill in May and the doctor said he discovered the prisoner "very observant." Norman discussed actions and symptoms of other inmates of the hospital.

"I have come to the conclusion after seven observations that Norman is mentally fit," the doctor said.

LIVING BULB-HOLDER

TORONTO (CP) — A 40-foot spruce tree will have a police escort on its way to the city hall here from North Toronto. It will be permanently planted in front of the city hall and will provide a place to put Christmas tree lights and other decorations. Toronto got the idea from Cleveland who is doing the same thing.

More Pay For Parliament?

Reports from Ottawa suggest that the sessional indemnities of Members of Parliament are likely to be increased during the present sitting. The members of the Commons and Senate now get $4,000 a year, tax-free; they also receive an expense allowance of $2,000, which is tax-free to members of the Commons, but which is taxable in the case of Senators and Members of the Cabinet. The suggestion is that the indemnity should be doubled, thus giving the MPs a net remuneration of $10,000 a year. It may be remarked that by sitting twice each year they have been receiving this sum for a number of years.

* * *

Should our parliamentarians have more money? They have to give more time to their work in Ottawa than they did before the war, and their expenses have risen. Undoubtedly a good case can be made for increasing their sessional indemnities. But there is another, and important, matter to be considered.

* * *

Being a Member of Parliament is not a job, and the money that goes with it is not a salary; the work is an honour, and the money is an indemnity. If the money side of parliamentary work becomes too attractive—and $10,000 a year free of tax is certainly attractive—we may get a rush of men for parliamentary seats who feel no call to public service, but who want the money, and the prestige, and the kind of graft which springs up wherever politics becomes a profession.

* * *

Some politicians have to be professionals. Men working on Cabinet level have no time, and often no inclination, for any other kind of work. But they are in a different position from private members, whose work is of lesser importance, and whose duties are time-taking without being particularly onerous. We have men of a good type in the Commons now and we doubt if there are many of them who rely on their indemnities for their living. But are we not in danger of attracting a less genuinely public-spirited group of men if Parliament becomes a well-paid job? This must be given careful thought.

* * *

One or two Conservative newspapers are suggesting that the indemnities be increased for the House of Commons, but not for the Senate. There are many people, of course, who would be pleased to humiliate the Senate by such action, which would imply a low estimate of the value of Senate services. Yet we are sure that if the Prime Minister were to yield to their impassioned plea that some Conservatives be appointed to Senatorships, this suggestion would be dropped at once.

* * *

The Senate wrangle is an old one, and we are sick of it. There are eight Conservative Senators new, but when Sir Wilfrid Laurier came to power in 1896 there were only five Liberals in the Upper House. When Sir Robert Borden came to power in 1911 he proceeded to fill the Senate with Conservative appointees, and Mr. King reversed that process in 1921. We wish that the Conservative press would learn the facts of political life: parties do not appoint men to the Senate who are opposed to their policies.

* * *

If the Senate were really reformed, so that people were appointed to that House in recognition of national service, political and non-political: if the Commons were not so jealous of all power that it refuses to permit legislation to originate in the Senate; if a retiring age for Senators were established at, let us say, 75: if some reform of this kind could be accomplished, we should rejoice. But it is not reform to appoint politicians of a rival party to the Senate as things stand at present, and we fear that Canada is a long way from any reform of the kind we have outlined. Therefore we fear that the Conservatives must bide their time, hoping that they too, may come to power, and pack the Senate as long as they can. For we are convinced that that is precisely what they would do.

High And Deep Friendship

The President of the United States, addressing both Houses of Parliament in Ottawa, spoke of the friendship which exists between this country and his. Because the intimacy is accepted as a commonplace in no wise lessens its importance and, indeed, its singularity. The Canadian-American friendship is —to quote the New York Times' reference to one phase of it—"one of the most important, most satisfactory and most thoroughly unique developments in the history of international relations".

It is not trite, therefore, when our Prime Minister alludes warmly to the friendly ties between this country and the United States; nor must we brush off as clichés President Eisehower's echo of the sentiments. Mr. St. Laurent spoke of the American leadership "untainted by any desire for national self-aggrandizement. By positive and unselfish actions, which are unique in history, the American people have recognized that threats to the safety and well-being of liberty-loving peoples anywhere are threats to all peoples everywhere who believe in the dignity and freedom of the individual". President Eisenhower spoke of the partnership "that for generations has been the hallmark of the relations between Canada and the United States".

Where sentiments such as these abide, friendship will endure; and where one of the most powerful nations on earth and the other is the most expansive, the relationship is momentously beneficient to all mankind.

If It Were Foreign . . .

A few days ago we saw a short, coloured cartoon film in a movie theatre, the subject of which was the growth of transportation in this country. It was one of the most imaginative, funny cartoons we have seen in years. The audience laughed continuously while it was being shown, and at the end broke into loud and long applause. This was surprising enough, for applause at the movies is a rarity even when the entertainment has been first-rate. But what was even more surprising, all things considered, was that this wonderful cartoon was the work of the National Film Board.

The National Film Board seems always to be under criticism from some quarter. Recently the opinion was expressed in a few newspapers that the Board was an unnecessary luxury in times like these, when money is needed for national defence. But we think that if the Board can turn out cartoons like the one we saw, it is decidely necessary to Canada, and is in itself an indirect means of national defence.

Nothing is so good for national defence as a sense of national pride. Good films about Canada, made by Canadians, are a powerful means of creating national pride. Another important element in national defence is goodwill abroad. And again, nothing creates more goodwill or maintains it more firmly than films, music, plays, books, pictures and similar creations which a nation can send abroad to make itself known to foreign peoples. This little cartoon can make people laugh anywhere that laughter is still legal; it is a first-class representative of Canada, and worth many times its weight in ambassadors.

Let us not neglect it because it is home-grown. If it were foreign we should recognize it as film art of a brilliant and subtle kind; we would wish that the same kind of thing were possible here. Well, it is possible here and we have done it. Let us remember that when next somebody suggests that the Film Board is a luxury. A few more such luxuries and Canada would not have to take a back seat for anybody.

Memorial To J. W. Bengough

We are happy that a memorial to John Wilson Bengough has been put up in Ottawa, for it would never do to let Canadians forget him. We have not, in our history, had many political cartoonists of real ability; at present we have only one, Robert LaPalme, who can hold a candle to Bengough.

He drew for the Old Toronto Globe and for a magazine called Grip of which he was the mainstay. His pictures were always lively, and very often libellous, as well. Bengough belonged to that happy era in Canadian journalism when politicians expected to be loved or hated, and cartoonists and editorial writers could go to work on that understanding. Like all good cartoons, Bengough's pictures always contained an element of insight into the character of the man drawn, but insight can be a desperately unflattering thing. He seized upon physical characteristics which the possessors would have preferred to keep in the background, and made them glaringly prominent. If he did not like a man's opinions he had no hesitation about making him ridiculous, or a monster, or both.

We saw Bengough in the flesh only once, the year before he died. He visited the small Ottawa town where we lived, hired a hall, and delivered a hilarious lecture on politics, the evils of drink, and taxation, which were his three great themes. He illustrated his talk with quick sketches of local worthies whom he had visited during the afternoon, and he scorned to flatter them. The audience loved it. We had never seen the local bigwigs deflated with so much insight and good humour.

No, we must not forget Bengough. He wielded his talent like a club, and it was a talent of formidable size. Next time we go to Ottawa we shall seek out his memorial, and lift our journalist's hat to it.

Dinner For Two

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN
(In Kyoto, Japan)

THE JAPANESE—along with the Catholic Church, the Brigade of Guards, Spanish bullfighters and headwaiters—approach the important things in life with a ceremonial air. Their pleasures, especially, are bound by rules which produce sometimes a sort of simple and cunning beauty I have seen nowhere else; and sometimes a maddening and preposterous silliness. You never know which to expect; and after seeing something which the Japanese admire—a ceremony, perhaps, or an exhibition of flower arrangements in a temple forecourt—you cannot always be quite sure whether it has been profoundly beautiful and significant, or alse a great deal of fuss about nothing.

A matter as important as food is naturally no exception. The Japanese are poor; they have made a cult of austerity; they have concentrated more than anyone else, more even than the Americans, on the appearance of food. The other day I was taken to what is said to be finest restaurant in Japan. The meal was not the most delicious I have ever had, but it was the strangest, and it was certainly the most beautiful I have ever seen.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE RESTAURANT, which was founded some seven hundred years ago, and has been in the same family ever since, stands with a sort of arrogant humility in a back street of the old Imperial capital of Kyoto. There is little to mark it. There is a candle in a white paper lantern beside a door in a dark wall. But behind the wall there is a garden where polished bridges cross lakes no bigger than dinner tables, where stepping stones lead through thickets of little tortured trees toward pavilions. Fat carp swim rather horribly in the water, and the white paper walls of the pavilions cause them to glow like lanterns in the darkness.

The pavilion they gave us was an old one. It stood perched on stones in a few inches of water. Its floor was of soft gold matting. Its ceiling was low and black with smoke. Its windows were latticed with bamboo, and it was furnished with two cushions and a scroll on which painted characters proclaimed simply: "The moon and the clouds." Nothing could have been plainer, and it was completely satisfying.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE SAT on the cushions. A girl in a kimono, which was tucked around her and held in place by a heavy sash, knelt in the doorway and murmured. Kneeling in front of each of us in turn, she set bowls of "ceremonial tea" on the floor. This tea is the colour and consistency of a frothy pea soup. It should be taken and held and sipped and finished in a series of precise and graceful drill movements. But since to master them fully is about as hard as to learn to play the piano, these rules are best ignored by foreigners.

And then they produced the dinner. This was carried in on red lacquer tables, each six inches off the ground: one table to each guest. There were three or four dishes on each table, and a pair of chop sticks. The pottery was modern, and each piece differed, and each set on each table matched. It even matched the colour of the food. Each scrap of food, arranged like a still life on its saucer, was rarely more than a couple of mouthfuls.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE WAS a dark and pungent mess of vegetables, flavoured with sesame seeds. There were pieces of quail's flesh lying on leaves. There was mushroom soup, and the black lacquer bowls were decorated inside with tiny gold birds. There were slices of raw fish—three sorts—with ginger and soya sauce. There were little sticks of dried sea urchin. There were flecks of smoked salmon. There was a huge mushroom cooked in wine. There was a fish in an earthenware bowl that lay where it had been cooked, in a nest of dried grass. There where thrushes roasted over charcoal. There were strong vegetable pickles and bean paste and salty green berries and pickled seaweed and rice. There was another clear soup with rolls of rice paper and green weeds floating in it.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE WERE soft-boiled eggs served cold and cut in half. None of the yolk had been displaced, and the house seemed especially proud of this trick. (I can think of two ways of doing this, but it scarcely seemed worth the trouble.) There were scraps of roast meat. There were slices of fruit and three large grapes peeled and stoned and attached on thorns to a twig. There was a puree of chestnuts and sugar, painted and glazed to look like a plum.

And every now and again, as the little tables where carried in and out, a girl would bring the Sake, which is a rice wine served hot and poured out of little vases into cups that are hardly bigger than thimbles. She would kneel smiling at one's elbow with the vase in her two hands, and she would fill it, as often as you held out your cup, with the clear warm wine that tastes like a watery sherry with just the faintest suggestion of fish about it. When the Japanese drink it their faces and the backs of their hands turn crimson.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE SERVANTS KNELT as we left. The price was prodigious. The proprietress, who was a large and splendid matron with a tired but contented face and hair swept up into a heavy bird's nest like the grandest of Edwardian hostesses, bowed under the candle at the street door. She slid the door in the wall shut; and the street was silent and empty and very dark.

Changing Customs

(St. John's (Nfld.) News)

IT is of interest to note that one of the oldest farming districts in the province, the South shore of Conception Bay, this week saw its first agricultural exhibition.

For generations the residents of the area extending from Seal Cove to Paradise have earned a livelihood from the land often in the face of great difficulties, drought, lack of technical information on soil culture, etc., but they have always produced vegetables of high quality which found a ready market.

Even the oldest living resident of St. John's will recall the days when farmers from the "Shore" made their weekly visit to the city offering for sale everything from kindling to cattle.

Now the horse and carriage has disappeared and fast motor vehicles have taken their place. So has the system of marketing as most of the farmers now deal with wholesalers or retail outlets.

An American Opinion—SUPER SONIC CRASH

Visit To Canada

(Leading Article in The New York Times, Nov. 14)

THERE never were two countries so mixed up together as Canada and the United States. Yet it would be wrong to feel in the slightest degree proprietary or complacent about Canadian-American relations. There are a few things that roil Canadians more than the inveterate American habit of considering them as good Americans who simply happen to have been born north of the border. There are few cliches more outworn than the standard oratorical reference to "3,000 miles of undefended frontier."

The plain truth is that Canadians, for much of their history, feared Americans, and relations have only been really good since the Second World War. There is no such thing as "anti-Canadianism" on this side of the border: in fact, there is no such word. But there is such a thing as anti-Americanism on the Canadian side — although fortunately little of it and that little is not important.

It is well to keep these facts in mind today while President Eisenhower is spending a cordial and important weekend in Ottawa: Our ties to Canada are now so close and so friendly that we can afford such luxuries as the quarrels that are taking place over American tariffs and import quotas on Canadian goods. At the same time we have to keep in mind that our links are too important to allow such disputes to go too far.

That is why yesterday's announcement of the formation of a United States-Canadian Committee on Trade and Economic Affairs was especially good news. Canadians have been deeply irritated recently by moves in the United States to restrict imports of some Canadian goods. As with all tariff problems, the Executive—in this case President Eisenhower—has to balance the demands of special and secional interests against the welfare of the whole community. An Economic Board could be a useful instrument to preserve a balance.

We are accustomed to joint Canadian-American boards to regulate our affairs. In fact, few neighbor nations have used that technique to better effect.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS the speech from the Throne at the opening of Parliament in Ottawa on Thursday made clear, there will be no slackening in mutual defence efforts or expenditures, and Canada is bearing a heavy budgetary load on that score. She played her role in Korea and is playing an important one in NATO and Germany. Our two countries have been linked since 1940 by a "Permanent Joint Board on Defence" which has functioned smoothly in war and peace. We have standardized our equipment and operational procedures; we hold joint manoevres and we have established many installations for mutual defence like airports and the famous radar network. It is now the United States Navy, not the British, which is Canada's defender on two oceans.

The International Joint Commission, which is a sort of tribunal to handle all boundary and water disputes, has been working remarkably well since its inception in 1909. The I.J.C., which in some respects has sovereign powers, has been called "one of the most important, most satisfactory, and most thoroughly unique developments in the history of international relations."

Lester Pearson, Secretary for External Affairs, recently spoke of "the inescapable fact that no country in the world has less chance of isolating itself from the effect of American policies and decisions than Canada." At the same time, let us not forget that we in the United States are equally dependent on Canada. This is true in the economic as well as defence field. Canada is by far the best customer of the United States, taking nearly one-quarter of the total exports. Almost a quarter of American foreign capital investments are in Canada. This is without counting our vital need of Canadian raw materials.

We don't have to mend our fences with Canada, because there are no fences. We do need to keep on cultivating our friendship, and it is a fine thing that President Eisenhower is in Ottawa this weekend doing just that.

Letters To The Editor

RETURN CHAMPLAIN'S ASTROLABE

SIR: Some time ago, I happened to hear comments over the N.B.C. regarding Champlain's compass; and, more recently an editorial appeared in your columns concerning the Astrolabe.

It seems some attempts have been made to try to induce the American government to return the instrument to the Canadian authorities, and place it in one of our museums where it belongs. At present, it rests in one of the American repositories of such curiosities; Chicago, I believe.

The finder of the compass was Edward George Lee, son of William Henry Lee, a farmer near Cobden, Ontario, in Renfrew country.

Young Edward claimed he was 14 years of age when he discovered the Astrolabe near the river whilst engaged in logging operations with his father; the instrument was unearthed accidently and was still apparently in fairly decent condition, despite its "long rest."

Mr. Lee, senior, took the compass and sold it the same day to a certain Captain Cowley for the sum of ten dollars. Cowley it seems, sailed the lakes of the Ottawa Valley district in those days when much transport was of necessity by boat; the year was 1866.

When Edward George reached manhood, he realized the true significance of what his father had unwittingly done, and sorely lamented his unlucky fate.

"Sure my father threw my fortune away," he would sadly say; and clasping the dusty lapels of his old coat, gazing lucklessly to heaven would ejaculate—"Lord Almighty!"

Not to be completely outdone in the matter of credit for preservation of the famed relic for posterity, Edward returned to his native heath in later life, after many years of hard toil in many parts of the land; and had several pictures taken of the district where the compass was found, near Green River.

In one of these was shown the exact spot where the Astrolabe was found. In addition, though not a literary man, Edward wrote all he could about its discovery; and made up a small scrap book in which he placed all his evidence; scanty perhaps, but sufficient to convince anyone who viewed same, that Edward must indeed have found the instrument used by the Father of New France during his travels.

Many heard Lee's story; I listened to it first in the summer of 1924 in Kitchener when I visited the old man, as a lad. Mr. Lee, then seventy-two years of age, was shovelling salt for a local creamery. He lived with his daughter, Mrs. Alice Sheedy and her family. Humble indeed, was the old man's plight.

Edward George died at Chapeau, Quebec, in July, 1934, at the age of eighty-two; and by a strange twist of fate, I happened to be in Chapeau the day of his funeral. So I went to gaze for the last time on the beaten face of an old friend. I was living near Renfrew at the time; and attended a picnic in Chapeau with friends that day. Edward George was my mother's cousin and although I had lost track of his whereabouts for a time, I learned he had returned to the Ottawa Valley when I myself returned to live in Almonte, in 1927.

Where Lee's scrap book is today is a good question; it was last in Mrs. Sheedy's possession, in Pembroke.

Champlain's compass should be returned to Canada, many will agree. The Father of New France spent 35 years of his life here with headquarters at Quebec, and was largely instrumental in bringing Christianity to this land. The Jesuit Fathers who later became the Canadian Martyrs first came to our fair land at the behest of the famed explorer; and gave their lives that the name of Christ might be known to a band of blood-thirsty savages. Champlain loved Canada and gave his life in service to its future.

On Parliament Hill a statue stands out in bold relief, at eventide; it is that of a man of mighty physical build. I was greatly impressed when first I gazed upon it in 1928, when I taught school for a time in the Capital.

In the outstretched right hand is held a peculiar round-shaped object; it is inverted. On its face on the outer rim are inscribed the words: "Astrolabe de la Champlain."

The man who holds it is, of course, the great explorer himself. One pauses in awful silence as he contemplates the great debt our country owes to this one man alone.

Yes, I believe Mr. Editor, that any relics and particularly the Astrolabe of Champlain, should be returned to this country which he must have dearly loved. Perhaps such matters as these are trifling and unimportant to many; to others significant. Let's hope the authorities renew their efforts effectively to ensure the return of the Astrolabe. But not for ten dollars, of course; It wasn't sold to America for that.

Yours respectfully,
FRED MAYBEE.

ROUGH R.R. CROSSING

SIR: Your Examiner of the 12th read resurfacing of Highway No. 7 from Reaboro to Fowler's Corners, and rough crossing over CNR tracks, blaming same to the work done by the railway employee. Now you have got the whole set-up wrong. You stated after the paving company had crossed the railway crossing, the work gangs came along to adjust the crossing. Well this is absolutely incorrect—for the railway crossing was set up to the specifications of the Highway, which was to be three inches, and that was done as specified, and the highway was to bring their paving up to the level of the track. So the railway tracks were set up before any of the resurfacing was done to the highway, at the crossing, so why do you put the blame on the railway work gang for this rough crossing, which I do admit is very rough.

I had the level board on this work and I would say they have at least 2 to 3 inches too high to the level of the track, hoping this will explain the reason why the crossing is rough. Hoping you will put this explanation in your paper, so as other people may read it.

Yours,
W. RICHMOND,
Section Foreman,
R.R. 2, Peterborough
Ontario.

(Editor's Note: Whatever the plans, the result, as Mr. Richmond admits, is rough. Work on the track crossing was being done during two days after the resurfacing by asphalt had been done. An explanation of the different levels may lie in this: after the winter is over, two more inches of asphalt are to be put on the highway, according to information this newspaper has received. Must we presume that the bump will remain to jolt and trap the unwary until that summer work is done?)

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

My soul cleaveth unto the dust: quicken thou me according to thy word. I have declared my ways, and thou heardest me: teach me thy statutes. Make me understand the way of thy precepts: so shall I talk of thy wondrous works. (Ps. 119:25-27.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Rid me, and deliver me from the hand of strange children, whose mouth speaketh vanity, and their right hand is a right hand of falsehood: that our sons may be as plants grown up in their youth; that our daughters may be as corner stones, polished after the similitude of a palace . . . Happy is that people, that is in such a case: yea, happy is that people, whose God is the Lord. (Ps. 144:11, 12, 15.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Blessed is the man whom thou choosest, and causest to approach unto thee, that he may dwell in thy courts: we shall be satisfied with the goodness of thy house, even of thy holy temple. (Ps. 65:4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ . . . And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ; till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ . . .

This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart . . .

But ye have not so learned Christ; if so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus: that ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness. (Eph. 4:7, 11-13, 17, 18, 20-24.)

The Bad Rural Influence

(Le Devoir, Montreal)

In Montreal we are in the presence of a population recently arrived from the country, badly adapted to urban surroundings and industrial work. Two or three generations of country people are needed to make a stable city family. The road from the farm to the factory is seldom travelled without shocks. It is not only physical habits that are changed. Family education, the family spirit, religious habits—everything must be adapted. Montreal is an immense melting-pot, where heterogeneous populations are mingled. It is not astonishing that a thick scum rises to the surface. But this scum must not mask totally the pure metal it covers. Laws seldom succeed in making people better. But if they are observed they prevent them from becoming worse.

A SAVE—The cameraman catches the standout stop of Saturday night's action between Canadiens and Chicago at the Montreal Forum. Goaler Al Rollins of the Hawks is tumbling out of cage to make a brilliant play on Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion, who seemed to have Al measured on this play. Chicago edged the Canadiens 3-2 and held the league-leaders to a 2-2 draw Sunday in Chicago.

7 Ti-Cats On All-Stars

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes, who have shown they can break a game wide open with their quick-striking scoring punch, today landed five players each on the Big Four football all-star offensive team.

The shattering offensive power of these clubs and the sharp defensive play of Hamilton Tiger-Cats were recognized in the selections made by football writers, sportscasters and coaches for separate all-star offensive and defensive teams.

The selectors, who picked the teams for The Canadian Press, turned to Tiger-Cats to provide the main strength for the defensive squad. Seven Hamilton Players won berths on this squad, Montreal and Toronto Argonauts two each and Ottawa the remaining position.

The two offensive spots that didn't go to the Rough Riders and Alouettes were divided by Argonauts and Hamilton, who in the last few years have dominated the all-star selections, until this season confined to one mythical dream squad.

THE OFFENSIVE TEAM

Flying Wing: Bob Simpson, Ottawa

Halves: Gene Roberts and Avatus Stone, Ottawa; Joe Scudero, Toronto.

Quarter: Sam Etcheverry, Montreal.

Centre: Tom Hugo, Montreal.

Guards: Ed. Bradley, Montreal; Kay Vaughan, Ottawa.

Tackles: Tex Coulter, Montreal; Vince Mazza, Hamilton.

Ends: Bernie Flowers, Ottawa; John O'Quinn, Montreal.

THE DEFENSIVE TEAM

Flying Wing: Ted Toogood, Toronto.

Halves (Tertiary): Lou Kusserow and Dick Brown, Hamilton; Howie Turner, Ottawa.

Halves (Secondary): Red Ettinger, Toronto; Ralph Toohy, Hamilton.

Guards: Vince Scott and Eddie Bevan, Hamilton.

Tackles: Vince Mazza, Hamilton; Tex Coulter, Montreal.

Ends: Pete Neumann, Hamilton; Doug McNichol, Montreal.

FEW CANADIANS

The selectors, whose votes were weighted to give equal balloting strength to each city in the league, picked imports for 11 positions in the offensive line-up. The only Canadian to make the squad was flying wing Bob Simpson, the third straight year he has been named an all-star.

There was little chance for Canadians to crash the offensive line-up with all the teams concentrating their attacking forces in imports. But they shone on defence and six of the positions on the defensive team went to native players.

They were flying wing Ted Toogood of Argos, tertiary half Dick Brown of Hamilton, secondary half Ralph Toohy of Hamilton, guard Eddie Bevan of Hamilton and ends Pete Neuman of Hamilton and Doug McNichol of Montreal.

MAZZA'S FOURTH TIME

Only two players, tackles Vince Mazza of Hamilton and Tex Coulter of Montreal, were chosen for both the offensive and defensive teams. It was the fourth straight year that Mazza has won all-star rating since coming to Hamilton from Buffalo Bills. Tex Coulter made the grade in his first season in Canadian football after an outstanding career with the professional New York Giants and the college Army team.

Coulter led the balloting for offensive tackle with 310 points of a possible 326 against Mazza's 184 but the Hamilton player squeezed him out as first choice for the tackle spot on the defensive team with 183 points against Coulter's 172. John Kissell, the main figure in Cleveland Browns' threatened lawsuit against Ottawa for alleged contract-jumping by the towering tackle, was third on each team with 122 points for the offensive line-up and 146 for the defensive squad.

FLOWERS CLOSE

There was no unanimous choice for any position but Bernie Flowers, Ottawa's all-American end from Purdue University playing his first season in Canada, came close. He was picked by all but one selector for the offensive team, receiving 322 of a possible 326 points. Montreal's John O'Quinn, the other spectacular pass-catching offensive end, was not far behind with 213 points. For O'Quinn it was the second straight year he has earned all-star ranking.

Ottawa players, with the selection of Simpson, Gene Roberts and Avatus Stone, were picked for all but one of the positions on the offensive team's half line. Little Joe Scudero, Argonauts' lone representative on that line-up, was picked for the other half berth.

Montreal's triple-threat quarterback, Sam Etcheverry, won the pivot spot on the offensive team in a breeze. He got 256 points against 42 for Tom O'Malley of Ottawa and 28 for Nobby Wirkowski of Argonauts.

ALMOST ON TWO TEAMS

Tom Hugo, who was captain of the University of Denver team last season, almost caught a berth on both teams. He got the nod for offensive centre and was edged out by Toohy for one of the two secondary half spots on the defensive squad.

Ottawa's Kaye Vaughan was another lineman who almost took both-way positions. The former University of Tulsa player was picked as offensive guard along with Montreal's Ed Bradley, from Chicago Bears.

Two Hamilton players, Bevan and Vince Scott, were named as the defensive guards. It was the third straight year that Bevan had been selected an all-star. For Scott, too, it was the third time he made the grade. He was named previously in 1950 and 1952.

Toogood's fine tackling and running on punt receiving won him the defensive flying wing position. The selectors recognized the brilliant pass defence work of Hamilton's Lou Kusserow and Dick Brown and Ottawa's Howie Turner in picking them as the tertiary defensive halves.

For Toogood, Brown and Kusserow it was the first time they had made Big Four all-star rating.

Along with Toohy, who won all-star nomination in 1948 and 1949 as an end with Montreal, the selectors picked rugged Red Ettinger of Argonauts as the two secondary halves. Ettinger was chosen last season as centre on the combined all-star offensive and defensive team.

Two other players listed as all-stars for the first time were Neumann and McNichol, chosen as the defensive ends.

Daily Dusting

YEARS of medical research sponsored by the Ontario Mining Association may have found the answer to silicosis, the disease which attacks the lungs of miners exposed to silica dust. Curiously enough, the treatment consists of breathing very fine aluminum dust directly into the lungs; the aluminum renders the silica particles harmless. The treatment has been adopted in gold and other mining areas in Canada and throughout the world.

Aluminum, long used in hospital kitchens, today serves the medical profession in many ways—from aluminum foil for covering serious burns, to aluminum acetate for medical dressings, to aluminum blenders for the preparation of sterile biological products. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan)

AKO Heads West To Defend Football Title

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor AKO, undefeated in two seasons, leave today for Saskatoon to defend their Canadian junior football title Saturday against Saskatoon Hilltops, western Canada champs.

Three players nursing injuries were expected to be in condition for the game.

Most severely injured was star halfback Zeno Karcz who suffered a fractured rib Nov. 7 when AKO defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats to take the Ontario crown.

Team officials said Monday night flying wing Jack Forrest will wear a plastic mask to protect a fractured cheek bone suffered in a game last Saturday.

Sponsored by Alpha Kai Omega fraternity which devotes its efforts to service work and the support of junior sports teams, the squad scored 265 points during this season's eight games. They gave up 30 points.

Coach Al Newman said Karcz, despite his injuries, would be among the 25 players making the trip.

He was used sparingly last Saturday when the fraternity boys defeated Verdun Shamcats, Quebec champs, 26-11 to take the eastern Canada crown.

Karcz is rated the team's No. 1 plunging halfback, a good pass receiver and a reliable placement kicker.

Another important man is Bob Fletcher, the team's best kicker.

SCOUTED BY ARGOS

Other players who, along with Karcz and Fletcher have recently attracted the attention of scouts from Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four, are Mularchyk and tackle Remo Copat.

Mularchyk figured prominently in the provincial final against Hamilton when he racked up all three touchdowns.

Commenting on the battle with Hilltops, Newman said it is "going to take a lot of doing to beat that club."

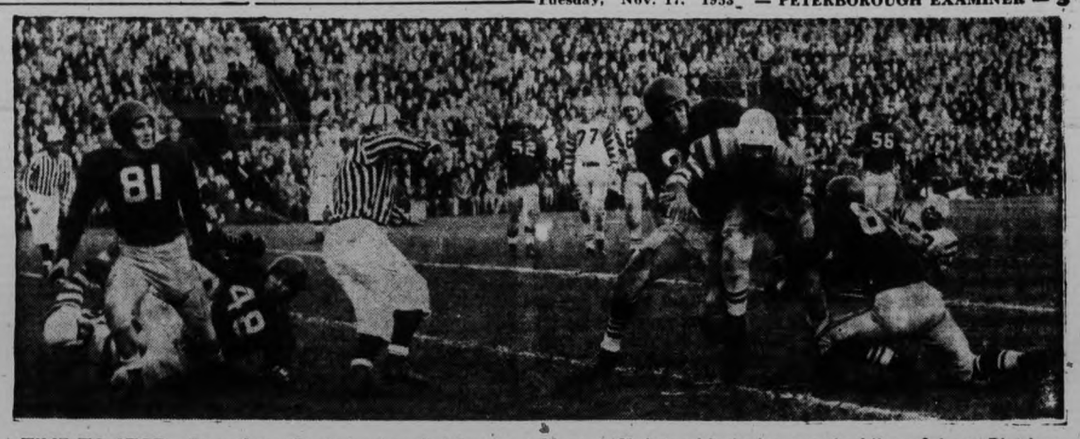
"If we're not up for that one, we're in for a pack of trouble."

AKO won the junior crown last year by defeating Edmonton.

Offer Crowe Job As Riders' Coach

OTTAWA (CP)—Clem Crowe can coach Ottawa Rough Riders again next season if he wants to, an official of the Big Four football club said Monday.

J. P. McCaffrey, Riders' president, said Crowe left for his farm at Eden, N.Y., after Saturday's final game of the Big Four season which Ottawa lost 18-8 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats. The loss ended Riders' playoff hopes.



"Unless he's got a better offer the coaching job for next fall is his again," McCaffrey sai.

Masterson Stresses Blues' Pass Defence

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Bob Masterson stressed pass defence Monday as the University of Toronto Blues went through a 45-minute workout in preparation for the sudden-death final against Western Mustangs here Saturday. The Senior Intercollegiate Football Union championship will be at stake.

Masterson said he thinks Western will utilize more of its passing during the big game. He spent Sunday looking at films of previous Western-Varsity games.

The Blues will have the same line-up they used against Queen's in the season's final game Saturday.

TIME TO STOP—Crazy Legs Curtis is grounded by the strong arms of Alex Webster and Jimmy Mitchener during Saturday's Alouette-Argo game in Toronto. Notice Als' Tom Hugo (48) being blocked out to the left as Johnny Blaicher (81) breaks free from the pile-up. The Als trimmed the Argos 27-8 to take over first place in the Big 4 final standing.

CITY CARPETBALL

The schedule for the week of November 23 is: Fire Hall No. 4 vs Legion No. 9; Glens No. 6 vs. Lawn Boys No. 2; Legion No. 11 vs. Fire Hall No. 10; Red Patch No. 13 vs. Legion No. 3; Legion No. 7 vs L.O.L. No 12; Legion No. 1 vs. Legion No. 5; Post Office No. 14 vs. Orphans No. 8.

Results of last week's play: At the Fire Hall, Legion No. 11 captured the first with a four—but Fire Hall No. 4 turned on their high pressure nozzles and swept No. 11 away to the tune of 28-7. The second game saw Legion No. 11 go into the lead and never headed as they captured this one by a 14-7 score.

At the Legion Hall, The Posties No. 14 were leading and then Fire Hall No. 10 coming from behind tied it at 3-all going into the sixth frame and then went on to win a 15-5 game. In the second game Fire Hall No. 10 came from behind again, this time making it 5-all in the fifth end and going on to win a close game 13-11, even though No. 14 scored in the two final ends a total of five.

Red Patch No. 13 captured the first game going away by a 15-4 score from L.O.L. No. 12. The second game saw the Orangemen trying hard but again they lost as the Patches had built up an early lead which proved sufficient for them to win a close 15-14 contest.

GOOD GAMES

The two best games of the week were played between Orphans No. 8 and Legion No. 1. In the first game Legion No. 1 was leading but by the eighth frame the Orphans went into the lead by one—No. 1 tied it at 8-all in the next frame, then scored a four; the Orphans rallied back with a three making the score 12-11 going into the final end in Legion's favor. The Legion captured it by scoring a single in a well-fought contest 13-11. In the second game the Orphans had the lead until the 8th when Legionnaires took command by one point and by capturing the next two frames by singles seemed to have the game on ice—but again the Orphans struck back by capturing both of the last two ends and the game by a margain of one for a final 14-13 score.

Stedman's Legion No. 9 swept both games from Legion No. 5. The first game was tied 3-all going into the fourth frame with No. 5 coming from behind to make it even-stephen; then No. 9 scored a big five in the next end and gradually pulled away to win 15-6.

The second game saw No. 5 scoring in the first and seventh ends and those were the only ends they won as they went down to a 16-2 defeat.

Legion No. 7 swept to a 17-8 victory over the Glens in the first game that was featured by no less than six three ends, four by the winner and two by the loser. The second game was won by Glens No. 6 11-4, when No. 7 could only score in three ends throughout the game, while No. 6 was collecting singles in the rest, except one.

The games between Lawn Boys No. 2 vs Legion No. 3 was played but their score card has not been turned in. It is reported No. 2 dropped both games to No. 3.

Best In ORFU, Says 'Peg Scout Of Beaches

TORONTO (CP)—Winnipeg Blue Bombers scouted the last football game of Toronto Balmy Beach against Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

The Bombers, Western Interprovincial Football champions, have to defeat Balmy Beach in Winnipeg Nov. 21 to advance into the Grey Cup final. But there won't be many persons betting on the Beaches.

The scout, Tommy Ford, a former player for Balmy Beach, said although he doesn't expect the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions to beat the Bombers "they're about the best ORFU club I've seen in some time—well coached and loaded with hustle and desire."

Lewicki Joins Top Scorers In AHL List

NEW YORK (AP)—Buffalo's forward line of Ed Slowinski, Don Marshall and Gaye Stewart has been joined at the head of the American Hockey League scoring list by Danny Lewicki of Pittsburgh Hornets.

All four players have 24 points. Lewicki has played in 16 games, one less than the Buffalo players.

Pittsburgh rookie Parker MacDonald leads the goal scorers with 13.

Frank Eddolls, Buffalo's playing coach, is tops in the assist department with 17 and Jacques Plante of Buffalo is the leading goal tender with an average of 2.35 in 17 games.

ALL AMERICAN:

We'll Beat Them Says 'Peg Coach

WINNIPE (CP)—It was back to work for Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday night.

Coach George Trafton sent his club through a light drill to loosen up after a day off following Winnipeg's 30-24 triumph in the saw-off game against Edmonton Eskimos in the western final.

The rest of the week, Bombers will get down to serious practice for their Grey Cup semi-final here Saturday against Toronto Balmy Union champions.

Trafton doesn't think the Beaches will be any pushovers.

"We're not taking them lightly. They've got some imports on that team which could make the Argos. But we're going to beat them."

Following the workout, Trafton reviewed the film of the final game against the Esks with the team.

Notre Dame, Maryland Still 1-2 In Colleges

NEW YORK (AP)—Notre Dame and Maryland, only major teams to escape the season's plague of "upsetitis," stand almost unchallenged in the Nos. 1 and 2 spots of American college football.

Notre Dame holds its position at the head of The Associated Press rankings for the eighth straight week, but is under new pressure from its constant pursuer, Maryland.

The new standing: 1. Notre Dame, 2. Maryland, 3. Michigan State, 4. Oklahoma, 5. UCLA, 6. Texas, 7. Illinois, 8. Wisconsin, 9. Southern California, 10. Rice.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Still some football to be played in various parts of Canada for the next two weeks, but the sport is all finished here until next autumn. Orfuns, PCVS, St. Peter's and Kenner teams have all hung up their gear for this year. Generally speaking, it was a good grid season around here with several local squads in playoffs. Orfuns went furthest ere bowing out in Montreal in the Eastern Canada intermediate "A" final, one step short of their showing the previous year when they lost in Winnipeg in the Canadian final. But they still hold the provincial championship trophy and will be back again '54 to defend it. If they get out of the financial hole.

* * * * * *

Montreal Star scribe remarked on the Saturday game: The big difference between the two teams was the outstanding defensive play of the Lakeshore wingline. And the defensive backs held the visitors' aerial attack well in hand. They had a kicking margin, aswell, and recovered several Peterborough fumbles. Orfuns, behind the bulldozing efforts of 200-pound Bill Huntley, and Bus Jensen and Roy Armstrong, who galloped for most of their gains around end and off tackle, made more first downs than Flyers. But they could not break through when it counted. Wiry Wilf O'Hagen was the most valuable players for Flyers, crashing over for the two touchdowns, one being converted.

Those Mean Mills Guys

Al and Tiny Mills, masters of mean mat tactics, team up against Timothy Geohagen and Japanese Oyama Kato in the main pro grabble bout of tomorrow night's card in the Brock. It is a rematch as these guys tangled here a week ago and it wound up in an unpopular draw decision with everybody getting into it. Never a dull moment when the nasty westerners show in a ring. Ilio De Poablo, a newcomer from Italy, goes against Reyes Nacho, the Indian, in the semi-final match on this program. Prelim pits Al Costello against Herb Larson. Quite a few district fans drop around to these wrestling shows, along with local followers of the matmen.

* * * * * *

Quite a battle among OHA senior "B" puck squads in the Central Ontario grouping. Belleville is coming along fast now with recent victories over Petes and Oshawa, though the latter still lead the loop by two full games. Kingston's next with six points, just one more than TPT-ers and two in front of the Memos. Orillia Pontiacs trail but aren't too far behind and should pull a few upsets any time now. We trust they don't start doing that this evening in Orillia with Petes the visitors. Memos go to Kingston on the morrow, and Oshawa Truckmen trek up this way for a Friday night fixture. Group officials plan to work in the October 24 postponed game between Belleville and the Pontiacs this Friday night, too.

* * * * * *

Heated Junior "B" Fray

Some heated action down at Civic Arena last gloaming as Lindsay yanked out a 6-4 OHA junior "B" win o'er Red Creighton's crew to open the season. Both squads dug in from the start and there wasn't any yawning among the fans as the pace kept fast to the finish. Young Petes did everything but sew it up late in the third but found Goalie Kemp tough to beat. One of the Lindsay tallies in the third was on a breakaway they got their last one with but nine seconds left in the game. Showing how keen it was. Local lads will improve and take Lindsay again, and they have a fixture 'gainst Oshawa in Port Perry on Saturday night. They'll be shooting the works in that one, too.

* * * * * *

Petes' scheduled senior "B" tilt tonight in Orillia has been postponed. Word was received here last eve that Pontiacs were having trouble with their ice plant and would require a few days to have repairs made. So the Redmond men will practice instead and get set for their game with Oshawa Truckmen here on Friday. Kingston comes up this way next Monday. Ray Harding worked out with the local squad at their last drill. This item comes from Belle Villt:" "The OHA at a sub-committee meeting Friday refused the transfer of Bruno Favero, Orillia playing coach, who was slated for the Owen Sound Mercuries. The Pontiacs put a $500 tab on Favero but the Mercs said no, and took it to the OHA. Now Favero will be back with his old buddies and he should strengthen the Pontiacs no end."

Lindsay Snatches A 6-4 Win Over The Junior Petes In Furious Schedule Opener

In a penalty-studded OHA junior "B" game here last night, Lindsay yanked out a 6-4 victory before a few hundred fans to open their schedule. It was a fast and furious fray, a 5-4 game until nine seconds before the final bell when Lindsay slapped in the clincher. The young Petes play in Port Perry Saturday.

The game was nearly 25 minutes late in starting when no OHA referee showed up. The clubs finally agreed to use a local referee and Herb Payne handled the job along with Bun Kingdon. In the quite chippy contest, Herb handed out 14 penalties to Lindsay and nine to Red Creighton's crew. The season was officially opened by D. A. McGillis, Geddes Harper and Bob McCabe. The juniors borrowed the former Eagles sweaters from Mr. McGillis for this game.

FAST AND SCRAPPY

Some good and bad hockey was seen as expected in a loop opener, but it was always speedy, scrappy, exciting and close. Peterborough led 2-1 in the first frame, but the score was knotted at 3-all to end the second. Lindsay outscored the locals 3-1 then, one tally being on a breakaway. The homesters peppered Goalie Kemp in the last period as they had a good margin on play but they could only beat him once.

The Scugog markers were by Growden, Pearson, Hutton, Parker, Teal and Graham. The latter, Packed and H. Williams each had an assist, while Growden aided on two goals. Petes' marksmen were Blake Uren, Jim Ruttan, Gord Coyle and Bud McDougall, with an assist going to Uren, Bill Twist and Bob Gardner.

PENALTIES GALORE

The penalties handed out in the fast going were mostly for interference, slashing, high-sticking and tripping, though Bill Williams drew a five-minute major in the second stanza for fighting after some roughing by Burns and Growden. Hutton got a misconduct in this period for arguing too strenuously with the referee. The first half of the game saw a steady procession to the sin bin, but the players later steadied down to play better hockey. Petes were short a couple of regulars for this opener. They pulled their goalie late in the tilt for a ganging attack but replaced him for a faceoff then in the Peterborough zone.

It was a typical Lindsay-Peterborough junior joust, with no love lost between the squads, and some rousing body thumps handed out. Jerry Frizelle used his weight to good advantage back of the local blue-line, and others on either side also checked hard, though it didn't slow the struggle down any.

Teams:

Lindsay — Goal, Kemp; defence, W. Williams and O'Neill; centre, Hutton; wings, Truax and Packer; alternates, Crawford McGill, Graham, Growden, Teal, H. Williams, Parker and Pearson.

Peterborough — Goal, O'Brien; defence, Burns and Frizzelle; centre, Twist; wings, Heffernan and Coyle; alternates, McDougall, Gardner Ferguson, Uren, Laing, Ruttan, Ball and Pue.

Referees—H. Payne and B. Kingdon.

Tiger-Cats Try For 1st Cup Berth In 5 Years

HAMILTON (CP) — Always a bridemaid but never a bride, Hamilton Tiger-Cats will try for their first Grey Cup berth in five years when they meet Montreal Alouettes here Wednesday.

The game is the first of a best-of-three series for the Big Four championship.

The Tigers have made the Big Four playoffs during the last four seasons but each time were eliminated in the finals. Their rivals in each case went on to win the Grey Cup.

Following Wednesday's opener in Hamilton, the finals move to Montreal for the second game Sunday. If a third game is necessary it will also be in Montreal Nov. 25.

LIGHT DRILLS

Coach Carl Voyles put his Tiger-Cats through a practice Monday and will hold another drill tonight.

Linebacker Quincy Armstrong, who has an injured knee, will miss the series opener. Cam Fraser and Royal Bailey may play but it is doubtful. Dick Brown who played in Saturday's game with an injured leg, is still limping. Voyles said he won't be putting the Tigers through any heavy work before the series.

In the 27 Dominion finals held since 1921, Hamilton has been in five and has won four Grey Cups. They were defeated 18-12 by Winnipeg in 1935. Their last Grey Cup game was 1943 when they took a 23-14 victory over Winnipeg RCAF.

Many Hamilton firms warned their employees of the consequences of missing work Wednesday to go to the game. But the warnings are expected to go unheeded in this football-crazy city. Besides, many of the employers will be taking in the contest themselves.

Western Teams Keep Win Streaks Intact

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winning streaks were kept intact Monday night in the western Hockey League.

Saskatoon Quakers won their fourth straight with a 3-0 win over the league-leading Vancouver Canucks. At Victoria the Cougars won their third straight with a 5-3 victory over Calgary Stampeders.

At Saskatoon Eldie Kobussen, Vic Howe and Jackie McLeod notched the Quakers' goals. It was the second shutout of the season for goalie Chuck Rayner.

Andy Hebenton scored four of the Victoria markers, with the other going to Colin Kilburn. Frank Ashworth, George Pargeter and Ralph Lundy scored for Calgary.

Defenders Lose

KITCHENER (CP)—T. S. Graham's Toronto Victorias rink was eliminated Monday in the first round of the Kitchener - Waterloo Granite Club invitation bonspiel. Graham, defending the Mutual Life Trophy he won last year, went down to defeat on the last end of his game with L. E. Ross of Agincourt, 10-9.

Windsor Coach Raps Argonauts

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Coach Al Newman of Windsor AKO, has charged that officials of Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four used "under-the-table dealings" during the week-end in an attempt to sign up several AKO juniors for tryouts with Argos next season.

Several members of AKO, who Saturday will defend their Canadian junior crown against Saskatoon Hilltoppers, said they met with Frank Clair, Argos coach.

It was understood none of the players accepted Clair's offer, details of which were not released.

The players are: Halfbacks Zeno Karcz and Bob Fletcher, end Ed Mularchyk and tackle Remo Copat. Tommy Grant of Patterson Collegiate Panthers in the Windsor Secondary Schools Association League, also met with Clair.

Informed of the meeting, Newman said he didn't approve of Clair's action.

"Clair has no right to come barging into town when we're getting ready for the biggest game of the season," he said.

"We've always played fair with the Argos through the years and tipped them off to any promising prospects who were playing here. The least they can do now is keep their hands off my kids until after we've played our game out west."

Fortin Decisions Brisbois At Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—Claude Fortin of Montreal Monday night earned a unanimous decision over Canadian welterweight champion Rocky Brisebois in a 10-round, non-title bout.

There were no knock-downs and Brisebois was never in serious trouble, but he seemed rusty and was constantly on the defensive. A crowd of 1,500 saw Fortin take the offensive from the first round and hold it throughout.

Fortin weighed in at 148½ and Brisebois at 147¼.

Well, it looks as if the bonspiel season is on in full swing And here's the first one:

Dr. R. Nott, Dr. R. Morgan, Dr. D. Clark and Dr. L. Calvert are curling in the "doctors' " bonspiel over in Hamilton this Wednesday.

This coming Saturday afternoon the bonspiel committee is trying out a new system. It's a sort of "open and shut" bonspiel. Each skip will be asked to bring in his own rink, schedule calibre preferred, and the first 14 skips to do this will make up the draw. The fee will be set at $2.00 per rink, and the starting time is 1:30 p.m. It's a new idea; and it will be interesting to see how the curlers respond.

Vic Brown and R. A. Collins will be in charge. Let them have your entry.

Today's thought:

But the young man knew that her papa was dead;
And he knew the life her papa had led;
So she knew that he knew what she meant when she said:

To Take Action If Goalie Held

MIDLAND (CP)—George Dudley secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Monday that action will be taken against Quebec Frontenacs in the next day or two if the Frontenacs don't relinquish all claims on netminder Jacques Marcotte.

Dudley said the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association, of which the Frontenacs are a member, was informed last Friday that the Frontenacs will be suspended if they continue to use Marcotte.

It is reported that Marcotte, who was ruled by the CAHA to be the property of Quebec Citadelles of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, played for Frontenacs Saturday and Sunday. Frontenacs took over the berth in the QAHA Junior A series left vacant when the Citadelles joined the OHA.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

Any old-timer of sport, to whom lacrosse was a game to be revered, would have been surprised a few weeks back at the very skimpy coverage accorded the Mann and Minto cup games, except in the regions immediately concerned. Since these trophies represent, respectively, the senior and junior championships of Canada, the general lack of interest displayed therein by the press of the Dominion, is unfortunate, the more so, since lacrosse is officially and legally Canada's national game.

Except for hockey, lacrosse is the fastest game played afoot. And a lacrosse field is no place for a weakling. For it is a rugged. he-man's game, with speed, skill and bodily contact. And it is the oldest of all the games played in America, antedating baseball and hockey. So far as records indicate, the first Canadian clubs were organized in the 1830's, but each followed its own rules and the game was not standardized until 1860-61. The code of regulations then drawn up by Dr. W. George Beers, known as the "Father of Lacrosse", gave the game great impetus and it became the Dominion's national sport by an act of legislation in 1867.

For years it flourished mightily. Epic battles were fought east and west, famous teams in the east such as Ottawa Capitals, Toronto Tecumsehs, Montreal AAA, Nationale and Shamrocks contributed mighty stars. On the Pacific Coast it held, and still holds, great favour. But in the east, interest has waned, as baseball, hockey and fooball grew in stature.

As played by the white man, who adopted the game from the Indians, lacrosse was introduced to the United States in the 1880's when John R. Flannery sponsored a meeting of the Montreal Shamrocks and an Indian team at Boston. The game was played on Boston Commons, in the now-roaring heart of the Hub. After that contest many New England groups began experimenting with the Indian game. The U.S. Intercollegiate Association was organized a few years later and it is now the guiding body. Its original members hailed from New England, but today teams as far south as the Carolinas are included. The game is played in scores of United States colleges.

International competition has been an important feature of the sport's popularity in other years. An American squad first visited England in 1884, and, prior to World War II, American and Canadian clubs met annually for the Joe Lally Trophy, named in honor of the grand old sportsman who lives in Cornwall, once a hot-bed of the game, from whence came such stars as Newsy Lalonde, John White and the DeGrays. The John R. Flannery Memorial Cup was placed in Competition in 1930 when Syracuse, leading United States team of that season, played an Oxford-Cambridge squad.

Lacrosse, a great game, is far from dead. But in general public interest, it has declined, a strange development, for a country in which it is the national game, with its roots extending back into the days when Indian rivals played it with as many as 200 men a side.

Leafs' Best Line Scores Nearly Half Team's Goals

MONTREAL (CP)——It's getting to be routine to report that the National Hockey League's weekly official statistics show the Detroit Red Wings' well-publicized production line heads the list of individual point getters. So today, on the reasonable theory that goals, not assists, win hockey games, we give you a line that is doing just about as well, Harry Watson, George Armstrong and Tod Sloan of the Toronto Maple Leafs. This unit has no fancy name, like the aptly-tagged production line of Gordie Howe, Ted Lindsay and Dutch Reibel. It's simply a we-score-'em line. Take a look at the figures.

The Detroit trio has scored 17 of the team's 39 goals, 43.59 per cent of the total. The Leaf unit has scored 16 goals, 43.24 per cent of the team's 37 goals.

The figures give a good idea also why the Red Wings and Leafs are tied only two points behind the league-leading Montreal Canadiens. Both clubs get a crack at the Montrealers before this time next week. It's significant, too, that neither the Wings nor the Leafs have played as many games as Canadiens.

RICHARD LEADS

The unit-scoring basis can't be applied to Montreal, although Maurice (Rocket) Richard is setting the goal pace for the league with nine. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion has scored seven and veteran Ken Mosdell six.

Canadiens lost ground last week with a win and a tie in four games, counting three of a possible eight points. The Red Wings and Leafs each won two and tied one in three starts, good for five of a possible six points.

Howe collected two goals and two assists last week to run his total points to 20. He has six goals and 14 assists, league-leader on assists. Lindsay has six goals and Reibel five. Lindsay collected three assists last week and Reibel one goal and one assist. They rank behind Howe with 18 and 17 points, respectively. Geoffrion picked up two assists and follows with 16 points. Then comes Sloan, who got one assist in three games and now has 15 points. Richard is tied at 13 points with Eddie Sandford of Boston Bruins.

Bill Gadsby, hard-working defenceman of the lowly Chicago Black Hawks, counted a goal and an assist and moved from a 10th place tie to eighth spot with 12 points.

Half a dozen players are tied for ninth place, including Watson with seven goals and four assists and Paul Ronty of New York Rangers, who matched Howe's four points by collecting one goal and three assists.

Harry Lumley of the Leafs is crowding Detroit's Terry Sawchuk as leading goalie. Sawchuk's goals-against average was 1.38 a week ago. Now it is 1.44. Lumley improved his 1.78 to 1.59.

4 On Limp List As Als Prep To Meet Ti-Cats

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, in the Big Four football playoffs with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, worked out Monday night for the last time before the teams meet in Hamilton Wednesday in the first of best-of-three series.

Absentees were guard Ray Cicia, end Jim Miller, flying wing Johnny Blaicher and tackle Tex Coulter.

Coulter, who suffered a broken ankle in a game Oct. 21, is still out of action. Cicia and Miller are not expected to dress because of knee injuries. Blaicher is in hospital with influenza but may be able to play.

Backfielder Tommy Manastersky was reported a doubtful starter. Should the Als win the series and play in the Grey Cup game Nov. 28, Cicia would not be on hand anyway. He was the player named earlier to be dropped, among Alouettes' nine imports, in the event the team reached the big Canadian final.

Other players still nursing injuries but in shape to play are: end Tom Poole, recovering from fractured ribs and a dislocated thumb; backfielder Chuck Hunsinger, injured thigh, and quarterback Al Dekdebrun, still wearing a cast left hand.

In their winning game over Toronto Argonauts Saturday Alouettes had 25 players dressed, one under the number allowed. They used Tom Moran, a Brantford product, at end—the first time he has been in a Big Four game. Mike Kovac, a guard from University of Western Ontario who played only a few games this season, saw considerable action against Argos.

Tops Golf Ladder Third And Last Time

TORONTO (CP)—Gerry Kesselring, the tall, affable amateur who gave in to the lure of golf's money trail, has been named Ontario's top amateur golfer for the third and last time.

The 24-year-old Kitchener ace, one of the best shotsmiths in the country for years, won the honor over a long list of other golfers on the strength of his performances this year when he took just about every title in the province.

The Ontario Golf Association announced its 1953 ratings today. It was just about a carbon copy of the standings for the last three years. In second place was dapper Nick Weslock, a veteran from Windsor Essex, and in third was Toronto Scarboro's Phil Farley.

A FREQUENT WINNER

Kesselring, who announced last September that he would follow the United States tournament trail for the next two years, was a natural for the selection. Since he displaced Weslock three years ago as the No. 1 amateur, he has won tournaments with monotonous regularity. This year he placed second to Farley in the amateur section of the Canadian Open, won the Ontario Open, the Ontario Amateur, was a Willingdon Cup medalist and took at least five other smaller tournaments.

Others listed among the province's top 12, in order of rankings, are: Jack Nash of the London Hunt Club and Bruce Castator, Toronto Islington, tied for fourth; Moe Norman, Kitchener Rockway; Ken Jacobs, Toronto Scarboro; [illegible] Fluck, Windsor Lakewood; Ted Holmes, Brantford, Gord Ball, [illegible]ner Westmount; Jim Neale, Hamilton Glendale; Bill Parkes, Oxford Golf and Country Club.

HONORABLE MENTIONS

The rankings committee gave honorable mention today to Al Cassidy of Toronto St. George's, W. Edmonds of Toronto Lakeview, Herb Eipstein of Oakdale, Irv Lightstone of Toronto St. Andrew's, Tony Matlock of Kitchener Rockway, Doug McKellar of Toronto Scarboro, R. Riordan of Rockway, and Colin Sharp of Burlington Golf and Country Club.

Although he has never won the Canadian amateur championship, a match play event, Kesselring is regarded by many experts as Canada's best amateur, particularly at medal play.

In 1946 and '47 he was Canadian junior champion. For years he has been a member of Ontario's four-man team in the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team matches. He was knocked out of the Canadian Amateur this year in the fourth round.

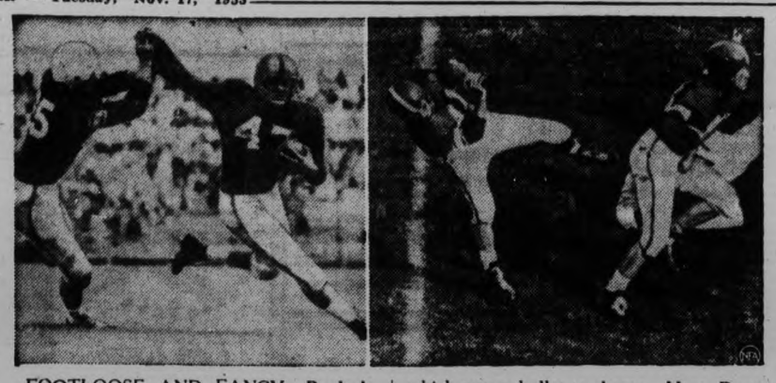
Two Charges Dismissed Against Driver

Charges of impaired and careless driving against Harold Freeman, 58, of 386½ George St. N., were dismissed by Magistrate R. I. Moore in court Monday, after Crown evidence was heard on the first charge.

Evidence from Patrol Sergeant Andre Dalton showed a second car involved in the accident from which charges arose October 27 had been stopping over 70 feet from the corner of Charlotte St. and Monaghan Rd. when Freeman's car hit it from behind.

Defence counsel Donald Bark, in moving for a non-suit, emphasized this fact in addition to restating evidence that the night was foggy and visibility was poor.



In giving evidence on the impaired charge, Sgt. Dalton said the accused showed signs of having been drinking although no alcohol was smelled on his breath "at any time."

Donald McNeilage, driver of a third car at the scene, also testified he noticed nothing unusual about the accused, but Miss Margaret Green, owner of the second car involved, said she had noticed the smell of alcohol on the breath of the defendant.

"I can't see there's enough evidence to convict the accused . . ." Magistrate Moore said. "His actions were not those of an impaired man."

JEFF RUSSEL WINNER — Bob Cunningham, 25-year-old half with Ottawa Rough Riders, has been awarded the Jeff Russel Trophy as the most valuable and sportsmanlike player in the Big Four. Formerly with Montreal Alouettes, Bob has announced this is his last year in football. He is shown here in a practice sweater. His regular number is 99.

FOOTLOOSE AND FANCY—Baylor's L. G. Dupre, left, and Michigan State's Tom Yewcic are solidly-built youngsters who would be rough on living room furniture. But on a football field they take on a lightness which puts a ballet to shame. Here, Dupre, running on half a foot, swings past a Texas A. and M. tackler, while Yewcic does a backbend to avoid white-shirted Texas Christian tackler.

GREY CUP SPECIALS

WINNIPEG (CP)—When Winnipeg Blue Bombers toppled Edmonton Eskimos for the Western football crown Saturday night they called the signal to set three lines in motion for the Grey Cup final Nov. 28.

Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines have reported plans for handling hundreds of fans who are expected to travel to Toronto for the annual classic.

A CPR spokesman said his line hopes to run at least three Grey Cup specials to Toronto and there will also be extra cars on regular trains to carry fans from other Western Interprovincial Football Union Cities—Regina, Edmonton and Calgary.

The CNR announced a Grey Cup special will leave Winnipeg Thursday night, Nov. 26, and passengers will be able to use the train while it is in Toronto. It will return after the game. CNR also will have extra cars on trans-continental trains.

TCA reported it is heavily booked for regular flights next week and extra planes will make the trip Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The plans depend on the outcome of Saturday's semi-final here Balmy Beach, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions. But with Bombers heavy favorites in the sudden-death game, plans were taking pretty definite shape.

Quackenbush received a fracture above the ankle when he fell into the boards after being checked by Toronto leftwinger Sid Smith. Chevrefils broke his leg just below the knee when he slammed into Toronto defenceman Fern Flaman. There was no penalty for either play.

Suggest Approval Of Gas Station, Expect Objection

Granting of an application by the Imperial Oil Co. for permission to build a service station on the vacant property immediately west of Mark St. United Church in Ashburnham was recommended to the council by its finance committee Monday night.

The board of management of the church will be notified of the committee's action. All the members of the finance committee were present with Ald. T. D. Miller chairman. Its report will be submitted to the council next Monday night.

To Ald W. J. Beggs' query about the position of the council in the event of criticism and objection arising from the church members, and the possibility of rescinding the motion, Ald. Miller said the recommendation was not final, and could be deleted from the report if that was the ultimate wish of the council.

LETTER TO CHURCH

Ald. H. T. Rehill suggested the sending of a letter to the church board instead of leaving them in the position of depending on newspaper report of the committee's proposal.

For the information of the members of the council, Ald. Miller recalled that the property on Hunter St. east, adjoining Mark St. Church, was considered for a theatre site a few years ago. Objections were received by the council of that time from church members, and a permit was not granted.

"The owner now has another opportunity to sell," the chairman said. "The property is zoned for commercial purposes, and the question is how long the council can hold up his selling. The owner is paying taxes on his vacant land. It might be that the application could be granted on the understanding that the company would erect an ornamental fence between their service station and the church. On the church side, ornamental shrubs might be planted."

Ald. S. J. Black said Mark St. congregation was completing a building fund campaign, and might be thinking of building along Hunter St.

Ald. Rehill said he understood enlargement of the church would be to the north, along Mark St. Commenting on a suggestion that the application might be referred to the city planning board for discussion by the several interested parties, Ald. Miller said it was not a planning board matter, and that the land was designated for commercial use.

Ald. A. B. Burrows said representatives of the church should be given an opportunity to be heard. Some compromise might be effected.

CHURCH BUY

"Why doesn't the church buy the property?" Ald. Miller suggested.

"May be they are not able to afford it," Ald. Burrows replied.

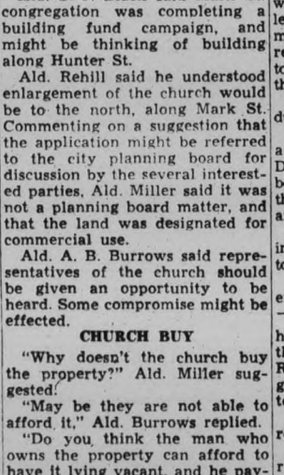
"Do you think the man who owns the property can afford to have it lying vacant, and he paying taxes?" Ald Miller questioned.

Ald. Beggs said the application could be left over until the next meeting of the council in committee of the whole. That would be a stay of two weeks.

Ald. Farquharson: "The company is probably buying the property subject to getting a permit to build. The deal might be jeopardized by udue delay. Right now we are speculating that the church may object."

"The minister told me that such use would be objected to," said Ald. Burrows.

In the circumstances the council had no authority for preventing the company from building, Ald. Rehill remarked. "Where do we go from here? Have you any alternative?"



"No, I haven't" said Ald. Burrows.

Ald. Miller: "I believe we could refuse to grant the permit on objection from the church."

Mayor Waddell: "If this committee reports approval, that would give the church a week if they wish to object. I think Imperial Oil is conscious of public opinion. Maybe something suitable might be erected between the church and this lot. At any rate the recommendation would give the church people a chance to see the Imperial Oil."

A motion by Aldermen Beggs and Burrows transferring the application to the next meeting of the committee of the whole (in two weeks) was defeated.

Mayor Waddell's motion, seconded by Ald. Farquharson, that the committee recommend approval of the application carried, although several of the members apparently did not support it.

MISS REDSKIN—Sandra Dempster, 17-year-old brunette, has been chosen Miss Brantford Redskin and will represent the Ontario Rugby Football Union team in the Miss Grey Cup contest at Toronto Nov. 28.

Batting Champs, Top Hurlers Put On Block

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Anybody want to purchase the Pacific Coast League batting champion for only $15,000; a former big league 20-game winner for $10,000? A no-hit hurler for the same fee?

These and many others can be acquired at the annual major league draft Nov. 30 in Atlanta, Ga. The draft list, compiled and issued by the baseball commissioner's office, contains some 1,500 minor league players to choose from. All are a gamble.

Last year, 11 players were drafted at a cost of $120,000—a slim total by comparison. Six managed to last out the season and none distinguished himself to any great degree.

First call goes to the American League's newest entry—Baltimore Orioles—by virtue of the switched-St. Louis Browns' last place finish in 1953. Next comes Pittsburgh, National League cellarites, and so on through to New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers.

This year's crop includes such familiar names as Bob Dillinger, Clint Hartung, Gene Bearden, Don Kolloway, George Munger, Randy Gumpert, Howard Fox, Bobo Holloman, Allie Clark, George Wilson and Dick Sisler.

The list includes a number of good "new faces," too. As usual, Montreal Royals and St. Paul Saints, Brooklyn's triple A farm clubs, are loaded with promising players. Under the rules, only one from each club can be drafted, unless the player is designated as subject to unrestricted draft.

Prices range from $15,000 for players in the PCL to $10,000 for players from triple A leagues; $7,500 from double A clubs, $6,000 in class B, $2,500 in class C and $2,000 in class D.

Calgary To Get 1st Title Bout

CALARY (CP)—The first Canadian championship fight ever staged in Calgary is scheduled for tonight with Yvon Durelle, the former Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. fisherman, putting his light heavyweight crown on the line against Doug Harper of Calgary.

Durelle, one of three fighting brothers, and one of four brothers in the Canadian Army, goes into the 12-round bout with a record of 16 straight victories, 12 by knockouts. In his last appearance here about a year ago, the 23-year-old Durelle scored a convincing victory over Irish Jimmy Nolan of Calgary. Durelle is a former holder of the Canadian middleweight championship.

Harper, another hard hitter, lost an unpopular decision here a month ago to Jim Byrne of Seattle. But his supporters point out that the 21-year-old Harper gave away about 40 pounds to the Seattle heavy and still came out of the fight unmarked.

Harper, a native of Saskatchewan who farms in the Amber valley area, 75 miles north of Edmonton, will enjoy an edge in reach and height but he will have to be at his best to contend with the more-experienced easterner.

Both fighters finished training during the week-end.

Fight experts here give Harper a good chance of winning over Durelle but the New Brunswick boy has power in each hand and the ability to break up a fight at any time.

Harper spent the last two weeks in the woods in an effort to toughen up.

A sell-out crowd of about 2,300 is expected.

PRINCE CHARLES, five years old last Saturday, loves animals. Here, seated in his favorite car, he plays with his white rabbit, "Harvey."

Riders' Choo Choo Roberts Big Four Scoring Champion

TORONTO (CP)—Gene (Choo-Choo) Roberts, who went to Ottawa Rough Riders last season from Montreal Alouettes for the $200 waiver price, is the 1953 Big Four scoring champion.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the 29-year-old backfielder from Bonner Springs, Kas., with 88 points in 14 games, seven more than veteran Ray Poole of the Als, first-year import from New York Giants. Avatus Stone of Riders, who jumped Chicago Cardinals this year, placed third with 65 points.

But, despite the 1-2-3 placing of imports, the success story belongs to Canadian - born Tip Logan, fourth-place finisher with 61 points. The 25-year-old end who went to Hamilton Tiger-Cats three years ago from Queen's of the Intercollegiate Union, has shown remarkable improvement each year.

He won the Big Four scoring title in 1951, his first season with the Cats, with 51 points, placed second in 1952 with 55 points and added another six this season. And two converts last Saturday in Hamilton's 18-8 victory over Ottawa in the final schedule game gave him 73 conversions without a miss in the big time.

Ulysses Curtis, Toronto Argonaut back who won the 1952 scoring title with 80 points, slipped to ninth position with 30 points on six touchdowns. Americans, with the exception of Logan, took the first 13 spots.

Canadian-born Bob Cunningham of Riders, winner of the Jeff Russel Trophy this year as the most valuable player in the union, was 14th with 20 points.

Gino Fracas of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs in the Intercollegiate Union, won the college championship with 44 points, four up on Ron Stewart of Queen's and Steve Oneschuk of the University of Toronto Blues, each with 40.

Fracas, who scored only nine points in 1952, came up with an 11 of his team's 13 points at London last Saturday when McGill defeated the Mustangs 16-13. That was enough to boost him from third place. Stewart was injured in the first half as Queen's lost 6-1 to the Blues. Oneschuk picked up one point on a conversion.

One Witness Heard, Crown Asks Dismissal

Only one crown witness was heard in a dangerous driving charge against Roy Ferguson of R.R. 2, Nestleton, Monday, before the charge was dismissed at the request of Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, Q.C.

Ferguson was charged after his car went through a red light, struck a panel truck, and knocked it over, at the corner of Monaghan Rd. and Lansdowne St. October 23. A passenger in the truck, Mrs. J. L. Graves, was hospitalized as a result of the accident.

Under cross-examination, PC William A. Scott said he accompanied defence counsel Donald Bark to the intersection Sunday where measurements of the traffic light were taken.

The south-east light, the one to which Ferguson's attention should have been attracted, was found to be 72 feet back from the east side of Monaghan Rd. which itself is 37 feet wide. In addition, the hydro pole to which it is attached, is 13 feet south of Lansdowne St.

Leading up to it, there is only one diamond-shaped sign, warning "Signals Ahead" to mark the stoplight, first one as a motorist enters Peterborough from the west on Highway 7A.

SIGN IN BACKGROUND

A background to the light is a large service station sign in red lettering. From certain angles, the signal light is over one of the red letters.

To prove how difficult the light is to see, Magistrate R. I. Moore, looking at a photograph, said he couldn't find it and Mr. Bark had to point it out to him.

At the conclusion of Constable Scott's evidence, Crown Attorney Bradshaw asked for a recess and, on his return, asked the charge be dismissed.

BIG CHIEF MOVES UP

Sasakamoose, a full-blooded Indian and an honorary Indian chief, in 10 games with Canucks this season has notched 12 goals and eight assists.

BRITISH SHIPYARD WORKERS—The threat of a strike looms as high as this ship's hull, despite an industrial index peak.

Americans Believe Industry In Britain Still Needs Aid

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA)—Is American aid to Britain getting results, or is it money down a rat-hole?

Does Britain show signs of standing on its own two feet, or must it continue to depend on American hand-outs?

How is American aid being spent? Has it increased Britain's industrial output?

Britain's industrial index stands at its highest since 1948, but three million workers in the engineering and shipbuilding trades are preparing to go on strike for a 15 per cent wage increase. The miners, too, are restive.

The truth is that British industry is still a "sick baby." It must be spoon-fed with American dollars to become an efficient producer.

Both management and labor are dragging their heels.

Labor: "I wouldn't raise a finger to increase production," cries Edward J. Hill of the Boilermakers' Union, "unless I clearly saw the purpose behind it."

Millions of trade unionists would agree. Their memories of the black days of the 30's—unemployment, short time, the Means Test—are only too vivid.

NATIONALIZATION

Management: "How many American employers would scrap their old machinery and install new when their industry might be nationalized tomorrow?" asks C. G. Hargreaves of the Cotton and Rayon Merchants' Association.

Hargreaves echoes the fear of hundreds of British employers, to whom the spectre of nationalization is ever-present.

"Complacency, reluctance to depart from things of the past, and lack of incentive"—these are the ills afflicting British industry, according to an American team sent over here to study the cotton textile industry.

Seemingly, nothing short of a revolution in British thinking will change the picture.

Because the cotton industry is typical, the findings of the American team sent to study the mills of Lancashire are worthy of study. Some of their findings:

Obsolete machinery: Of the 406,280 looms in use, only 25,719 are fully automatic and one-quarter of these are over 30 years old.

Inefficiency: It takes British mills twice as long to produce a given amount of yarn as their American counterparts.

One-shift operation: American mills work at leat two shifts and three-shift working is common.

Union ban on time and motion studies.

Management of many British mills are too apathetic; labor has not responded to the exhortation to become production-minded—this is the American "doctors' " verdict on the cotton industry, and it would apply to many other British industries as well.

CONDITIONAL AID

Over $9,000,000 of American "conditional aid" funds will be spent in the next three years in teaching British industry the economic "facts of life."

The world's pioneer industrial nation is being sent back to school at American expense to learn the ABCs of cost accounting, factory lay-out and organization and labor deployment.

Much of the money will be spent on films on industrial subjects, subsidies to trade and employer associations "to keep members in touch with technical development."

But it will also be used to endow university chairs in engineering, to finance "studies" in monopoly, competition and restrictive practices."

American dollars, in other words, are doing for British industry what British industry should have done 30 years ago.

Now, as industry prepares to slice up the latest American melon, a startling suggestion comes from the Manchester Guardian. The British government should turn down the American loan, the Guardian writes. "Unless we have become a nation of mendicants we should blush. . . .

"Towards the United States," the Guardian points out, "there will be nothing but apreciation of a rare act of generosity . . . yet from the British point of view there is a cruel irony in accepting it.

Has the profit motive ceased to operate, or the British character gravely deteriorated, the Guardian asks.

"Must British industry be educated—and bribed—at American expense, into efficiency?"

Jail Three Youths For 15½ Years

OTTAWA (CP) — Characterized in magistrate's court as "potential murderers," three youthful hold-up men Monday were sentenced to Kingston penitentiary terms totalling 15 years and six months.

Roland Seguin, 20, Jean Croteau, 20 and Gerard Despard, 17, all of the Ottawa area, were convicted of the armed robbery of an Eastview taxi driver last Nov. 6. The robbery had netted them $16.

Seguin, described as the ringleader, received a term of seven years, Croteau five years and Despard, three years and six months.

As the three were led away from the court room, Despard told a reporter: "Write this up good. It may serve as a lesson to keep other young fellows out of trouble like this."

Massey Visits Winter Fair, Presents Award To Hunter

Parking Limit On Streets Set At 4 Hours

This Indian summer weather resplendent with sunshine today hardly accords with the action of the finance committee of the council Monday night in moving to get cars away from the curbs by night when the snow comes.

A motion by Alderman Gordon Farquharson and R. E. Knox authorized publicaiton of notice that the four-hour parking limit is going to be given its seasonal enforcement.

Clearing the streets of snow is done by night. Cars left at the curb until morning are an obstruction to that work, and a nuisance to everybody else. Hence the warning that will appear one of these days.

Purchase of a typewriter for the welfare department was authorized in a motion by Mayor Waddell and Ald. Syd Black. The machine that was bought for A .G. Metheral's department 15 years ago has outworn its reconditioning at that time. He obtained two prices: Underwood $176.88; Remington $192.50, both net. The gross was: Underwood $237.50; 15 per cent discount brought that to $101.88, less $25 on the turn-in.

The Remington was $227.50 minus $35 discount, and no further concession. It was Ald. Black who sold the machine to the city 15 years ago, and he wasn't making any further trade-in allowance.

"I sold it to the city in the first place for $65, and I ought to have some idea of what it is worth today," Ald. Black said.

The motion buys the machine with the lower price tag.

THE WAR MEMOIRS OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

GROWING FRICTION WITH RUSSIA

President Truman's first political act which concerned us was to take up the Polish question from the point where it stood when Roosevelt died, only forty-eight hours earlier. He proposed a joint declaration by us both to Stalin. The document in which this was set forth must of course have been far advanced in preparation by the State Department at the moment when the new President succeeded. Nevertheless it is remarkable that he felt able so promptly to commit himself to it amid the formalities of assuming office and the funeral of his predecessor.

He admitted that Stalin's attitude was not very hopeful, but felt we should "have another go", and he accordingly proposed telling Stalin that our Ambassadors in Moscow had agreed without question to the three leaders of the Warsaw Government being invited to Moscow for consultation, and assuring him we had never denied they would play a prominent part in forming the new Provisional Government of National Unity. Our Ambassadors were not demanding the right to invite an unlimited number of Poles from abroad and from within Poland. The real issue was whether the Warsaw Government could veto individual candidates for consultation, and in our opinion the Yalta Agreement did not entitle them to do so.

The joint message was sent on the 15th (of April, 1945).

On April 23, Mr. Stettinius and Eden had an hour and a quarter's discussions (in Washington) with Molotov over Poland. They made no progress whatever.

"I took a very bad view," wrote Eden, "of tonight's meeting with M. Molotov. I could see no sign of any attention having been given to your joint message with the President. Consequently there seems to be no prospect of progress tomorrow. Moreover, the Soviet Government were quite unrepentant about their treaty with the Warsaw Poles. * * * My impression is that the Soviet Government is still cavalier in its attitude and will not accept the seriousness of the situation, unless it is brought up sharply against realities. There is only one way in which we can now do this, and that is by postponing the opening of the Conference for some days while we continue to hammer at the Polish issue in Washington. Unless the Russians are prepared to workwith us and the Americans on the basis of the Yalta decisions there is no three-Power-unity on which San Francisco can be based."

"Seeking as I do," I relied on the 24th, "a lasting friendship with the Russian people, I am sure this can only be founded upon their recognition of Anglo-American strength. My appreciation is that the new President is not to be bullied by the Soviets."
* * *

To Stalin I wrote on the same day:

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

24 April, '45.

I have seen the message about Poland which the President handed to M. Molotov for transmission to you, and I have consulted the War Cabinet on account of its special importance. It is my duty now to inform you that we are all agreed in associating ourselves with the President in the aforesaid message. I earnestly hope that means will be found to compose these serious difficulties, which if they continue will darken the hour of victory.

Stalin replied in substance that we regarded the Provisional Polish Government, not as the nucleus of a future Polish Government of National Unity, but simply as one of several groups equivalent to any other group of Poles. This was not what we had decided at Yalta. "There," he claimed, "all three of us, including President Roosevelt, proceeded on the assumption that the Provisional Polish Government, functioning now, as it does, in Poland and enjoying the confidence and support of the majority of the Polish people, should be the nucleus—that is to say, the principal part—of a new reorganized Government of National Unity.

"You evidently are not in agreement with such an understanding of the question. In declining to accept the Yugoslav precedent as a model for Poland you confirm that the Provisional Polish Government cannot be considered as a basis and nucleus of a future Government of National Unity."

Stalin contended that Poland, unlike Great Britain and the United States, had a common frontier with the Soviet Union. Her security was as important to Russia as that of Belgium and Greece to Great Britain.

The Soviet Union had the right to strive for a friendly Government in Poland and could never approve a hostile one. "To this," he wrote, "we are pledged, apart from all else, by the blood of the Soviet people, which has been profusely shed on the fields of Poland in the name of the liberation of Poland. I do not know whether a truly representative Government has been set up in Greece or whether the Government in Belgium is truly democratic." The Soviet Union was not consulted when they were set up and claimed no right to interfere, "as it understands the full significance of Belgium and Greece for the security of Great Britain." For the United States and Great Britain to come to an arrangement together beforehand about Poland, where the U.S.S.R. was concerned above all, was to put the U.S.S.R. in an intolerable position.

✧ ✧ ✧

This was no answer. We had gone to Yalta with the hope that both the London and Lublin Polish Governments would be swept away and that a new Government would be formed from among Poles of goodwill, among whom the members of Bierut's Government would be prominent. But Stalin had not liked this plan, and we and the Americans had agreed that there was to be no sweeping away of the Bierut Government, but that instead it should become a "new" Government, "recognized on a broader democratic basis, with the inclusion of democratic leaders from Poland itself and from Poles abroad."

On April 29 I put my whole case to Stalin.

PRIME MINISTER TO MARSHAL STALIN

29 April, '45.

* * * We are all shocked that you should think that we would favour a Polish Government hostile to the Soviet Union. This is the opposite of our policy. But it was on account of Poland that the British went to war with Germany in 1939. We saw in the Nazi treatment of Poland a symbol of Hitler's vile and wicked lust of conquest and subjugation, and his invasion of Poland was the spark that fired the mine. The British people do not, as is sometimes thought, go to war for calculation, but for sentiment. They had a feeling which grew up in years that with all Hitler's encroachments and doctrine he was a danger to our country and to the liberties which we prize in Europe, and when after Munich he broke his word so shamefully about Czechoslovakia even the extremely peace-loving Chamberlain gave our guarantee against Hitler to Poland. When that guarantee was invoked by the German invasion of Poland the whole nation went to war with Hitler, unprepared as we were. There was a flame in the hearts of men like that which swept your people in their noble defence of their country from a treacherous, brutal, and, as at one time it almost seemed, overwhelming German attack. This British flame burns still among all classes and parties in this island, and in its self-governing Dominions, and they can never feel this war will have ended rightly unless Poland has a fair deal in the full sense of sovereignty, independence, and freedom, on the basis of friendship with Russia. It was on this that I thought we had agreed at Yalta.

Side by side with this keen sentiment for the rights of Poland, which I believe is shared in at least as strong a degree throughout the United States, there has grown up throughout the English-speaking world a very warm and deep desire to be friends on equal and honourable terms with the mighty Russian Soviet Republic and to work with you, making allowances for our different systems of thought and government, in long and bright years for all the world which we three Powers alone can make together. I, who in my years of great responsibility have worked faithfully for this unity, will certainly continue to do so by every means in my power, and in particular I can assure you that we in Great Britain would not work for or tolerate a Polish Government unfriendly to Russia. Neither could we recognize a Polish Government that did not truly correspond to the description in our joint declaration at Yalta, with proper regard for the rights of the individual as we understand these matters in the Western world.

With regard to your reference to Greece and Belgium, I recognize the consideration which you gave me when we had to intervene with heavy armed forces to quell the E.A.M.-E.L.A.S. attack upon the centre of government in Athens. We have given repeated instructions that your interest in Roumania and Bulgaria is to be recognized as predominant. We cannot however be excluded altogether, and we dislike being treated by your subordinates in these countries so differently from the kindly manner in which we at the top are always treated by you. In Greece we seek nothing but her friendship, which is of long duration, and desire only her independence and integrity. But we have no intention to try to decide whether she is to be a monarchy or a republic. Our only policy there is to restore matters to the normal as quickly as possible and to hold fair and free elections, I hope within the next four or five months. These elections will decide the regime and later on the constitution. The will of the people, expressed under conditions of freedom and universal franchise, must prevail; that is our root principle. If the Greeks were to decide for a republic it would not affect our relations with them. We will use our influence with the Greek Government to invite Russian representatives to come and see freely what is going on in Greece, and at the elections I hope there will be Russian, American and British commissioners at large in the country to make sure that there is no intimidation or other frustration of the free choice of the people between the different parties who will be contending. After that our work in Greece may well be done.

As to Belgium, we have no conditions to demand, though * * * we hope they will, under whatever form of government they adopt by popular decision, come into a general system of resistance to prevent Germany striking westward. Belgium, like Poland, is a theatre of war and corridor of communication, and everyone must recognize the force of these considerations, without which great armies cannot operate.

It is quite true that about Poland we have reached a definite line of action with the Americans. This is because we agree naturally upon the subject, and both sincerely feel that we have been rather ill-treated * * * since the Crimea Conference. No doubt these things seem different when looked at from the opposite point of view. But we are absolutely agreed that the pledge we have given for a sovereign, free, independent Poland, with a Government fully and adequately representing all the democratic elements among Poles, is for us a matter of honour and duty. I do not think there is the slightest chance of any change in the attitude of our two Powers, and when we are agreed we are bound to say so. After all, we have joined with you, largely on my original initiative, early in 1944, in proclaiming the Polish-Russian frontier which you desired, namely, the Curzon Line, including Lwow for Russia. We think you ought to meet us with regard to the other half of the policy which you equally with us have proclaimed, namely, the sovereignty, independence and freedom of Poland, provided it is a Poland friendly to Russia. * * *

Also, difficulties arise at the present moment because all sorts of stories are brought out of Poland which are eagerly listened to by many Members of Parliament, and which at any time may be violently raised in Parliament or the press in spite of my deprecating such action, and on which M. Molotov will vouchsafe us no information at all in spite of repeated requests. For instance, there is the talk of the fifteen Poles who were said to have met the Russian authorities for discussion over four weeks ago, and of M. Witos, about whom there has been a similar but more recent report; and there are many other statements of deportations, etc. How can I contradict such complaints when you give me no information whatever and when neither I nor the Americans are allowed to send anyone into Poland to find out for themselves the true state of affairs? There is no part of our occupied or liberated territory into which you are not free to send delegations, and people do not see why you should have any reasons against similar visits by British delegations to foreign countries liberated by you.

There is not much comfort in looking into a future where you and the countries you dominate, plus the Communist parties in many other states, are all drawn up on one side, and those who rally to the English-speaking nations and their associates or Dominions are on the other. It is quite obvious that their quarrel would tear the world to pieces and that all of us leading men on either side who had anything to do with that would be shamed before history. Even embarking on a long period of suspicions, of abuse and counter-abuse, and of opposing policies would be a disaster hampering the great developments of world prosperity for the masses which are attainable only by our trinity. I hope there is no word or phrase in this outpouring of my heart to you which unwittingly gives offence. If so, let me know. But do not, I beg you, my friend Stalin, underrate the divergences which are opening about matters which you may think are small to us but which are symbolic of the way English-speaking democracies look at life.

✧ ✧ ✧

The incident of the fifteen Poles mentioned in my telegram now requires to be recorded. At the beginning of March, 1945, the Polish Underground were invited by the Russian Political Police to send a delegation to Moscow to discuss the formation of a united Polish Government along the lines of the Yalta agreement. This was followed by a written guarantee of personal safety, and it was understood that the party would later be allowed, if the negotiations were successful, to travel to London for talks with the Polish Government in exile. On March 27, Colonel Leopold Okulicki, the successor of General Bor Komorowski in command of the Underground Army, and another leader, had a meeting in the suburbs of Warsaw with a Soviet representative. They were joined the following day by thirteen leaders representing the major political parties in Poland. No one returned from the rendezvous. On April 6, the Polish government in exile issued a statement in London giving the outline of this sinister episode. The most valuable representatives of the Polish Underground had disappeared without a trace in spite of the formal Russian offer of safe-conduct. Questions were asked in Parliament, and stories have since spread of the shooting of local Polish leaders in the areas now occupied by the Soviet armies and particularly of one episode at Sidice, in Eastern Poland. It was not until May 4 that Molotov admitted at San Francisco that these men were being held in Russia, and an official Russian news agency stated next day that they were awaiting trial on charges of "diversionary tactics in the rear of the Red Army."

On May 18, Stalin publicly denied that the arrested Polish leaders had ever been invited to Moscow, and asserted that they were mere "diversionists" who would be dealt with according to "a law similar to the British Defence of the Realm Act." The Soviet Government refused to move from this position. Nothing more was heard of the victims of the trap until the case against them opened on June 18. It was conducted in the usual Communist manner. The prisoners were accused of subversion, terrorism, and espionage, and all except one admitted wholly or in part the charges against them. Twelve were found guilty, and sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from four months to ten years, and three were acquitted. This was in fact the judicial liquidation of the leadership of the Polish Underground which had fought so heroically against Hitler. The rank and file had already died in the ruins of Warsaw.

✧ ✧ ✧

I now received a most disheartening reply from Stalin to the lengthy appeal I made to him on April 29.

Marshal Stalin to Prime Minister

5 May, '45.

I have received your message of April 29 on the subject of the Polish question.

I am obliged to say that I cannot agree with the arguments which you advance in support of your position. * * *

I am unable to share your views on the subject of Greece in the passage where you suggest that the three Powers should supervise elections. Such supervision in relation to the people of an Allied State could not be regarded otherwise than as an insult to that people and a flagrant interference with its internal life. Such supervision is unnecessary in relation to the former satellite States which have subsequently declared war on Germany and joined the Allies, as has been shown by the experience of the elections which have taken place, for instance, in Finland; here elections have been held without any outside intervention and have led to constructive results.

Your remarks concerning Belgium and Poland as theatres of war and corridors of communication are entirely unjustified. It is a question of Poland's peculiar position as a neighbor state of the Soviet Union which demands that the future Polish Government should actively strive for friendly relations between Poland and the Soviet Union, which is likewise in the interest of all other peace-loving nations. This is a further argument for following the example of Yugoslavia. The United Nations are concerned that there should be a firm and lasting friendship between the Soviet Union and Poland. Consequently we cannot be satisfied that persons should be associated with the formation of the future Polish Government who, as you express it, "are not fundamentally anti-Soviet," or that only those persons should be excluded from participation in this work who are in your opinion "extremely unfriendly towards Russia." Neither of these criteria can satisfy us. We insist, and shall insist, that there should be brought into consultation on the formation of the future Polish Government only those persons who have actively shown a friendly attitude towards the Soviet Union and who are honestly and sincerely prepared to co-operate with the Soviet State. * * *

It appears from your message that you are not prepared to regard the Polish Provisional Government as the foundation of the future Government of National Unity, and that you are not prepared to accord it its rightful position in that Government. I must say frankly that such an attitude excludes the possibility of an agreed solution of the Polish question.

✧ ✧ ✧

While the Conference at San Francisco was agreeably planning the foundations of a future free, civilised, and united world, and while the rejoicings in our victory over Hitler and the Nazi tyranny transported the peoples of the Grand Alliance, my mind was oppressed with the new and even greater peril which was swiftly unfolding itself to my gaze. There was also at a lower level the worry about a General Election, which, whatever its result, must divide the nation and weaken its expression in this period when all that we had gained in a righteous war might be cast away. It seemed above all vital that Stalin, Truman, and I should meet together at the earliest moment, and that nothing should delay us. On May 4 I drew the European scene as I saw it for Mr. Eden, who was at the San Francisco Conference, in daily touch with Stettinius and Molotov, and soon to revisit the President at Washington.

I consider that the Polish deadlock can now probably only be resolved at a conference between the three heads of Governments in some unshattered town in Germany, if such can be found. This should take place at latest at the beginning of July. I propose to telegraph a suggestion to President Truman about his visit here and the further indispensable meeting of the three major powers.

2. The Polish problem may be easier to settle when set in relation to the now numerous outstand questions of utmost gravity which require urgent settlement with the Rusians. I fear terrible things have happened during the Russian advance through Germany to the Elbe. The proposed withdrawal of the United States army to the occupational lines which were arranged with the Russians and Americans in Quebec, and which were marked in yellow on the maps we studied there, would mean the tide of Russian domination sweeping forward 120 miles on a front of 300 or 400 miles. This would be an event which, if it occurred, would be one of the most melancholy in history. After it was over and the territory occupied by the Russians Poland would be completely engulfed and buried deep in Russian-occupied lands. What would in fact be the Russian frontier would run from the North Cape in Norway, along the Finnish-Swedish frontier, across the Baltic to a point just east of Lubeck, along the at present agreed line of occupation and along the frontier between Bavaria to Czechoslovakia to the frontiers of Austria, which is nominally to be in quadruple occupation, and half-way across that country to the Isonzo river, behind which Tito and Russia will claim everything to the east. Thus the territories under Russian control would include the Baltic provinces, all of Germany to the occupational line, all Czechoslovakia, a large part of Austria, the whole of Yugoslavia, Hungary, Roumania, Bulgaria, until Greece in her present tottering condition is reached. It would include all the great capitals of Middle Europe, including Berlin, Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Bucharest, and Sofia. The position of Turkey and Constantinople will certainly come immediately into discussion.

3. This constitutes an event in the history of Europe to which there has been no parallel, and which has not been faced by the Allies in their long and hazardous struggle. The Russian demands on Germany for reparations alone will be such as to enable her to prolong the occupation almost indefinitely, at any rate for many years, during which time Poland will sink with many other States into the vast zone of Russian-controlled Europe, not necessarily economically Sovietised, but police-governed.

4. It is just about time these formidable issues were examined between the principal Powers as a whole. We have several powerful bargaining counters on our side, the use of which might make for a peaceful agreement. First, the Allies ought not to retreat from their presnt poesitions to the occupational line until we are satisfied about Poland, and also about the temporary character of the Russian occupation of Germany and the conditions to be established in the Russianised or Russian-controlled countries in the Danube valley, particularly Austria and Czechoslovakia, and the Balkans. Secondly, we may be able to please them about the exits from the Black Sea and the Baltic as part of a general settlement. All these matters can only be settled before the United States armies in Europe are weakened. If they are not settled before the United States armies withdraw from Europe and the Western World folds up its war machines there are no prospects of a satisfactory solution and very little of preventing a third World War. It is to this early and speedy show-down and settlement with Russia that we must now turn our hopes. Meanwhile I am against weakening our claim against Russia on behalf of Poland in any way. I think it should stand where it was put in the telegrams from the President and me.

"Nothing," I added the next day, "can save us from the great catastrophe but a meeting and a show-down as early as possible at some point in Germany which is under American and British control and affords reasonable accommodation."

EDEN, STETTINIUS AND MOLOTOV at San Francisco. Of a similar meeting Eden reported, "I took a very bad view of tonight's meeting . . . the Soviet Government were quite unrepentant about their treaty with the Warsaw Poles . . . my impression is that the Soviet Government is still cavalier in its attitude. . . ."

Boer Leader

PRETORIA (CP)—A statue of Thomas Burgers, president of the Boer Republic from 1872 to 1877, was unveiled in a park here dedicated to the clergyman who died in 1881. The statue by sculptor Moses Kottler rests on a pedestal designed by Professor A. M. Meiring of Pretoria University.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By CHARLES H. SPEARIN

HANDSHAKE

In the scouts' hand-book, "Tenderfoot to Queen's Scout", we find the reason scouts, cubs, rovers—in fact all those invested with the badge of scouting— proffer their left hand in greeting instead of the right.

The story is said to have been told by the grandson of an Ashanti chief who fought against Lord Baden-Powell in the Matabele war in Africa. When the chief surrendered to B. P., the latter proffered his right hand as a token of friendship. The Ashanti chief however, insisted on shaking with the left hand, explaining, "the bravest of the brave shake hands with the left hand, because, in order to do so, they must lay down their greatest protection, their shield". Thus Scouts shake hands with the left hand as proof of their good faith and true friendliness.

THE PAPER DRIVE

Cyril E. Barnes, chairman of the paper drive committee and the president and executive of the Boy Scout Association of Peterborough, wish to express their thanks to the citizens of Peterborough for their co-operation in preparing and placing their paper out for collection; to the cubs, scouts, group committeemen and others for their work in collecting it and to the City of Peterborough, the Utilities Commission and the various companies who supplied truck and drivers.

Some 475 men and boys working with about 30 trucks of all sizes gathered approximately 110 tons of old magazines, newspapers and other waste paper to fill six box cars and part of a seventh at the CNR siding on Bethune St.

Proceeds from the sale of the paper will be divided among various groups taking part in the drive and the local association for the promotion of scout activities.

How much Life Insurance should I own?

"How can I tell how much life insurance is enough for a man like me—taking into account my family situation and my earnings?

"In these days of high living costs, how long would my present life insurance take care of my wife and children?

"How can I make the dollars I pay in premiums go as far as possible in making the right kind of provision for them?"

PRESIDENT'S EXPRESSIVE FACE — The expressive features of President Eisenhower are shown clearly in different moods as he addresses the joint session of Canada's Parliament—the Commons and Senate during a two-day state visit to Ottawa. The President said Canada and the United States "can and will" devise ways to protect North America from any surprise attack by air. Mrs. Eisenhower sat among a packed gallery.

Coldwell Urges Wide Health Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, Monday urged the establishment of a broad scheme of health insurance financed by the federal government out of its general revenues.

Speaking in the throne speech debate in the Commons, he said it should give complete coverage to every person in Canada regardless of income. There was "no legitimate excuse" for delaying such a plan.

Labor Board Names Date For Ford Vote

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario labor relations board has set Jan. 8 as the date for a certification vote among employees of the new Ford of Canada plant at Oakville, union officials announced.

Hourly-rated employees will decide whether they want the United Automobile Workers (CIO) as their bargaining agent or no union at all. Another 17 operating engineers in the power house will choose between the UAW and an AFL union.

Be Alert, Vote WI Group Told

TORONTO (CP)—Women were urged Monday to keep up with the times.

The advice came from Mrs. R.G. Purcell, retiring president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario, in an address to the institute's board session.

She said that if women as a group are to keep the position they have gained, they must be alert to changes in their community, use the vote intelligently and study.

"There must be education of our membership by study groups, panel discussions and every means possible to make them more conversant with the needs of our world today. It is time we should make a new assessment of our groups to see if we are growing up."

The meeting decided to hold the provincial board meeting at the Ontario Agricultural College in Guelph May 3-5 and the officers' conference May 6-7. The FWIO holiday will be held at Guelph starting July 5 and the Kemptville agricultural holiday Aug. 17-19.

Won't Prosecute "Guilty" Firms

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Garson announced Monday in the Commons there will be no prosecutions against firms in Montreal and North Bay, following combines act reports holding them technically guilty of restrictive trade practices.

The reports were the first to be made by the restrictive trade practices commission under 1951 legislation outlawing "resale price maintenance," the method of manufacturers or distributors dictating sale prices to retailers.

In the reports, made public earlier this year, the commission found there had been resale price maintenance in the Montreal district and "price discrimination" between two North Bay retail hardware dealers.

Mr. Garson said special counsel retained by the justice department had reported in each case that the violations were technical ones and did not constitute suitable cases upon which to base the initial prosecutions.

Lack Of Designers Bar To Ont. Bridge Program

TORONTO (CP)—Deputy Highways Minister Millar Monday said Ontario's bridge program is being seriously hampered by a lack of bridge designers.

Mr. Millar said that because of the designer shortage the highways department has not been able to call for tenders on 20 planned bridges and many more which are waiting on the books.

The shortage of designers, the minister said, is caused by university students who are not taking the course because it is too monotonous and requires too much hard work.

Six Bills Get First Readings

OTTAWA (CP)—The government Monday introduced its first legislation of the new session in the Commons.

Major item of the six government measures given first reading was a comprehensive rewrite of the Criminal Code, brought in at the last session but dropped then for lack of time to complete passage.

Pipeline legislation would give the federal board of transport commissioners full control over companies operating lines across provincial or international borders and make such companies get their incorporation from Parliament.

Prime Minister St. Laurent introduced a measure redefining the duties of the resources and development department to place more emphasis on development of the north. Its name will be changed to the department of northern affairs and national resources.

The Criminal Code bill is the first wholesale revision of the code in around 50 years. A special committee spent almost all of the last session whipping it into shape.

Snowy Owls Invade Port Stanley District

PORT STANLEY (CP)—The advance guard of the arctic snowy owl invasion has already arrived in this area.

District conservationists believe that the influx of these large white birds will reach its four-year peak during the coming winter. Marshall Field, president of the district Naturalist Club, is urging hunters to spare these creatures.

"These owls are fearless because they have seen few human beings," he explained. "They will permit anyone to approach within a few feet before flying off."

Urge Going Price For Prison Work

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the legislature's reform institutions committee said Monday they are agreed that provincial departments buying material from reform institutions should pay the going rates.

Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver said the departments should no longer get "cut rates."

Allister Johnston, Progressive Conservative member for Parry Sound, said if Mimico reformatory could sell at commercial rates the tile and brick produced by prisoners it could pay its way.

W. J. Grummett, CCF house leader, said the time had passed when organized labor would object to the manufacture of goods in prisons.

Lived Good Life, Convicted Of 2 Robberies

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Chatham man who, his lawyer said, has "lived a good life" since his release from penitentiary in 1943, Monday pleaded guilty to the armed robbery of two downtown business firms held up within a 20-minute period Oct. 7.

George McEllistrum, 37, of Chatham, was remanded one week for sentence. He pleaded guilty to two charges of armed robbery.

He was arrested less than a half hour after the first of two establishments, located about four blocks apart on the city's main street, was robbed.

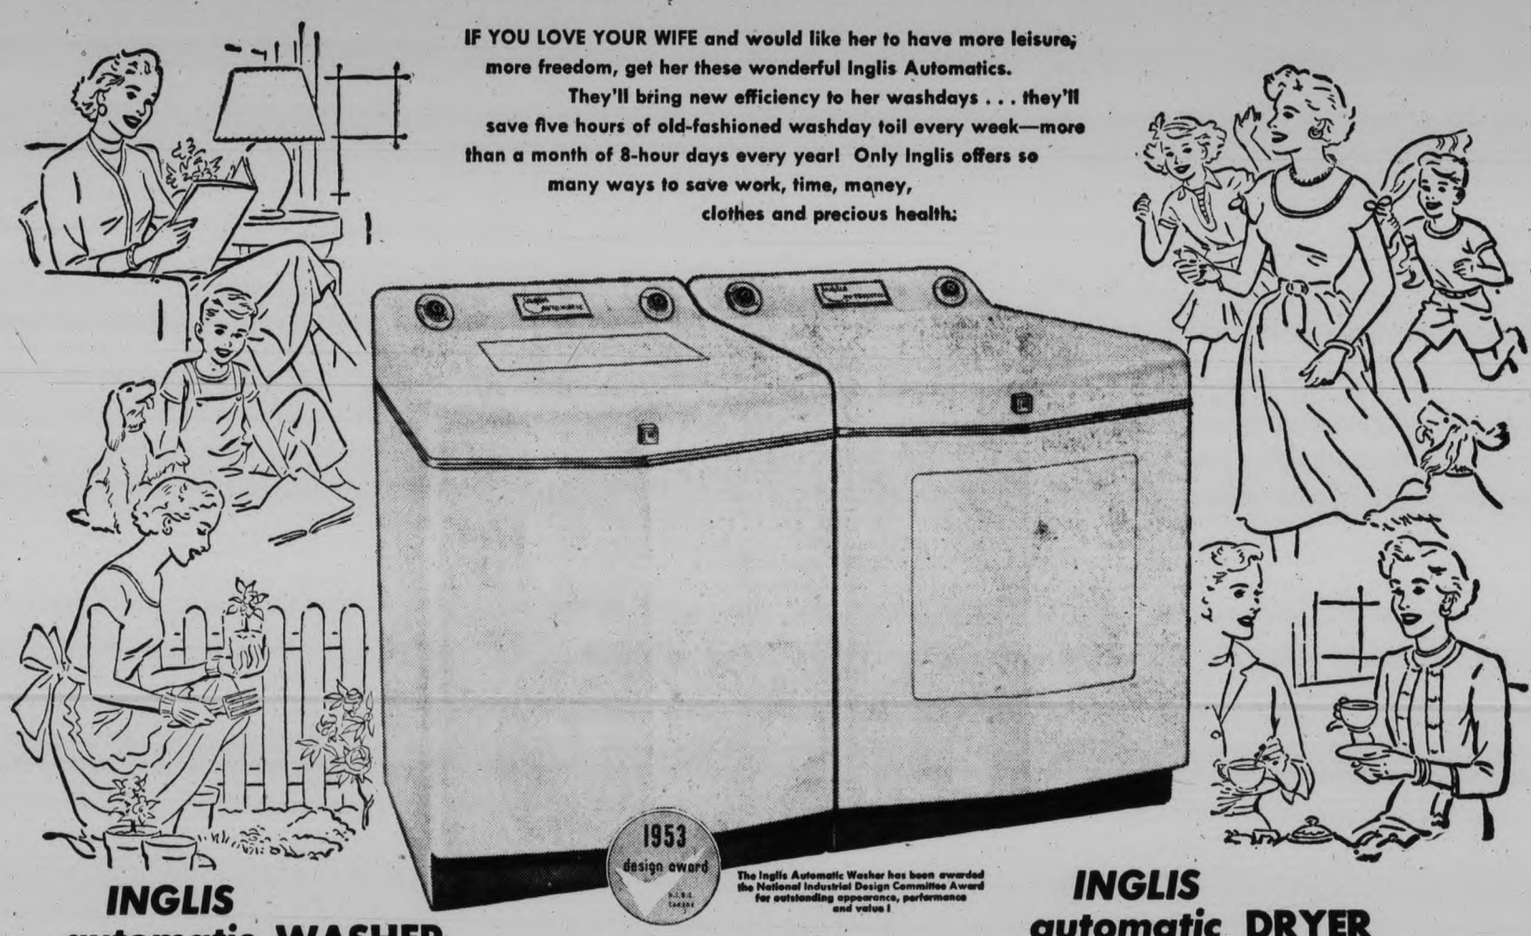
Crown Attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald read McEllistrum's record of nine criminal convictions from 1931 to 1939.

FREED IN '43

He was last released from penitentiary in March, 1943, after serving four years in connection with an offence committed in Kitchener, Mr. Macdonald said. He has had no convictions since then.

Defence Counsel Gordon R. Stewart said McEllistrum has lived a good life since 1943."

Mr. Macdonald said the holdups here had been "carefully premeditated crimes." McEllistrum was captured with two automatic pistols in his possession and was "prepared to shoot it out if necessary," he said.



The man was also in possession of $750 dollars taken from the drug store and tavern.
